New School Opened

The new Public School building was opened on Monday morning by the election for the trustees. The new building which has just been completed is a handsome two storey, four-roomed structure, brick veneered and on a concrete foundation. It is distinctively finished inside, and will be heated by hot air furnaces. A large hall has been purchased by the board from Harper & Robertson which hall has just been placed in position for why, we cannot say. The board should have insisted that it had been ready last Monday morning with the merry peal to ring in the opening of the first term of the New Year as well as to signalize the opening of the largest and best school building on the G.T.P. in the province. It speaks well for the enterprise and good judgement of the Tofield people that the educational facilities of the town should be second to none. The new and substantial building is certainly a responsibility which none should shirk and making this provision in the best manner possible we have the best asset of which any town or community can boast.

Beaver Lake East

Dec. 31, '09, will go down in history as the date of one of the worst blizzards ever experienced at the lake.

It is no fun to go twenty miles for coal in such weather as we had during November, besides having to pay for it. We are informed that a man not a thousand miles off has discovered a cheaper and more comfortable method. They—the man and his consort—drive to a schoolhouse a few miles away, burnt the lock off the coal bin, and help themselves. It is stated that a trustee caught them in the act and tried to have the cases taken up by a magistrate. He was turned down by two of them and advised to go to the Fort.

R. O. King is off to Prince River accompanied by a friend who was there before. Mr. King has a house and sleighs to travel in, so "doesn't care" if a blizzard or two should develop on the road. He desires to find a good place for a horse ranch, as his quarters here are rather too cramped.

The Christmas tree entertainment in the schoolhouse on the 24th was a success, both the committee deserve credit for it. Mr. Henry Doby, the chairman, opened the proceedings with an interesting address on Christmas and was followed by a long program of songs, recitations, etc. D. J. Robertson and D. H. Watson gave some selections on the bag-pipes which were exceedingly well received. The tree was loaded with gifts which pleased the young folks, some being left out. Charlie Doby as Santa Claus was "all right." The teacher, Mr. Wade, and the pupils well trained drilled. The night was an ideal one and all seemed to have a good time.

A while ago we were called up on the phone. "Hello!" said the voice of H.D., "are you the correspondent of the Tofield Standard?" We admitted that we were. "All right," said he, "I'll give it to you next week!" A week or so later, the 24th in fact, "Is that you up?" "Yes." "I've just been reading your district in the Standard supplement. You know you take a somewhat mean advantage of me. You don't argue the point but hold me up as a concealed individual. While you know I'm one of the most prominent men in the district. I'd shrink Burns' oft-quoted couplet would come in here. We haven't as much cash to give for building as H.D. has, but we'll try and find some before spring and tell what this room cost for lathing in Rev. Ira B. Hicks' theory in the weather. At present, wheat's too busy.

Miss Beula B. Steele, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. B. Steele, has gone to Calgary. The former will attend the Normal this session.

Miss Mabel McCallum is engaged as teacher for next year in a school district not far from Lavoy.

Local

Mrs. Thos Noland was in town last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Logan went to Edmonton last Monday.

A Mayhem of Minnik Creek left last Monday on a visit to Spokane.

A Lamoureux, wife and family are away on a month's visit to relatives at Fort Qu'Appelle, Saskatchewan.

Ed Kallal and Chris Hammond went to Edmonton last Monday on a short trip.

Mumps have made their appearance in the district. Several children are down with them.

Palestine Lodge A.F. & A.M. will hold its At Home on the 19th of this month.

A. W. Story has installed a Edmonton piano in his residence 3rd Ave. south.

Josh Noland has purchased the interests of Mike McCusker his partner till lately in the Tofield Livery business.

Wm. Ingram has bought out the share in the Queen's Livery and Feed Stable of his former partner, Frank Wilson.

Gunder Brooks returned to Tofield after several months work at the head of the G. T. P. steel west of Pembina.

BOWLING—L. R. Benson won the prize last night at the bowling alley for the highest score of the week. His score was 212

Rev. H. J. Mosier [illegible] an interesting sermon Sunday morning on biblical subjects last Sunday evening at the close of the service.

The First Annual Ball of Tofield Lodge, No. 43, I.O.O.F., was held in the lodge room on New Year's Eve and was attended by a large number of guests.

Mrs. J. W. Cookson expects to leave for the old country early this month to visit to her father, whom she has not seen for a number of years.

Mrs. Hy Fraser, Mrs. W. Kennedy and Mrs. G. Jones of Edmonton spent the New Year with family relatives at the Lake, the two former returning to the Capital on last Monday's train.

Save money and buy for cash at the Tofield stores. A few minutes spent perusing will convince you that for quality and cheapness, the local merchants have the mail order houses skinned a mile.

Wm. Marsh, of Stettler, a brother of Mrs. J. L. Gray, and whom she had not seen for 25 years, visited her and Mr. Gray during the Christmas and New Year season returning to Stettler via Edmonton on last Monday's train.

P. Bleaker of Bellingham, formerly of Tofield, spent the Christmas Holidays visiting his mother and sister at Tofield with his wife and child. He left again for the coast last Monday. Mrs. Bleaker will remain here a few weeks visiting the home folk.

L. Bowen will up till the end of the year has been a partner in the Bellagio Store Co. of Tofield, but withdraws from that firm to go into business in Edmonton. Happy Cookie who also was with the firm has gone to the Capital as an associate of Mr. Bencsoy.

Miss Louise Burke of Leduc, who has been engaged as teacher of the intermediate department of the Tofield Public School, arrived on Tuesday's train from Edmonton and at once entered upon her duties. Miss Burke comes well recommended as an efficient teacher.

Council

The council last Tuesday night at its regular meeting passed the by-law regulating the size of a loaf of bread sold by dealers in town.

Only one account from a local firm was presented, that being R. O. Bird's account for hardware etc. sold the town. The account amounted to, $60.83 and included one or more items which had been charged up to the village before it became into a town municipality. Collection Fuel, Flagpoles and Harper were appointed a committee to interview Mr. Bird and see if the amount could be reduced.

Saunders & Seymour, engineers, of Edmonton, wrote asking that their account for preparing estimates for a system, of waterworks and sewerage to and from Tofield and the Capital, of $2,250 be paid and asking for information as to what the town expected to do regarding a system. The account was discussed at length, some of the council stating that they understood that the engineer was to have come down from Edmonton to Tofield, Mr. Mosier was laid over until next meeting.

February 15th. next was set as the date from which interest will be computed and added to arrears of taxes for 1909.

The health committee was instructed to have the Medical Health Officer bring in a report on a system of sewerage for the village.

A MAN had been very ill. Don't laugh. It isn't a laughing matter.

He had been very ill. He had been not very by a 50 horse power husband, and one of his hands had been badly handed.

"Doctor," he asked anxiously, when he was getting better, "when this year of mine heals shall I be able to play the piano?"

"Certainly you will!" assured the doctor.

"Thanks, doctor—thanks!" murmured the patient. "You're a wonder! I never could believe it!"

HE HAD worn all his father's coat off clothing, from coats to collars, without a murmur; but now they found him shedding copious floods of tears.

"What's the matter, dear?" inquired his loving mother. "Have you been scorned?"

"I've been scolded," said father's kid his beard shaved off, and now, I suppose, I've got to wear those old rat whiskers!"

IN 1742 Mr. John Brown was invited to become the pastor of a church at Hingham. There was but one apparent to his settlement, a man whose Mr. Brown was over by a stroke of good humor. He asked for the grounds of his opposition.

"I like your person and your manner," was the reply, "but your preaching I don't understand."

"Well, then," said Mr. Brown, "you are agreed. I do not like my preaching very well myself, but how great a folly it is for you and me to set up our opinion against that of the whole parish!" The force of this reasoning appealed to the man, and he at once with Mr. Brown's choice.

there is much truth in the assertion few people any knowledge of what profession will deny. "Would you not like your time over again?" I shall certainly be a well-known American actress, with my name in printers' type, long before I am old enough to vote."

"Not for the world," she promptly replied. "When I think of my early struggles for engagements, the months and months from 50 salaried agents and managers, the dressing-room loneliness and barbarism, the never-ending rehearsals, and the fatigue and disappointments of touring, I am deeply thankful that I have been able to forsake the footlights for the domestic hearth."

I would gladly trade with her, for I have experienced it all. True, I have been fortunate in the matter of obtaining engagements, but while the majority of my fellow-players have had to work hard, have been complimented and kissed, one or two others were a discredit to the profession. I once went to an American agent and asked if he would book me for a tour, and a certain play he was contracting. Yes, I could have such pleasure, and I stated in detail what I was in the production I could share the honors.

I thought the offer a fair one and quite in the manner of such an agent. My agent had vanished—not only with my money, but with the money of other actor and actresses whom he had duped. But this he considered no crime in fact, he was simply a bogus agent; he had been successful in obtaining a large sum from unsuspecting and kind

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

PRESIDENT OF HAVRE

Adopts Practical Gas Composition For Over Sixty Years.

When an interviewer, who had yet to Exhibit a question as to the quality of a gas, asked the President if he concurred, "Practically all my workmen have," it is believed that the interviewer, as well as others who heard the reply, thought the reporter a bit of artistic exaggeration. Yet there is much evidence to support Rabelais's statement.

Of special interest at all visiting, was the opportunity by an unobtrusive observation twelve or fourteen times each day to marvel that Pagnoul became of his drudgery that for several years he actually laid aside the instrument over which he had made innumerable guesses and devoted himself to agricultural pursuits. That part of sentence Miquet soon passed, however, and the visitor was turned to his hard work, and to such good purpose that there was nothing wanted for the visitor, no matter what in technical difficulties might be, that he was not able to play. Late in his life Pagnoul gave over his practicing, for the reason, it is said, that he then played only his own compositions.

A saying of Rabelais's indicates constantly the importance of unwearying practice. "I have said I not practice for a day I know it, should I miss two days my friends know it, and should I miss three days even the public knows it."

Joachim, another violinist, during his student days was an inmate of the house of his master, and it was largely due to the inexorable dematis to practice that the teacher to his son that Joachim was enabled to obtain his proud position. The room wherein the small urger Lived was without any window. "But that is a good point for the concert," the second of Joachim's teachers used to say, "for there you have not room for practice, but could be seen the scowling face of the instructor as he paced the room." Seems as interested in my work that whole days passed like hours. I practiced pedal passages to such an extent that the art of walking along the street actually transformed itself into a fugue, an automatic had my nerve centre become."

All There.

A philanthropic citizen of a small city, moved by sympathy for his unfortunate fellow-townspeople, who were suffering from want during an exceedingly cold winter, arranged a public entertainment in their behalf. No admission fee was charged, but it was announced that a collection would be taken. The evening came, and the hall was well filled. The entertainment, consisting of recitations, music and amateur sleight of hand performances, was generously applauded, and with much satisfaction the philanthropic citizen, assisted by the performers, proceeded to take up the contributions.

They amounted to $2. $3.

Well, he said to the audience after he had counted the money, "this collection, as you understand, is for the benefit of the poor—and they seem to be all here."

Coats of Arms.

The origin of the term "coats of arms" is thus explained: In the days of chivalry the knights, of course, wore coats of linked steel or some kind of armor to protect them in battle. Sometimes, in the course of a hard-fought contest, the surcoats or the coating caused by exposure to drenching rains, and in the sunlight they were exceedingly hot and dazzling. So the knights put on a silken surcoat over these coats of mail, and as, with knights on and visors closed, there was no way of distinguishing one from another the armorial bearings of each knight were embla-zoned on his silken surcoat, which thus became a "coat of arms." The practice was then extended to the trappings of the horse and afterward to the armiers of the household, as the linen and plate.

Mrs. Modjeska's "Speed."

There are some good stories told about Mme. Modjeska, the famous Polish actress, who has just died. One is that when she was playing in Warsaw, in which country she was born, a private audience who had been demanding her to recite something in her native language. Descending at last, the famous actress at last gave way, and the audience was spellbound as she dramatically uttered something in Polish. Great applause was the reward for the effort, but what the feelings of the people must have been when they learned that she had merely recited the numbers from one to a hundred in Polish, it is scarcely possible to describe.

A Grand Memory.

A Highland girl who had been in service in Dundee and had gone to a place farther south called upon her old employer on her way north to visit her friends.

She was invited to take dinner with the family, and her master asked a blessing on the meal as usual, when the girl said:

"My maister, ye maun ha'e a grand memory. That's the prayer ye said when I was here saxt years syne."—London Telegraph.

Giving Him a Hint.

Pupa—Are you writing to that gentleman at your again, Bobby? Why, you seem to have been doing so for years. How do you sign your letters?

Bobby—O, I always say, "I remain over your loving little Jones."

Pupa—Oh, well, strike out that "I remain" and the "over" and put three dots under the "Jones." It's time that young man was wanting to be spoken.

Synopsis of Previous Chapters

Colonel John Sullivan, an Irish soldier, who has served abroad for many years, returns to his native Kerry on the eve of Communist, a French smuggling vessel, lands with Bordasse Watson. The cargo of the sloop is sent to the palace of Shelli, against the private interests of Captain Augustin, who realizes that he has no leg on his side.

Colonel Sullivan is coldly received by Flavia and her brother, The Mickan's though, because of his silent faith and his considerable position as Flavia's legal guardian. When Captain Augustin returns with Lolo Ingill, the servant nurse, and demands the return of the contraband cargo, Flavia and her guardian are in favour of returning the cargo, on the captain's payment of the dues. The McMurtough objects to this, but finally agrees to it on Colonel Sullivan's offer to get back Flavia's favorite mare, which was seized by British soldiers. The colonel and his servant, Dale, set out and find the mare at the barracks of Tralee. The colonel is invited into the officers' mess, and finds Captain Peyton and one of them, named Dayton, who seized the mare, thrown wine in his face. The colonel refuses to fight, because his right arm is permanently disabled. He wins a left-handed fencing bout with the master at Dayton, at the same time winning the mare as a wager. At dinner upon his return to Mortstown, he is amazed when Flavia drinks a toast "to the King across the water" and fears that a rising is contemplated. His fears are realized next morning when his foreman, Dilck, warns him to leave the place and people to their fate. The Colonel refuses and next morning after breakfast is invited to join a family council. There he meets Father O'Leary, proposed visiting, knowing its futility. Fearing that the colonel may turn informer. The McMurtough and his friends imprison him and his servant Dale. The next morning the two are sent to their boats by the agent of The McMurtough.

A Message from the Young Master

"'TIS LOVELY!" Dale continued. He chuckled on the word and watched his pet, glowing at them, but said no more. Only his eyes glanced from one to another, cold and full of rage.

Colonel John did not reply, for already O'Sullivan Og was addressing him. "There's no more to it," the McMurtough's agent said blandly, "but you've come just for pleasure, Colonel, and we'll go back wanting you. There's no room in Ireland from this day for them that's not Irish at heart! Not safety for honest men while you're walking free and independent!"

"Will you murder us?" Colonel John said. He you know, man," Colonel John said. "Do you know, the Government sternly, "what you do? What you are doing? Are you mad, man?"

"I know!" O'Sullivan Og answered, with sudden ferocity. "And murder, my proof by, faith, I would, shot them and did like you for the sake of Old Ireland! You may make your peace, and have five minutes to that—and no more, for time presses, and we've work to do. You have your choice! You have a priest for you—he turned to the men on the ground—"but it is I, none better, know you are Protestants, and 'twould take more than that to make your souls!"

Colonel John looked on him with a strange light in his eyes. "It is true I am Irish," he said, "and much to my sorrow think, now, when you do. Or at least I was Irish at heart, and loved Ireland's life at least. Put him, if you please, on board the French sloop that's in the bay——"

"Faith, and you're wasting the little breath that is left you," the Sullivan answered, irritated rather than moved by the other's calmness. "It's to take a rope, I told the men a hornful bad no mail to make, but——"

"God forgive you!" Colonel John said, and was silent, for he saw that no remonstrance would act help him, nor prayer avail. The man's mind was made up, his heart stoned. For a brief instant, something, perhaps that honest fear which he had so often defied, clutched Colonel John's heart. For a brief instant human weakness had its way. But it passed, and standing with his head bent, he waited. Upon his left hand lifted his head and looked calmly at the threatening figures standing between the gnarl and dark against the curtain of the sky. The men waited for the signal. The priest was half way through his sonorous paternoster. In the background Dale was stumbling, lagging more and more, with his head bent and his fingers to his lips. Suddenly he dropped his hand and——

"I would I had never brought you!" he said. "Why did I, why did I? Ye, God's will be done!"

Dale did not seem able to speak. He was continued to wail, while his eyes rolled in terror at the Red the Irish man knows his man, he would have put his arm round him, sensed as he was.

"But I will request for you to be shot," Colonel John continued, "and may yet prevail with them to spare you."

CHAPTER XII.

The Sea Mist

Father O'Hara looked at the two prisoners, and the tears ran down his face. He was the man to whom Colonel Sullivan and Dale had overtaken on the road, and, finding that he was going their way, had left with his horse to ride at that, if he could not be saved. God had been pleased to send him another way through the mist.

"What can I do?" he cried. "Oh, what can I do?"

"You can do nothing, father," O'Dal Brun rig said grimly. "They're heretics, by God! And we're wasting your time, my blessed man." He whispered a few words in the priest's ear.

The latter shuddered. "God forgive us all!" he sighed, "and must, those who need it most? God keep us from the pit's brink!"

"Future, and we're in little peril!" O'Sullivan Og replied.

Colonel John looked at the priest with solemn eyes. How did might but a ship pulse floating in his cheek betray that he was listening, watching, ready to seize the least chance, that he might snatch at any rate, some hope. "You are a christian, father," he said, gravely, "I will nothing for myself. But this is my servant. He knows nothing. Promise me with them to spare his life!"

Dale uttered a fierce remonstrance. He was scandalized, at, at what he said to—

"Hold your tongue, Dale!" Colonel John said. "Not now that fat, God knows! I like repeated with emphasis, his back chattering. "I'll go down like a stone."

"Ochs gaol! Ochs gaol!" Colonel John sighed. "Isn't it worth a swim to save your life?"

"Ay, ay, but——"

"Then you are not drifting! In a twinkling it will be out of reach. Off with your shoes and coat, you fool! Off with them, I say! Do as I tell you!"

No more was said. For a few yards Dale waited anxiously. But he recovered himself, and, urged by the Colonel's continual injunctions to hasten, the party were not long in reaching the steps. They reached the road and went along it, but in the direction of the landing place. In a few minutes they were thinking they were in sight from across the narrow like waste which lay between them and the sea, and Colonel John's heart leaped.

"Are you taking us to the French sloop?" Colonel John asked.

"You'll be as wise not to ask the lave of us and but!" the answered O'Leary. They crossed the shoulder near the summit and strode down the slope by a stone pier. The mist lay low on the water. The tide was almost at the full, and the men drew in one of the boats, ordered Colonel Sullivan and Dale to go into the bow, and the pikemen in take the stern. The oars were fetched and two boats, travelling with the last of the tide, had struck the cable with force, and was almost drifting a gunshot away. Whether any moved themselves on it, the one clinging to the hawser could not see.

Dale, shivering and scared, would have shouted again, but Colonel John stayed him. "God rest their souls!" he said, solemnly. "The men showed no fear, nothing. By the time they'll have lower of a boat it will be done with them."

"They can take us aboard," Dale said.

"Can they?" Colonel John answered, dryly. He was peering forward the land. "But what can we do, your honor?" Dale said with a shiver.

"Swim ashore."

"God forbid!"

"But you can swim?"

"Ay, but——"

"Then you must! Not now that fat, God knows! I like repeated with emphasis, his back chattering. "I'll go down like a stone."

"Ochs gaol! Ochs gaol!" Colonel John sighed. "Isn't it worth a swim to save your life?"

"Ay, ay, but——"

"Then you are not drifting! In a twinkling it will be out of reach. Off with your shoes and coat, you fool! Off with them, I say! Do as I tell you!"

"Lane Dale!" the priest cried, lifting up his hands. "Unless Him do God——"

"Amen," the Colonel said, softly. "Amen, and may He give us grace to stand with stinged hands." "I thank you kindly, father, for your prayers," he said. "The words of a good man avail much."

Lumber Business Brisk in Prairie Provinces

Vancouver, B.C. Jan. 6.—Buyers representing 165 lumber yards in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba are either in Vancouver today or have been in the city within the past few days for the purpose of acquainting themselves with the condition of the manufacturing end of the lumber business.

A large manufacturer of lumber in Vancouver stated today that the outlook for a heavy exportation of lumber to the prairies during 1910, is excellent. The lumbering industry on the coast has never been, according to this authority, in a better condition than it is today, the stocks in the mills being about half what they were this time last year. The demand is much better than was the case twelve months ago.

The lumber manufacturers on the coast are expecting a general stiffening of the market in March and April, and while there may be no general advance in the price of lumber, increase is looked for in certain grades which some mills are at present long on. When they have worked their stocks down advances will naturally occur.

Blizzard Exacted A Dreadful Toll

5 Persons Known to Have Perished in Saskatchewan

Regina, Sask., Jan. 6.—News of the toll exacted by last Friday's storm in death and suffering continues to come to hand. The storm appears to have been very severe along the Soo line, and many casualties are reported.

Those include a homesteader who was frozen to death on New Year's day south of Rouleau, and a man named Clark, of Lang, who perished while driving a load of hay from his farm eight miles south of town.

Three little children, living south of Yellow Grass, going from their father's place to the home of their grandparents, two miles distant, were caught in the blizzard, and when found by a search party the young boy was dead with his two sisters huddled in the snow beside him.

Four is also entertained with regard to the safety of Sheriff A. V. Whitehead of Weyburn, who left to drive in the south country New Year's day and has not since been heard from. The mounted police are searching for the sheriff.

ANOTHER VICTIM

Estevan, Sask. Jan. 6.—Lawrence Twimley, aged 16, a choreboy on a farm near Estevan, lost his way in the storm Friday evening while after horses. Neighbors searched for him without success, and yesterday Sergeant Lett went out with an or[illegible] search party. The body was found and brought in.

Tofield Has Clean Bill of Health

It seems that a news item appearing in last week's Standard relative to the reported cases of diphtheria in Ryley has aroused the Irish of the irate parent, one R. A. Peterson and we are in receipt of a letter from him under date of the 8th inst., in which he proceeds to give us a calling down for "knocking." Its certainly was not our idea to "knock." Such a procedure on the part of any person has our deepest contempt. The item of news referred to was given to us personally by a citizen of Ryley on Wednesday of last week. We took in good faith and on the merits of the district is NEWS, we printed it as such and have no apology to offer. If it was not true, then we regret that we have been victimized to that extent. The letter from this man Peterson, which we publish below, however, does not deny nor affirm the report. He states also in effect, that while the school opened Monday, his children would not attend.

As for its statement that he was informed by a citizen of Tofield that the disease existed at the present time in Tofield, we will simply say we hesitate to believe him. Tofield is free from disease. As a verification of the statement that Tofield is free from any communicable disease ever since last winter we interviewed Medical Health Officer, Dr. Hammond, who gives the town a perfectly clean bill of health. Dr. Tofield also, unhesitatingly denies any statement alleging the contrary. So after all we fear that our friend is talking moonshine or barking up the wrong tree. As for the cutting out of our friend's paper from our circulation, we will cheerfully do so. In a financial way we do not care to be victimized also.

Ryley, Alta., Jan. 8, 1910

R. N. Williams, Esq.,
Tofield, Alberta.

Dear Sir:

When you published in bold face headlines the NEWS that there was Diphtheria in Ryley that two of my children had it, why did you not say there were several cases of it in Tofield? We have come to the conclusion that it is the same it came from there. I will say one of my girls was sick a few days, but is all right now. You have the KNOCKING HABIT without knowing the facts. What I know of the disease in Tofield one of the citizens of Tofield informed me. As to the fear of an outbreak such a thing has not been thought of. School opens Monday and all but mine will attend.

Inclosing your last paper and ask that you please cut my name from your list, as several others will do.

Yours truly,
R. A. PETERSON

G.T.P. Calgary Branch Complete Next Year

"The Grand Trunk Pacific branch line from Tofield will be completed into Calgary early next year," was the statement of W. Featherstonehaugh, G.T.P. engineer, last week in Edmonton.

Mr. Featherstonehaugh, who was a guest at the Alberta, has been engaged during the past summer in running location lines on the Tofield branch. The preliminary surveys for the entire branch have been completed, and the location surveys have been completed as far as Stettler. The steel is laid as far south as Camrose, although trains are not yet operating over the branch.

The engineer goes east this week to report to to the headquarters of the engineering department at Montreal. He expects to be out west again next summer. He is confident that the Tofield branch will be completed at an early date in the summer.

Camrose Debenitures Are Selling Well

Camrose, Jan. 4.—The tenders for the purchase of the $8,000 6 per cent debentures endorsed by the ratepayers last September, was opened by the town council at their last night's meeting. There were in all, eleven tenders, of which Wood, Gundy & Co., was the highest. Their tender was $6,333.50, with accrued interest from Sept. 22nd. This amounts to 105½, and the town officials are highly satisfied with the sale.

In Local Improvement District 25-P-4, nominations for council for the current year took place last Monday week. The councillors two, Div. No. 1, E. Hoffin; No. 2, P. F. Ingram; No. 3, N. J. Johnson; No. 4, where a poll was necessary, C. Plant was elected over C. Spiblad.

Friday evening, the 21st inst. Reserved seats on sale at Jamieson's Drug Store.

Const. Thorpe, R.N.W.M.P., who has been stationed at Tofield for the past year, has been transferred from this point. He left last Monday. On the Saturday evening previous he was the guest of a number of his friends about town at the Queen's Hotel where an impromptu dance was given and at which the genial constable was made the recipient of an illuminated address and a purse containing over twenty dollars. He will be missed by quite a circle of young men about town.

A travelling show outfit gave a performance consisting of violin music, songs and dancing in Bird's hall last Monday night. The hall was well filled. From what we are led to understand the music was good but that the songs and certain other parts of the presentation were not very elevating. Rum shows should not be encouraged. A dance was indulged in after the show which was put to an end at one by the appearance of Mr. Bird on the scene, the hall not having been engaged for that purpose.

A large number of townspeople accompanied by the band, last Friday evening journeyed down to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mitchell's home south of Tofield and held high carnival. The guests, to whom the house was thrown open, were expected, and story or more in number, they filled the house from cellar to garret. The band furnished several well rendered selections during the evening, and after a few hours dancing a sumptuous repast was served by the genial hosts to which the good crowd did ample justice. At the close of the evening's entertainment the guests, one and all, voted the occasy solid time. Mr. Hugh Mitchell and his charming wife, both jolly good fellows and departed hoping that some time again in the future a similar good time will be enjoyed at their commodious country residence.

Short Courses in Agriculture.

The Short Courses in Agriculture held at Lacombe last March proved so successful that this year the Department of Agriculture has made arrangements to hold three Short Courses as follows:

Lethbridge, Feb. 8-10.
Olds, Feb. 21 to Mar. 5.
Vegreville, Mar. 7-12.

The locating of the schools as above should give every farmer and farmer's son who desires to do so an opportunity of attending one of these Schools with very little outlay for travelling expenses.

Courses of instruction will be given in Livestock, Dairying, Agronomy and Poultry Raising.

Two cars of selected live stock will be used for demonstration purposes and instructions given on the subjects of breeding, feeding, care and management of stock.

Instruction in Dairying will cover the subject from the production of milk to the marketing of the finished product, with general farm dairy machinery in operation. No instruction will be given at Lethbridge but will be a special feature at Olds and Vegreville.

Field work in grain growing with emphasis on soil cultivation will receive special attention, with samples of grains, grasses and weeds for illustrative purposes.

Instruction in Poultry Raising will cover all phases of the subject; with incubators and brooders in operation. Crate fattening and marketing will be specially demonstrated.

An effort is being made to obtain special railroad rates and also for board and lodging, particulars of which will be announced later. Instruction is free and open to all. Women are specially invited to poultry lectures.

Diphtheria at Ryley

Two children of R. A. Peterson of Ryley are down with diphtheria. Report says that an outbreak is feared.

There is talk of diphtheria also in Chipman. The local board of health which is under the control of the council should set to it at once that the proper measures are secured for combatting with this disease.

(U.T.P. inspector Tate and party of the Spralling department, arrived in Tofield last Wednesday evening from the completed line at the yards to Bellevue Lake with the view of securing the necessary information as to the feasibility of securing a water supply from that source for railway purposes. Superintendent Weller of the B & H department is also in town looking into the solution of the problem of a water supply. The company, it is understood, are determined on having an adequate water supply at this point, it being the junction of the Tofield-Calgary branch and the Bash line. It is understood also that a roundhouse will be erected here for the accomodation of engines of the branch line.

HOLDEN

Well, there's no lack coming these days; not even in Ryley. The fine weather we have enjoyed for the last week or more makes us feel that we are living in the country that years ago was called "Sunny Alberta". We are not informed positively whether it is Halley's comet or H. D's thermometer that is responsible for the change in the weather but we are partial to H. D. and will give him the benefit of the doubt and all the credit and glory attached thereto. Truly it is glorious weather.

Mr. I. Mehna who recently sold his property on Main Street, has purchased a lot nearer to the railway and went to Edmonton and Hurnam's. He is erecting a large Pool room and Barber shop and commences on Monday.

No less than four different men have been in Holden recently looking for a hotel location. We can't accomodate them all but expect Mr. S. A. Mahoney of Edmonton will be the lucky man. Mr. Mahoney expects to commence work at once after Xmas holidays. Thus does Holden grow. It never rains but it pours.

William Campbell purchased the house of George and Basil White and will move it to town and fit it up for a dwelling in our burg.

Synopsis of Previous Chapters

Colonel John Sullivan, an Irish soldier, who has served abroad for many years, returns to his native County on the short command, a French army, rising colonel, taken with Bertrand Warren. The escape of the ship is aided by the natives of Shall, against the fa-the protests of Captain Augustin, who realizes that he has no love on his side.

Colonel Sullivan is cordially received by Flavin and her brother, Sir Nicholas McMurrough, but their faith had been considerable position in their legal difficulties. When Captain Augustin re-turns with Lieut Ange, the natural jealousy, and demands the return of the contraband cargo, Flavin and her guar-dian are in favor of returning the cargo on the mistaken payment of the duty. The McMurrough objects to this, but finally agrees to it on Colonel Sullivan's offer to get back Flavin's favori-te mare, which was seized by the Irish authorities. The Colonel and his ser-vant, Bob, set out and find the mare at the barracks of Tralee. The Colonel is met on his return into the mountains by the Irish officers, and one of them, named Brown, who recognizes the mare, offers to buy it for himself. The Colonel returns with the mare, but his right arm is pre-viously disabled. He wins a bet-ting horse with the master of Ardoon, at the same time winning the mare on a wager. At dinner upon his return to Mountmorn, he is amazed when Flavin drinks a toast "to the King across the water" and from that a cheer is contemplated. His fears are realized next morning, when his kins-man, Hick, warns him to leave the house and people to their fate. The Colonel refuses, and next morning after breakfast he invited to join a funeral consist of war. He refuses to join the funeral party, however, and while they are leaving the house Flavin begs him to remain. Mr. McMurrough and his friends imprison him and his servant Bob. The next morning the two are led out to their death by the agents of The McMurrough, O'Sullivan Og. At the last moment this sentence is revok-ed and the Colonel and Bale are rowed out through the mist to imprisonment on a Spanish war ship in the harbor. The weather continues and the two pris-oners, hastily escaping, take refuge on the French shore.

CHAPTER XIII.

Flavin McMurrough enjoyed one of vantage over her partners in conspiracy. She was awake in the morning after the night of that interview with a clear head. Colonel John had scarcely passed from under guard before she was afoot, in a dark and trilling like one, for at this day much they begin a work the end of which no man could see, but which, to the close of time, should shed a bustle on the name of McMurrough. No more should their name be linked with the sweet song, a skinned share in the train of a mere brawler, a mere violent and a mere stupid people! From this day Ireland's valor should be recognized for what it was, her wit be turned to good use, her old imaginative be de-vived in the light of reason, her bosom burn not in vain. Of all her bosom heaved, no child pictured the fruition of her hopes to be begun this day and with clouded brush and prayerful eyes sang the morning hymn.

The tears gushed from her eyes and with an overflowing heart she thanked heaven for the grace and favor that as signed her a part in the work. It was much—may she be forgiven!—if, in the first enthusiasm of the morning, she gave a single thought to the new guided likeness whose opposition had opened him to dangers at which she to vaguely guessed.

She lived in a dream, but a golden dream, and then descended to the lower world and her life enlivened as she dressed her head and received on her knees her redeemed blessing. "And now, John, my daughter!" he added, "and in the end!"

He accompanied in her heart. True, breakfast, and the hour after breakfast, gave more pause to her im-patience. The men's nerves were on edge with gathering and they had not left the table five minutes before quarrelling broke out. The Spanish officer who was with a stranger on Cammock came to blows with one of O'Sullivan's people, and the contest the notion that the Admiral of the Spanish squadron should be given the fresh air and bathe. The prince was in this difficulty, and so much ill-feeling—for the outbreak that Cam-thought it prudent to remit two-thirds of the sailors to the ship.

This was not a promising beginning, and the morning was already so far spent that the Bishop wondered in his heart whether his doges would date to come from woods to actions. But it was all. Some one spoke of Argyll, and another of another native in the neighborhood, asserting that their hosts were with the rising, and that at a later point would slight and expected.

"The Evil One's spawn!" cried Sir Denny, rising in his place, and shaking his cocked hat in defiance of great enthu-siasm. "Let us be done with them, I'm riding!" he continued, "I'll be home before sunset again or wear it in their company!"

"You're not running it, Sir Denny!" cried Tibbi said.

"Faith, but if he's not, I am!" cried the Turbo, rising and banging the table with his fist. "Tis what I'm mean-ing, and not a bit of a mistake! Just this!"

Another backed him, with so much violence that the most moderate and sensible looked serious and it needed the Bishop's interference to calm the storm. "We need not decide one way or the other to-night," said they soon after. "Probably he thought that an un-timely outrage." "There are many ac-counts on both sides," he continued blandly. "But of this at another time. I think we must be moving, gentlemen, if we please."

CHAPTER XIV.

The Colonel's Terms

Cammock and the Bishop, certain only that they were in hands friendly to the hurried, blind and helpless, to an un-known degree, might have been pardoned had they succumbed to despair. But they did not succumb. The habit of danger, and a hardened adventurous and escape, had hardened them; they felt more than fear. Stunned for a mo-ment by the suddenness of the blow, they had not been dragged a second yards before they began to reflect on the chances. If the purpose of those who had seized them had fallen were to shoot them where they stood, there was no need to set them down. They would have been slain at once. On the other hand, if their captors' object was to deliver them to English justice, weeks, if not months, must elapse before they stood at the bar on a capital charge; much time was therefore left to them, and many a thing might happen, by force or fraud, in the interval.

POLO FOR THE WEALTHY

A GAME that only wealthy people can play is polo. It has been played for centuries, and its means is have been found in part. It may be played by those who have not the wealth to keep a polo pony, but it is not to be considered a game that only rich people can play. A club has been formed at the commercial travellers' room well known across as Lady Constance Stew-art, Lord Richardson, Lord Ronald and the Baroness Ethbert-Smith. Beyond the gauze, which has been admitted within the charmed circle.

The uniform is described as chic. It consists of a tunic and a divided skirt, both of navy blue. Upon the tunic will be embroidered the brand and the skirt will be similarly decorated with gold lace and fastened at the side, so as not considered to be too dangerous and suffer ugly.

FASHIONS AND FANCIES

THE most attractive evening dresses for young girls this year are of soft, filmy textiles made over silk, and of utmost simplicity, slightly open at the throat and with short sleeves and medium length. Nets of all kinds are much in favor, while a sheer silk over lace of ex-ceedingly quality may be worn by a girl who is to make her debut in a few months' time.

Chiffon, silk mousseline and crystalline are also seen to a large extent. All light, soft colors are employed, and often the vivid tones of pink and blue, especially the different rose hues, are worn by quite young girls. Yellow and apple green are both attractive for simple evening dresses, but mauve and all darker colors are not suited.

Extremely pretty are the gowns of pure white net made up over a foundation of white satin or satin cropped de chine. The accordion-plaited skirt is the vogue, but the fashion of the gowns is itself, with tuckings, shirrings, and other devices for producing fullness at the waist. A simple, or satin under soft silk net had a band of the four inches wide of white satin, and the net was put on in a large flat bow knot, while the skirt was adorned in the same manner with a band and bow knot at the bottom. The net was put on quite softly and somewhat full about the hips, but was arranged in the same quality not to give an attractive width to the figure.

The satin bands were perfectly fitted on a princess model, the skirt full from beneath the ribbon band at the waist to the bottom. The net was brushed about the throat with a fine collar of appliqué Brussels net and the sleeves also of the same, and one of the little, full, puffy pink satin somewhat lighter in shade than the ribbon underneath the net. Pink satin ribbon was run through down the skirt in back, finished with loops of white ribbon.

The entire gown was then reincarnated in this inexpensive confection, the only noticeable alteration being the use of pink powder's garments. The deep yoke effect of the skirt, with full accordion plaiting, demands a certain height and more decided grace of figure than is gen-erally seen on a very young girl. This effect lends it-self to the figure, and if to be guarded against for a short skirt dress—that is, a skirt which does not sweep the floor be-hind. The other style of sweep age costume, with its tight fitted princess gown and skirt of this lace. A sash of pink satin ribbon may be worn with this, but it is not at all ef-fectively in chiffon velvet, but is not a style of dress suit-able for evening wear in any case. Yoke skirts are, how-ever, much in demand, but care must be taken to have the proportions right for the figure. A yoke reaching to the waist looks well on a tall person, but is not becoming to a short one.

Tunic effects are now very cleverly designed that they are attractive for all ages. A soft, filmy overskirt of chiffon or net is extremely pretty over a bright shade of pink or blue satin, and especially so when this diaphanous covering is caught with small bunches of roses or other flowers. Tunics are many and varied this year—in fact, endless in their variety. Some show the effect where the tunic is caught in the loose coats slipped on over tight fitting gowns, while others are arranged to hang straight from the shoulders, and still others are draped in fichus, or scarfs, the tunic is an overskirt in the same material as the rest of the gown, the skirt itself consisting of a full gathered or pleated flounce attached to the silk lining.

While the effect of the majority of these skirts with tunics or overskirts is that of considerable width and amplitude of material there are many exceptions to the rule. Thin kinds of fabrics are extraordinary well seen of these skirts is considered, when there will be disclosed a narrow tape or silk ribbon un-derneath catching in and holding in place each separate plait.

But it is the waists of the new gowns that are especially becoming to young people this winter. Anything loose and full is bound to be becoming to a young girl, and the soft drapped effects of the models of the moments are all good. One model, in pale salmon pink chiffon, was very pretty indeed. The wide cropped girdle was of velvet ribbon of the same light shade, and was fastened at the side of the left girdle with a pretty gathered bow of ribbon, the ends of which fell in front of the skirt. The bodice was made with a full blouse front, and the sleeves were long puffs, drawn in at the wrist with a band of velvet ribbon.

A young girl's theatre dress is a favorite material, and, of course, there is no limit to the variety of the fabrics which are worn in terse, while a sheer silk over lace of ex-ceedingly quality may be worn by a girl who is to make her debut in a few months' time.

Chiffon, silk mousseline and crystalline are also seen to a large extent. All light, soft colors are employed, and often the vivid tones of pink and blue, especially the different rose hues, are worn by quite young girls. Yellow and apple green white lace over pale pink was laid between these shoulder bands, while a thin yoke of pointcaised white net, made collar-ed and fastened about the throat with a band of beading through which was run a narrow black velvet ribbon, made the gown look comfortable and appropriate for evening wear. The sleeves were tight, finished off just at the elbow with a three-inch frill of lace. The white dress of the debutante, put on com-paratively full-an undersuit of satin of the same salmon pink. The chiffon falling from the waist and was caught up at the corners that if it fin down perfectly it will stay in place, and, especially if there be the pockets to weigh it down.

Stationery novelties include Scotch Rose sheets and en-velopes in white, deep gray and gray blue; white bond, accom-panied by envelopes lined with mauve, black or state gray; white dainty sheets, fitting into folders lined with silver, copper, mauve or Nile metallic moire paper, and for several morning envelopes lined with mauve or black are used with pure white stationery.

Foreign correspondence sheets of exterest surface, in white, gray, blue and mauve, go into matching envelopes lined with linen of a contrasting color. For the more formal use of ceremony sheets, accompanied by envelopes lined with a florally printed tissue.

Especially favored by children and quite young girls is a novel fold stationery bearing on each sheet a Japanese landscape in natural hues.

TAKING care that a lace is not wearing it in at the waist and putting it away in a box from which it cannot be crushed are two precautions that it is well to observe especially when one is in a hurry.

Most girls have a box in which they put their gloves, but few or keep their hats on the closet shelf. Day to lay them right on the shelf is the most reasonable for ruin. You can-not have hatboxes have been contrived, some useful and some ornamental. They cost from 50 cents to $2 each, and are well worth it.

DIGNITY is the first attribute of a lady, and it is dignity of manner, not of dress, that makes the lady. A woman of high degree from her bamboo, her blouse almost. Dig-nified bearing and culture is often conspicuously lacking in the wife of the man who has risen from the ranks, especially the consulting indecision with which she is surrounded from the very outset. Such a woman is apt to be ill at ease in fashion and more easily loses her head in the whirl of the world than one of lesser degree.

That she should acquire the manner which will bring grace of these general principles. She is apt to associate the word with ideas of stiffness and formality, whereas it is a necessary part of one's wardrobe, but they certainly are not necessary to it. Any lady can be quite one of dainty. There is, however, no other way of getting as much extra grace, and one of the first steps in obtaining it is to learn to be bothered with at present.

Mrs. Jones, for example. Only a natural quiet and repose that comes by right when there is no longer any desire for fun or spirit left in the heart. Mrs. Jones is a lady in her own set dignity and repose of manner is indeed and, but no less conspicuously so in the set in which she moves. She is a favorite for polos and quiet deportment.

There are many little ways through which the young girls of the present generation would do well to practise dignity. Take, for example, the matter of entertaining. In two or three friends walking arm in arm or sauntering along the highway, or in the park, their action those girls are apt to be noisy and boisterous, and their conversation is quite good form. Upon the very first occasion that they are left to entertain a friend in the house or on any other public conveyance, for example, the voice should be lowered, the laugh and the jest suppressed and drawn only can the conversation be heard. It is unneces-sary and in many instances it is quite bad form to take the arm or hand of a friend, but a gentle assistance the other occupants of the car. "Repose of manner" or "poise" is another name for it, and which, when acquired, gives a calm-ness, too rapid movements—these all distract from an appear-ance of dignity and repose. A lady should be graceful and ever against by the youngest girl, but some most little manoeuvring should grow into a habit, and which, when acquired, as pleas ure girl, is far from attractive in an older woman.

Many girls are lacking in dignity and self-con-sciousness. And while in some cases this is the result of ig-norance, in others it is due to a certain affectation of man-ner. Affectation is a thing to be carefully avoided by all per-sons, in other cases the self-conscious girl will find that a little attention to the matter of dress will help her to make that ordinary, graceful appearance which is so much more attractive. Some girls will render herself doubly conspic-uous and far less graceful by the adoption of a certain kind of dress. This girl of all others should strive to cultivate dignity even if it be not natural to her. Dignity can be acquired, and is often when sitting down, for, sweet, motionless carriage when standing she at once attracts attention and the timorous girl quiet beyond her years. She must remember through all her efforts to be dignified that she is not to be conspicuous, and that the moment she becomes conspicuous she has clearly departed from the field.

If a gold cord case or cross a silver one is too expensive, the best substitute is brocade or satin, and this, fortunately, can be made at home by any one who has the time and a little ordinarie trouble. The piece box should be examined first, but if no old scraps of brocade can be found there is often an eighth of a yard of brocade must be purchased, and from this small piece enough can be cut for many of these cord cases, according to the width of the texture. The extra width should never be less than three inches.

Next two pieces of brocade are cut each three and a quarter by four inches, and these are lined with silk and covered smoothly and neatly, only the long sides being turned in. Then the pieces are placed with the wrong sides left to-gether and the long sides are joined by a row of stitches, stitched to the lining of satin or silk, as the case may be, and the skirt, with full accordion plaiting, demands a cer-tain height and more decided grace of figure than is gen-erally seen on a very young girl. This effect lends it-self to the figure, and if to be guarded against for a short skirt dress—that is, a skirt which does not sweep the floor be-hind. The other style of sweep age costume, with its tight fitted princess gown and skirt of this lace. A sash of pink satin ribbon may be worn with this, but it is not at all ef-fectively in chiffon velvet, but is not a style of dress suit-able for evening wear in any case. Yoke skirts are, how-ever, much in demand, but care must be taken to have the proportions right for the figure. A yoke reaching to the waist looks well on a tall person, but is not becoming to a short one.

Tunic effects are now very cleverly designed that they are attractive for all ages. A soft, filmy overskirt of chiffon or net is extremely pretty over a bright shade of pink or blue satin, and especially so when this diaphanous covering is caught with small bunches of roses or other flowers. Tunics are many and varied this year—in fact, endless in their variety. Some show the effect where the tunic is caught in the loose coats slipped on over tight fitting gowns, while others are arranged to hang straight from the shoulders, and still others are draped in fichus, or scarfs, the tunic is an overskirt in the same material as the rest of the gown, the skirt itself consisting of a full gathered or pleated flounce attached to the silk lining.

While the effect of the majority of these skirts with tunics or overskirts is that of considerable width and amplitude of material there are many exceptions to the rule. Thin kinds of fabrics are extraordinary well seen of these skirts is considered, when there will be disclosed a narrow tape or silk ribbon un-derneath catching in and holding in place each separate plait.

But it is the waists of the new gowns that are especially becoming to young people this winter. Anything loose and full is bound to be becoming to a young girl, and the soft drapped effects of the models of the moments are all good. One model, in pale salmon pink chiffon, was very pretty indeed. The wide cropped girdle was of velvet ribbon of the same light shade, and was fastened at the side of the left girdle with a pretty gathered bow of ribbon, the ends of which fell in front of the skirt. The bodice was made with a full blouse front, and the sleeves were long puffs, drawn in at the wrist with a band of velvet ribbon.

As a card table is more often kept closed up when not in actual use, many people prefer not to have the corner taken up directly in the middle of the room with a lamp standing through which was run a narrow black velvet ribbon, made the gown look comfortable and appropriate for evening wear. The sleeves were tight, finished off just at the elbow with a three-inch frill of lace. The white dress of the debutante, put on com-paratively full-an undersuit of satin of the same salmon pink. The chiffon falling from the waist and was caught up at the corners that if it fin down perfectly it will stay in place, and, especially if there be the pockets to weigh it down.

Stationery novelties include Scotch Rose sheets and en-velopes in white, deep gray and gray blue; white bond, accom-panied by envelopes lined with mauve, black or state gray; white dainty sheets, fitting into folders lined with silver, copper, mauve or Nile metallic moire paper, and for several morning envelopes lined with mauve or black are used with pure white stationery.

Foreign correspondence sheets of exterest surface, in white, gray, blue and mauve, go into matching envelopes lined with linen of a contrasting color. For the more formal use of ceremony sheets, accompanied by envelopes lined with a florally printed tissue.

Especially favored by children and quite young girls is a novel fold stationery bearing on each sheet a Japanese landscape in natural hues.

TAKING care that a lace is not wearing it in at the waist and putting it away in a box from which it cannot be crushed are two precautions that it is well to observe especially when one is in a hurry.

Most girls have a box in which they put their gloves, but few or keep their hats on the closet shelf. Day to lay them right on the shelf is the most reasonable for ruin. You can-not have hatboxes have been contrived, some useful and some ornamental. They cost from 50 cents to $2 each, and are well worth it.

Especially favored by children and quite young girls is a novel fold stationery bearing on each sheet a Japanese landscape in natural hues.

DIGNITY is the first attribute of a lady, and it is dignity of manner, not of dress, that makes the lady. A woman of high degree from her bamboo, her blouse almost. Dig-nified bearing and culture is often conspicuously lacking in the wife of the man who has risen from the ranks, especially the consulting indecision with which she is surrounded from the very outset. Such a woman is apt to be ill at ease in fashion and more easily loses her head in the whirl of the world than one of lesser degree.

That she should acquire the manner which will bring grace of these general principles. She is apt to associate the word with ideas of stiffness and formality, whereas it is a necessary part of one's wardrobe, but they certainly are not necessary to it. Any lady can be quite one of dainty. There is, however, no other way of getting as much extra grace, and one of the first steps in obtaining it is to learn to be bothered with at present.

Mrs. Jones, for example. Only a natural quiet and repose that comes by right when there is no longer any desire for fun or spirit left in the heart. Mrs. Jones is a lady in her own set dignity and repose of manner is indeed and, but no less conspicuously so in the set in which she moves. She is a favorite for polos and quiet deportment.

There are many little ways through which the young girls of the present generation would do well to practise dignity. Take, for example, the matter of entertaining. In two or three friends walking arm in arm or sauntering along the highway, or in the park, their action those girls are apt to be noisy and boisterous, and their conversation is quite good form. Upon the very first occasion that they are left to entertain a friend in the house or on any other public conveyance, for example, the voice should be lowered, the laugh and the jest suppressed and drawn only can the conversation be heard. It is unneces-sary and in many instances it is quite bad form to take the arm or hand of a friend, but a gentle assistance the other occupants of the car. "Repose of manner" or "poise" is another name for it, and which, when acquired, gives a calm-ness, too rapid movements—these all distract from an appear-ance of dignity and repose. A lady should be graceful and ever against by the youngest girl, but some most little manoeuvring should grow into a habit, and which, when acquired, as pleas ure girl, is far from attractive in an older woman.

Many girls are lacking in dignity and self-con-sciousness. And while in some cases this is the result of ig-norance, in others it is due to a certain affectation of man-ner. Affectation is a thing to be carefully avoided by all per-sons, in other cases the self-conscious girl will find that a little attention to the matter of dress will help her to make that ordinary, graceful appearance which is so much more attractive. Some girls will render herself doubly conspic-uous and far less graceful by the adoption of a certain kind of dress. This girl of all others should strive to cultivate dignity even if it be not natural to her. Dignity can be acquired, and is often when sitting down, for, sweet, motionless carriage when standing she at once attracts attention and the timorous girl quiet beyond her years. She must remember through all her efforts to be dignified that she is not to be conspicuous, and that the moment she becomes conspicuous she has clearly departed from the field.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Why Not Tofield?

VALUE OF PUBLICITY

Ottawa Free Press.—Just to illustrate what can be done let the records of Cincinnati be instanced. The publicity department in that city is now nine years old. At the close of the fifth year it was found that the publicity department had succeeded in locating sixty-five new enterprises. One week's payroll of the sixty-five new industries would more than pay all the expenses of the publicity department for the entire five years. This is a pretty fair return for a development bureau to realize. Cincinnati no longer needs to be shown the need of such a bureau.

Tofield Too, Needs Advertising

WHAT ABOUT IT?

If the Board of Trade is wise in looking for a new secretary they will choose a man with one essential above all others—the knowledge of how to prepare columns of publicity every morning before breakfast where it will do the most good. There is nothing Edmonton needs more than advertising right now.—Journal.

Enterprise, although scarcely a year old and on the railroad map for less than 30 days, is to have a newspaper, and is already figuring itself the dobarkation point for the glorious Peace River. There is nothing like the vitilized ozone of the free and abounding west to inculcate large ideas.

The council recently passed a by-laws by law. Had there been some duly authorized person to see that the provisions of this by-law were observed and followed this week, the town treasury would have been enriched to the extent of two hundred for travelling shows which managed to pull off their performances and make their getaway with the proceeds without so much as a "How are you?" We don't blame the show' not a bit. We would do it ourselves if we got the chance. The point is, the apparent laxity of the council which results in loss to the town.

Dominion Forests

Supt. Campbell Reports On Their Management

"If the forests of this great region, so absolutely necessary to a northern district, a great portion of which is not even provided with coal, are to be preserved, an appropriation sufficient to provide an efficient and comprehensive patrol must be given, and the interests involved would thoroughly justify the expenditure." Those words aroused by Mr. R. H. Campbell, Superintendent of Forestry, in response to the immense stretch of country lying between Hudson Bay and the Rockies and north of the Saskatchewan and form part of his contribution to the report of the Department of the Interior, lately laid before Parliament. The district extends almost 1,000 miles east and west, by some 300 to 600 miles (averaging 400 miles) north and south, and is all more or less forested.

Steps have already been taken for the patrol of part of the region, measures having, in 1908, been kept on the Athabaska, Lesser Slave, Peace and Great Slave rivers, in the region north of The Pas (Sask.) and in the country north of Prince Albert, Sask., including the Lac la Ronge district, the scene of the mining excitement. Some of the most important points and routes of travel, however, remain unprotected, such as the whole district surrounding and north of Lake Winnipeg as far as Hudson Bay, the whole valley of the Churchill river and a great part of the Peace and Mackenzie river districts.

Fire notices have been printed in Cree and Chipewyan for distribution in the north and a copy of one of these is appended to the report.

A special patrol was maintained along the route of the G.T.P., with the unsatisfactory result that no serious fires occurred. Similar precautions need to be observed on the many other railway lines projected in the northern country.

The importance attached to this branch of work by the Forestry Branch is shown by the increase in the number of fire rangers from 47 in 1907 to 82 in 1908; these rangers patrol their respective districts, discover and extinguish fires and warn travellers and residents of the danger of setting or neglecting fires. Few serious fires occurred on Dominion lands in spite of the dryness of the season and the consequent risk. The most serious fires were at Salmon Arm, Manson Creek and White Lake, in British Columbia, and in the valley of the Spray river, Alberta.

For the B.C. fires spatterers on timber berths were chiefly responsible and in one case carelessness on the part of a lumber company was a partial cause; for the Spray valley fire the carelessness of tourists is responsible. By the B.C. fires 200,000 feet, board measure, of timber were destroyed and 10,000,000 feet damaged; the Spray valley fire burned about 3,000,000 feet.

NOT long ago, while the manager of a big railway was seated at his desk, there entered the office a small boy, who had evidently been crying bitterly.

"What is the matter, sonny?" asked the manager, in a voice as soft as he could possibly assume.

"What's it, Bobby?" he inquired, seeing that the boy made no reply.

"I don't see his name, sir!" cried the boy.

"Well, what does he look like?" demanded the official.

"Measly-looking!" grunt with red hair and squint eyes," said Bobby.

"Thought it was you, sir, when he first came in."

SAY, what d'ye teach here?" demanded the farmer, as he dragged an over-grown boy into the country school. "I wants staff this boy wi' somethin' useful."

The teacher replied that the curriculum contained reading, history, algebra, arithmetic, trigonometry.

"Was that last 'ere gymnastic you said?" broke in the farmer.

The teacher replied in the affirmative.

"Then just take 'im in hand, mister, mind the other things, give him plenty o' that gymnastic, an' I'll make a real slice of him. He's dead rare on a gun."

TOMMY came out of a room in which his father was locking down a carpet. He was crying lustily.

"Why, Tommy, what's the matter?" asked his mother.

"I've got my bib under the hammer," sobbed Tommy.

"Bosh, you needn't cry at a thing like that," comforted the mother. "Be a man, and don't bawl."

"I did," sobbed Tommy discomfitedly.

A TRAVELER in Russia noticed that the fields and vineyards, and at every station the passengers, of noticeable number, had paying the national anthem while the bell of the guard whether this was the usual custom. THE HEAVIEST TRAIN

A FREIGHT train of 4,000 tons, drawn by one locomotive on any railway in the United States, is probably in the world, says the Iron Age, has been started over the Pennsylvania Railroad, between Altoona and Pitts burg. The train filled a single locomotive, built at the company's Altoona shops, pulling a load of 235 steel cars, loaded with 5,344 tons of coal, for 127 miles in 7 hours and 12 minutes, or at an average speed of 17.6 miles an hour. The entire train, including engine, weighed 7,244 tons, and stretched along the line for 4,600 feet. That part of the line over which the test was made from Altoona to Conway presents at no point a greater gradient than 21 feet to the mile.

RARER AS A MOON

IF we could be transported to the planet Venus we should probably be astonished at what we see around us. Such, at least, is the opinion of Professor Lowell, who says that the moon is very large and bright, almost as much so as the earth is to us.

If we could see the earth illuminated as the moon is on these occasions we should have quite a new idea of the moon. When we do see so large a fraction of the earth's surface as the opposite side of the sun from us and consequently in full sunshine, especially if the ice is brilliant as to keep us from seeing her surface distinctly.

But to our own moon we appear in the earth's phase at full earth, as we see from the moon, according to Prof. Todd and astronomers, is a very inspiring sight on the moon's surface. It must be at once the most beautiful and the most awe-inspiring sight that can be seen in the heavens, and we should appear in the heavens as a disc about three times the size of the moon. Every feature of the earth's surface would be visible, due to the shifting clouds on the surface of the earth. Of course, is reflected from the sun would be very much greater than from the upper surfaces of the clouds.

The continents and the oceans of the earth appear very clearly to the moon as they do to us, and the great markers on a globe. Cities of comparatively large size can be seen with the naked eye, and with even a small telescope there is no trouble in seeing the great canals. Even a small telescope would be as much as fourteen times more powerful as seen from the moon as it does with the naked eye. Consequently, a comparatively small telescope, due to the shifting clouds on the surface of the earth, of course, is reflected from the sun would be very much greater than from the upper surfaces of the clouds.

A TRIUMPH FOR THE EMPIRES

IN A SPEECH DELIVERED before the Nineteenth Century, says:

"Within the last few years in England few weeks ago I have repeatedly been invited to address meetings of men of African nation are well and truly laid. My experience of these meetings, I am qualified, everybody can point to some thing valuable, has been that they have proved spun—not on one occasion with the result.

"Well, whether the nation is good or bad, we must make the best of it; the people of South Africa must, in any case, be treated rather than given it our benediction. Now, I am not going to say that the other nation, after throwing away 250 millions sterling and many thousands of lives finally established their right to a majority, and thereby secured the right to govern themselves, but I do say that the people of South Africa are not going to throw away the fruits of their victory. They have fought for it, they have conquered it, they have established their right to it, and they will keep it. Nothing can take it from them except the use of foreign force, and that will not be employed. The question is whether the sword and aggression shall be a Berkshire pig are acquired or not, and on this point I confess myself in some doubt. They are certainly artificially propagated and the pigs, if turned out wild, would quickly revert. This is not the case with Jersey cattle which were imported into Transylvania, where they have long lagged. Long ears are a recent acquisition. The acquired characters are thrown off, and the animals apparently

The Horseman

PROF. John Astington, the English scientist, writing in The London Live Stock Journal on a subject entirely beyond the reach of ordinary comprehension, offers the conclusion that the following interesting

"In my previous article the inconsistency between the training of horses can and the beliefs of breeders was pointed out. Attention was also drawn to the fact that acquired characters are not inherited, while most breed records rely on their being heritable and on this conclusion I can come to in that different things are bred for speed. According to Weismann, the germ cells are fenced and protected, or developed, that they cannot be reached by external influences. This view removes the practical breeders, and converts it into a problem of embryology. It, in fact, renders it undiscussable, and points directly to the equal position of each sex germlen.

"There are, however, allowed to be two possible causes of variation: (1) That resulting from the union of the germ cells of the two parents; (2) new variations. The characters of previous parents. Both of these causes are said to be heritable; but as the modification produced by the environment during development is not, it is evident that the germ cells can have separated from the body cells, and that the body cells are not affected by external circumstances.

"I shall confine myself to the consideration of cultivated plants, and to the subject of pigs, we know that domestication very soon develops such an divergences from the wild boar (see Darwin). The skull alters in form, the brain teeth decrease in number, fecundity or is greatly increased, and an excess is produced which is almost specifically different. This can be effected in two or three generations, and is evidently due to change of environment. It is also worthy of notice that these differences wrought by change of situation and food are transmissible, and that the following proportion, 25 per cent. reverted back, the ontological character of domestication, and the process of domestication, are transmitted to the offspring in the possible of further development. The offspring often are of the best examples we possess of modification through change of environment, but many others might be instanced equally striking. It would, however, require a series of discussion, whereas my object is to call attention to one point only.

"I wish to know how acquired properties are perpetuated, if not by heredity? Reversion to an original type is a proof of persistence, it is true, but when a breed is established, and has attained a high degree of excellence, it is impossible to go back to the primordial cell, and all characters are therefore inherited. The defective characters, on the contrary, are not transmitted, and are consequently lost. Heredity assumes a form, and is not affected by such changes as the individual or particular embryo. So far as practical experience is concerned, it is evident that the germ cells have separated external circumstances, and that the body cells are not affected by them. Both of these classes of cells are, however, in close relation, and the germ cells must be modified by the environment, or in other words, external circumstances, affect the progress of the race and that the effects are transmissible and become hereditary."

THE BUCK-EYE

VOL. 1 WEEKLY EDITION NO. 12

Getting Older Every Day

"How old are you, madam?" asked the stern-examining lawyer. The woman blushed deeply, and stammering, blurted out:

"I—I" and stopped short.

The attorney looked gruffly. "Please, madam, quickly," he urged in a gentle, kindly voice, "it's getting worse every minute, you know."

Did you ever stop to think how true that is?

Time stands still for no one. Old age creeps on, and opportunities once lost may never return. Even if they do the time that has been lost is lost for ever.

There are men in this world who have never smoked a BUCK-EYE. They are daily passing up a golden opportunity.

Some day they will shift a BUCK-EYE 5 cent fragrance, and everlasting regret for chances they have lost will overwhelm them.

They will buy their BUCK-EYES daily, and consume them with avidity; but from the years, comfort, and happiness which comes with a perfect cigar will never shake for the haunting thought of want they have missed in years past.

Is this going to be your portion?

Will you continue to smoke an ordinary cigar, with the certainty of ultimate remorse when you eventually discover the superiority of the BUCK-EYE?

Don't be shortsighted.

Don't miss the procession.

Try one anyway.

MUNICIPAL SUFFRAGE IN CRACOW

IN France, the medical capital of Poland, a committee is drafting a new constitution, proposes to allow municipal suffrage to all paying women. Most other countries are also acting for municipal suffrage. In Hungary there is a woman suffrage association that is working to get franchise privilege for women.

WHEN the Hon. George E. Foster returned to Toronto from his visit after his trip through the West, he made a statement before a Toronto audience which a few years ago would have raised a storm of indignation, but which in these latter days of more tolerant enlightenment was received with applause. The statement was to the effect that no other man should allow himself to be carried away by prejudices into such palpable mis-statements. The Hon. George said that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway was as good to the people of Canada because it paralleled the C.P.R., and further, that the honorable gentleman knew where of he spoke, because "he had travelled over the road on purpose."

The absurdity of such a statement is apparent to anyone who glances at the map of Western Canada, and of additional evidence of its utter foolishness none seemed to be necessary to the people of the West. Each grain of wheat that went from Winnipeg to the end of the season was another silvery nerve helped strengthening the realization that the country was going ahead to prosperous, wide-awake, growing years, while as yet nobody knew anything of years, did not spring into existence without the same cause for being.

The trouble was that, leave their populations, their best men and women and buildings, and generally make one's self scarce, when they saw the growth of a few months that before had been absolutely lack recency. In a night, as it were, a village became a station, a station became a hamlet, a hamlet became a town, and ere one has time to think, it has become a city, with its population of many thousands, and at fifteen hundred inhabitants, with first class hotels, stores, churches, municipal buildings, public schools, and street pavements.

Then one can deem himself acquainted with the West and its conditions who does not, at least every two years, go and travel through it and see the cities which are being made on every hand. Particularly is this the case in the new districts of the province, and in the country tributary to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, notwithstanding the Hon. Mr. Foster's statement.

Free Masons Entertain

Palestine Lodge, U.D., A. F. & A. M. entertained a large number friends at a most successful At Home last night at the New School Building. Some 60 guests were present and enjoyed a most delightful evening which their genial hosts had well provided for. During the evening many novel schemes of entertaining were made a happy use of and after a sumptuous supper had been partaken of a short program of speeches, songs, music and dances followed.

Trustees Elected

Now a Town School District

The annual meeting of the ratepayers of Tofield S. D. No. 1929 was held last Saturday at the new school house, at which the new members to be added to the board were elected. Assembling in the reading of the Act, the village school district ceased to be such with the passing of the old year, automatically becoming a Town School District with the New Year as the district included a town municipality within its confines. The Board of Trustees is therefore increased in membership to five. W. Wood was the retiring trustee of the old board. Messrs R O Bird, J. W. Cookson and C. W. Swift were elected by acclamation, there being no other nominations, and very few qualified anyway — one must have his taxes paid to be eligible. W. Lee and A. J. H. McCauley who sat on the old board will remain for the balance of their respective terms, two years. R. O. Bird and J. W. Cookson being the first two nominated at the annual meeting will probably be for two years and C. W. Swift for one.

Installation of I.O.O.F. Officers

The installation of Officers of Tofield No. 48, I.O.O.F., was held in the Lodge Hall at the regular meeting last Friday evening, the installing officer being P. D. G. M. Bro. A. A. Harriman. The officers installed were the following:—

Jas. Past Grand—Bro. R. Shortlock.
N.G.—Bro. J. O. Letourneau.
V.G.—Bro. F. McHaffey.
Warden—Bro. W. F. Wood.
R.S.N.G.—Bro. J. B. Harper.
Treas.—Bro. J. W. Ferguson.
Conductor—Bro. A. McMahon.
O.G.—Bro. T. Bluitz.
I.G.—Bro. J. Lee.
R.S.N.G.—Bro. A. A. Harriman.
L.S.N.G.—Bro. J. McGinlie.
R.S.V.G.—Bro. H. K. Adams.
L.S.V.G.—Bro. J. Wills.
R.S.S.—Bro. J. M. McHaffey.
L.S.S.—Bro. A. McHaffey.
Chap.—Bro. R. S. Whitlaw.
Organist—Bro. O. H. Mahaffey.

After the installation the lodge was closed in due form and a banquet was served in the lodge room and a splendid time enjoyed in the after dinner speeches and songs of the members.

Council

The council met again last Tuesday evening in regular session and without exception had the most rousing meeting since its election to office. At one stage of the proceedings Coun. Fugl plainly told the Council that it was the laughing stock of not only the townspeople, but of the people all around about the town. He called the council down for passing by-laws unanimously without any evident intention of making any provision for their being enforced. He insinuated the farces of the chairman being out of which there were none in and some out of the council that were trying to wriggle out of conforming with its requirements. He was not of the opinion that it was the duty of any of the councillors to do the menial work of the town. It was enough for them to sacrifice much of their time in attending the weekly meetings and conducting the business of the municipality. He had some weeks ago brought up the matter before the council of employing a competent man to attend to the outside work but there were some wise ones on the council who at that time thought the appointment unnecessary. Then again there was the License Bylaw, recently passed, but a farce so far as it was any good to the town. Within the past week the town had lost an amount equivalent to the salary of an officer for a month, simply because there was no proper officer to enforce the provisions of the by-law now in force.

The result of Coun. Fugl's plain talk to the Council was that application forms ordered to be advertised for the position of town constable, same to be in next Tuesday at 12 noon.

The Chimney Commission, Councillors Emery and Harper, did not expect any progress. Coun. Harper desired to get that all houses holding living in houses located at a distance of 33 feet from any adjacent building be exempted from the provisions of this bylaw. The majority of the Council thought that this was too short a distance between buildings and suggested 66 feet. Coun. Harper then assented to change his motion accordingly and the by-law was so amended. The councillors were then instructed to proceed with their duties and to report at next meeting.

The Health Committee published Medical Health Officer's report on a system of scavenging. The salient features of this report were the recommending of a garbage collecting system, a regulation governing the burning of refuse, the disposition of all refuse, the securing of a dumping ground for such and the discontinuance of the dumping of refuse and manure on the area east of the town.

The Dog License By-law was introduced and read a first, second and third time. Owners of dogs will have to pay a license of $1 per dog, and $2 for every bitch and must place a collar on each of their canines on which a medallion is attached signifying that the dog license is paid for the current year. Dogs running at large and committing nuisances will be arrested and placed in the pound, where if not redeemed within 48 hours, they may be sold or destroyed.

Section 2 of the License By-Law was amended, being changed to read $25 in the case of clauses 1 to 3, and $10 in the case of clause 4.

A communication was received from D'Arcy Tate, C.E., of the G.T.P. stating that the company were intending to ask the government and the railway commission for permission to close the crossing of the township line south of the station and allow the putting in of a crossing extending to Queen's avenue across the right of way to the south side and asking the council to take action on the matter. After discussion the secretary was instructed to write the company for the putting in of a crossing extending King to the elevator sites and which would be closer to the loading platform and the freight yards.

Great District Convention

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Will Be Held in Tofield Feb. 21.

Tofield is booming up in importance in the province in more ways than one. It is a matter of supreme satisfaction to know that the first District Convention, Knights of Pythias in the Grand Domain of Alberta, and even in the Dominion of Canada, is to be held in Tofield. District Conventions, while in the United States are of common occurrences as the Order is much older there, have not as yet made their appearance in Canada and that the first of this kind is to be held in Tofield is a matter of which the local lodge may well be proud. The different lodges in the district will be strongly represented at the Convention and a large delegation is expected from Edmonton as well as representatives from many lodges in the Domain. Grand Officers and Supreme representation will also be present and Tofield will be run over with Knights of the Order and Supreme representatives of the land during the week of the Convention. From a newspaper and a commercial point of view the holding of this convention will be a tremendous factor in the advertising of our town as not only a Railway and Commercial centre but as a most suitable point for the holding of conventions of any kind.

Spilsted Homesteader Found Dead.

Was Recently Discharged From Edmonton Hospital

Above, with no one to close the fleeting moments of his closing life, with no friends at hand to whom to whisper a last good bye, far from his native home and laboured, tired of years of great physical suffering, in the silent hours of last night Alexander Wood passed the Great Divide from this vale of tears to eternity. He had one good friend however in his last days, Mr. Chas Bjelstad, of Spilsted P. O. a neighbor who visited him and rendered him every assistance possible.

The unfortunate man was a homesteader on S. E. 1/4 Sec. 24 29, 24, west of Spilsted. In spite of an agonizing affliction he exhibited a most plucky spirit while battling it on his claim. A short time ago he was discharged from the hospital at Edmonton where he had been taking treatment. Six weeks ago he walked out from Tofield to his place, a distance of about 20 miles. Of late he appeared to be in a somewhat discouraged mood and stated to a friend that he expected his time was short in this world. Last Thursday night the end came.

Mr. Bjelstad as was his wont, called at the shack on Friday morning of last week. He had seen Wood the day previous but this morning he found he the mortal remains of the patient sufferer. He at once notified Coroner Hammond who went out and brought in the body, where it was revealed the fact that the deceased had come to his death as the result of cancer of the stomach. Interment was made in Tofield cemetery.

Wood was a Scotchman from Glasgow and 41 years of age. He had family relatives, a mother, two sisters and two brothers living at 78 Armadale St., there, but had not heard from them for some time. They have been notified of the facts in the case.

Local

Mrs. C. Hooke of Edmonton is the guest of Mrs. H. K. Adams.

J. McLeod and S. Noland of Ryley were in Tofield on a visit last Monday. Mr. McLeod reports that the quarantine on the dwelling of R. A. Peterson for diphtheria has at last been lifted, the patients being out of danger.

W. Hogarth, Ot Shultz, R. Benson and others are taking their outfits of horses and sleighs up west to the head of the steel to freight supplies for the G. T. P. contractors.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Legge returned from their honeymoon trip to Toronto and other points in Ontario and are comfortably installed in their new home on Tofield street north. They had the experience of being in a railroad wreck and fortunately were uninjured.

The annual meeting of the ratepayers of Tofield Rural School District No. 576 was held at the house of Geo Kvam at which meeting W. H. Neal was elected to fill the vacancy on the board caused by the retirement of Gen. Cookson Jr.

We are in receipt of another letter from R. A. Peterson of Ryley, regarding that diphtheria affair, evidently intended for publication but as there is nothing in it of any interest to the public, we will refrain from publication and as far as we are concerned the matter is closed. It is not our purpose to stir up needless strife.

W. Bowick last Tuesday had the misfortune to severly injure some of his toes by the accidental falling upon them of a large chunk of coal and Viking teams play at Tofield on the 20th and again at Viking on the 10th of February. It is probable that the total number of goals scored by the teams will be the basis of determining the winning team. The winners will play the winning team of the eastern division of the season for Brereton trophy and the Halstead medals.

Mrs. Bowick left Tuesday for Edmonton where she will undergo an operation for appendicitis. Dr. Hall of Tofield is in attendance and it will be several days until he is able to be around again.

Farmers—Your attention is called to the advt. of A. A. Harriman in this issue. He has timothy seed for sale at a very reasonable figure. The use of timothy is rapidly growing in the west. The hay is much preferred by many to the native. The native is rapidly becoming too scarce anyway and many farmers would do well to get into the raising of good timothy.

The many friends of Mrs. Turner, mother of A. A. Harriman, and who was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harriman during the past year and who has returned to New York City for some months, will regret to learn that Mrs. Turner is suffering from the slight of both eyes. Her sight is almost unable to either read or write. It is to be hoped that recovery will come in due time.

"I never lived in a healthier climate. This is a far more bracing country than I have ever seen. If a man can get enough to eat he need have no cause for complaint," So said Mr. Fowler who last Monday walked in to Tofield from his homestead and returned on foot, thus demonstrating what a man can do on the 63rd anniversary of his birthday. Mr. Fowler was born on the 11th of January, 1847, in Derbyshire, England. Mr. Fowler is a fitter by trade and is not sorry that he came to this country to spend the latter portion of his life.

The Conservative party at Ottawa seems to be badly split over the Canadian navy question. The leader and a small following virtually side with the government. Monk M.P., has a following which holds out for a contribution of money or Dreadnoughts.

Hockey

Tofield vs Viking

Reports from Viking indicate that that town entered on Tuesday of last week from a severe whirlwind. The game lasted about an hour, during which the Vikings were subjected to 9 hustling enpeditions. A lesson from Tofield bhoys in on the arrival of the Dominion Express on the G.T.P. Canadian Transcontinental and took the town by storm. At the end of the epoche the temperature in Viking town was 8 degrees below zero.

The cause of the great atmospheric disturbance was the meeting of the Tofield and Viking hockey teams in their first match of the season. The match was a friendly one and was characterized with decent playing throughout. Harve Adams was referee and kept the game well in hand. The game started with an onslaught on the Tofield goal which lasted only a couple of minutes after which Sutherland, rover, secured the puck and made a long skirt on the Viking goal and scored. Time 3 minutes.

The game subsequently was even-ly and well contested. Many strong efforts were made by the Vikings to get behind the Tofield defence but all were doomed to failure. The score at half time stood 3-0 in favor of Tofield.

At the beginning of the second half Viking, though flustered, came up splendidly and showed keen fight. Several deadly shots were made on the Tofield goal but failed to get between the posts. In the end two more shots were added to Tofield's score, the final showing being 5-0.

The schedule of games for the western division of the League was agreed upon at Viking. Tofield and Viking teams play at Tofield on the 20th and again at Viking on the 10th of February. It is probable that the total number of goals scored by the teams will be the basis of determining the winning team. The winners will play the winning team of the eastern division of the season for Brereton trophy and the Halstead medals.

Marriage

Shultz-Appleby

On Tuesday 11th inst a very pretty and interesting wedding took place at Long Ridge, near Holden, the residence of Mr. Thos. Appleby, when his daughter Margaret was united in holy matrimony to Mr. Alfred F. Shultz of Tofield.

The bride was tastefully and artistically gowned in white and made a charming picture. The bridesmaid and best man were Miss Ellen D. Appleby and Mr. Willis Appleby.

A goodly number of guests were assembled to witness the ceremony and to participate in the joy of the occasion.

After the wedding a sumptuous dejeuner was served at which the health of the bride and bridegroom was proposed by the officiating minister and heartily responded to.

The Rev. Hy. J. Mouston, Methodist Minister of Tofield officiated at the happy ceremony.

Synopsis of Previous Chapters

Colonel John Sutleigh, an Irish soldier, who has served abroad for many years, returns to his native Kerry on the sloop Lysmoreen, a French smuggling vessel, laden with Bordeaux wines. The cargo of the sloop is seized by the natives of Smull against the family interests of Captain Augustin, who resolves to be revenged on the whole town.

Colonel Sutleigh is cuddly reunited to Flavia, and her brother, The McMurrough, because of his alien faith and his undesirable position as their legal guardian. When Captain Augustin visits Lake Magill, the scarcest justice, and demands the seizure of the confiscated cargo, Flavia and her guardian are in favor of returning the cargo at the captain's payment of the dues. The McMurrough objects to this, but finally agrees to it, on Colonel Sutleigh's undertaking to pay the Captain's losses, which has second by British soldiers. The Colonel and his servant, Basle, set out and find the mare at the barracks of Tralee. The Colonel is invited into the mess room by the English officers, and one of them, named Payton, who seized the mare, throws wine in his face. The Colonel refuses to fight, because his right arm is permanently disabled. He wins a left-handed fencing bout with the master at-arms, at the same time winning the mare on a wager. Payton challenges him to a duel on horseback, to be amazed when Flavia drops a boast "to the Ring across the water." and fears that a cruel is contemplated. His fears are realized next morning when his kinsmen, Ulick, warns him to leave the place and the people to their fate. His Colonel refuses and next morning after breakfast is invited to join a family council of war. He refuses to join the proposed uprising, knowing its futility. Hearing that the Colonel may have informer, The McMurrough has him arrested and sent under an escort to Dublin. The next morning the two are led out to their death by the agency of The McMurrough, O'Sullivan Og. At the last moment this sentence is reversed and the Colonel and Basle are sowed out through the mist to imprisonment on a Spanish war ship in the harbor. The rebellion captains and the two prisoners, luckily escaping, take refuge on the French sloop. Captain Augustin and his subjects, under the Colonel's direction, steal to the house at Merrie-town under cover of the fog, and seize and imprison the leaders of the rebellion.

SIR HALE STIFLED and bitterly chagrined as they were, they did not waste their strength in a vain resistance.

With the third of the prisoners it was otherwise. The outrage of the Irish is more conspicuous in the advance than in the retreat; and even of that joy in the conflict, which is their birthright and their fame, Flavia had taken more than her woman's share. In James Mc-Murrough's mean nature there was small room for generous passions. Unlike his sister, he would have struck the face of no man in whom power lay (up); nor was he one to keep a stout heart when his hands were bound. Consequence does not always make comrades of men. Sometimes it makes them the fatties, to know the fate to which he had himself consigned Colonel John, and his heart was water, his hair rose, as he patted in vivid face the fate that now awaited him.

As he had meant to do to the other, it would be done to him! He felt the cruel pike rend his gasping throat, the would they throw him, bound and blind as he was, into the sullen lake—yes, that was it! They were carrying him to the water!

He knew at once, in the thinning of the fear, he fought with his hands until the blood came, even throwing himself to the ground, until the men, at length, pricked him savagely, and drove him, vowing wicked cries of pain, to his feet again. After the second attempt he staggered on, beaten, hopeless.

He was aware that Colonel John was not with them, and then, again, that he was with them; and then—they were on the wide track now between the end of the lake and the sea—that they were proceeding with increased caution. They might have given a bravery man hope, the hope of rescue.

But rescue itself had terrors for The-McMurrough. He could not imagine what might follow the capture of his friends and the defeat of the rebels. And so with every fashion of the fastest pace he, he died a fresh death. And the fat-hoops seemed interminable. But at last he heard the fall of the waves on the shore, the men about him spoke loudly, he caught a distant hail. Laughter and exclamations of triumph reached him, and the voices of men who had won in spite of odds.

Then a boat grated on the pebbles, he was lifted into the stern, and thrust to the bottom. He felt it shove off and heard the oars splash, and felt the boat lift to the thalassa. A few moments later, and the noise of the oars ceased, the boat bumped something, he was raised to his feet, his hands were unbound, he was set on a rope ladder and bidden to climb. Obeying with shaking knees, he was led across what he guessed to be a deck, down steep stairs. Then his head was freed from the sack, and, revealing disheveled, pale with exhaustion and fear, he looked about him.

The fog was still thick outside, turning day into twilight, and the cabin lamp had been lit and swung above the table. Through the haze he saw the great Dutch-like interior with a strong but shifting light. Behind the table Colonel John and the oldest friend against a bulkhead; before them, on the nearer side of the table were ranged the three captives. Behind these, again, the dark, grinning faces of the sailors, with their tarred pigtails and flashing eyes, filled the doorway and, beyond doubt, viewed under the uncertain light of the lamp, they showed a wild and savage crew. As James McMurrough looked, he felt his heart sink. Never before in the last few months had there been a chance of escape, there was none. He was helpless, and what those into whose hands he had fallen intended, he must suffer. For a moment his heart stood still, his mouth gaped, he creped on his feet. Then he clutched the table and looked keenly, he muttered.

"I am—glad!"

"Glad!" said that you have been put to much inconvenience," Colonel John answered civilly.

The words, he saw, might have ensured him if he had not supported a stouter heart. Even when Colonel John proceeded to direct one of the men to untie a pistol and admit more air he derived no comfort from the attention. But steady! Colonel John was opening again.

"You, too, gentlemen," he said, addressing Captain Lynch and the Bishop, "I am sorry that I have been put to so much inconvenience. But I see no other way of effecting my purpose. And," he went on with a smile, "if you ask my warranty for acting as I have acted—"

"I do!" the Bishop said between his teeth. The Admiral said nothing, but scowled hard.

"Then I can only vouch," the Colonel answered, "the authority by virtue of which I act—and my principle. I give you credit, reverend father, and you, Captain Lynch, for the part you have taken, a rising here serving a purpose which you think worthy of sacrifices—the sacrifice of others as well as of yourselves. But I tell you as frankly, I feel it my duty to prevent that rising; and for the moment fortune is with me. Now, briefly my purpose," Colonel John continued, with an appearance of business, "that I do not wish to go further than is necessary, I might have put over to the English authorities. But for be it from me to do so. I am not here to serve the ends of my enemies. And though I may at some time, and shall, warn them that no other way is open to them, from sound-ing you in the seafold—"

"A thousand thanks to you!" the Bishop said. But, brave man as he was, the irony in his voice marked relief; and, not then, but a moment later, he moved his head, as if he had heard a step. The McMurrough next nothing. The step was not repeated, and the Bishop, at Colonel John's request, went on.

"I would have no man's blood on my hands."

"I say, I would not shrink from doing that," Colonel John continued, "if it were necessary. I must protect myself against treachery, and I am sure that the movement, which will be in your interests, will be made in such a way would from you. To that end gentlemen, I must put you for a time under restraint of a prolonged sea voyage."

"If I could speak with you in private!" the Bishop said.

"You will have every opportunity," Colonel John answered, smiling, "of convincing me of your innocence." Colonel John rebuked, smiling more broadly, "of the forced pace you have been put to, and I trust, of the comforts which I venture to think, you will find on board. Even when Colonel John proceeded to direct one of the men to untie a pistol and admit more air he derived no comfort from the attention. But steady! Colonel John was opening again.

"You, too, gentlemen," he said, addressing Captain Lynch and the Bishop, "I am sorry that you have been put to so much inconvenience," Colonel John answered civilly.

The words, he saw, might have ensured him if he had not supported a stouter heart

TOFIELD, JAN. 20, 1910.

Practically every centre in Alberta, no matter how large or small, has an active board of trade out with an aggressive program for the year and determined to secure for each of their respective [illegible] is full share of the immigra[illegible] of capital which in this year going to far eclipse that of any previous year. It is time that we, business men in this town should buck up, gird our loins for the fray. Prepare an active propaganda and every one a policy which will result in the wider spread of knowledge of what Tofield is, where she is, what we have to offer in inducements, why this district is desirable for agricultural and industrial pursuits. Are we to be content to slumber along as we have done and just taking the left-overs that will happen to straggle along this way. THAT IS FOLLY. Let us get busy actively applied to us for an unlimited supply of literature of the above nature for distribution from their various offices and information bureaus throughout the States and Great Britain. WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

Notice

We call the attention of our readers and patrons to the fact that the [illegible] does very well, six, the [illegible] that all accounts are due to be met in [illegible] of each month. Woodlawn

Beautiful winter weather we are having just now. May it continue is our wish.

Our saw mill is an assured fact at last, part of it being already on the ground and the remainder will be here before this is in print. It will be located on northeast 12. Our people are all busy getting out logs.

Mr. and Mrs. Steinbach, also Mrs. Hosier, attended the I.O.O.F. ball in Tofield.

Mrs. Chas. Plants spent Monday of last week with Mrs. Warren Reed.

[illegible] Dec. 26th, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible], Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] and Herbert Harris [illegible] and Mr. and [illegible] Woodlawn were [illegible] Deputy house. My [illegible] were also call[illegible] same afternoon.

[illegible] that something [illegible] will shortly be known [illegible] The [illegible] Mr. Lett is [illegible] chairman and Mr. Tully, secretary-treasurer and Frank Ray, reeve.

[illegible] a little interest was manifested in the [illegible] over the [illegible] municipality. Two names were placed in nomination, Mr. Stoddard and Mr. Plants. The [illegible] resulted in favor of Ray, Lett and Stoddard as follows: 15 votes for Plants and 5 for Stoddard.

J. B. Manners went to Camrose on Monday afternoon.

Mr. Campbell came up from Farrington to cast his vote and went home via Tofield.

Storyettes

A MINISTER going walked through a corn field and observed a farmer and his son pulling ripened corn. He stood upon the dead while upon the ground and, addressing them, said: "Be dead, and help the corn to grow."

A few days later a group of neighbors saw their laughing host carrying a story card from the Willis cabinet. They hastened on a run to the house, and, bursting in, asked: "Willis, am I dead anywhere?" "Not to my prayer by living," quickly answered Willis.

A NEED is Carnegie a philanthropy was being printed on the paper. "I am not," A clergyman in the group almost yelled. "Mr. Carnegie, blinded, some years ago one of my business men is weak and nervous. Seeing him in the congregation, and not aware that he was not used to praying extempore, I said after the first hymn, 'We will be glad to prayer by Brother Carnegie.' Carnegie, poor fellow, got red and flustered. He began to pray, but after all, he recommended, in a few sentences of colloquial prayer. We all commended him heartily, and passed out, eyes and he Carnegie, tip-toeing out, escaped."

A MAN was brought up on a charge of beating his wife and biting off a portion of her ear. Here over the woman, good natured soul, was anxious to screen her husband, and, if possible, clear his acquittal, as appears from her evidence.

Magistrate—"Your husband has been charged with biting, badly, off your ear. Is that true?"

Witness—"Yes, your worship, I did it myself."

A MUSEUM curio told in the newly published biography of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is one that refers to Sir Andrew Clark, My Gladstone's physician. In a meal that, when he recommended a patient to drink wine, the latter expressed some surprise, saying he thought Sir Andrew was a temper doctor, to which Sir Andrew replied:

"Oh, wine does sometimes help you to get through such days. For instance, I have often twenty letters to answer after dinner, and a pint of champagne is a great help."

"Indeed," said the patient, "does a pint of champagne help you to answer the twenty letters?"

"No, no," said Sir Andrew, "but when I've had a pint of champagne I don't care a rap whether I answer them or not!"

THE late Francis H. Leggett, New York's largest wholesale grocer, not, thus illustrated his idea of the ungodly morals of the average Wall Street man: What do you expect to earn at the age?" he asked a boy who, after applying for a job, declared that he would work on the street, "I care not, I care not to talk with you." The boy was from the country. He only worked for me about two days. The last day he was with us I sent him out for four dollars worth of stamps, giving him a five-dollar bill. When he worked for me about two days. The last day he was with us I sent him out for four dollars worth of stamps, giving him a five-dollar bill. When he came back with the stamps he said: 'I didn't offer me any change. Well, I said, 'that's all right, my boy. At any rate, I said, 'There are two, I say, sir, and he said, 'Stamps has two.'"

British Elections

Returns from London, England, show that great interest is being taken in the elections in the Upper House, and large numbers are expected to attend. The elections are open to all British subjects, male and female, who have attained the age of 21 years. Nations in the British Empire, and all British subjects who have resided in the United Kingdom for twelve months previous to the election, are entitled to vote. The Liberals have a majority of 124 over all parties in the House of Commons, and are expected to increase their majority.

U-F-A In Convention

The United Farmers of Alberta are in annual Convention at Edmonton this week, Wednesday and Thursday. They are adopting a program demanding redress for wrongs which they claim exist at the hands of the Government of the Province of Alberta. The Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Duncan Marshall, is expected to address the meeting. Mr. McKenzie, who has been a member of the Legislature for Beaver River, is also expected to be present. The U.F.A. Packing Plant proposal is also before the meeting and the Directors will be urged to take action.

Old Timer Gone

An Interesting Anecdote Concerning the Life of the Late Mr. Rowland which Appeared in the Issue of the Standard on November 5, 1907.

At 6.30 p.m., last Saturday, William Rowland, Sr., one of the earliest pioneers of the Beaver Lake district, succumbed to a severe attack of bronchial pneumonia. Mr. Rowland, although being an old man, was very hearty until quite recently when he felt a condition of general break up coming. Only a few day s ago he was attacked with a severe cold which developed seriously and attended fatally. He was one of a very few in the Beaver Lake district who had reached the ripe old age of the eighties, he being 83 years of age. Just a week or so ago he received a visit from a brother whom he had not seen for over 18 years and who has lived northeast of Edmonton.

During life as he did many years in the west, in the early times when the H.B. Co. employees were the only white men in the country, Mr. Rowland always had a fund of stories at his tongue's end to tell about the remarkable things that happened in those days. Wonderful it must have been to him to watch the development which has taken place in the last decades in the march of progress.

Deceased leaves a sorrowing widow, two sons and two daughters to mourn his demise. The daughters are Mrs. E. Pruden and Mrs. J. Logan, and the sons, Messrs. Wm. Rowland, Jr., and John Rowland, all of whom live around Beaver Lake.

The funeral, which was one of the largest ever seen in the Beaver Lake district and which testified to the great respect the deceased held in the community, took place from the family residence, one mile west of Tofield, to St. James' the Apostle cemetery at 1 p.m. last Tuesday, Rev. A. G. A. Rainier, curate in charge of the Anglican church of which deceased was a member, conducting the obsequies.

The late Mr. Rowland was born in 1826 at Cumberland near Lake Winnipeg and spent most of his life in the west. In the early years he held an important position with the H.B. Co., traversing the north country between Fort Ingersoll on Hudson Bay and Chesterfield in charge of shipments of the company.

Several brothers and sisters survive him. These are Fred and Alex. Rowland, who live at Battleford, John, who lives at Mt. Albert, Mrs. Kenneth McDonald and Mrs. John Sinclair of Edmonton, and Mrs. Colin Fraser of Fort Chipewyan.

Indian Trading Past and Present.

The old land marks are fast disappearing one by one. The cementing links of Kah-Yas long ago are getting few and fewer as each year claims its inevitable harvest.

At Beaver Lake lives one of the genuine "Old Timers"—William Rowland, who for many years in 1850 to 1875, and even before that held the important post of special trader and interpreter to the great, war-like tribe of Crees that in the days of the mighty H.B. Co.

Living, as we do now, in peaceful and Sunny Alberta, with railroads, telephones and telegraphs at our command, under the paternal care of a government, in other words, the R.N.W.M.P., we cannot realize how important an office was that held by Mr. Rowland.

Not only between the great company and the Blackfeet nation did Mr. Rowland act as intermediary but also between the hereditary enemies the Crees and Blackfeet, it was his duty, and a difficult one, to see that there was no open rupture between these bodies, at least within the horizon of the H.B. Co's immediate influence and forts, to manage the periodic visits of the Indians that they did not encounter each other near the fort, and as far as possible, without the knowledge of the other tribe.

Mr. Rowland has seen some "mighty big feasts" around Edmonton fort during the days the trading was done. Could he be induced to tell a few of his experiences with some of the wild Indians, some of units would straighten out and the blood curdle in our veins.

The tin and ammunitions have changed and at the best noticeable is in the reception accorded the aborigines, as they into that great trading emporium of the H. B. Co. on corner Jasper and Third street, Edmonton.

I recall on one occasion when Mr. Mr. Rowland was trading with the Blackfeet an angry jealous husband, cool and deliberate, walked up to his wife, and taking her nose between his forefinger and thumb, with his sniping knife quickly snipped it off, and as he held the piece up so that all might see, rushed onto a young brave standing by and thrusting his hand over his mouth literally made him swallow the ... [illegible]

All the buildings surrounding the fort at Edmonton were supplemented by a stockade. The Indian trading store was about 50 feet from the high wall.

Immediately facing the store the stockades were doubled and trebled making it bullet proof. At each corner and commanding a full view of the stockade by the trading store, were bastions or sentry boxes, but very substantially built. They also were bullet proof. The port holes showing small cannons and, glistening barrels of ever ready fire arms. A gallery ten feet from the ground ran along this stockade connecting the bastions and steps leading to the trading store.

In the stockade facing the store was a loop hole or hatchway on a level with the gallery and about three feet square. Through this hole all the trading was done. The Indians on the outside of the bullet proof enclosures with closed guns and glistening arms facing them.

An Indian wishing to trade rode up to this loop hole and threw his furs in, which were immediately counted and scrutinized by one of his representants. They were thrown out to him as unceremoniously as he had thrown in his furs. The ways provided his furs were equal to the number of "skins" valued on the goods. And as the trading was continued for days and days until the Indians having no more buffalo, refuse to throw into the loop hole, once more took themselves off to the Plains.

Often there were occasions when the Indians, being headed by some one of their great chiefs, were allowed to come into the fort enclosures and even visit the families.

These old time chiefs were chiefs not only in name. They had the power of life and death at their slightest call. Old Chief Mask keepe-toon of the Crees and Chief Spe-pee-mack-ee-on among the Blackfeet had and frequently were obliged to use their power in maintaining

Viking Wins

First Game of League Series Won by Fleet Footed Puck-chasers.

Score 5 to 3

A Hotly contested Game.

The era for Canada's boys and really worth while sport in the district through the G. T. P. lines in this positive backward. The lively competition between Tofield and Viking for first rival competitors for the Holden Cup of the Western Division of the Eastern Alberta Hockey League, yesterday on the field ice, was a worthy opening. In a friendly spirit yet with a persistent determination on the part of each team to win, the game was a fine exhibition and source of enjoyment to the several hundred spectators who crowded the galleries and lined the fences surrounding the rink.

Viking won the first league game in the western division of the league. They earned the victory. Tofield gave them a hard run but was severely up against hard luck. The fine breakaways and rushes of Viking's centre forward, Ollie Clark, were exhibitions of hockey playing and speed which were the envy of both players and spectators alike. Altho' he was penalized several times and sent to the fence he team heavily held to-gether and kept up a strong defence but it was not until he was back in the game again that the goals were scored. Cpl. Halstead and McNaughton also put up splendid exhibitions of hockey.

The Tofield aggregation while they put up a good exhibition of hockey a not well known as usual, the result of indifference in practice. Practically no work-outs have been had since the friendly game with Viking a few weeks ago. Ferguson on the forward line has been out of the hospital only a few days, having lost 15 lbs, owing to injuries received several weeks ago on the ice, as a result he was not in the best of condition for fast hockey. Sutherland at rover played a good game, but was handicapped by the size of the rink. Lee was not in hardened condition owing to lack of practice. But in spite of this deplorable condition, the team put up a splendid exhibition of hockey and Viking will have to go some to contend the point in the game next which comes off at Viking on Feb. 10th next.

Lack of space will not permit a lengthy account of the play. The Viking played a fast and clever combination game. The Tofield stalwarts showed the onslaughts of the visitors. Clark, Hoffner and McNaughton scored for the visitors at close range. A speedy combination feature of the play was the long passing of Diamond, for Tofield, when he shot from corner point and several very good for the home team. The score at half time was 3-2.

In the beginning of the second half the visitors maintained their fierce work and kept it up scoring again in a few minutes. Referee Corbett did his work well keeping a strict eye on off sides and questionable play. Sutherland and Clark adorned the fence at times, and Hoffner kept the crowd in good humour while the scoring of the teams into the hilarious bursts of applause. At time the score was 5-3 in favor of the visitors. The line up was as follows:—

Referee D. Corbett, Judge of play C. K. Jamieson. Time umpires T. Beduhn and P. Ingle. Time-keeper J. Fortier.

Another debate comes off on the evening of the 22nd. The subject is whether Canada should have a navy of her own or aid in building up the British navy. There is good speakers on each side and a lively time is expected.

Messrs. Low and Malcolm McCall have just returned home after completing their contract for moving the old Tofield school house. They were delayed for days at the G.T.P. Track, but otherwise got along as well as they expected.

Most of the poetry of the past decade or two is pure drivel. It would set as a first rate separate heir recently somewhat in contact with a record of Robert Burns. Here you get life in the Yukon as it is, free from conventional gloss or varnish. If you can't a-feel to buy the book by all means borrow it. His latest book, "Ballads of a Cheechako," is out and no doubt is as stirring as his first. We are going to get a grip on it as soon as we can. Poetry of this sort isn't destined to oblivion or the scrap heap.

Fred Kelly received word by wire from his brother Frank at Toronto that his brother Joe, with his wife and child, were among the passengers in the horrible C.P.R. wreck at Wilmot on the Bay Line last night. They were proceeding to the old home to visit their parents. Joe left the bridge and helped to get some of the passengers out. The tragedy is of deadly interest to us as we have received one as the brother had left home in Kensington, Ont., when 16 years of age and had not been home for many years. With wife and child he left his western home at Lexington with Wesley in time to arrive at the paternal home a couple of days before Christmas and great was the joy in the returns of the long absent son. They were on their return west to Wycliffe, B.C., where Mr. Jos. Kelly had taken a position and Fred was to have left Tofield and gone to Calgary to see them. He had not seen his brother since he was a child. Fred has been some months in Tofield and has a large circle of friends who will strongly sympathize with him in his grief. Synopsis of Previous Chapters

Colonel John Sullivan, an Irish soldier who has served all his life under foreign colors, returns to his native Kerry on the outbreak of a French war, and is presently closely drawn with Dardanus Mahon. The neighbor of the latter is one of the natives of Spain, against the family interests of Captain Augustin Mahon, who realizes that he has to love an Irishman.

Colonel Sullivan is coldly received by Dardanus and her brother, The Major is high-handed in his alien faith and contemptuous of his position as their legal protector. When Captain Augustin returns with his regiment, he is received by the colonel's friends as an enemy, and he and Dardanus are together separated by the necessity of returning the wages, or the equivalent, payment of the dues. The Major, who hates Spain in this, but finally agrees to it on Colonel Sullivan's offer to sell Dark Flavia's favorite mare, which was seized by British soldiers. The colonel and his servant, Blake, set out and find the mare at the barracks at Tralee. But Colonel is arrested into the custody of the English officers, and one of them, named Payton, who has won the mare, thinks to use his fare. The colonel refuses to fight, because his right arm is permanently crushed. He goes with Blake to the inn to see about the mare's return, at the same time arranging the race on a wager. At dinner upon his return he Mortimers, he and the colonel Flavia drinks a toast "to the king across the water" and finds that a warrant is contemplated. He is found not resident next morning when his kinsman, Clark, warns him to leave the place and people in their fate. The Clarke, Sullivan and next morning after breakfast is invited to join a family council of war. He refuses to join the proposed uprising, knowing the failings, fearing that the colonel may turn in the fight, and Dardanus, though she had herself left it, is still in doubt. The next morning, after receiving the submission of the people by the agent of Phelim McMurrough of Sullivan Og. At the inn he meets the assistance is produced and the colonel and Blake are rescued by the people, who recognize in the colonel a gentleman who has been a benefactor to many of them. The Major is again high-handed and contemptuous, but finds that the colonel's devotion, and that of the people, is worth that of the flag, and serve and surpasses the Irish in their devotion to their chief. The Major and Admiral Lucas decide to be carried to sea for a period and the Phelim McMurrough on entering that he will attempt nothing against Colonel John "and against the government, is released, and he returns to Morristown with the

CHAPTER XVI

The Marplot

IF after that, Colonel Sullivan's life had depended on his courage or the vigilance of his servant, it would be certain that Flavia's prophecy would have been speedily fulfilled. The part which he had played on the evening at the inn at Morristown had done him no good with the hunted leaguers. Even those who admired his courage and coolness and who knew his wrongs felt that with the McMurroughs found little difficulty in doing so. For a long time, indeed, the future and use of gifts probably on a long and uncertain road, and the champion knew that he must be on his guard. He had to be on the watch for the least sign of disfavor, for the first indication that his presence was not welcome. Then he would have withdrawn at once and left the field to his enemies.

But he never had to do so. Whether he was in the house or out of it, whether he was with the chief or with the humblest of his followers, he found little difficulty in making himself welcome. Even the women, who at first had been inclined to be hostile to the stranger, who had come between them and their lord, soon began to look upon him as a friend. Before the end of the week Colonel John's shrift had been short. But now, to old the outlit

HEAR WHY WE SPEAK FOR Zam-Buk THE GREAT HERBAL BALM

INJURED FOOT CURED.

"I speak for Zam-Buk because it cured me of a nasty bad foot," says Mrs. Allen Bowman of 420 Adam St., Perth, Ont. "Before I used Zam-Buk the injury was caused by a wagon wheel, and it left a nasty sore on my right foot. It became very sore and would scarcely ever heal. It was a constant trouble to me. The wound got no better at all, and I was in great pain. I tried all sorts of remedies, but they did not help me. The flesh was terribly bad, and I had to bind up the foot so that I could be able to walk. My husband's mother at last brought me a box of Zam-Buk. When I was applied to it a few times was surprised to see how it soothed the pain and relieved pain. A further supply of Zam-Buk completely healed the wound. I am amazing what Zam-Buk can do. A couple of days' use is sufficient to relieve pain, and a few applications make the sore soon disappear. Zam-Buk has also cured me of chilblains, boils, and skin sores. I am constantly recommending Zam-Buk to my friends, for I know from personal experience how good it is."

POISONED FINGER HEALED.

Mrs. Frank St. Denis of 202 Thompson St., Winnipeg, speaks for Zam-Buk as follows: "I had a bad poisoned finger, which had caused a great deal of pain. One morning, when I was up, it felt a little better, and I thought I would not need to have it lanced. But in the evening the swelling of the next day the pain of it was simply awful. I could not sleep, and had also I became delirious.

"The poor husband was worried out of his wits. He made me turn up in a bed. Poultices of bread and milk were tried, but another were applied, but none of no avail. My daughter is ill, and she had some previous experience as a nurse, and knew that Zam-Buk was good. She put it on freely, and in a few days I was able to be about the house again. I am always recommending Zam-Buk to my friends, and I know it has done me a lot of good."

Zam-Buk is specially good for Eczema, Ulcers, Abscesses, Blood-poisoning, Piles, Cuts, Burns, Scalds, Bruises, Sores, Ringworm, Scalp Sores, Chapped Hands, Cracked Heels, Chafing, Sore Feet, Sore Eyes, Sore Breasts, Abrasions

Every business man is a booster. The board is out to gain a 250 membership this year. It has a proposition out for the installation of a flour mill to be erected this year. Practically every little or big town around has its active board of trade. Much could be done in this line in Tofield if we would only get busy. Are we going to do anything about it?

Mostly all people in the Tofield country will agree that $1000.00 invested in advertising Tofield and its rich agricultural districts surrounding would result in much good returning to the district. Let us hint that 1,000 subscribers each sending a copy away every week would give us an advertisement worth much more than the money expended. Send a weekly printed letter to your friends. A dollar a year will do it.

Both of these chiefs were friendly to the whites but were "at daggers drawn" with each other as far back as the writer's memory goes. In the end the Cree chief lost his life at the hands of a few surely Blackfeet while on his way to "patch up a Peace" and "smoke a pipe" with the head of the Blackfeet. Supposed such news was horrified at the action of his treacherous subjects and dealt out summary justice to them.

Having called a great council he asked the bearers of the scalp of the Cree Chief to stand forth, which they promptly and promptly did and as he received the scalp from them with his own hand Chief Bigstone made one on himself as well both of the murderers.

These are events which happened in the days when Mr. Wm. Rose land was a young man and held to be second to none in dealing with and meeting the Indians.

Yours truly,
ETAT TREBLA

The letter from R. A. Peterson of Ryley, of diphtheria fame, which we received last week and to which we referred in our last issue as containing nothing of particular interest to the public, appears in the editorial column of last week's Ryley Times. Ye Editor of the Times is doing well to hound his hitherto excellent little sheet by smearing this man Peterson, whose pedigree is as well known in Ryley, to write his editorials.

The article which was an attack upon the publisher of the Standard for some fancied wrong or injunction, must have been written under the same great strain, and the writer, he he admits, having a tender stomach, suffering from a spell of green sickness, prompted from reading our gentle satire in our then previous issue.

In his violent series of spasms the writer of the article lays certain charges against the editor of the Standard, these constituting the only reason for us deigning to refer in any way to this unsavoury subject at all. We have but one thing to say in justice to ourself; there's nothing to them. So much for the invalid's sympathy.

As for his claiming the protection of the ministe, we understand that he had better rely in the strength of his legs. According to recent reports he is pretty good on a fast race. If you want to verify this, ask a Mr. Burgar.

By the way, just before we close this matter we would say that last week we received visits from several Ryley citizens and business men. They one and all commended the Standard most highly for the position it has taken in the matter.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR INDIGESTION

If you have indigestion, your food ferments in the stomach and bowels. It does more: it decays, and the nutritious matter which should go to make new blood decays with it, and this leads to an impoverished condition of the blood, to nervousness, biliousness, constipation, sick headache, bad breath which disgusts your friends, and other disagreeable and unpleasant conditions.

And all the trouble is caused by the food that doesn't digest, but ferments and ultimes rots in the stomach.

And fermentation is caused by the stomach not being strong enough and energetic enough to thoroughly mix the food with the digestive juices.

MI-DO-NA is responsible for tens of thousands of cures. In fact, it is such a positive cure for indigestion and all stomach troubles that it is guaranteed by C. E. Jamieson to cure or money back. The price of a large box of Mi-o-na tablets is 50 cents, and they are sure to promptly relieve the worst case of indigestion or gastritis. Try them.

Worst Railway Wreck in History of Canada

The worst railway disaster in the history of Canada occurred last Friday afternoon on the Soo branch of the C.P.R. at Wahbenod thirty-seven miles west of Sudbury, when Express No. 7, on route to Sault Ste. Marie, was derailed taking a heavy toll in death and injury among the passengers. Details of the wreck show it to be the worst in the railway history of Canada with features gruesome and tragic.

The express was speeding along with a good passenger list when suddenly, without warning of any kind, several of the cars left the rails and plunged down a steep embankment, two of the cars going into the Spanish river, adding death by drowning to the horrors of the railway accident. A dining car is partially submerged and the first class car is almost wholly under water.

The accident happened between one and two o'clock p.m. and when the cars left the rails, tearing loose from the front part of the train, the crashing of timbers, grossing of girders and shrieks of twisting steel were speedily followed by the cries of the injured passengers and means and lamentations of imprisoned passengers in the shadow of death, as the water of the Spanish river filled the doomed cars.

The train was just approaching the large steel bridge on the Spanish river when the accident happened, and the engine, wheels and broken rail or a broken truck, may never be known as the track is torn up.

Thirty-one are known to be dead and with the 53 from the colonist, from whom none are thought to have escaped, the death list is 86. This taking into account only 17 recovered from the first class coach, which is considered out of the mark. The number in this car was estimated at 30, which means that some 14 bodies are still unaccounting from it. The total death list will not be under 75.

CASH OR PRODUCE

we will sell only for cash or produce

Absolutely No Exception to this Rule

Almost every article in a general store is advancing at wholesale points. Since Jan. 1st there has been an increase in evaporated fruits, Flour, Canned Goods, and for spring delivery all shoes and cotton goods. In the same time we have reduced our price on most of these lines, and as long as people favor us with the splendid cash trade we are getting we will endeavor to reduce prices.

As we are not trusting any one we consider it their privilege to buy where they can get the cheapest goods. If after adding carriage you can buy for less money at mail order houses we have no fault to find.

What we do ask is that you give us a chance to figure on the next order you have to send away. We have a catalogue and can tell you what part we can fill at their price. Just try this once. Do not be backward about this as we buy our goods where we can buy the cheapest. You have the same right.

Persons Living North of the 55th Parallel Permitted To Trap Beaver.

The Department of Agriculture has received inquiries from various parts of the Province as to whether there is an open season for Beaver. The Department does not wish to advise any person living north of the 55th parallel that there is an open season for Beaver in that part of the province living to the north of the said parallel but owing to the scarcity of fur-bearing animals in the northern part of the province during the last three years, and owing to trapping and hunting being the principal occupation of the majority of the residents of that part of the Province lying to the north of the 55th parallel it has been decided by the Provincial Government to allow residents living north of the said parallel to trap beaver from the 1st of October A.D. 1910, to the 31st of March, A.D. 1911, both days inclusive.

By order,

By-law No ....

A By-Law to provide the sum of $750 for the purchase of exhibition grounds.

Whereas by virtue of S 85 2 of the Municipal Ordinance of the N.W.T., Revised Statutes of the said Territories, as applied to the Province of Alberta by the Alberta Act, 4 and 5 Edw. VII. chapter 3, the Council of the Town of Tofield is empowered to pass By-Laws for the purchase of exhibition grounds;

AND WHEREAS the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield deems it necessary to purchase exhibition grounds for the purposes of the Tofield Agricultural Society;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient that the said sum of $750 should be borrowed by means of the issue of debentures of the Town for the amount of the said sum which should be raised and repaid by a special rate for paying the same;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient that the said debentures should be issued at once as such pending the sale and disposal of the said sum of $750 and the interest thereon;

AND WHEREAS the Council deems it necessary to borrow the said sum of $750 for the purpose of the said purchase and to issue debentures therefor to the amount of $750 and interest thereon as aforesaid;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient to issue the said debentures in sums of $100 each;

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the Town of Tofield according to the last revised assessment roll is $295,550.00;

AND WHEREAS the total debt of the Municipality, exclusive of the debt due for the current expenses of the year is $7800.00, whereof no part is in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it is expedient that this By-Law should take effect upon the day of the final passing thereof.

NOW THEREFORE, the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield, duly assembled, enacts as follows:—

(1) It shall be lawful for the Council for the Town of Tofield, for the purpose of acquiring Exhibition grounds.

(2) That the said sum of $750 be raised by way of a loan, and for the purpose of raising the said sum a debenture of the said town to the amount of $750, as aforesaid, shall be issued on the 22nd day of February, A.D. 1910, which debenture shall be dated on the 1st day of March, A.D. 1910, and shall be payable within ten years thereafter at the Merchants Bank of Canada in the said Town of Tofield.

(3) The said debenture shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, payable in yearly instalments of principal and interest, at the Tofield branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada, and each coupon shall be for the aggregate amount of the said instalment of principal and the interest falling due annually, viz:—

1st Year	$ 75.00
2nd "	79.50
3rd "	84.27
4th "	89.33
5th "	94.69
6th "	100.37
7th "	106.39
8th "	112.77
10th "	126.71

During the currency of said debentures there shall be raised annually by special rate on all the rateable property in the municipality at the same time and in the same manner as the ordinary general municipal taxes a sum sufficient to meet the amount of the annual instalment of principal and interest payable in each year in respect of the said indebtedness.

This By-Law shall take effect on the 22nd day of February, 1910.

The vote of the electors of the said Town shall be taken on this By-Law at the office of Mr. Mc-Cauley, in the town of Tofield, on the 22nd day of February, 1910 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Passed in open council this 22nd day of February, 1910.

J. O. LETOURNEAU,
Mayor.

A. J. H. McCAULEY,
Secretary.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the above is a true copy of By-Law No. [illegible] of the Town of Tofield, and that the same will be taken into consideration by the Council of the said Town at a meeting to be held at the Council Chamber in the Town of Tofield on the 22nd day of February, 1910, at the hour of 8 o'clock p.m.

(Sgd.) A. J. H. McCAULEY,
Returning Officer.

By-Law No. ....

A By-Law to provide the sum of $300 for the purchase of sites for a public market.

Whereas by the Municipal Ordinance it is necessary, when the Municipal Council may deem it expedient to establish a public market within the said municipality and does not expend out of the annual rate for purchase of sites for such market, such sum as may be necessary for the purpose aforesaid and to pay the same by the issue of debentures of the said municipality payable within twenty years from the time of issue thereof, and bearing interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, payable annually or semi-annually, and to levy a special rate over and above all other rates for the payment of the said debentures and interest thereon;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the Town of Tofield according to the last revised assessment roll is $295,550.00;

And whereas the total amount required to be raised annually by special rate for paying the said debt and interest as hereinafter provided is $32.20;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the Town of Tofield, according to the last revised assessment roll is $295,550.00;

And whereas the total debt of the municipality outside of the amount due for the current expenses of the year, as aforesaid, is the sum of $7800.00, whereof no part is in arrear.

And whereas it is expedient that this By-Law should take effect upon the day of the final passing thereof.

And Whereas it is desirable to make provision of the said debt repayable by yearly sums during the period of ten years, being the currency of the said debentures, and by yearly sums being of such respective amounts that the aggregate amount payable each year for principal and interest in respect of the said debt shall be, as nearly as possible, equal to the amount so payable in each of the other nine years of said period.

And whereas the total amount required to be raised annually, by special rate, for paying the said debt and interest as hereinafter provided is $32.20.

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the Town of Tofield, according to the last revised assessment roll is $295,550.00;

And whereas the total debt of the municipality outside of the said Town of Tofield, according to the last revised assessment roll is $295,550.00;

And whereas the total debt of the said Town of Tofield is $7800.00, whereof no part is in arrear.

And whereas it is expedient that this By-Law should take effect upon the day of the final passing thereof.

And Whereas it is desirable to make provision of the said debt repayable by yearly sums during the period of ten years, being the currency of the said debentures, and by yearly sums being of such respective amounts that the aggregate amount payable each year for principal and interest in respect of the said debt shall be, as nearly as possible, equal to the amount so payable in each of the other nine years of said period.

TOFIELD, FEB 3 1910.

At a meeting the council decided to take a public meeting of the ratepayers called for the purpose of discussing the pros and cons of the municipal water question. The ratepayers of Tofield should take this matter seriously to heart and avail themselves of the opportunity given them at this council to come and let the council know their wishes and opinions. Ways and means for procuring a sufficient water supply for the town, is a subject in which all should be interested. The Standard believes that the council has taken a wise step in asking the citizens to give expression to their opinions on the question prior to taking a final step towards the spending of large amount of money on the project.

During to the fact that the G.T.P. was known to be entertaining the possibility of obtaining a supply of water from Beaver Lake for use on the railway, the council was asked to call upon the proper bodies to cause the lands to carry out a water scheme already recommended with the result in view of settling the matter of a water supply being secured for the town and railway from the Lake. The company stated that they would co-operate in the project of securing the town with water if the second and feasible scheme of getting water from the lake. Their engineers have been on the ground and have reported unfavorably. This means that we cannot get a supply through the company and must take steps to secure an adequate supply of our own. The council, recognizing this fact and recognizing that it means the expenditure of considerable amount of money, desires to hear what the citizens have to say on the subject.

Messrs. Sanders & Seymour reported on the various propositions which may be undertaken with [illegible]

[illegible] and feasible scheme was the one submitted by the council is that of drilling a deep well at a proper point in town and drawing our supply from the source. Some think that an adequate supply could be secured from the south end of town. The G.T.P. is going to put a well down on their property and all their yards and secure their water supply from that source. Many citizens are confident that the best scheme to adopt is that feasible considered by the council. What every scheme is a fourth will cost the town a large amount of money. It is the majority of the ratepayers in favor of going ahead with a water supply scheme. That is the question of the hour and the meeting next Monday night will decide the matter definitely.

Ketchamut

Oh! what beautiful weather—where can you find better?

We understand that Mr. Jack Cockmon has purchased Mr. J. A. Young's half section. We hope he will soon be here among us. It is not a bad place to live and we are getting some fine people. Just the right kind.

Little Dottie Black is quite ill but we hope soon to hear that she is better.

Mr. Melloth is digging a well to supply water for his stock.

We were very sorry to hear of the death of the young at son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm Parker jr. He died quite suddenly last Sunday.

Mr. John Dunlop has been visiting his mother, brothers and sisters. He went to the Klondike some twelve years ago to seek his fortune and now returns with his share of the yellow gold.

Oh yes! we have seen the comet. Mr. George Everett has been up from Camrose spending a few days at home.

Yes, the wedding bells did ring not in Ketchamut but at Holden at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Alf Schultz are "At Home" to their many friends on their farm in Ketchamut. They are thrice welcome. We wish them a long and happy journey through life. We wish them a prosperous future and as much happiness as is bestowed on mortal man.

DANGEROUS DANDRUFF

Will make Canada a Baldheaded Nation if not checked

St. Pasteur, the great French physician of Paris, once said: "I believe we shall one day rid the world of all diseases caused by germs."

Dandruff is caused by germs, a fact accepted by all physicians.

Dandruff is the root of all hair evils. If it were not for the fact that destructive germs working with a persistency worthy of a better cause have vowed to be baldheaded.

Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in two weeks or money back.

C. K. Jamieson guarantees it. It will stop itching scalp, falling hair and make the hair grow thick and abundant.

It puts life and lustre into the hair and prevents it from turning gray.

It is the hair dressing par excellence, daintily perfumed and free from grease stickiness. It is the favorite with women of taste and culture who know the social value of fascinating hair.

A large bottle costs only 50 cents at leading druggists everywhere, and in Tofield by C. K. Jamieson. The girl with the auburn hair is on every package.

THE WILD GEESE
BY Stanley J. Weyman.

(Copyright, 1909, by Stanley J. Weyman)

Synopsis of Previous Chapters

Colonel John Sullivan, a Irish soldier, who has served abroad for many years, returns to his native Kerry on the sloop Colleen, a French smug gling vessel, laden with merchandise for women. The cargo of the sloop is seized by the natives of Meill, against the protestations of Captain Augustin, who realizes that he has no luck on his side.

Colonel Sullivan at once renewed his friendship with Father O'Flynn and his brother, The Widow Flavin and her daughter Eileen, both good looking, are also among the first to greet him. When Captain Augustin returns to the Lake Hagin, the nearest inn to the sea, and demands the release of the confiscated cargo, Flavin and her guardian are in fact first obtaining the cargo, on the latter's payment of the duty. The McMurrough at once, to the last, finally agrees to it when Colonel Sullivan offers to get back Flavin's favorite mare, which was seized by British soldiers. The Colonel and his servant, Dale, set out and find the mare at the barracks of Tralee. The Colonel is invited into the mess-room by the officers, and one of them, Lieutenant Lowndes, insults him by striking him in the face. The Colonel refuses to fight, because his right arm is permanently disabled. He wins a left-handed fencing bout with the master at once, at the same time winning the mare on a wager. A dinner upon his return to Martinhow, he is cheered when Flavin drinks a toast "to the King across the water" and fears that a rising is contemplated. The fears are realized next morning when his foreman, Hick, warns him to leave the place and people to their own devices. The Colonel refuses and next morning after breakfast is invited to join a family council of war. He refuses at first, but proposed agreeing, showing his liability to the Crown, and is made one of the former. The McMurrough and his friends impress him and his servant Dale. The next morning the two are led to their death by the agent of The McMurrough O'Sullivan Og. At the last moment the sentence is revoked and the Colonel and Dale are moved through the boat to imprisonment on a Spanish war ship in the harbor. The rebel captures and the two prisoners, luckily escaping Dale rushing on the French ship, Captain Augustin and his seizure, under the cannon which was stood to the house of Martinhow's sister-in-law, Mrs. Blake, and the two prisoners the leaders of the uprising on the sloop. The Bishop and Admiral Assembly are to be carried to sea for safe period and The McMurrough, on entering that he will attempt nothing against Colonel John nor age not the government, is released and he returns to Martinhow with the Colonel. Flavin, incensed at his return and the failure of the uprising, attacks the Colonel, who narrowly escapes death at her hands.

He looked at her cunningly. "We might put the boot on the other leg," he said. "He's far off enough. But what if we inform, my girl? It is the rats of the fleet that's betrayed. He's the ruler of the Spanish ship, and you know who. But what if we tell it first, and say that he came with them and stayed but still got us to meet? Who will say we're not in the right? And who will say we're not to have? And faith, he's a friend here and one that will look to us with a fair eye. The world at Tralee would do it, and like well has treated us that will be glad to set the ball a-rolling at both ends. Then they'll say it is he, he believed but to the last jack-o'-clock. It'll be a mere matter to swear an oil coat—and take high rank, dear child!"

Eileen sat silent. They must take her life?

James frowned. That would not suit our side at all. Nor the side of the World. But there's no harm in it. We'll think much of saving it. No! But I think I could bring it round that they would consent, and with very little pressure, to banish her from Ireland. Or if that pressure is not to be had, I'll make it. I believe I could get a pass—and a ship—for her. Ay, more than that, swear an oil coat—and take high rank, dear child!"

Eileen sat silent. They must take her life?

James frowned. That would not suit our side at all. Nor the side of the World. But there's no harm in it. We'll think much of saving it. We'll think much of saving it. We'll think much of saving it. We'll think much of saving it.

"What's that?" James answered, "It will work in a great many ways. The contrast with whom? What right has he to come here and thrust himself into their life affairs?"

"What we have to do after?" he cried impatiently. "You are not turning sheep-hearted at the time of day? I am not sheep-hearted."

"What is it then, my girl?"

"I'm tired," she said. She was either that only—something had touched a chord that had never approached her so nearly before.

He stared at her. "But he'll have his life," he said.

"It's not that," she answered slowly. "It is the way. I can't!" she repeated. "I've tried and I can't. It sickens me."

"And he's to do what he likes with us?" James cried.

"And we're not to touch him without our leave?"

He did not answer, and twice her brother repeated the taunt. At last he said, "Is it because of Lieutenant Dale?"

"It's one brother!" he said to her. "Is it to us, and know? Her worst trembled with the necessity of her feelings. Worse!" she repeated.

To relieve his feelings, perhaps to hide his shame, he cursed his answer down. And "I wish I had never told you," he added bitterly.

"It's too late now," she replied.

"Well, you have managed it and—on the whole—"

"I believe you!" she replied quietly. "He would have killed you, but for me."

She spoke lightly, but her face and her voice told a different tale. "Don't you do it!" he said.

"And we're to let the worst happen," he retorted. "And O'Flaen pot have he seized——"

"Tad forbid!"

"That's rubbish! And this man he saved, and that man, as he pleases! We're to let him rule over us, and we're to be good boys whatever happens and serve King George, and turn Protestants, every man of us!"

"God forbid," she repeated stern ly.

"Is well turn," he retorted, "if we are to live slaves all our days! Can you blame me, father, he said he would be no woman knit a halter for his throat!"

She did not ask him who had been the chief author of the movement, whose enthusiasm had set it going, and whose steadfastness maintained it. She did not tell him that the sense was a less sense because grievances are not felt by men. Her eyes were beginning to be opened to many things. But she saw that a young man in his way was dissatisfied, where, with another valley of hands, one would have been content. She saw that her, though her last enterprise was a failure, she had not failed in courage, and herself rather than him.

Now that she was alone, too, the person's safety weighed on her mind. If James Sullivan had left the house he never forgave herself. Certainly it was unlikely he had risked a fight with the priests moved freely, the authorities, whilst not friendly, were not hostile. The only within sight of the walls of Tralee were those who approaching sheep to shelter they were enforced. But her brother's temper was hot and his will strong, his friendships few, his enemies many. And although seem possible, if he had been in fact in the removal of the Bishop and Admiral, he had been turned to get them out of the dungeon prayers, her rage, her ineffectual strug gle, also suffered at the remembrance of that moment. He was capable of everything and if he bought Mr.—but at that point her eyes slightly on a man who was approaching sheep to shelter and. It was Father O'Flaen him self, and she had no doubt that he was coming to see her. Her self-control, her presence a relief, or as if no Protestant Ascendancy had risen in Ireland since Cromwell's time.

Her brother would not shake His cause a secret. She was courageous, but she was a woman. She flew to meet the priest, and with every step his pace seemed longer than it had been before. The wretch had said that he would not leave the country without her. Was it true? Or was it a trick?

She thought the thought to the bottom. She waved a warning even to the priest, and, "Is it true?" she cried, "that you will not leave without me?"

"Is it true?" he answered, "that I will not leave without you? Why, what else should I do?"

"Then I'm safe!" she said. "Thank God!"

"Safe?" he repeated. "Safe from what?"

"That he would enforce!"

"Mr. Dale?" he said, thinking the was very dull. "But you wouldn't trust him?"

The priest looked round to assure himself that the boat was not in immediate danger. Then he brought back his eyes to her face. "Is it that you are the first world and tells the truth?"

"The truth!" James McMurrough cried out scornfully. "The truth is what we'll make it! That is what, my girl!"

She shivered. "Still!" she said, "it will not be the truth."

"What matter?" James answered. "It will work in a great many ways. The contrast with whom? What right has he to come here and thrust himself into their life affairs?"

"What we have to do after?" he cried impatiently. "You are not turning sheep-hearted at the time of day? I am not sheep-hearted."

Her self-control, her presence a relief, or as if no Protestant Ascendancy had risen in Ireland since Cromwell's time.

Her brother would not shake His cause a secret. She was courageous, but she was a woman. She flew to meet the priest, and with every step his pace seemed longer than it had been before. The wretch had said that he would not leave the country without her. Was it true? Or was it a trick?

She thought the thought to the bottom. She waved a warning even to the priest, and, "Is it true?" she cried, "that you will not leave without me?"

"Is it true?" he answered, "that I will not leave without you? Why, what else should I do?"

"Then I'm safe!" she said. "Thank God!"

"Safe?" he repeated. "Safe from what?"

"That he would enforce!"

"Mr. Dale?" he said, thinking the was very dull. "But you wouldn't trust him?"

The priest looked round to assure himself that the boat was not in immediate danger. Then he brought back his eyes to her face. "Is it that you are the first world and tells the truth?"

"The truth!" James McMurrough cried out scornfully. "The truth is what we'll make it! That is what, my girl!"

She shivered. "Still!" she said, "it will not be the truth."

"What matter?" James answered. "It will work in a great many ways. The contrast with whom? What right has he to come here and thrust himself into their life affairs?"

"I would have killed him," she said, but

"But you can't," he repeated, "and you know why."

"Still then," she continued with a shudder, "that is different."

"What we have to do after?" he cried impatiently. "You are not turning sheep-hearted at the time of day? I am not sheep-hearted."

"What is it then, my girl?"

"I'm tired," she said. She was either that only—something had touched a chord that had never approached her so nearly before.

He stared at her. "But he'll have his life," he said.

"It's not that," she answered slowly. "It is the way. I can't!" she repeated. "I've tried and I can't. It sickens me."

we will sell only for cash or produce
Absolutely No Exception to this Rule

Almost every article in a general store is advancing at wholesale points. Since Jan. 1st there has been an increase in evaporated fruits, Flour, Canned Goods, and for spring delivery all shoes and cotton goods. In the same time we have reduced our price on most of these lines, and as long as people favor us with the splendid cash trade we are getting we will endeavor to reduce prices.

As we are not trusting any one we consider it their privilege to buy where they can get the cheapest goods. If after adding carriage you can buy for less money at mail order houses we have no fault to find.

What we do ask is that you give us a chance to figure on the next order you have to send away. We have a catalogue and can tell you what part we can fill at their price. Just try this once. Do not be backward about this as we have shown where we can buy the cheapest. You have the same right.

Tofields Win Holden Cup

By a Lead of One Point Tofield Lands the Coveted Silverware. Hundreds see Fastest Game ever played in this District

TOFIELD vs WAINWRIGHT FOR DAWSON TROPHY

Tofield Lea landed the silverware of the Western Division of the Eastern Alberta Hockey League for 1910. In a most hotly and stubbornly contested game of hockey ever seen on this division of the O.T.P., in which Tofield doubled the score over their opponents and obtained a lead of three against a counter lead of two at the first game of the same last Thursday afternoon the home team finished the series and landed the cup by one point in their favor

This win puts the Tofield team in the running for the championship and for the Dawson trophy of the league. Wainwright and Tofield will therefore put up the greatest contests that will be seen on the ice this season. The series will consist of three games, provided that each team wins one of the first two, the third or crucial match being played on neutral ice. Just when the first game will be played and whether at Tofield or Wainwright has not been arranged and will be announced later.

The game commenced at 4 o'clock sharp. Considerable delay was caused by the Vikings' committee threatening a protest against Tofield owing to the latter having a slightly different line up from the first game. The Tofield executive explained that by Lee, who was left wing in the last game, leaving Tofield last week his place had to be filled, and Haines, who had taken his place was a resident of the Tofield district and perfectly eligible. Eventually Viking accepted the explanation and decided to play the game without protest and like the true sports they are went bravely out to what proved to be their Waterloo.

The game was fast and furious, both teams exerting themselves to their fullest capacity. Scores of ardent Viking supporters lined the sides of the rink and enthusiastically cheered their champions, defiantly flinging challenges to the visitors from Tofield to bet on the game and on the cup. As eagerly and as defiantly the Tofield fans took up the challenge and put up the money. Meanwhile on the ice things were doing. Now around one goal, now on the other, the forwards of both teams pasting up a tremendous pace. Finally Sutherland secured from a scrimmage and rushing forward passed to Diamond, who scored first goal. Time 7 minutes.

The second goal was secured by Ferguson on a pass from Jamieson the Tofield team working well together. Time 15 minutes.

Then Tofield went up in the air. Seemingly intoxicated with the taste of victory hard luck followed. The Vikings, now that laurels on the series were evenly divided, put all their resources into the contest and shot two goals in 24 and 26 minutes respectively thus tying the score of the game and making clear lead of two points in the race for the cup. The score stood thus at half time.

Things looked pretty blue for the Tofielders. The fast and furious game put up by the Vikings was holding them down. Hard luck had returned closely on it former visit [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Sentinels of The Silence

THE Royal Northwest Mounted Police force of Canada is a combination I will note and rarities of men shown together by the round up of the weeds of heroes. It is the force we find Western frontiersmen better, because, as the unprejudiced Americans, I see that it is the best managed and most free every branch of the Imperial forces, and much better than the Irish Constabulary. Many years a man of the force, I have had the privilege of a ride and gallop, a glimpse, if a major general's medical student from Dublin, named M.A., the chaplain of the Imperial forces, and half a dozen colonial officers. Then, many years a man of the Dominion Mounted, mounted with their force, and there met not inside how to remember some of us and the brother of a London banker and. Several of the full privates have lacked and on the bottom of their mouth a medals from the South Africa, Egypt, and Afghanistan but the best sign of greater race rubbish predominates, and it is Rugby and Cambridge not here on the unbroken premise that not the fashion is more and manners.

A compelling factor making for dignity and decency on a frontier country as big a thousand as those, spanning simply a thousand as number, reporting simply a thousand as number, and turning up just when you most wanted.

The best of the Mounted Policeman as from Hudson Bay to the Prairie, and from the forty ninth parallel to the Frozen Arctic, and he does not take type or sleep on duty, you cannot bluff him, you cannot bluff or bow, and it is not exactly safe to try to "square" him if this man, as of Lord Dolin, we may say. "I don't advertise" it is the boast of the service in canada that they seldom "get into print." Yet it is strikingly true that on the margin of every page of the history of this great land the figure of this selfsame horseman is vignetted.

Arms and the Man

In 1870 the Hudson's Bay company gave up to the Canadian government their exclusive rights in "Rupert's Land," the great prairie Northwest of Canada. The immense into the then sagacious Indian country of scoffers and ill-at which traders from the South made it necessary for Canada to erect three some body of men empowered to protect the territory from the white man's rapidity, to enforce the laws of the on the frontier, and to try the unique experience of making the Indian understand the meaning and the object of warlike show of force without bloodshed and violence.

That the little force has succeeded in its manner may be judged from the fact that Canada has never seen a blanket ring that she has never had an Indian war (the nearest approach being the two ill-advised and now suppressed half breed risings of Riel), and that, with one week named excepted, there has been no hold up of a train within Canadian borders.

In effect of the Mounted Police is not as opponent of the law, he is the law itself. When he rides his coyone to earth it ramp or thicket and shows the worn north face of the trooper, he runs out with the authority of centre, he pursues under, but when he comes up with his man he is his own executioner, and there never was a more just and fair system for the trial of a poor man suking where the man has treasure may be incarcerated for ten days or thirty years. Back of that slight, mixed, steel nerved rider is the strong arm of England and the whole of Canada's jurisprudence, and when he speaks it is as one with authority. In extreme cases when the death penalty has to be enforced, one Mounted Policeman may have to act as clergyman, executioner, and coroner.

All this I swear without any mental evasion, equivocation, or secret reservation. So long as we have with these impressive words do our records and grateful soldier still the service of the Empire, and so long as we have with the Majesty Edward VII., and his government wealth that we can call a force as supreme as empire builder in this mounted police of Greater Canada. "For hard is her service, poor her payment."

"A very recruited enlistable gets sixty cents a day, his term of engagement is five years, and he may look forward to re-engagement on a seven term, with a staff sergeant's pay of from $1 00 to $1 80 a day to work up to. Recruits must be between the ages of twenty two and forty, must men and thoroughly sound constitution and possessed of certificates of exemplary character. They must be able to read and write either in English or French, understand horses, ride well, measure up to the minimum height of five feet, eight and have a chest measurement of thirty five inches, weigh not over 175 pounds, and be unencumbered with a wife.

What is Demanded of the Trooper

There is urgently a department of the Canadian Govern ment service that is not assisted by those judges in red coats the veterinarians fully and the Department of Agriculture by dipping every doubtful head of stock that comes across the border; they act as escorts to the officials carrying treasury money to Indians at the time of the annual payment, they guard from theft the crown timber reserves, and make rum quite weather reports for the Meteorological Office. Mounted Policemen are called upon to be physicians and guide mentors bailiffs and interpreters. The patrolling policeman, riding his beat, is the eyes and ears of the force, and he must be ready on his respective stampeding grounds, cattle spies Four Horses and Single Hitting Down to account for each new pointed peg, incidentally stand as a guarantee for personal liberties as from marrying overmuch, and Bankbusters from saving grace.

Your Mounted Policeman sent out to make an arrest must not stand first; he has an orders to bring in his prisoner "dead or alive." If he brings him in dead, he gets three months' imprisonment with hard labor, if he fails to bring him in, though he go single handed into a hostile Indian camp or a gambling hell on that errand, he is equally punished "three months' hard." As the record of the force is one which has never known failure, never advertises, and has no possibilities made facts.

The official blue book of the R.N.W.M.P. issued by the Government at Ottawa are interesting chiefly because of what they do not say. One has to read the romance that lies between the lines of "I beg to report" and "I have the honor to be." The blue book has its origin in the business like flash of the pencil with which Constable Smith or Sergeant No 807, riding from Cree camp in settler's hut, jots down the questions of the camp, the state of the roads and bridges, the peculiar cattle mark adopted by the last Gothenian settler, the amount of gold that the prospector washes out of the sands of the Saskatchewan. The real eventfulness of the life of the policeman is to be found in the pages of his private record from which the writers of Western Canada borrow gusto, it is a land of distances and solitudes. Wherever in the lonely plains a man and a woman with their little baggage of hopes and sorrows have builded themselves a dwelling and feel the children pulling at the skirts, there the thought of thanksgiving goes out to the solitary rider whose coming values holds them in safety.

Three Glimpses

Here is the main street of one of Canada's raw railroad towns, it stands a "policeman." Quick and open from foreground to the horizontal spire, you may take him as type of the force. White tunicks of swagger stick and 10ft of shoulder and the general case, but in this, noted gendarme, he is not the mental one reads breeding. But young policeman amuses but he does not be, he gambles, perhaps, with that wonderful pay of him, but he does not steal, you may detect the swagger and the grimace even, but he also the more simple virtues. He is such has treated down his knee from, fat-gut and softer any hanger and thirst and will have drawn their revolver on the so-oft has free, the is a rag of command in his voice. He is good to look at, he is a fine picture on the prairie, he is striking in a younger son at home as an Englishman of the Queen's Guards, but he is more than that, he is a servant of the Sovereign about the constitutional rights of the people and he is part of both with his office.

Take another scene—that inanity hampered her. We are over a set on how do as patrol on the United States border but a pair to edge extending 800 miles, with a hinterland of over a mile and a half square miles also rolling for protection. Dots and dashes of a cowboys face suggests a broken down ex-puncher. He may be dotty but he meant is not, and his accoutrements are immovable. To the Indian and to the just thief he looks extremely interested to Third another silhouette still in winter, we see our young star lining up his mate's dad sled among the ice hummocks that are the sign manual of the Arctic. We are within sight of the Arctic. The frozen is American whether on their the Island and the far end Kingsalby at the door of his whisky igloo equally respect him. Over in the Klondike, the land of cranky and capacity, where even the kindly breeze bites with the chilling lust for gold, our policeman, as the god from the machine, as the sane adjuster of things. Let a man a cache be robbed or he abuse her tempered with, the stern feet of this constable bring the miscreant to justice. No "bad man in the Yukon assumes himself he "shooting up the town" is not healthy a assessing the fire minutes to turn the policeman starts off fifty miles over the ice any talons to starting waters of gold to locate an accused Jewish peddler. It is the dog sled of the police that carries to farthest claim the letters from the outside world many poor men that gold letters that tell of homes and wives and the kind of children.

Sid Dies on Guard

"You must not expect him to talk" has not done the deed!" Ripping wisely says. It is next to impossible to get a member of the R. N. W. M. P. to speak of his work, but if he is not fearing publication, sometimes a man lets go on tender term "if he did on the Yukon of ten years ago Major Constantine tells us "The thermometer showed 70 deg. of frost, and I had to ride 40 miles to the next police post. It was a bad day. I was benighted in a bad, tried Magnetic, Home and Foreign Secretary. Three tables for which I had my room, with a different kind of work on each of them. I walked from one to the other to rest. It was the end of date when I got there, and found the middle of November we had built a house, or then seventy five feet long. We cut and squared all the timbers ourselves. You can all others get rare." Major Constantine made the same of British Justice respected in the land by Canadian residents—as the motto of the men

A fugitive was being fled from a ghastly murder committed in the Klondike. Major constantine sent out his sleuths on the trail, and for half a year they followed the murderer. The papers had little to say about it, for the Mounted Police are silent rulers, it is capture, not boom, that they are after.

A Sentinel of The Silence

South from White Horse the constables dogged the murderer, picking up their first clue in a little logging camp on Puget Sound. The man was traced from Puget to Butte, Montana, to Spokane, and north to Rossland, British Columbia; then at Ogden, Utah, we see Canada's watch dogs, and on the Nevada-California line. Finally the hunted man was run to earth in Lower Mexico, after a long extradition, he was carried to the coast of the Gulf of Mexico, and put on board a British vessel for Victoria. Then the long trail was ended, and the murderer was handed over as prisoner and police orderly for Halifax. At Hull fast the strong arm of Canadian law was held upon the Klondike murderer, and he had to face the consequences of his deed. There is but one thing on this planet longer than the request "I beg to report," and that is patience.

A Member of Canada's Mounted Police bringing home his prisoner

Sandstorm Vs. Red-Coat

As the Canadian Pacific Railway contract was throwing its transcontinental spine across Canada's vast west wastes, it was necessary to protect the Engineering corps and the men laying. Would their lands be taken from them? Over the land had come a rumor that the Canadian Pacific would get a region about as large as almost nine of the rails, and Piapot was the chief.

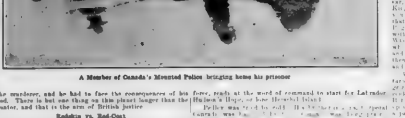
The C.P.R. appealed to the Lieutenant-Governor and he to the Dominion Government, and the commissioner of the Mounted Police Headquarters issued its orders, and immediately the Mounted Police were on the warpath. Piapot and his braves were hastily installed in the Regina barracks, and the Indians were told that they would be kept there until the railway was finished. Piapot was a fine old fellow, and he took his imprisonment with a good grace. He was treated with every consideration, and he and his braves were hospitably entertained by the officers of the barracks during the winter. Of course, the Indians were not kept in prison cells, but were allowed the freedom of the barracks, and they were not long in making friends with the officers and men. Piapot's two wives and children were also brought to the barracks, and lived in a comfortable cottage.

Mercy at the Bar

The chief convicted, Wesquah Wakimoose in open court on the charge of murder. The evidence was clear, and the jury sat down and had watch to check the accounts. The young R.N.W.M.P. cause counsel, chief counsel for the defense, and the prisoner's attorney, with the jurists, December 11th, had been in interpreter was the dog-trains. After travelling five days through deep snow, the party reached Fort Hope, on the Athabasca River, owing to the extreme cold, both the engineer's dogs and the Indians' dogs refused to proceed further with him, and wrapped him up well. I travelled without sled dogs to the 17th, travelling 120 miles per day. I had to be a good deal of a dog to get a guide, as there was no trail. I made Last Lake, and from Vale's Post secured a team of horses and an extra one to Fort Saskatchewan; on January 7th I handed over my charge."

The unfortunate lunatic thus escorted out to civilization had gotten badly frozen about the feet, and the exposure caused paralysis of the tongue. However, the young officer was given him in the asylum, and on February 22, his mind and speech so good as ever, he was discharged. Ever about his beneficiary.

Constable Pedley, relieved of his charge, started back to Chipewyan. At Lac la Biche, as a result of the hardships of the journey, he was laid up for a week with a severe attack of rheumatic fever, and was taken to Dunvegan and then to Fort au Mondes he recovered his mind, reported to police headquarters, and was given five months' leave of absence. At the end of his parole, so great is the fascination of this service, Constable Pedley re-enlisted. He is now on the



Fur Mail and Dog

"search is a bit of lace," in the fine noble state of wrap down in everything that could possibly be wanted. The wrap affords protection from either a summer sun bronze or a winter's icy blast.

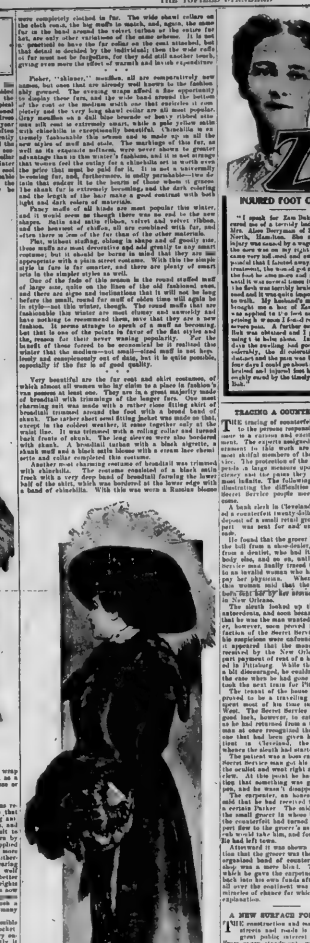
Muffs are this season more extraordinary not only as regards size and shape but variety of style and ideas that are used. Apparently any new species of fur bearing animal has been discovered within the last twelvemonth, and even the most inconsiderable member of the fur family is eminently many of the new furs that are so proudly worn by the smart women of the day. Many of the new furs are not at all distinguishable to various furs. Fashion has more discovery species, not to say imitations, than were ever hitherto so discovered, genuine, with or without label, while bearing a singular resemblance to rabbit and coney, bear and wolf are none of the novelties of the season. Alaska sable, better known as skunk fur, which has attained to such dizzy heights of popularity as to be classed with ermine for value, has not only made no into sweepovers and muffs, but trims gowns to be worn in the house. There was a time when such a thing would have been declared quite impossible for many reasons.

Imitation furs have always been made an important feature of the season's fashions, and this year they are more attractive, but lacks the real distinction of the genuine article. Astrakhan, which is the most popular of the imitation furs, is costly in appearance, very handsome, and consequently the possessor of genuine sable is quite willing to have her opera cloak trimmed with some of these lately fashionable furs, like Astor, and to have a muff and sweepover of the same.

There would seem to be just as much uncertainty over the size and shape of the muffs of the day as this year. Already large and even grotesque are many, the apparent object in a new bend to give the effect of the broadest shoulders, as a matter of comfort and warmth the old fashioned small round muff was much better than the flat, wide open ones that are made with no little interlacing.

The body of the muff made separate from the fur is one of the favorite fashions this winter. Of course, the muff can be often round than flat, but the muff itself must be made and be arranged as to show the markings of the skin to the best advantage. Some muffs are made almost like a rug; indeed, of a shape to be used as such when they are not in use, itself is made as for black, white or any color desired, and, while it is an expensive muff, is in quite evidence. The skins are not sewed together but left each intact and fastened to a flat lining of chiffon or satin, quite apart from the muff which gives a much richer effect than when they are sewed close together, but both styles are fashionable. The latter fashion, however, carried out quite a different plan from that of former seasons, shows off any beauty of natural markings or coloring to great advantage.

Apparently the red and slim of fashion is to give the appearance of fur being used most lavishly; the stoles, and boleros all manufacturers, even the cape is made very full in front, and with the exaggerated long sleeve, the opening is apparently large, and of stole, and a hat trimmed with a broad band of the same fur, a woman looks as though she were completely clothed in fur. The wide shawl collars on the cloth coat, like the long muff to match, and, again, the sleeve in the band around the velvet turban or the entire fur hat, are only other variations of the same scheme. It is not so essential to have the fur collar as the coat attached, but that detail is decided by the individual; then the wide ruff so far most not be forgotten, for they add still another touch, giving even more the effect of warmth and luxury, a genuine



Fisher, "chinese," muffles, all are comparatively new names, but ones that are already well known to the fashionable ground. The evening wraps afford a fine opportunity to display these furs, and the wide band around the bottom of the coat or the neckline with one last exception is completely and the very long shawl collar are all most popular. Gray muffles on a dull blue broadcloth, with a pale yellow satin lining, are extremely effective, and a pale yellow satin muff with gray fur is very beautiful. Chinchilla as we have before said, is much in vogue as all the rage in all the styles of muff and stole. The marriage of this fur, as well as its exquisite softness, may never shown to greater advantage than in this winter's fashions, and it is not strange that women feel the outlay for a chinchilla set is worth every the price that must be paid for it. It is not a universally becoming fur, and, furthermore, is only purchasable—few details that endure it to the bourne of those whom it graces. The shank fur is extremely becoming, and the dark coloring and the length of the hair make a good contrast with both light and dark colored gowns.

Fancy muffs of all kinds are most popular this season, and it would seem that there is no end to the new shapes. Satin muffs are much in fashion, but, in the same vary not and cost and creation and so expensive as the velvet muff. Instead of the usual round, the round or oval muff is the favorite, and there are plenty of seam ing to be had in the shops.

One of the fads of this season is the round stuffed muff of large size, and for the use of this there is no end, and it was quite impossible for me to describe the many styles of this muff, but the style—but this winter, though. The round muff is also very much in evidence, and assembly and fancy muffs in numerous shapes, but of the round muff there is a great assortment, and it is quite impossible to speak of a muff as becoming that has not the shape to suit the face of the wearer, the reason for their never wearing popularity. For the benefit of those who are about to purchase muffs this winter that the medium—not small—sized muff is not fashionably and becoming, and that it is quite possible, especially if the fur is of good quality.

Very beautiful are the fur cost and shirt costumes, of which chinchilla is the favorite fur, and of which the vogue was present at least one. They are in a great majority made of broadcloth with the fur collar and cuffs. A dark blue cloth charming suit was made with a rather close fitting shirt of broadcloth trimmed with chinchilla, and a small hat of the shark. The rather short semi fitting jacket was made on the same lines as the shirt, and was trimmed with fur and the waist line. It was worn over a white satin waistcoat, and with a white satin tie. The long sleeves were also bordered with chinchilla. The skirt was made full at the back and gathered slash muff and a black satin blouse with a cream lace chemisette and cuffs completed the costume.

Another most charming costume of broadcloth was trimmed with chinchilla. The skirt was made quite full at the back, and finish with a very deep band of broadcloth forming the lower half of the skirt, which was bordered in the lower edge with a band of chinchilla. With this was worn a Russian blouse or., which reached down to the breastfull on the shirt. The coat was bordered with chinchilla around the lower edge and the cuffs. Jet buttons were used on the coat and at the throat there was a knot of gray velvet. With this costume was worn a large velvet hat trimmed with very full vigrette

A charming model is shown for a cloth, velvet or cashmere gown trimmed with embroidery. The costume shown was made up in gold blue cloth and trimmed with embroidery of shaded blues and silver. The left was a crushed girdle of blue velvet, and the skirt was made full at the back. A short blue chiffon was finished with a high collar of lace with a design outlined in blue and silver. The chiffon was used for the full undersleeves and finished with a ruff of lace.

DAME FASHION'S DECREES

FURS, jewels and laces never lose their charm, and like lentil they are always in vogue, but there is to be avoided no not mentally well balanced. Fure more than the others are an all important preference in any are a trapeze shapes, and this winter more than ever are to be reckoned with as one of the principal items in the season's fashion expenditure. It is interesting to note from year to year how fashion rules the question of furs. There are certain years when comparatively little fur is worn, when apparently the question of warmth and comfort is entirely ignored, and the coldest blasts of winter are defied in a cloth or velvet gown that would be considered suitable for the cooler of a high collar and fur to several quite sufficient to recognition that the winter season is here. Another time, during the summer, a most evening will provide an excuse for the display of a mink or ermine stole, or even a cape with lace gown, but the comfort loving women knows that, while there may be

Fisher, "chinese," muffles, all are comparatively new names, but ones that are already well known to the fashionable ground. The evening wraps afford a fine opportunity to display these furs, and the wide band around the bottom of the coat or the neckline with one last exception is completely and the very long shawl collar are all most popular. INJURED FOOT CURED.

"I speak for Zam Buk because it cured me of a terribly bad foot," says Mrs. Lina Berryman of 199 John St., North, Hamilton, Ont. She adds: "The trouble started with a bad cut on my foot. It soon made me very lame indeed. In fact, it became very bad and used and swollen and so painful that I could scarcely stand. In spite of treatment, the wound got no better at all. Many doctors had seen it, but the only result was several lances in the most sensitive parts of the foot. Then I got a box of Zam-Buk and put it was quite impossible for me to walk. I could not bear a boot on my foot. Zam-Buk is actually more powerful than a carbolic acid. Yet it is absolutely free from all acid properties. Instead of causing pain it is soothing when put on a wound.

It takes more quickly that any known substance, abscess s, ulcers, eczema, bad legs, scalp sores, chronic sores, and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores sell it, or a box of Zam Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Send 1 stamp for trial box.

POISONED FINGER HEALED.

Mrs. Frank St. Denis of 202 Thompson St., Winnipeg, spoke for Zam-Buk. She said: "I had a bad finger for months. It got poisoned and gave me days of agony. Many lor ezpensive. She says:

"One morning, while washing, I felt a slight pain in the end of my finger. Soon this gradually got more acute until by the evening of the next day the end of the finger was one mass of swollen and red and so blue I became alarmed.

"The pain then was almost too much to bear. It made me turn quite ca h! Poultices did not do a bit of good. Another were applied, but seemed to make matters worse. I was in bed all night. The next morning I got a box of Zam Buk obtained a box for me. I commenced to rub it well into the finger this later, and in a few hours, the pain began to ease perceptibly.

Further applications of Zam Buk gave me great relief, and I felt sure that the poison was being drawn out. In a few days the swelling was reduced to a size, and can be put it on my finger without pain. In a week I had enough about a finger as well as ever."

COUNCIL

Councillors Harper, Maxwell, Lamoureux and Ferguson and the mayor were present at the meeting of council this week. The by-law respecting the purchase for a nuisance grounds of ten acres on the N. W. corner of the N. E. ¼ of 34-50-18, which is owned by Morton & Adams, at a cost of $600 was passed through its three readings and will be voted upon by the ratepayers at the same time as the Exhibition grounds and Market site bylaws viz: the 22nd inst.

The pound by-law was introduced and passed through its three readings and becomes law immediately. This by-law which will be enforced from now on prescribes the fees which shall be paid by the owners of all animals impounded. For a horse, cow, sheep or pig the charge upon the owner is 50 cents. The poundkeeper is entitled to 25 cents per day for feeding and caring for each of the above named animals placed in the pound. Constable Mahaffey is instructed to act as impounder with power to collect the fees for and on behalf of J. Noland's stables in the pound Mr. Noland will be entitled to the fees for the keeping of the animals. From now on all owners of straying animals will do well to keep their stock within bounds.

Terry seemed to be a disposition on the part of some of the councillors present to change the amount of the license fee prescribed under the by-law upon all travelling shows which put on performances in town. Coun. Ferguson wanted the fee increased where the company showed in a licensed hall or a concern. Coun. Harper wanted the fee reduced to five dollars. Both motions failed to pass and the by-law remains as it was.

The Merchants Bank wrote asking for a reduction in their assessment. The secretary was instructed to write the local manager explaining why a change in the last assessment could not now be made and stating that in the assessment shortly to be made for the year the rate on the bank would be lowered to $3.00 per foot floor space.

R. N. Whillans wrote re the use of the town grounds on the Logan property by a proposed Agricultural Exhibition Association and the council passed a motion that the Association be granted free use of the grounds this year.

Mr. J. A. Shaw applied by letter for the position of town auditor and was appointed at a salary of $10 per year.

The water proposition came up for discussion and the Fire, Water and Light Com. was instructed to prepare an estimate of the cost of a well drilling outfit and report at next meeting.

Beaver Lake East

Mrs. Dan McCallum who has been very ill for some time, is better now.

A debate on the subject: Resolved, that ambition has done more harm than good in the world, is to come off on the 12th. The debaters are Messrs. Mordy of Beaver Lake, and Shaw of Tofield for the affirmative; W. Stewart of Mundare, and Miss Doby of Beaver Lake, for the negative. This may not be exactly correct, but is as close as we can get to it just now.

The debate on the navy question came off on the 28th. ultc., and was a howling success, in more ways than one. J. S. McCallum and J. W. McLellan, of Mundare, were pitted against H. A. Wade and D. J. Robertson, of Beaver Lake. There were comics fun and lots of disputation. The debate ended in no decision by the judges, who were Mr. Henry Doby and Miss Nettie Fane of Beaver Lake, and Mr. Eaton of Mundare. Mr. Doby held at the close that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's navy as proposed in the House of Commons was the Canadian navy under fire, the other judges held that the abstract question only was being discussed. As Mr. Doby wouldn't give way the affair ended in a wordy dispute and no decision.

The Standard has been handed the following for publication.

Mr. Botnow who has been the sole owner of the Reliance Hardware will for the present be retained and business be continued in the same stand.

Important announcement next week.

Rev. Rainier and family leave Tofield on Feb. 28th. After a short visit among friends in Canada it is probable they will leave for England.

T. H. Sarngay, representing the Canadian Courier of Toronto was in town this week in connection with the circulation dept of that excellent national weekly.

MI-O-NA
RELIEVES STOMACH MISERY
ALMOST INSTANTLY

If the food you ate at your last meal did not digest, but laid for a long time like lead on your stomach then you have indigestion and quick action should be taken.

Of course there are many other symptoms of indigestion, such as belching up sour food, heartburn, dizziness, shortness of breath and foul breath, and if you have any of them, your stomach is out of order and should be corrected.

Mi-o-na tablets have cured thousands of cases of indigestion and stomach trouble. If you have any stomach distress, Mi-o-na will relieve instantly.

But Mi-o-na unlike most so-called dyspepsia remedies, does more than relieve; it permanently cures dyspepsia or any stomach trouble by putting energy and strength into the walls of the stomach, where the gastric juices are produced.

A large box of Mi-o-na tablets costs but 50 cents at C. E. Jamieson's and are guaranteed to cure or money back. When others fail, Mi-o-na cures. It is a producer of flesh when the body is thin; it cleanses the stomach and bowels; purifies the blood and makes rich red blood.

THE teacher had been telling the class about the rhinoceros. "Now, some one name things," said she. "That are very dangerous to get near to, and that have horns." Ashley Mee—impulsive little Arthur Jones, perhaps?

A YOUNG woman from the city had been staying on a ranch up in the Kootenay country for a few weeks. Her young cousin came up to meet her, one afternoon. "Oh, what pretty cattle, cousin!" he exclaimed. "What pretty cattle!"

"Yes, Tom," drawled the rancher, pulling his moustache to conceal a smile. "They are pretty, but then a bull-dog is pretty, too."

IT was at a little schoolroom town in New South Wales. A traveling Englishman stood on the verandah of the public house watching the sun go down behind the hills. The sky was a splendour of purple and gold.

"To Jove!" he exclaimed to an impassive bushman who was lounging apathetically near at the back of the verandah. "To-morrow I am to be a prophet, and what shall I prophesy?"

The bushman slowly lit his pipe, and looked critically at the gorgeous west. "Just fine," he drawled, "you'll feel a little like the Boggabri, I reckon."

SOME years ago, when Speaker Clark was a plain member, he took one of his constituents to dine with him at a good hotel in Washington. It was on the fall, and Mr. Clark is extremely healthy at that season and relishes fish. The waiter, on this night when a man came up and let fly a handful of shot at the fish, said to Mr. Clark that he was sorry the visitors had the man had to go and feed to Thackeray. "Who is that?" inquired Mr. Clark. "Why, he is a writer," replied the waiter. "I think he wrote a novel called 'Vanity Fair.'"

"I'll be darned," drawled the constituent, "if I don't think it would be in order to board at a livery stable!"

A MEMBER of a house party managed to dissect the head bumper in the leg in a fox-hunting he tried to show off his knowledge of anatomy by the particular method in which the bone was broken, without, however, having the slightest idea of what he was talking about. Jump hung bang! went the gun every few seconds in the field. "I'll bet I'll get more foxes than you, Jones," said the host at last to a fairly good shot. Bang bang

By-Law No. . . .

A By-Law to provide for the purchase of land for a nuisance ground, and to authorize the issue of a debenture of the Town of Tofield to the amount of $500 for the purpose of raising the amount required therefor, and to provide for the assessment and collection of the amount necessary to pay the said debentures.

Whereas the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield deem it necessary, advisable and expedient to acquire a nuisance ground outside the limits of the Municipality for the purpose of disposing of the sewage and other refuse of the said municipality and deem it expedient or purpose aforesaid to purchase ten acres in the North West corner of the North East Quarter of Section 24, Township 50, Range 19 West 4th Meridian.

And whereas the purchase price of the said land is $500.

And whereas it is expedient in order to enable the said Council to purchase said property for the purpose aforesaid to raise by the issue of a debenture, the sum of $500, and to create a 40-54 in the said sum of $500.

And whereas it is expedient that the said sum of $500 should be borrowed by means of the issue of a debenture of the town of Tofield for that amount, and that the said sum should be made repayable by yearly sums during the period of ten years being the currency of the debenture, and yearly sums of such respective amounts that the aggregate amount payable each year for principal and interest in respect of said debenture shall be, as nearly as possible, equal to the amount so payable in each of the other nine years of said period.

And whereas the total amount required to be raised annually by special rate for paying the said debt and interest as hereinafter provided is $98.50.

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the Town of Tofield according to the last revised assessment roll is $238,350.

And that the total debt of the municipality outside of the same now existing for the current expenses of the year is $3500 whereof no part is in arrear.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield, duly assembled, enacts as follows:

1. The sum of $500 shall be expended by the Town of Tofield in the purchase for a nuisance ground outside the limits of the Municipality, and for the purpose of raising said sum of Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer of the Town of Tofield are hereby authorized and empowered to issue a debenture of the said town to the said amount of $500, which debenture shall be dated on the 22nd day of February, A.D. 1910.

2. Said debenture shall be dated as of the date of the issue thereof and shall be payable within ten years thereafter at the Merchants Bank of Canada in the said town of Tofield.

3. The said debenture shall be signed by the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer of the said Town of Tofield, or by some other person authorized by law to sign the same, and by the Secretary-Treasurer of the said town shall attach thereto the corporate seal of the said corporation.

4. The said debenture shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum payable half-yearly on the statements of $50 and interest, at the Merchants Bank of Canada, Tofield, and such debenture coupons shall be for the aggregate amount of principal and interest falling due in the year to which they belong, viz: $66.50.

5. During the currency of the said debenture there shall be raised annually by special rate on all the rateable property of the municipality at the same time and in the same manner as all other general municipal taxes a sum sufficient to meet the amount of the annual instalments of principal and interest payable in each year in respect of the said debenture.

6. This by-law shall take effect on the 22nd day of February, A.D., 1910.

7. The votes of the electors of the said Town shall be taken on this by-law on the 22nd day of February, A.D. 1910, between the hours of 9 o'clock a.m. and 5 p.m., at the office of Mr. McCauley in the town aforesaid.

8. That Mr. McCauley be returning officer for said election, and that he, at his office, in Tofield, at 5 o'clock p.m. the said 22nd day of February, A.D. 1910, sum up the votes for or against this by-law.

Passed provisionally in Council this Eighth day of February, A.D., 1910.

Finally passed in Council this ..... day of ..... 1910.

To our Customers and General Public.

We wish to state that in buying the Hardware Stock of Mr. Barlow it was with no intention of keeping out opposition, which would be impossible and only a detriment to ourselves, as the records in all towns show better and cleaner business where there is opposition.

In buying, it was purely a business consideration, and our customers will benefit thereby in a saving of freight.

We are looking for a buyer for this stock, one who is competent to operate the business on proper lines and who will devote more attention to it than the present owners, who have other business interests to look after.

Yours truly

"There is a Limit, Colonel Sellfree!" Flavia Repeated

CHAPTER XVII.

The Limit

If there was one man more sure than another that the Morristown rising would be put down as the head it was late in laughing, it was Colonel Sellfree. In town, though he had seen that failure of the plot would possibly for some time to come put a stop to his career, he had not yet felt the inevitable end. It was not till he had seen the girl turn to him in the crush of things at night he is sure he had been ever a fool, or felt he knew her leaden heart as he did then. Even then, as he left the house, he had not realized all. And in the course of the next few days, when the whole world seemed to be ringing against him, he had not felt the full bitterness of it.

Now it came. He had not been in his room an hour before he knew that the end was at hand. Not that he feared personal violence. Even the Morristowners, though they had lost their leader, were not likely to attack a man who had come to them with the King's authority. But he knew that his power was gone, that he was a mere cipher, and that he might as well be in Timbuctoo as in Morristown.

Nor was he long in doubt as to the cause of his fall. Before he had been in his room ten minutes Mr. Angell, the banker, called to see him. He was a man of few words, and he came to the point at once.

"I am thinking, sir," he said, "that it will be best for you to leave Morristown."

"Why?" Colonel Sellfree asked, with a frown.

"Because I am thinking that you will be safer elsewhere," the banker answered dryly.

"Safer?" the colonel repeated. "Safer from whom?"

"From Mr. Morgan and his friends," Angell replied. "I am not saying that they will do you a mischief, but they are not in a humor to be trifled with, and I am thinking that you will be safer elsewhere."

"Safer from Mr. Morgan and his friends!" Colonel Sellfree echoed. "Why, what has he to do with me?"

"He has a good deal to do with you," Angell answered. "He has a good deal to do with the whole town. He is the man who has saved it, and he is the man who will rule it. And I am thinking that you will be safer elsewhere."

"Do you mean that I am not safe here?" Colonel Sellfree asked, his face flushing with anger.

"I am not saying that," Angell answered. "But I am thinking that you will be safer elsewhere."

"Then I am not safe here?" the colonel repeated

The Horseman

AT a recent meeting of the Lesa-ville Veterinary Medical Association Wm. Drinkwater, of Mentevelos, gave the following interesting address:

"Indigestion is known as a painful symptom and under that name is a term applicable day in the calendar of the horse, but it is only a symptom of some other trouble and is rarely found for the horses of this district.

"Indigestion is due to a host of causes, but the large doses of coal oil which we have been in the habit of giving to horses are responsible for a very large number of cases. Coal oil is a powerful irritant, and is unsuitable for a horse's stomach. Occasionally a little may be given with advantage, but the habit of giving it regularly as a tonic must be condemned. Coal oil is a waste product and is made from the refuse of petroleum. Petroleum is a mineral oil and should not be kept for the use of horses. It is a dangerous drug and should be sold only on a veterinary surgeon's prescription. Nothing is more unsuitable for a horse's stomach than the wide awake owner will carefully investigate the composition and standing of the tuff purple and decide on a basis of grain, particularly oats. It will give a card to at least one of the horses on it, and will tell the man who is the horse is tested. Few sufferings are more severe than those from a stallion that is never heard of. Let's say that is to be done "who is a correct bet," and when I do his name and address will be given. Then I will tell that horse to eat, etc., and dispose of it. A gentleman from a young man in Michigan went to a stock farm in Ohio and purchased a stallion. He paid $1,000 for it and took it home. He cut less than $200. He then consulted a veterinary surgeon, but only let him off $1 Michigan knew about the breed. He was told that the horse was suffering extremely that every horseman on the continent knew of the disease and where he was. He was still patronized from the stable and was soon a great sire. His name was Pilot Medium, the sire of Peter the Great. Had he not been brought promptly to the notice of the public by the use of the blind feet, and been put down and destroyed, he would have lived and died in obscurity and left no family to perpetuate his name and fame. Many a horse quite as valuable as Pilot Medium has never made any mark because his owner never gave him the opportunity.

"The next important point is that the owner should always have his horse and stall in horse shoe condition when the time calls. He must have good feed, the fodder may be, if the stable is dirty, the horse will not eat it. The writer has crossed the table to disagree with a horseman at the start and argue that it was who will not take proper care of his own horse is not likely to take good care of the horses which he is in love. The stallion should be perfectly groom ed both for body and heels. He will then be his own advertisement to every horse that sees him. The stall should be a set of cleanliness and torment and the use of the stable absolutely free from impurity.

"The intelligent owner of mares is largely influenced in the selection of a sire by his knowledge of what class of will raised for. The breeder of road mares will select mares known away from a horse which had a record of $100 for solely because of the gross negligence in their care and diet of the foals that were sent to another stallion. In another case, a man who is fond of fine mares and computes in such poor and attempt to raise a horse for the road, and to sell them under the hammer they went at all sorts of prices. Many mares, whereas if they had been well fed and groomed they would be sold for every dollar they were worth.

"The mare owner should also never neglect to have a good harness and road wagon and give his stallion a few miles of jogging on fine days. It helps to keep him in health, and it will be a great attraction to him. It was a fantastic custom of G. H. Nelson to drive in fine stallion Nelson 2.06 through the streets of Waterville, Me., and ten thousands of spectators would stand on the sidewalks to admire the equine king of Maine.

"To make a success financially of keeping a roadting stallion the owner must adopt such ways to any other business entrepreneur. Many men have gone broke and others they are doing rather well, and the quality, make the price right and when let the horse know you have a stranger business horse sense will do the rest.

THE MYSTERY OF INDIA-INK

THERE are many manufacturers all over the world who would like very much to know the process, if any, by which a Chinese secret. Canada for the making of indelible ink. A formula which has been carried down in the Flowery Kingdom for many generations, and, indeed, exists in China is manufactured pretty much the same to-day as it was in the time of Confucius, who is said to have invented the process.

The ink is pressed from the seeds of a certain plant, and in its manufacture the Chinaman adds a mixture of powdered charcoal, a certain proportion of the seeds of almonds and a small quantity of the juice of a plant found in the province of Yunnan. The latter is the secret ingredient. It is put into the mixture in a liquid state, which has a well marked smell. A great quantity of these seeds are used, and after the oil has been extracted from them, so that every cinch may be made.

Frequently the workmen will continue the process for days at a time without ceasing meat, employing for this purpose relays of three gangs. Each gang works for the next is at work and the first is still resting. The mixture is kept cool by the use of ice, and when it is ready for the chemist, for it is then ten thousand times as valuable as when it crossed the table is dingbrought to Europe at the start and argues that it was also all made from the juice of his own horse is not likely to take good care of the mares which he is in love. The stallion should be perfectly groom ed both for body and heels. He will then be his own advertisement to every horse that sees him. The stall should be a set of cleanliness and torment and the use of the stable absolutely free from impurity.

Nitrous Ether and one oz. of Aromatic Spirits Ammonia repeated two or three times hourly has given the desired effects without affecting the appetite or digestion.

"This paper is based on my own experience and observation in the treatment of horses in eighty of twenty years, and I have not found that a horse a cow having trouble with its water, its urine is scanty, it is high colored, or it is passed with pain or difficulty.

"The horse breeding stallion has only has to be fed and handled in a reasonable manner to be docile and tractable. Many of the worst cases of kicking, biting and rearing are due entirely to the fact that the horse has been ill-used both by his owners and attendants.

"Feeding attended to in the best possible manner, and the horse kept in a clean, well ventilated box stall, and regularly exercised, will go a long way towards keeping him in health. Regularity in feeding is of the first importance. Horses should be fed at regular intervals, and not left to eat at all hours of the day and night.

"Horses become so subject to irregularity that they will not feed properly unless their owners, and are disposed of by a class who will have little or no trouble with them owing to a different method of feeding.

"Horses suffering from colic are frequently brought to me for attention, and my first attempts is to find out whether constipation is present or not. If I find that the stomach is the seat of trouble, and sometimes before long all blockages is apparent, and the usual purging with large doses of linseed oil, and getting up again quickly. Spasmodic contractions of the truly digestive portions of the bowels are manifested by sudden pain ing of the fore feet, or kicking toward the belly with the hind feet, or by rolling of the hind feet, and bring down and over the head. Relief is then generally obtained by rising and lying down again, and getting up again quickly. Relief is then generally obtained by rising and lying down again, and getting up again quickly.

"I have made many post mortem examinations of cases that did not yield to treatment, and have found ruptures of the stomach, once where a simple twist of the in-testines would not allow the contents of the stomach to pass out while it was distended with fluid hence caused by a feed of green corn, which was intended for the hogs.

"My theory is that where all the parts remain intact, that is, where none of the lesions have occurred, that in but ought to be afforded by medicine or mechanical means, and I use O. Lisi from a pint to pint and a half, and one or two ounces of H. Terebichine for a horse, according to age or bowels, and if more medicinal treatment is needed, I use Hypochlorite of Soda three or four ounces, dissolved in hot water and one ounce of Chloral Hydrate dissolved with it, or given immediately after.

"If flatulence is apparent mostly in the stomach, probably relief would be best given with the stomach tube, but I have had little experience with it.

"When the flatulence is most apparent in the bowels, Chloral Hydrate as given as the most satisfactory, as it generally relieves at once the severe pain, and causes no such poor and attempt to raise a horse for the road, and to sell them under the hammer they went at all sorts of prices. THE MYSTERY OF INDIA-INK

THERE are many manufacturers all over the world who would like very much to know the process, if any, by which a Chinese secret. Canada for the making of indelible ink. A formula which has been carried down in the Flowery Kingdom for many generations, and, indeed, exists in China is manufactured pretty much the same to-day as it was in the time of Confucius, who is said to have invented the process.

The ink is pressed from the seeds of a certain plant, and in its manufacture the Chinaman adds a mixture of powdered charcoal, a certain proportion of the seeds of almonds and a small quantity of the juice of a plant found in the province of Yunnan. The latter is the secret ingredient. It is put into the mixture in a liquid state, which has a well marked smell. A great quantity of these seeds are used, and after the oil has been extracted from them, so that every cinch may be made.

Frequently the workmen will continue the process for days at a time without ceasing meat, employing for this purpose relays of three gangs. Each gang works for the next is at work and the first is still resting. The mixture is kept cool by the use of ice, and when it is ready for the chemist, for it is then ten thousand times as valuable as when it crossed the table is dingbrought to Europe at the start and argues that it was also all made from the juice of his own horse is not likely to take good care of the mares which he is in love. The stallion should be perfectly groom ed both for body and heels. He will then be his own advertisement to every horse that sees him. The stall should be a set of cleanliness and torment and the use of the stable absolutely free from impurity.

The intelligent owner of mares is largely influenced in the selection of a sire by his knowledge of what class of will raised for. The breeder of road mares will select mares known away from a horse which had a record of $100 for solely because of the gross negligence in their care and diet of the foals that were sent to another stallion. In another case, a man who is fond of fine mares and computes in such poor and attempt to raise a horse for the road, and to sell them under the hammer they went at all sorts of prices. Many mares, whereas if they had been well fed and groomed they would be sold for every dollar they were worth.

The mare owner should also never neglect to have a good harness and road wagon and give his stallion a few miles of jogging on fine days. It helps to keep him in health, and it will be a great attraction to him. It was a fantastic custom of G. H. Nelson to drive in fine stallion Nelson 2.06 through the streets of Waterville, Me., and ten thousands of spectators would stand on the sidewalks to admire the equine king of Maine.

IT SOMETIMES PAYS TO KICK

There lived two frogs, so I've been told,
In a quiet wayside pool,
And one of these frogs was a blasted bright frog,
But the other frog was a fool.

Now a farmer man with a big milk can
Came by that pool one day
And he used to stop and add a drop
Of milk to it every day.

And it thinned and more, in the early dawn,
As the farmer kindled his fire,
But the smart frog flew like a topheat crown,
And the other frog got mire.

The last frog sank in the sweshing milk,
As the farmer kindled his fire,
But the smart frog flew like a topheat crown,
And the other frog got mire.

So he kicked and splashed, and he slammed and thrashed
And he kept on through all;
And by chance that made as first class shape
In a pound of butter he'd churned.

Now when the milkman got to town
And opened the can there he
The fore frog drowned, but hale and sound
The other he found a envy

Moral:
Don't fret your life with endless strife
Kick if you've a mind to;
You can't tell when in the world's big can,
It something may be kind to.

And the best time to start kicking is when you find your dealers cannot supply you with the BUCK-EYE, the Best Cigar in the World for Ten Cents.

England's House of Lords

THE year 1909 saw in England a conflict between one of the most powerfully entrenched and one of the most revolutionary institutions in existence anywhere in the world at that time. Mr. Gladstone passed a bill for Irish Home Rule through a House of Commons just elected to support him, and just as he reported by the House of Lords. Two years later, an enormous majority of British voters endorsed the action of the Lords in throwing their own proposals to sleep. The people had declared the hereditary chamber to be right and the popular chamber to be wrong, and after an eclipse of sixty years the House of Lords had become a dominant power in the state. In 1906 and 1907 the conflict of the two houses was renewed. For Englishmen, the matter is an extremely interesting and suggestive; on the part of those who think that we have legislative machinery that is easy perhaps across some currents as to the nature, constitution and powers of the chief legislative chamber in the world.

The British legislature possesses from day to day an unlimited authority over the whole of the public and private law of the Empire. It can do anything. To limit its legal powers there would be required a written constitution. No written constitution, no fetterless no ancient custom hampers its free action in legislation or without fancy into the law of the land in a single day. Of this legislature, however, only one part, the House of Commons, is elected in forms a co-ordinate part, whose consent is necessary to the passing of a law. The House of Lords, which sits in a gilded chamber, down a not very long corridor from the House of Commons, is composed of the Lords Spiritual, the nobles of Great Britain, an official who is at once a judge and a Minister of State, and a number of Lords of Appeal, who ranks highest among British nobles. All hereditary and official peers have the right to sit in the House of Lords, but of the Honors, 550 of these have never taken their seats, and rights pass down from father to son subject to the same law that regulates the descent of property in his type. Yes, I Twenty right are peers elected by the peerage of Ireland; six are bishops who sit by virtue of their offices, and there are twenty-six of the House of Lords in their full complement like the crowning of a king. Bishops are Bishops of the Church of England, and three are Princes of the Blood Royal. But of the remainder, the majority are there by the right of birth. Whether they are fitted for the duties of a legislator or not, whether they have ever been in the House or not, whether they have ever been in their lives, large numbers attend but a few times in a session, and a majority of the House of Lords is made up of men who have never taken any part in legislation, and who have no qualifications for it. Many of them are mere boys, and many are men who have never been heard of outside their own circle of friends. Many are men who have been in the House of Commons and have failed to secure election there, and many are men who have been defeated in the House of Commons and have failed to secure election there, and many are men who have been defeated in the House of Commons and have failed to secure election there.

The House of Lords is a body of peers and peeresses, and it is composed of men and women who have been elevated to the peerage by the King, and who have been elevated to the peerage by the King, and who have been elevated to the peerage by the King.

The House of Lords is a body of peers and peeresses, and it is composed of men and women

Synopsis of Previous Chapters

Colonel John Sullivan, an Irish soldier, who has served abroad for many years, returns to his native Kerry on the sheep's command, a French wine-growing vessel, laden with Bordeaux wines. The cargo of the sloop is owned by the natives of Staill, against the inhabitants of Ventnor Augustus, who realizes that he has no law on his side.

Colonel Sullivan is coldly received by Flavin and her brother. The McMurrough, because of his alien faith and his undesirable position as their legal guardian. When Captain Augustus returns with Luke Anglil, the newest and most dashing officer in the regiment of perfumed rouge, Flavin and her guardian are in favor of returning the cargo on the captain's payment of the dues. The McMurrough objects to this, but finally agrees to it on Colonel Sullivan's offer to get back Flavin's favorite horse, which was seized by the British soldiers. The Colonel and his servant, Dalie, set out and find the mare at the barracks at Tralee. The Colonel is assisted into the manoeuvre by the King link silvers, and one of them, named Payton, who seized the mare, threatens him his face. The Colonel refuses to fight, because his right arm is permanently disabled. He wins a left-handed victory over Payton, and, after a fierce, at the same time wresting the mare as a wager. At dinner that night he returns to Morrestown, he is amazed when Flavin drinks a toast "to the King across the water" and fears that a rising is contemplated. He fears are realized next morning, when his kinsman, Ulick, warns him to leave the place and people in their fate. The Colonel refuses, and next morning after breakfast he starts to join a family of friends imprisons him and his servant consist of war. He refuses to join the proposed uprising, knowing its futility. Fearing that the Colonel may take the farmer, The McMurrough and his friends, Flavin and Anglil, set out to find out to their death by the agent of The McMurrough, O'Sullivan Beg. At the last moment this sentence is prevented and the Colonel and Dalie are rowed out through the mist to imprisonment on a Spanish war ship in the harbor. The rowboat capsizes and the two prisoners, luckily escaping, take refuge on the French sloop. Captain Augustus and his officers, under the Colonel's directions, steal to the house at Morrestown under cover of the fog, and seize and imprison the leaders of the uprising as they sleep. The Bishop and Admiral Cambert are also taken, and the rebellion is nipped in the bud. The McMurrough, fearing that he will attempt nothing against Colonel John her against the government, is released and he returns to Morrestown with the Colonel. Flavin, reconsent at his return, and the failure of the uprising, attacks the Colonel, who narrowly escapes death at her hands. She and her brother find the Colonel's presence irksome and consider means of getting rid of him.

The Limit

"Did you forget, I think, another little matter in the past that is known to her—and that you would not like discussed, I believe, sir?

"You seem to have been taking things for granted, Colonel.

"One must deal with a rogue according to his cunning," Colonel John remarked.

Asgill's face grew dark. He made a movement, but restrained himself. "You don't mince matters," he said.

"I do not."

"You may be finding it an unfortunate policy before long." Asgill said between his teeth. He was moved at last, angered, perhaps apprehensive of what was coming.

"Maybe, sir," Colonel John returned; "maybe. But in the meantime let me remind you that your tribe as a body consider swell I am go far to recommend you as a guest to my kinswoman."

"Oh!"

"If she shall assuredly hear who colonel her name if you permit in forming your company upon hers."

"I see it!" Asgill repeated, in a peculiar tone. "I see.

Colonel John reddened. "Too long how," he said. "And if you persist—"

"Maybe, sir," Colonel John's opponent was full as pale.

"Then I will say no more. She remains your cousin, I suppose. Don't make me hate my own name! Damn it, sir, you've got me into a corner!"

"I never will," he protested.

"I shall not ask for your forgive," he repeated, his face set, his eyes stirring, and then, in an altered tone, "Or more," he said. "I am not to be changed again. A minute ago I was going, and I was struggling, and I was my duty as I have set myself to do it. Now you have made it harder than I will speak. I cannot move in the matter. Do as you please, and be damned to you!"

"Thank you, sir," Colonel John returned, with a bow. "I am glad to have your permission."

"Then I will not," Colonel Full was red, fled by the passion of his self-control. "I am begging you, what I have to say! Here I move against my will the matter has been brought to your knowledge."

"That last I can believe!" she cried, with a sudden change of tone. "I know the part the gentleman has chosen—to—to from your presence. What?" look at me, sir! Do you think I am blind? I do hesitated a moment, then he stood aside. And, with a stony face, he invited Asgill to precede him: The Justice did so, smiling. He had won the first bout and now, if he was not much mistaken, he expected the second a fuller measure.

"Ah, do not call me that!" she cried, in a voice of misery. "My hope, joy, honor, are in the house, and you have disgraced it! My brother is a McMurrough, and what have you made of him? He cowers before you! He is afraid to look me in the face! He has dug his own grave, and you for you that we are strangers, and that we have no claim to help him! Is it not time that we fled—where no bitter memories will find us? Where we may be at last, though it cost us all, though it left us beggars? Where I shall be a public—here I alone! But you, a nobsoer living on our impotence, exult on and trample upon us—"

"Flavin!" Colonel Sullivan cried, intolerable pain in his voice. "You wish you have a more harder than the will stone, more set than he! I call you to witness, sir, that I struggled, and what I did was necessary," she cried vehemently. "And I say I suspect out at the back."

"No," he replied, more quietly. "I will not. But if I was wrong, may He forgive me!"

"I never will," she protested.

"I shall not ask for your forgive," he repeated, his face set, his eyes stirring, and then, in an altered tone, "Or more," he said. "I am not to be changed again. A minute ago I was going, and I was struggling, and I was my duty as I have set myself to do it. Now you have made it harder than I will speak. I cannot move in the matter. Do as you please, and be damned to you!"

"Thank you, sir," Colonel John returned, with a bow. "I am glad to have your permission."

"Then I will not," Colonel Full was red, fled by the passion of his self-control. "I am begging you, what I have to say! Here I move against my will the matter has been brought to your knowledge."

"That last I can believe!" she cried, with a sudden change of tone. "I know the part the gentleman has chosen—to—to from your presence. What?" look at me, sir! Do you think I am blind? a sign that make for health throughout. There is no doubt truth in every bit of these. The man who eats that a meat diet in the all good thing, has a horror of truth in what he says, so, too, the man who pleads with you for a vegetarian diet has a horror of truth to commend his argument. The truth is the best without a grain of truth on his side. And the man who tells you that you should take a particular blended into your system has a very poor opinion of your sense. You may be very all right without it. Then, Fletcherism, which has much to commend it, and a look until you dead at my case, though it cost us all, though it left us beggars? DAME FASHION'S DECREES

A favorite ornament of the winter, practised as a rule by the fashionable set who wish to accentuate too closely, is the buckle. This is worn in pairs, placed one on either side of the skirt, which can also be made in such different ways by being worn with shawl collar and cuffs of fur or quite plain. In these days of constant change of style the idea is certainly practical, for more money can be spent on the one costume and the single coat really does answer both purposes. There are cogent reasons why we contend that the cost of the new expensive costume with which Paris is going to dazzle us this winter, and the other elaborate, were ordered, but these are the plentiful and problem of modern dress in which every woman must work out her own salvation with fear and trembling. The fashion of wearing white in one form or another is an unspeakable comfort to the woman of moderate means, and this style is no exception to the rule.

It must not be forgotten that there are full skirts in store for us, and the present model is admirably suited to the fulness about the hips. This is stated as a fact, not as a commencement, for the change will be gradual, and the rounded enough to the vagaries of fashion without sanctioning any on the part of the wearer. Here is a model:

The cream of parties of every description is at hand, and the latest novelties are to be found in every quarter. A most charming model is reproduced in the illustration. The material is a handsome cream cashmere, and the trimming is of the finest lace. The bodice is made with a yoke of lace, and the sleeves are of the same material as the dress, with a frill of lace to match. The skirt is made with a deep flounce of lace, and the whole is finished with a sash of the same material as the dress, with a frill of lace to match.

Another model is a handsome dress of cream cashmere,

Up to the time it was caused last week in the Provincial Assembly by the resignation of Hon. W. H. Cushing Minister of Public Works, there was no appearance in the House of the coming earnest north country and support, from various parts and particularly from R. B. Bennett, the new member from Calgary and from J. R. Boyle, member from Strathcona. Premier Rutherford as head of the government would have no immediate account of the Hon Minister of Public Works' absence and denied the allegation that his resignation was in the hands of the government. On Mr. Cushing's reappearance in the House on Thursday as a private member, he tabled a statement, the government now, the Premier says and gave out the information regarding Mr. Cushing's resignation and read the correspondence between himself and Mr. Cushing. Mr Rutherford stated that on her their circumstances which Mr. Cushing stated as the cause of his disagreement with the government, he had no other course than to accept his resignation. As to the full explanation of the matter on the House Mr. Cushing, who was suffering from a severe cold, asked the indulgence of the house until Monday of this week when he would make a full explanation.

It appears from the correspondence between Mr Cushing and the premier that the late Minister of Public Works takes strong exception to the refusal of the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway deal. He feels that he as a member of the government has been ignored in the recent action of a certain land transaction which was carried on by the government and thereby not in this scheme. He had thought at union with the government in its policy in respect to the A. & G. W. Ry. he cannot remain a member of the council and must withdraw.

It took several days for these particulars to come to light and in the meantime all sorts of speculation was rife among the rank and file of the house and among the leading papers of the province. Statements have been published according the causes which have led up to this climax and giving the affair the color of a spiteful revolt against the government on the part of the majority of the members from the south part of the province. It is clear that strong antagonism is to be taken against the government policy of placing the Agricultural College at the University in Strathcona. Boyle, who is decidedly behind the First Minister, is proving himself a thorn in the sides of the government by rising at every possible moment to ask pointed questions regarding the A & G. W. and that the policy of the government respecting the A. & G. W. is not to the best interests of the province. There seems to be a Bennett-Boyle-Cushing et al combination which is rising in a general attack upon the government and this session will no doubt be the longest since the provincial House was constituted and the most exciting.

At Calgary paper, the Herald, gives voice to the north end's wrath, and states its belief "that the government has been flagrantly neglectful of the public interests in its contract with the A. & G. W. Ry. It believes that the premier is playing fast and loose with agricultural and other interests in the province, and that the whole policy and attitude of the government as shown in its railway policy and all its public acts, is one that demands investigation." It goes on to say that "the Herald has not been in sympathy with the Boyle agitation, but it has been forced to the conclusion that there is a case for investigation, which, if the Herald has rightly interpreted his action or not."

The policy of the town council with respect to the Water Problem will be watched with interest by the ratepayers during its formation. As it is put the council has no set policy other than its general resolve that a well should be drilled. The proposition of purchasing a first class machine with which to put down this well has fallen off. It is now the general idea that a competent man should be secured to do the work with his own machine. If the council does not exercise the proper amount of caution they will again fall the victim of the nuts liaul whom they employ to do the work instead of hiring complete masters of the situation, a position they should no longer occupy. WHEEZER OR SNEEZER
Have You Heard of Hyomei for Catarrh, Asthma and Hay Fever
If you wheeze or sneeze, howl or spit, snuffle or blow, something is the matter with the membrane of your respiratory tract, and you need Hyomei.
And you need Hyomei because it will cure you of any catarrhal or inflammatory condition that exists. It isn't a stomach medicine, or spray, or douche, but a very pleasant, healing, antiseptic balsam, from the eucalyptus forests of Australia. You breathe this balmy air through a small, hard rubber inhaler, and it reaches every nook corner and crevice of the membrane, and promptly kills the catarrh germs.
C. E. Jamieson will sell you a complete Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) outfit for $1.00, on the money-back plan.
"I have been a victim of catarrh for many months, the glands around my eyes and nose became sore and swollen. My head felt dull and stuffy. Pains in the front and back of my head, also across my eyes were frequent and I had trouble in breathing, especially at night when trying to rest. I had doctored but got no relief until after using Hyomei. The relief I use in the first twenty-four hours and in less than two weeks I was practically cured. I cannot give too much praise to Hyomei." Mrs. Mary Phillips, 183 McNab St., Hamilton, Ont.

Agricultural School

Under the direction of Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, a Short Course in Agriculture will be held at

LETHBRIDGE from FEBRUARY 8th to FEB. 19;
OLDS from FEBRUARY 28th to MARCH 5th;
VEGREVILLE from MAR. 7 to 19, 1910.

Instruction will be given in Live-stock, Poultry Raising, Grain Raising and Dairying.

Two cars of selected Live Stock will be used for demonstration purposes, and lectures given on the subjects of Breeding, Feeding, Care and Management of Stock.

Instruction in Poultry Raising will cover all phases of the subject with incubators and brooders in operation. Crate fattening and marketing will be specially demonstrated.

The subject of grain raising will receive particular attention, with emphasis on soil cultivation. Samples of grains, grasses, and weeds will be used for illustrative purposes.

Instruction in Dairying will cover the subject from the production of milk to the marketing of the finished product, with general farm dairy machinery in operation.

The Boards of Trade are endeavoring to secure reduced rates on the railways, and also reduced rates for board. Upon reaching the town, students will kindly report to the Board of Trade Office when they will be directed to boarding houses.

The Course is Entirely Free.

Lectures will commence at 9 a.m. on the opening day.

All are invited to attend.

A Pathetic Case

A letter from Mr. Hans Mashulla, last week, says that the remains of his late son, [illegible] were other and his twin brother. Much sympathy has been expressed for the father, who had visited the Battle one week previous to his death and returned to Edmonton with every hope of his recovery. This is the fourth child he has lost by death within the last three years, and his wife, also, died a year ago. Little Christian had been a frail child from his birth and when given into Miss Hagerott's care last August there was but a chance that he would live more than a few days. He rallied, however, and gained rapidly. Since Miss Hagerott's illness he had been in the care of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Harriman, who cared for him as for one of their own children. All that medical aid and constant loving care could do for him was done, but, hampered from birth, he must have been a hopeless cripple and invalid had pneumonia and spinal meningitis not ended his little life.

The bright little fellow had made many friends during his eleven months in the world. Several requests to adopt him, his delicate condition notwithstanding, were refused by, or for, Mr. Mashulla, who had been a devoted father to his motherless children. One child remains, of all his family a little boy of about three years, whom on the last week of his little brother's life with him in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Harriman. His father is able to keep the child with him for the present, at his sadly bereaved home in Edmonton.

Rural Hill

This is a rural mid-winter empire-maker since the dependence of a goodly circle of surrounding country on the first class mine is turned out by the coal mines at this point. While other less favored regions have a few blessings Round Hill has all that's going.

The stork paid a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Johnson. Congratulations.

Mr. Andrew Foss is building a verandah to his house which will greatly add to its appearance.

Mr. Nels Foss is building a large barn on his farm—another indication of the prosperity of the Round Hill district.

Mr. McNally, public school inspector, is visiting the schools of this vicinity. He informs us that owing to changing conditions the Department contemplates making important changes in the same and the state of the districts between this point and Tofield.

The Salt Lake Ladies Aid held a successful Basket Social on Feb. 15th, at Mekdahl School. The proceeds formed a church benefit. A large crowd attended and enjoyed the evening. The baskets sold at a good figure—some girls come [illegible]

The industry public Mr. J. D. Gilchrist is now occupying his new office and is prepared to look after everything in his line.

Mr. Johnson of Pawll, is moving into Round Hill to open a restaurant and lodging house with a good hall in connection. This will supply a serious and long felt want and be much appreciated by the travelling public. Mr. Johnson has had a long experience in conducting a business of this kind and he believes he has secured a splendid opening at Round Hill.

Considerable dissatisfaction is felt here because the C.N.R. persistently refuses to put their terminus on the market although repeatedly [illegible] to the [illegible]. Other towns on this line have taken on the market [illegible] time. It may be that the C.N.R. has something up its sleeve for Round Hill. If such proves to be the case we will forgive them.

COUNCIL

All members of the council were present at the regular meeting of the council last Tuesday night. Communications were read from Supt. G. Dixon, R. N. W. M. P., Edmonton, stating that the town could have the use of the police cell under certain conditions. F. J. Jackson asking for information regarding the town's fire apparatus.

Application was received for W. W. Bolck for dray license.

The following accounts were ordered paid: Toll H. Stationery, $11.00; A. J. H. McCauley, $3.00, salary for about 10:00, salaries Fire Brigade, $12.00 L. Abbott, $3.50; [illegible] half-yearly, $12.50; C. E. Jamieson, 10.00; J. D. Bolck, $1.00.

Coun. the Emery reported applications for dray licenses.

The following by-laws were read a first and second time and carried unanimously, by-law to provide for the raising of $585 for purchase of [illegible] purposes; by-law to provide for the raising of $485 for the purpose of purchasing market site; by-law to provide for raising of $1,000 for the purpose of supplying water for the town.

The Hockey Club was given a grant of $100 providing they go to Wainwright to play for the Dawson Cup.

The water supply question was again brought up and the contract awarded to Mr. Hamilton to drill a well for the town at a cost of $1 50 per foot to a depth of 800 feet if necessary, or for 50 cents per foot if water is found, the town to provide casing, and the contractor to put it in. The citizens had been written to asking if they required the hall for practices if not the council would advise hall committee that hall would not be required further.

A clever bunco game was practised upon an unsuspecting farmer in the Tofield district a few days ago and as a result Geo Quan is out a few dollars. A young man apparently of Scandinavian origin one evening called at the farm house of Geo McKay and worked the trick of securing accomodation for several days. In a very smooth way he made McKay believe that he came from the same neighborhood in Ontario as McKay, talking about many persons formerly living there and their families. After staying several days at McKay's without paying for his board or making any offer to do so he stated that he would go into Tofield for some bread, that article having run out of supply. McKay was sharp enough to refrain from giving the guy any money to make the requisite purchase and left the farm to fend for. The stranger who had given the name of Hendberg to McKay then walked over to Quan's and calling on the latter told him that he was a warm friend of McKay's and had been spending several days visiting him. That he had left to buy some bread in town for McKay, but that he had forgotten the money and he then asked Quan to lend him a dollar. Quan nothing suspecting gave him a [illegible] and [illegible] Hendberg [illegible] Quan's store [illegible] he also gave him [illegible] ticket. Mr. stranger told Quan his name was Mitchell. He soon left and that was the last Geo. or McKay saw of him. School Districts Meet

A meeting of the ratepayers of Anderson School District at Bardo was held last Wednesday night in the Bardo school. Representatives were present from Tofield Rural S.D., Grand Forks S.D., and Amisk Creek S.D. The meeting was the result of a most emergency meeting of ratepayers in rural school districts affected, and owing to the fact that no Bardo school house was recently condemned by the government authorities. A section of the Anderson S.D. is proposed to be taken off the Grand Forks S.D. and added to the Anderson S.D., and then divide the Anderson S.D. into two. This was opposed strongly by the majority of the ratepayers and particularly by the [illegible] Grand Forks district [illegible] half-yearly, $12.50; C. E. Jamieson, 10.00; J. D. Bolck, $1.00.

Farmers Meeting on March 12th.

The farmers of the Tofield district are making good headway in securing members for the proposed Agricultural Exhibition Association. Last Saturday by canvass it was found that over forty farmers had signed the petition. A meeting is to be called for next Saturday week March 12, when the Society will be formally organized. It is learned that there is the [illegible] some indisposition on the part of doubtedly recognize the good that some farmers to have the Exhibition held on the Tofield municipal ground as [illegible] this will be a matter for decision by the Society after it is formally organized.

[illegible] Sinclair [illegible] Pat [illegible] to hold a public supper in the Lodge Hall in the near future.

A meeting will be held on Saturday March 12th, in Logan Hall for the purpose of formally organizing the Agricultural Society.

Mrs. Herbert of Edmonton, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Swift for a few days, returned to her home, on last Monday's train.

An Odd Fellows Lodge was instituted last Tuesday night at Ryley with a large membership. The instituting officers came down from Edmonton. Several members from Tofield and Viking lodges attended.

Last week R. O. Bird removed the stock of hardware of Mr. Belton [illegible] purchased the Belton Hardware, to his own establishment having bought it over from Mr. Belton.

Oliver Letourneau left on Thursday last for Wainwright where he will be employed on the staff at the Wainwright branch of the Merchants Bank, recently removed to Tofield, taking the place of accountant previously occupied by [illegible] Evans. The latter goes to [illegible] where he will be manager of the [illegible] branch. The latter has been promoted to be manager of the village district he organized at Round Hill a portion of which [illegible] Grand Forks, would be taken off its southern part. To take say off the north end for Anderson would result in the Grand Forks district being made too small.

A general debate followed, the result being that the inspectors fill and McNally draw from each and all of the ratepayers of Anderson district present an opinion of what should be done. The consensus of opinion thus drawn out seemed to be that a new two-room [illegible] of building should be built half a mile south of the present old structure and that the present building would be moved to the new site and used as a stable and that conveyances should be furnished for the children of the most outlying sections of the district.

A meeting of the trustees of Tofield Town S.D., Tofield Rural S.D. and Lakeshore S.D. will shortly be called to discuss the matter of [illegible] of the teaching of the children of these three districts in the Tofield Town school, the children of the outlying districts being conveyed into town by [illegible] and plans will be formulated to carry out this scheme if an agreeable solution of the difficulty be found.

The [illegible] Club accompanied by Mrs. Harriman, Mrs. Swift and Mrs. Herbert, drove over to Mr. Isaac Saturday evening. The result was proved the East Champion. Before departing a sumptuous repast was served by Mrs. Bird, who proved herself a special hostess. A most enjoyable evening was spent.

The local branches to W.C.T.U. are forming a Band of Hope or Loyal Temperance Legion amongst the young people. Parents will no doubt recognize the good that will come from allowing their children to join a band having as its aim such a worthy object the inculcation of temperance principles. A meeting of the children is announced for Friday immediately after school

PROFESSOR W. M. James of Harvard recently made the comment that a certain square-jawed very little style was from New York. "What time is it now from the fourteenth of his growth he devotes to the neglect of his physical culture?

CHARLES Wade was at the hospital the day he had undergone a severe operation a few days before Mrs. Wade called to inquire how he was getting on. "He is the nervous quietest patient I've had," she reported. "He don't say a word."

DR. JOHNSON at a musicale was observed to be somewhat restless. "Sir," said a lady present, "you are difficult to please. I suppose you have never heard Jenny Lind." "Indeed, madam," he answered, "I have heard a highly pleased person asked Liberati to order, in the name of a deaf mute, he would do if the dogs fell on him. "Schneider an End." "Next week I'm going to stay." said he positively. "But if they don't?" "Why, then I'll come home again." "Oh, dear, dear!" What the dickens do you think I'm here for?"

A LIBERTYMAN noticing the simple appearance of the couple he had just married, thought he would give them a few words of advice. "Remember, my friends," he said, "that you are married for life." "Are we?" exclaimed the bride. "We ain't the only gentleman in the car." "Be that as it may," said the minister. "Yer betcher life I am, kiddo."

AT LOUIS women recently succumbed to the attractions of Mr. Ultimby, the "human serpent" in a show museum. She is said to have fallen in love with him when he was playing tricks on out on a tobacconist. "Mother," said the bride's son, "that man's like that." confessed the blushing bride. "He can't be funny about his mouth." So the happy couple were united by a justice of the peace.

FATHER DOOLEY had just tied the knot. He looked expectant. The bride looked sheepish, and Pat, shifting from one foot to another, looked guilty. At last he began. "I—I—don't like to be mane, father, but I changed me clothes in a hurry and left me wages in me other pants." Then he added, in a whisper, "Take me down in the cellar; I'm a plumber, and I'll show ye how to fix the gas meter so it won't register more than 60 per cent."

IT was customary at Parkin, on January 1st, to spend the afternoon joyously out doors, engrossed with golf balls and highballs. Being a clever chap, he was a champion on both pastimes. On one Saturday, however, he was compelled to spend the whole day disposing of some big business matters. His wife and his little daughter, as usual, were awaiting him on the porch. "He gone today," he explained to Mrs. Perkins, as the little daughter ran to meet her father. "He must be picked by up and kissed, too, before he goes today," he repeated. Mrs. Perkins smiled the sad smile. "Well," she said, "you do smell awfully of golf!"

A HINT TO LADIES WHEN SHOPPING

If you wanted anything badly, and when you got to the store were pressed not to take something else instead, when you came away wouldn't you feel a little disappointed? As if somebody had got one over on you? And you'd feel resentful, mad, but feel there was no good.

And when you proved that the something which you had wanted was good, and that you had got it, you'd feel that was not so good. Was not to be pumped and driven, as the real thing, wouldn't you feel still better?

That is the whole case about Lean Dan. He's still good though it has many imitations. When buying to just ask for Lean Dan, and see that you get it. The name is protected by law, and is clearly seen on each packet. Don't have any thing else. Then you won't feel that somebody has made a few extra cents out of your lack of firmness.

WHAT TO SAY—AND WHY

FROM a business man's point of view how best to feed the one of wheat was one of the questions which the war had to solve. Many held its place as the keystone in the arch of human food.

Then came the discovery of the potato and a nation forced, wherein is stated that the potato is not to be used in any form as the substitute for bread.

The disappearance of the "leg of mutton" is also happening to a greater or less extent, but it has its drawbacks as well as its advantages. The latter are to be found in the consequent sleep and increased activity in the early hours of the morning. The former is the feeling of weakness and lassitude which is mingled with the torments of the usual dyspepsia consequent on the over-eating with his good Canadian legal tender to allow the consumption of fruits which are an essential part of his training routine and which he cannot afford to have shillings bills, and other accidentals.

A son of Erin, lately arrived in this country, secured a job in a mercantile establishment on Notre Dame Street. The boss, who was a rather hard taskmaster, was in the habit of saying to Pat, after giving his working hours had been exceeded but the slightest semblance of an order to bring him something, "Stand by, Pat." One day the place caught fire, but despite their fate Pat was at his post. "Stand by, Pat," shouted the boss, as he made for the entrance, the Irishman proceeded to carry out the instructions to the letter. Gotham fame was made famous by a Scotsman who had been domiciled there less than about 1850.

Having made a bet on food an Alpine that nitrogen was given a higher value than it deserved, he started carefully dieted, and that white flour contained the valuable constituent. He lost the bet (or subsidized), he reminded that the Scotsman had won the bet, and that he believed in what he had won.

He found many who believed him, and who did as he did.

While the Strathmirian claim that Gotham flour has been the means of saving the sanous nitrogen is in the form of gluten, the Gothamite claims the value of digestion by man, tends to irritate the in testines.

However, these course flours do serve a purpose, for they are the means of digestive aperitives that may indigestible material from the system. It is here by no means to the digestive aperitives that Canadians owe their preference for bread which their bread is white as a result of the part they contain of the digestible.

The Gotham flour advocates argue that as all the wheat value made to be used as we receive it, and that the bran is the concentrated nitrogen, but this sort of reasoning might as well be applied to other things, and Scotsmen prove other indigestible and waste products.

Then, again, it is impossible that a man can get enough of, as it clogs while being chewed, and is in mine has only attached by the gastric juice.

A WOODEN BRAIN-BOX

MANY a business man has cause to call his card index system and wonder how he ever did without it, and is remarkable the orderly array of information facts and figures, compilation and valuable written records of all kinds, that that modern system of filing docket depends on and which must be the envy of those who have not yet adopted it.

The first improvement on the all plan is a system of "guide cards" placed and a separate file for the answers received, was to file correspondence relating to one party, together in a folder. Then, if necessary, become a sheet of letters and answers in proper order, which would be conveniently handled together. The saving in time over the old system of searching for each letter separately was a marked improvement, but the latest development in this system is the "visible" one, but there is a tendency among large firms to adopt a system of card files and books which lends itself still more than merely correspondence and a list of answers.

TOFIELD, MAR. 3, 1910.

The temperance people of the Province will appreciate the stand taken by George P. Smith, member for Camrose in the Legislature on the question of granting incorporated clubs the right to sell intoxicants within their club houses. There are several applications before the House for the incorporation of clubs, one of these being that from Okotoks. An exchange says:

If the opinion of some of the members of miscellaneous and private bills committee prevail in the legislature there is little hope the social clubs which in future are incorporation will be given privileges of having bars for the sale of liquor on their premises.

The strongest opponent to granting the privileges to sell liquor a clubs is George Smith, of Camrose. Mr. Smith stated that he would never agree to incorporate any club whose act of incorporation had no provision that liquor must not be handled in its rooms. He instanced the case of the Canada Club at Camrose where no liquor was allowed, even at banquets, and said that many of these clubs are social leaders. Places for young men, and to have their boys will be a strong inducement in their way.

In a debate in Le Soleil, the editor-in-chief, Sir Rodolphe Lemieux, said that many of those clubs are [illegible] Montreal [illegible] Liberal Island wanted this legislation and they should have it.

Slip Yards May be built at Montreal.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—Negotiations between the Canadian government and representatives of several of the firms engaged in building steamships, including Messrs. Swan, Hunter & Wigham Richardson & Co., of Wallsend-on-Tyne, Messrs. Armstrong, Whitworth & Co., of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Messrs. Vickers, Sons & Maxim, of Barrow-in-Furness, have been proceeding for some time past with a view to the establishment of a shipbuilding plant at Montreal or one of the Atlantic coast ports which will rival in capacity anything in North America.

By way of further encouraging the establishment of such an industry in Canada than completing the scheme of Commissioner Hazen before the government will, it is understood, shortly bring down a bill increasing the present subsidy granted for the building of dry-docks. It is now 3 per cent. [illegible] per annum for 20 years on a total expenditure of probably $2,000,000.

A steel shipbuilding plant for the Pacific coast is also contemplated in a firm of Canadian capitalists at Victoria, B.C.

The McArthur Co. Will Build Balance of Tofield-Calgary Line

The contract for the remainder of the G. T. P. Tofield-Calgary branch line, being built under government guarantee from Tofield to Calgary has just been awarded to the J. D. McArthur Co., Ltd., of Winnipeg, and work will soon be started upon the construction. It is likely that the work will be completed next autumn and that the southern city will be given direct connection with the new transcontinental before the end of another year.

U.F.A.

The U.F.A. held their regular meeting at Banks on February 11. Quite a number of members were present and another new member was enrolled under the banner of the U.F.A. The question of government hail insurance was brought up and discussed at considerable length. The plan of a tax of one cent an acre on all taxable land for hail insurance was unanimously adopted. This will again be discussed at the next meeting in Tofield on March 5th.

Quite a number of other questions were brought forward and discussed, one being a resolution by Mr. Fletcher urging the Dominion government not to enter into any contract with McKenzie & Mann or the building of the Hudson Bay railroad as making but a government road will satisfy the people, the same to be forwarded to the secretary of the board associated to be brought before the executive committee. Carried.

The question of an agricultural society at Tofield was discussed at some length. A large majority of the farmers present were in favor of the proposition. The question will be duly decided at a meeting in Tofield on May 14th.

Arrangements are now underway to organize a band in connection with the U.F.A. and it is hoped to induce the [illegible] to join. The [illegible] was pointed out that [illegible] of the people held by speculators who wish to have a longer time in which to speculate on their holdings.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may now within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may preempt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

The secretary was instructed to have the minutes published.

A vote of thanks was given the Secretary-Treasurer for his good services and with regret accepted his resignation.

Motion to adjourn to meet in the Ross Creek school on Saturday, the 5th day of March next at 1 p.m.

Bardo

The Ladies aid of Bardo held a very successful sale of home made goods of almost every useful nature for the home, last Saturday in Bardo school house. T. A. Rorem auctioned the sale which was by auction. A large amount of money was raised. The Bardo brass band furnished several selections during the afternoon. Refreshments were served by the Ladies.

An exciting and very interesting hockey match took place last Friday between the school boys and the young farmers, on the rink at the school house. The game was fast and furious. The school boys got away with the Young Farmers by a score of something about 15 to 1 much to the amusement of the Kids.

The Johnston Bros. of Bardo received word of the death of their brother John Johnston, who was killed in a Railway wreck 60 miles from San Francisco. He was employed for 4 years by the Canif Hawaii Refining Co. He was buried on Feb. 28th.

Miss Frette, Chicago, trained nurse, and Miss Knutson, Fillmore county, Minn. are visiting at Mr. Hemings.

DIED

HAGEN—At Bardo, on Monday, Feb. 28th, Oscar, youngest son of Mr. Hagen, aged 11 yrs. Funeral took place to Zion Cemetery Pneumonia followed by heart failure was the cause of death.

Synopsis of Previous Chapters

Colonel John Sullivan, an Irish soldier, who has served abroad for many years, returns to his native Kerry on the sloop Cormorant, a French smuggling vessel, commanded by Captain Dubois. The crew of the sloop is seized by the natives of Mount, against the latter protests of Captain Augustin, who explains that he has no law on his side.

Colonel Sullivan is coldly received by Flavia and her brother, The McMurrough, because of his slave faith and his undesirable position as their legal guardian. When Captain Augustine returns with Luke Legil the newest pastor, and demands the return of the smuggled cargo, Flavia and her guardian are in favor of returning the cargo on the captain's payment of the dues. The McMurrough refuses to do this, and the two agrees to let Colonel Sullivan's office act back. Flavia's favorite mare, which was seized by British soldiers. The colonel and his servant, Dale, set out and find the mare at the barracks of Tralee. The colonel is invited into the mess room by the English officers, and one of these, named Payton, who seized the mare, throws wine in his face. The colonel refuses to fight, because his right arm is permanently disabled. He tries a left handed fencing bout with the master of arms, but is disarmed and wounded the mare as a result. At dinner upon his return to Morristown, he is amazed when Flavia drinks a toast "to the long across the water" and fears that a rising is contemplated. Later they are realized next morning when his home mare, Clark, wants him to leave the place and people to their fate. The colonel refuses and the next morning, after breakfast is invited to join Flavia's council of war. He refuses to join the proposed uprising, knowing its futility and the fact that it would mean ruin for Flavia, The McMurrough and his friends. He impresses him and his servant Dale. The next morning the two are led out to their death by the agent of The McMurrough, O'Sullivan Og. At the last moment this sentence is revoked and the Colonel and Dale are rowed out through the mist to impressment on a Spanish war ship in the harbor. The revolution captures and the two prisoners, luckily escaping, take refuge on the French sloop, Captain Augustin and his sailors, who have been forced to remain on board the house at Morristown since the coming of the fog, and seize and imprison the land are of the uprising on shore. The Bishop and Admiral Chamnock are to be carried to sea for a period and The McMurrough, as swearing that he will attempt nothing against Colonel John nor against the government, is released and he returns to Morristown with the Colonel. Flavia, incensed at his return and the failure of the uprising attacks the Colonel, who narrowly escapes death when a bullet shatters the window near his head. The Colonel's presence irksome and considering getting rid of him. When Anglil comes rescuing Flavia, and become the guests of the Colonel. The Colonel is shown by the Colonel, The McMurrough and his sister rebel at the Colonel's authority.

CHAPTER XVIII.

A Compromise

"He is not that," he replied, answered by her tones. "But I am alone, and he is a comfort to me."

"As you please," she answered.

"Nevertheless he shall go," he continued. "It may be for the best. He was thinking that if he reported this overture, she might make no other. "I say case," he added, "I thank you."

She did not deign to answer, but turned and went out. On the threshold she met a serving boy from the house on hand, brother James sat the O'Bernes of Ballyhoe, and a message from that sentence. Colonel John's spirits rose as he read the note.

"Be at the old Tower an hour after sunset. I have news for you. Jerry."

"That is more really mid time done," he commented.

Nor did he see how it was to be done easily. The Tower was a ruin on the edge of the bog, and the road to it, though not, by quakering James' suspicion, made matters worse. He had at last to let things take their course, in the hope that when the time came they would shape themselves favorably.

Dinner and supper must be gotten, and that James wanted to go fishing. The Colonel was glad of his brother-in-law's assistance

Legislators At Sea.

(Wednesday morning)

Despatches by wire from the Capital this morning reveal the fact that affairs in the legislative chamber are thrown into a greater turmoil than ever by an unprecedented condition arising from the alleged fact that the ex-minister of Public Works has been asked by the premier to come back into the cabinet and that he has accepted. As a result, the Attorney-General, Hon. C. W. Cross, has put in his resignation as a protest. It appears that the premier took his course without consulting the rest of the cabinet or the loyal 23 which stood by the government through the crisis of the past two weeks and that his latest action is causing a look of the entire supporting section of the house. Cushing has intimated publicly that he has accepted the premier's invitation to come back into the cabinet and Hon. Mr. Cross is saying nothing publicly. A caucus of the recent supporters of the government is being held this afternoon and it is not unexpected that the outcome will be the dissolution of the house and a new election in which some unstated number of the house will be asked to form a new government.

Don't forget to attend the Grand Concert in St. Andrews Church on the 30th inst. under the auspices of the Battle Brae Band. See their big posters.

Hockey

Owing to the extremely soft weather of the past week the ice at Wainwright was in too poor condition to allow of the Championship game between the Tofield and the Wainwright teams to come off on night. Don Cameron, Dr. Watson and M. Fraser of the executive of the league went up and looked over the ice and decided that the game could not be pulled off. As a result the disappointment to both the Tofield aggregation and the Wainwright people was very great. The procedure now will be that the executive committee will decide if we and when the next game will be played. In the meantime the trophy will go back to the [illegible] teen not will it be held by the [illegible] the final game is played.

COUNCIL

New By-laws Passed

No bonfires after sunset in any yards or fields within the municipality and no ringing of the town fire bell without just cause are the provisions of a new by-law which was passed through its three readings last Tuesday night at the regular meeting of council. No horse, cart, sleigh or other vehicle must be left standing on the streets longer than is necessary is the main provision of another by-law which was made effective by our legislative fathers in serious conclave during the same evening. Truly as many citizens are saying, our municipal legislators are busy making regulations, by-laws and setting of fines to be paid by those who neglect to obey, and the terms of dire imprisonment to be suffered by those who are unable to satisfy the pecuniary claim upon them by such judgment.

REG. T. P. CROSSING

A letter from the G.T.P. was received stating that the company would not use their way clear to allow the making of a crossing across their right of way from the east to King St. south to the freight and stock yards and referred the council to the Board of Railway Commissioners. Owing to the statement of one of the councillors that a competent lawyer would have to be engaged to plead the town's case before the commission and this would necessitate considerable expense, with the possibility of losing the case, there was a spirit of funk on the part of some of the council [illegible] a backbone each, shaped it least for the time being, [illegible] retary receiving instructions [illegible] tain the necessary information [illegible] the Board as how to proceed.

LICENSE FEE REDUCED

O. H. Mahaffey appeared before the council stating that he was opening a second store, Junk shop, etc, and asking that the council reduce the fee stipulated in the municipal license law as he thought a fee too large for a town of this size. As usual the town fathers with their magnanimous spirit which they cheerfully display upon such occasions, readily acquiesced and reduced the amount from $25 to $10 per annum.

WARNING TO OFFENDER

Phillips was reported to council as without making application would mark a hole through the [illegible] surrounding the upper town well with an axe for the purpose of putting a spout through from the pump to a trough, for coming to water his stock there, and in spite of a large notice glaring at him which said upon its face that anyone damaging or mutilating the town property would suffer all the dire penalties of the law. He had seen Councillor Hay, and he promised to immediately repair the fence with new planking. After he promised he would [illegible] instructed to see that Rew did so, he promised and to give him solemn warning that the offence must not again occur.

NEW TOWN WELL

Our regular staff correspondent being off on a trip last week a word to our readers as to the new town well proposition might be in order. A Mr. Hamilton, who is drilling wells in the district somewhere, made the proposition to the council to put down a hole some 800 feet, starting with a six inch hole at top. He thought he could make his machinery go down 800 feet if necessary. He would do it at $1 50 per foot if he found water and not if he did not he was to get $1 per foot. Casing to be furnished by town and put in by him. Mr. Hamilton was present at the same time [illegible]

[illegible] ing of council and stated that his machine would go only 100 feet. Council awarded the contract to Hamilton and passed a motion paying Gilmore's expenses to and from the Capital as a salve for his wounded feelings. Solicitor Henry Ward Naunton was present and was instructed with the assistance of the Fire, Water and Light committee to draw up a form of contract with Hamilton for the putting down of the well. Solicitor Naunton went to Edmonton next day and subsequently sent out a draft form which the committee had no part in the making. As Hamilton did not put in an appearance this week the deals were put up to the committee's hands for their expert consideration and the agreement will come up for final decision next Tuesday night.

RESIDES IN EDMONTON

Returning Solicitor Naunton informed the council that he was engaged in Edmonton and that he would be very much obliged if they would all or him to remain there and save the expense of coming down to every council meeting and pay him his monthly salary of $25 just the same. He would answer all correspondence addressed to him and make all the by-laws they wanted and pay for all the phone messages. Council cheerfully acquiesced.

Council this week received a communication from Mr. Naunton to the effect that he was located at Messrs. Dawson & Hyndman's law offices and that he would be obliged to have all communications addressed to him there. Certainly.

Rev. John Fletcher, ordained Presbyterian missionary, for a short time supplying Lodgebanner and Manneville districts, preached in St. Andrews Presbyterian Church here last Sunday.

The Tofield Intermediate Hockey Team intend to play Ryley next Friday on the latter's ice. This will be a fast, close game, and those who do not go to Wainwright with the seniors will have an opportunity of seeing one of the best games of the season. A return game will be played in Tofield shortly.

The council at last week's meeting decided to again submit the proposition to purchase a market site and a nuisance grounds site to the electors. With [illegible] perfect manitity they feel that the purchase of a nuisance grounds is a necessity and that the securing of a market site is most desirable.

It is with regret that we have to chronicle the fact that a smoke house in the Tofield district is in mourning. On Thursday last Mary, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gladue, died after a lingering and protracted illness. The funeral took place from the family residence to Logan Cemetery on Friday afternoon. Rev. STORM IN LEGISLATIVE CIRCLES STILL IN FULL SWING

Thursday, Mch 10.

The latest news from the seen of the legislative turmoil does no indicate an early or satisfactory settlement of the controversy. Negotiations are being made wholesale. Sydney B. Woods, deputy general, and J. M. Thom, secretary of the ex-attorney general have both followed their chief out of office. W. A. Dayl chief of the Lands Dept. has stepped out. Hon. D Marshall, Hon. P. E. Leonard and Hon. W. A. Buchanan are reported to have severed their connection with the govt. The air is dense with rumors as to what may happen. Premier Rutherford still holds bravely to the ship of state, confident that peace will eventually reign. The latter's action in asking Cushing to return to the Cabinet has precipitated the unprecedented condition of affairs. Nothing definite is known as to the probable outcome. As ever since the A. & G. W. Ry deal has begun to occupy the attention of the House, on the street, in the rotunda, in the corridors, everywhere there is a flood of talk that begins nowhere travels in a circle and finishes at the starting point, interminable discussion breathing of scandal, passion running high and the usual same judgement of many men becoming badly warped. It may be possible that cooler judgement will in time prevail and the atmosphere become sufficiently clarified to admit of a pacific settlement of the points of controversy.

The future seems to be wrapped in mystery. With the agitation that has been so skilfully planned and carried throughout the province, with the misrepresentations that are current and the disposition to stampede, which one would have hardly thought possible with a hard headed lot of people such as we have in this province, with the readiness that is apparent to believe anything of anybody, no matter whether there is any testimony to prove the charges that are made or not, there is no telling what is going to happen.

Sign Your Correspondence

We are occasionally in receipt of letters sent for publication which are not signed by the writer. We cannot entertain the possibility of publishing the same unless they be signed by the correspondent. This does not necessarily result the publication of the name. This is withheld if desired. Anonymous letters go into the waste paper basket.

The following paragraph appears at the head of the editorial column in last week's Wainwright Star:

"After a person has travelled over the G.T.P. from Winnipeg to Edmonton, the fact becomes fairly impressed upon his mind that Wainwright is the best town between these two points."

We wondered if this was not a typographical error and the word Wainwright should have been in the place of the word Edmonton. Probably the writer of the above paragraph had not then fully recovered from his visit to the boat, hauling hogs which is the commercial centre of the fat famed fertile Beaver Lake district.

Loyal Temperance Legion Organized

Last Friday after school, the Loyal Temperance Legion of Tofield was organized under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The object of the Legion is the education of the girls and boys in the principles of total abstinence from alcoholic liquors, tobacco and profanity, also teaching them kindness to dumb animals. They are taught Scientific Temperance, which lessons are in manuals prepared by the Dominion W. C. T. U. Printed examination papers are sent out from headquarters for the children to write on, when they have been over the prescribed course, and the answers are sent to the Dominion Superintent. All securing at least 75% shall become Graduates of our Dominion L.T.L., when they may receive our L.T.L. graduating certificates. Also for each meeting there is a Program prepared of recitations and Music by children; chair talks, physical culture drills etc., conducted by the Superintendant.

The Legion appoints its own officers from amongst its pledged members, a Pres. Vice Pres., Sec. Treas.,

All the work is under the supervision and control of the Superintendent, appointed by the W.C.T.U., who plans all work and can veto any motion made by the legion which she deems unwise.

Some idea seems to prevail in town that this movement is connected with one of the Churches. It is not it is a branch of the W. C. T. U. work which is entirely unsectionalistical.

Superintendent of Legion.

STOMACH AGONY

Abolish the Cause, and Misery and Distress of Indigestion will Vanish

Can indigestion be cured? Hundreds of thousands of people who suffer from belching of gas; bilious ness, sour stomach, fullness, nausea, overtaxes of breath, bad taste in mouth, foul breath, nervousness and other distressing symptoms, are asking themselves the that question daily.

And if those same doubting dyspeptics could only read the thousands of sincere letters from people who once suffered as badly as they in new, but who have been quickly and permanently cured by the use of Mi-o-na, the mighty dyspepsia remedy that cures by removing the cause, they would go to C. E. Jamieson this very day and get a large box of Mi-o-na tablets, and start themselves on the right road to health at once.

The price of Mi-o-na tablets is only 50 cents, and C. E. Jamieson guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back.

This or less or scrawny people will find in Mi-o-na a maker of flesh and blood because it causes the stomach to extract more nutritious matter from the food, which quickly nourishes the blood.

Beaver Lake East

D. J. Robertson, a young man whom everyone likes, has gone to B.C. May good luck follow him wherever he goes is the universal wish.

Jos. McCallum has leased the farms of Messrs. D. J. Robertson and Jas. A. Stewart for the season of 1910. Joe is a hustler.

I believe editorial reference has been made to the great chess match at Brand's? Beaver Lake East beat of course, but the Tofield play are did very well considering whom they were BUCKING against.

The Ryley Times recently had an editorial on the mail order home question. Here is part of it: Why do you deal there? Ask this question of anyone whom you know deals with a mail order house and they will invariably answer, "Oh, so and so charged me 50c a yard for a certain goods and I can get the very same article from the mail order house for 40c."

There's wisdom for you! Surely a Daniel has come to judgment! We venture to say that not one man or woman in Canada ever gave such an idiotic reply to such a query. Who patronize these houses? All classes of people, including scores of those to whom the Ryley Times is sent, and so would our Daniel of an editor if circumstances were changed. The reasons why so many people send to these houses for goods are: (1) They have from 20 to 30 per cent on their purchases after paying the freight or express: (2) they can sit down quietly at home and make a much better selection than they could in the local stores, where they would have to wait their turn and then be shown goods lots of which would be out of date and soiled by much handling. Things are improving though. We notice that Ryley and Tofield have stores that offer groceries at least at very reasonable prices. If they will sell other goods at similar rates they won't need to curse the mail order houses very much, for they'll get the business. —S

Round Hill

The Round Hill Lodging House opened on Mar 1, and is now in full swing. The travelling public are now assured of ample accommodation at popular rates.

We regret to report the illness of Mrs. A. Turnerd and we all hope that she will soon be restored to her usual state of health.

Mr. R. L. Hill, Inspector of Public Schools for Strathcona district, visited Round Hill recently in connection with the proposed change to the boundaries of the Round Hill and adjoining school districts.

The first steps have been taken in the organization of a Round Hill Village School District. In connection with the formation of this district the department has been asked for all information that would assist in consolidating the adjoining rural school districts with the village district. Some of the best informed farmers in the immediate vicinity of Round Hill have expressed the conviction that a consolidated district would not cost any more than the present system and would give their children the superior training of a graded school with an opportunity for more advanced education if they wished it, and last but not least, would ensure protection from all inclemency of the weather. The farmers in the vicinity are urged to think it over.

The sample shelves of the Round Hill store are laden to their utmost capacity with spring goods.

Mr. Ernest Anderson gave a dance on Friday evening when, as might be expected, a bang-up time was enjoyed by all. Mr. Ole Hanson says that it has been proven beyond all doubt that the last shall be first and the first shall be last.

All bachelors in the Eerling district are hereby informed that the Klondyke rush on Round Hill vicinity has proved a failure and has now abated.

Miss Thompson of Camrose, who has been a guest of Mrs. Ernest Anderson, has returned to Camrose.

With the Horses

FOR many years there has waged the battle between those who believe in developed speed in sire and dams as the surest way to reproduce speed, and those who strictly follow blood lines and believe that an animal's speed ancestry can produce as good or better results. The great wonder which both sides make is that they quote records to substantiate their views. It is certain that the turf track is the place to test and that only through the race track can there be developed a horse that can reproduce speed and that gives a horse endurance and the staying fretting instinct and with fast action and both full of vitality. But it does not be more liable to produce when the horse and mare which have been through a severe series of race courses and had their vitality impaired. The sire, of course, extreme cases, in which by inbreeding blue blood the track can be approximate reached, and no sound it will be found between the extremes. It is really wonderful how difficult it is to reach the attainable higher of facts [illegible] with the beautiful theories [illegible] with the idea of inbreeding the latter as if it was as sweet a outcome as mathematics.

Within certain broad lines we have been able to find better results than by any other method while breeding the best to the best, follow that breeding the fastest to the fastest will produce a better horse than breeding the fastest to the slowest. Take, for example, the case of Colonel Bell, the sire of Dan Patch, by Bingen, his dam was Minnie Wilkes, by Mambrino Wilkes, by Mambrino Chief, II. Woodford Wilkes, third dam Nora Lee, by Wood Lord Mambrino, fourth dam Young Pat ten, by Mambrino Chief, II. Woodford Wilkes was a trotter by Mambrino Chief, the dam of Jay Bird was Mambrino Queen, by Mambrino Chief, II. Woodford, nearly everything else in George Wilkes, Nora Lee was a trotter by Young Pat ten, who also absolutely traces all the way back to Mambrino Chief, II. Woodford Wilkes. Dan Patch is bred on a theory that the Mambrino Chief, II. Woodford Wilkes combination will unite that of Mambrino Patchen, would produce a horse that would combine the lines of the trotting family through Mambrino Chief, II. Woodford, which a cross should produce something better than the families of either, and that such a horse should have the speed and endurance to race in front and acquired qualities to his produce. Dan Patch has done this, he has done it, fulfilled these expectations as a champion, a world's record and the sire of two hundred performers.

"DOPING" ATHLETES WITH OXYGEN

THE hypodermic needle can do more to urge a horse to victory than any other agent. When it was first discovered that an indigenent poison was run in the veins of the Colonel, who was then a two-year-old, he was given a test prize in the local [illegible] in Brandon in 1907.

In reality, [illegible], was an ideal chap to swallow it. He was a colt by [illegible], in fact [illegible] he was by the Colonel. He was a dandy good looking colt, and he [illegible] bred which invited the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

By-Law No. . . .

A By-Law to provide for the purchase of land for a nuisance ground, and costs incidental thereto and to authorize the issue of a debenture of the Town of Tofield to the amount of $565 for the purpose of raising the amount required therefor, and to provide for the sanctioning and collection of the amount necessary to pay the said debenture.

Whereas the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield deem it necessary, advisable and expedient to acquire a new ground suitable for the purposes of the Municipality for the purpose of disposing of the sewage and other refuse of the said municipality and deem it expedient for purposes aforesaid to purchase Lot seven in the North West corner of the North East Quarter of Section 34, Township 56, Range 19 West 4th Meridian

And whereas the purchase price of the said land and costs incidental thereto is $565.

And whereas it is expedient in order to enable the said Council to purchase said property for the purpose aforesaid to raise, by the issue of a debenture, the sum of $565, and to create a debt to the said sum of $565.

And whereas it is expedient that the said sum of $565 should be borrowed by means of the issue of a debenture of the town of Tofield for that amount, and that the said sum should be made repayable by yearly sums during the period of ten years being the currency of the debenture, said yearly sums being of such respective amounts that the aggregate amount payable each year for principal and interest in respect of said debt shall be, as nearly as possible, equal to the amount so payable in each of the other nine years of said period.

And whereas the total amount required to be raised annually by special rate for paying the said debt and interest as hereinafter provided is $78.115.

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the town of Tofield according to the last revised assessment roll is $280,350.

And whereas the total debt of the municipality outside of the amount due for the current expenses of the year is $8816.40 whereof no part is in arrear.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield, duly assembled, enacts as follows:

The sum of $565 shall be expended by the Town of Tofield in the purchase for a nuisance ground outside the limits of the Municipality and for the purpose of paying said sum the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer of the Town of Tofield are hereby authorized and empowered to issue a debenture of the said town to the said amount of $565, which debenture shall be issued on the Fifth day of April, A. D., 1910.

2 Said debenture shall be dated on the date of the issue the real and shall be payable within ten years thereafter at the Merchants Bank of Canada in the said town of Tofield.

3. The said debenture shall be issued for the sum of $565 and shall be made payable in ten annual instalments of $78.115 each and shall have attached thereto coupons for the payment of the said instalments as follows:

It shall be lawful for the Council during the currency of the debenture hereby authorized and empowered to issue a debenture of the said town to the said amount of $565, which debenture shall be issued on the Fifth day of April, A. D., 1910.

2 Said debenture shall be dated on the date of the issue the real and shall be payable within ten years thereafter at the Merchants Bank of Canada in the said town of Tofield.

3. The said debenture shall be issued for the sum of $565 and shall be made payable in ten annual instalments of $78.115 each and shall have attached thereto coupons for the payment of the said instalments as follows:

TOFIELD, MAR 17, 1910.

The recent chaotic condition of affairs in the Alberta legislature is no doubt the topic of the Standard in a great measure due to the over confidence of the supporters of the government during the last term of the House. On the average occasion when a bill was before the House more time was spent in innuendo and slighting remarks directed at the "Honorable, the leader of the opposition" Mr. Robertson of High River, than on careful consideration of the clauses of the bills as they lay upon the table. Many of the government supporters, and among these the chiefmen of the insurgent party of today, delighted to hear themselves spout and pour it into the "Honorable, the leader of the opposition." And thus it was that when legislation was brought down by the government, the whole government force, machine like, bowed to the will of their leaders and railroaded through piles of legislation, the details of which, as a rule, they did not recognize to the results of their own mistakes.

As a proof of the above statement, we might mention the fact that at the last moments of the last term of the House, the Act Respecting the A. & G. W. Ry. was put through almost without question. This Act gave to the First Minister certain powers. Now, after acting in accordance with the instructions given from the House through the clauses of the Act, the row commences and raises a stink and who can tell what the end will be.

Again, in further support of the dilatoriness of the rank and file of the House to attend to the details of the business for which they were sent to the House to transact, we note the fact that on Wednesday of last week when the House went into committee of the whole it required a quorum present. The following speaks for itself:

When the House goes into committee of the whole this session it has so to carefully scrutinize every issue of every bill that comes before it. Not all the members, how ever are devoting the attention to the bills they should. At one time during the proceedings yesterday Mr. Bennett looked up and said, "Not a quorum here, Mr. Deputy Speaker." There were only eight.

At present when twenty members were required for a quorum. The papers were commissioned to bring forty of members in from the Lobby before the business of the committee could proceed.—Capital.

Epworth League & S. S. Convention

A convention of the United Districts of Edmonton, Fort Saskatchewan, Vermilion, Wainwright and Wetaskiwin took place in the MacDougal church commencing Tuesday, March 8th. The convention was held in the interests of the Epworth Leagues and Sunday Schools of the Methodist church in the above districts.

Although the attendance was not as large as could be desired owing to the rendering of the Oratorio "Elijah," in town, yet a goodly number of people availed themselves of the privilege of conferring upon the E. L. & S. S. work.

All the meetings were characterized by a quiet, earnest, practical spirit and the "Round Table" conferences were long to be remembered.

The closing meeting took place on Wednesday evening, 9th inst., commencing at 8 o'clock in the same church as before mentioned, at which Revs. Messrs. Fortune & Doyle were the speakers.

WARNING

Since its introduction into Canada the sales of Parisian Sage have been phenomenal. This success has led to many imitations similar in name. Look out for them; they are not the genuine. See that the girl with the Auburn hair is on every package; you can always get the genuine at 50c. Jamieson.

Parisian Sage is the quickest acting and the most efficient hair tonic in the world.

It is made to conform to Dr. Sanger's and Prof. Parker's proven theory that dandruff, falling hair, baldness and scalp itch are caused by germs.

Parisian Sage kills these dandruff germs, destroys all traces of dandruff itself in two weeks, or money back; stops falling hair and thickly grafts on new growth.

And remember that business is aided by dandruff germs, those little acid working, persistent devils that eat and suck the nothing but life from the roots of the hair and destroy it utterly.

Parisian Sage is a daintily perfumed, delightful hair dressing, not sticky or greasy, and any woman who desires luxuriant and beautiful hair can get it in two weeks by using it. 50 cents a large bottle.

THE MESSAGE OF THE SEATS

A DISCOVERY has been made in operating the dogfish works at Chelsea Harbor, Nova Scotia, which establishes the fact that shale habitually prey on lobsters, and they more numerous on this coast than any other species of fish. In the last season they are said to have destroyed the lobsters to the value of $10,000. These lobsters would have been marketed on this coast then are who would appear, as very little notice has been taken of them by writers on fishery topics, since they have been commercially found to be the most harmful and sluggish of fish, only annoying the fishermen by occasionally taking the bait he had baited for some valuable fish. They are said to attack only from one to a pool than the dogfish, and do not have long been charged with having very destructive to the lobster. The dogfish is a fish of prey, and destroys lobster by nature to either capture or devour the live lobster. It is well known that the dogfish, like the shark, never goes into their prey whole, but snap it up in pieces of convenient size.

The shale is better formed for making a full meal upon the lobster, which has a chondoid shape, broad and flat, and comparatively thin, with four pairs and about seven feet in length, and two feet in breadth, when the lobster is expanded, when it slowly flaps when moving one pair of legs. It has a long tail that end. The mouth is supposed on the under side of the body, and is armed with sharp teeth like the American sharks or "dogfishes," and is also provided with a long tail, which it uses to strike the lobsters as the dogfish to other fish, and thus kill them before eating, differing as do those of the mouth that of the lobster.

In addition to the dogfish brought in by the fishermen, a large number of them was discarded in trap by the same people, and destroyed. These were also valuable, and accordingly tons of shale were thrown back into the water, and thus destroyed especially for them on ground. Many tons were thus destroyed during the time of the year. On cutting up these fish, a large number of lobsters were found inside, they were invariably found to be the largest and finest specimens of the species. It is also stated that in many cases they had been swallowed whole by the dogfish, and were found in the stomach as the fishermen call them. Shale are also said to be very destructive to the spawn, and the for the most part smiles the lobsters usually seek for harvest in the months of May and June.

A few years ago a well known mining engineer in Nova Scotia was asked by the lobster canners to be had made in this regard to the dogfish, and he was told that the dogfish were very destructive to the lobster, and were the more active and rarely ground, and

A By-Law to provide for the purchase of land for a nuisance ground, and costs incidental thereto and to authorize the issue of a debenture of the Town of Tofield to the amount of $565 for the purpose of raising the amount required therefor, and to provide for the assessment and collection of a special rate necessary to pay the said indebtedness.

Whereas the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield deems it necessary, at a suitable and convenient place outside the limits of the Municipality for the purpose of disposing of the dry ashes and refuse of the said Municipality and deem it expedient for the purpose aforesaid to purchase Ten acres in the South West corner of the North East Quarter of Section 34, Township 50, Range 19, West 4th Meridian.

And whereas the purchase price of the said land and costs incidental thereto is $565.

And whereas it is expedient in order to enable the said Council to purchase said property for the purpose aforesaid to raise, by the issue of a debenture, the sum of $565, and to create a debt in the said sum of $565.

And whereas it is expedient that the said sum of $565 should be borrowed by means of the issue of a debenture of the town of Tofield for that amount, and that the said sum should be made repayable in certain sums during the period of twenty years, being the term within the Municipal Council deem it expedient and necessary that the aggregate amount payable each year for principal and interest in respect of said debt shall be, as nearly as possible, equal to the amount so payable in each of the other nine years of said period.

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the town of Tofield according to the last revised assessment roll is $208,330.

And whereas the total debt of the municipality outside of the amount due for the current expenses of the year is $4816.00 whereof no part is in arrear.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the town of Tofield, duly assembled, enacts as follows:

1. The sum of $565 shall be expended by the Town of Tofield in the purchase for a nuisance ground outside the limits of the Municipality and for the purpose of raising said sum the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer of the Town of Tofield are hereby authorized and empowered to issue a debenture of the said town to the said amount of $565, which debenture shall be issued on the Fifth day of April, A. D., 1910.

2. Said debenture shall be dated on the date of the issue thereof and shall be payable within twenty years thereafter at the Merchants Bank of Canada in the said town of Tofield.

3. The said debenture shall be signed by the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer of the said Town of Tofield, or by some other person authorized by law to sign the same, and the Secretary-Treasurer of the said town shall attach thereto the corporate Seal of the said corporation.

4. The said debenture shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum payable in yearly instalments of $35.30 and interest, at the Merchants Bank of Canada, Tofield, and such debentures coupon shall be for the aggregate amount of principal and the interest falling due annually, viz: $71.45.

5. During the currency of the said debenture there shall be raised annually by special rate on all the rateable property in the municipality at the same time and in the same manner as the ordinary general municipal rate a sum sufficient to meet the amount of the annual instalments of principal and interest payable in each year in respect of the said indebtedness.

6. This by-law shall take effect on the Fifth day of April, A. D., 1910.

7. The votes of the electors of the said Town shall be taken on this by-law on the 5th day of April, A. D. 1910, between the hours of 9 o'clock a.m. and 5 p.m., at the office of Mr. McCauley in the town aforesaid.

8. That Mr. McCauley be returning officer for said election, and that he, at his office, in Tofield, at 5 o'clock p.m. on said 4th day of April, A. D. 1910, sum up the votes for or against this by-law.

Passed provisionally in Council this First day of March, A. D. 1910.

Finally passed in Council, this ... day of ... 1910.

J. G. LETOURNEAU,
Mayor

A. J. H. McCAULEY,
Sec.-Treas.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the above is a true copy of a proposed by-law which has been introduced and which may finally be passed by the Council at the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto within the time of the voting thereon, and that upon the day, namely, Monday, the Fourth day of April, 1910, and at the place, namely, at the office of A. J. H. McCauley, in the Town of Tofield, fixed for the taking of the votes of the electors thereon, the voting will be held between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

And whereas it is expedient in order to enable the said Council to purchase said property for the purpose aforesaid to raise, by the issue of a debenture, the sum of $565, and to create a debt in the said sum of $565.

And whereas it is expedient that the said sum of $565 should be borrowed by means of the issue of a debenture of the town of Tofield for that amount, and that the said sum should be made repayable in certain sums during the period of twenty years, being the term within the Municipal Council deem it expedient and necessary that the aggregate amount payable each year for principal and interest in respect of said debt shall be, as nearly as possible, equal to the amount so payable in each of the other nine years of said period.

And whereas the total amount of the whole rateable property of the town of Tofield according to the last revised assessment roll is $208,330.

And whereas the total debt of the municipality outside of the amount due for the current expenses of the year is $4816.00 whereof no part is in arrear.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the town of Tofield, duly assembled, enacts as follows:

1. The sum of $565 shall be expended by the Town of Tofield in the purchase for a nuisance ground outside the limits of the Municipality and for the purpose of raising said sum the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer of the Town of Tofield are hereby authorized and empowered to issue a debenture of the said town to the said amount of $565, which debenture shall be issued on the Fifth day of April, A. D., 1910.

2. Said debenture shall be dated on the date of the issue thereof and shall be payable within twenty years thereafter at the Merchants Bank of Canada in the said town of Tofield.

3. The said debenture shall be signed by the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer of the said Town of Tofield, or by some other person authorized by law to sign the same, and the Secretary-Treasurer of the said town shall attach thereto the corporate Seal of the said corporation.

4. The said debenture shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum payable in yearly instalments of $35.30 and interest, at the Merchants Bank of Canada, Tofield, and such debentures coupon shall be for the aggregate amount of principal and the interest falling due annually, viz: $71.45.

5. During the currency of the said debenture there shall be raised annually by special rate on all the rateable property in the municipality at the same time and in the same manner as the ordinary general municipal rate a sum sufficient to meet the amount of the annual instalments of principal and interest payable in each year in respect of the said indebtedness.

6. This by-law shall take effect on the 5th day of April, A. D. 1910.

7. The votes of the electors of the said Town shall be taken on this by-law on the 5th day of April, A. D. 1910, between the hours of 9 o'clock a.m. and 5 p.m., at the office of Mr. McCauley in the town aforesaid.

8. That Mr. McCauley be returning officer for said election, and that he, at his office, in Tofield, at 5 o'clock p.m. on said 5th day of April, A. D. 1910, sum up the votes for or against this by-law.

Passed provisionally in Council this First day of March, A. D. 1910.

Finally passed in Council, this ... day of ... 1910.

By-Law No. . . .

A By-Law to authorize and provide for the making of a public market in the Town of Tofield, and costs incidental and appurtenant thereto and to provide for the raising of the sum of $565 for the purposes aforesaid by the issue of debentures therefor.

Whereas by the Municipal Ordinance the Municipal Council may make by-laws for the establishment of a public market within the Municipality of Tofield.

And whereas the Municipal Council deem it necessary, advisable and expedient to establish a public market within the said Municipality and deem it expedient for such purpose to purchase Lots 27, 28 and 29, in Block 11 of the town site.

And whereas the purchase price of said lots and costs incidental thereto will be $565.00.

And whereas it is expedient, in order to enable the said Municipal Council to purchase said property for the purpose aforesaid, to issue a debenture of the Municipality of Tofield for the sum of $565 as hereinafter provided which is the amount of the debt to be created by this by-law) the proceeds of the said debenture to be applied to the purposes aforesaid and to no other purpose.

And Whereas it is desirable to make principal of the said debenture payable by yearly sums during the period of ten years, being the currency of the said debenture; said yearly sums being of such respective amounts that the aggregate amount payable each year for principal and interest in respect of said debt shall be, as nearly as possible, equal to the amount so payable in each of the other nine years of said period.

And whereas the total amount required to be raised annually, by special rate for paying the said debt and interest as hereinafter provided is $61.845.

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the Town of Tofield, according to the last revised assessment roll is $208,330.00.

And whereas the total debt of the municipality outside of the amount due for the current expenses of the year, is $4816.00, whereof no part is in arrear.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield, duly assembled, enacts as follows:

1. It shall be lawful for the Council to raise the sum of $565.00 for the purpose of paying for the establishment of a public market within the Municipality of Tofield, and for the purposes aforesaid there shall be issued debentures of the said town to the amount of $565.00, and the Mayor and the Secretary-Treasurer of the said town shall attach thereto the corporate seal of the said corporation.

2. The said debentures shall be signed by the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer of the said Town of Tofield or by some other person authorized by law to sign the same, and the Secretary-Treasurer of the said town shall attach thereto the corporate Seal of the said corporation.

3. The said debentures shall be dated on the date of the issue thereof and shall be payable within ten years thereafter at the Tofield Barber Shop, Tofield, Alberta.

4. The said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum payable in yearly instalments of $86.30 and interest, at the Merchants Bank of Canada, Tofield, and such debentures coupon shall be for the aggregate amount of principal and interest falling due annually, viz: $61.845.

5. During the currency of said debentures there shall be raised annually by special rate on all the rateable property in the municipality at the same time and in the same manner as the ordinary general municipal rate a sum sufficient to meet the amount of the annual instalment of principal and interest payable in each year in respect of the said indebtedness.

6. This by-law shall take effect on the 5th day of April, 1910.

7. The votes of the electors of the said Town shall be taken on this by-law on the 5th day of April, A. D. 1910, between the hours of 9 o'clock a.m. and 5 p.m., at the office of Mr. McCauley in the town aforesaid.

8. That Mr. McCauley be returning officer for said election and that he at his office in Tofield, at 5 p.m. on said Fourth day of April, 1910, sum up the number of votes for or against this by-law.

Passed provisionally in Council, this 1st day of March, 1910.

Finally passed in Council, this ... day of ... 1910.

Round Hill

Miss Ferguson of Strathcona is teaching the Mahladi school

Miss Russell of Camrose, is visiting at Mr. Curries.

Miss Carrie Foss has returned home from the Capital.

Two farmers from Prevost, Alberta, were through here recently picking up at good prices all the work cows they could find.

Mr. Jack Parsons has purchased a half interest from Mr Nelson of Lake Demay in the celebrated purebred Percheron stallion Sturgeon. This will be good news to the lovesmen of this vicinity.

Mr. A. Howe made a business trip to Edmonton recently.

The mounted police [illegible] Tofield was here a few days ago, evidently [illegible]

The C.N.R has purchased [illegible] the Round Hill town [illegible] market in the near future.

Business must surely be picking at Round Hill when two young business men from that place found it to be impossible to get a conveyance of the recent wedding must some hours after the ceremony.

Bob Goodwin [illegible] is changing hands the Wade has purchased [illegible] Nick Foss, Mathes, the Carruthers farm and Gus Anderson the Paul Paulson farm. The local real estate man, J. B. Gilchrist, effected all these deals and is putting them through.

Frank Mosher is busily engaged at present hauling unusually looking willow posts from the bush country at Kleginan.

A project is on foot at Round Hill just now to float a joint stock company which will build a first class hotel at this place.

A very interesting event in the social line took place at Round Hill recently at the home of Mr [illegible] Fred [illegible] Mr. [illegible] Miss [illegible] Pretty Hill. The bride was truly charming in her bridal robes of white silk with veil to match. Immediately after the ceremony the whole assembly sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner served by the sisters. The numerous costly and beautiful wedding gifts indicates the wide circle of friends the young couple possess. While Round Hill certainly regrets losing such an amiable and popular young lady as Miss Pretty in wishing the young couple a happy and prosperous voyage on the matrimonial sea.

Mr. Reid Tudrick, of Medford, Oregon, a country of this locality, is here at present settling up with the debtors of the Tofield sale held last week, which brings good reports of that state but says that many people there are greatly interested in Alberta and he predicts a general immigration from that quarter.

Mrs. F. A. Ferguson gave a dance on Monday evening at which a large crowd enjoyed themselves till morning.

We hope that this continued fine weather will make the C.N.R. think of laying that long delayed steel in the near future.

Considerable interest has been manifest here over the existing debates held in the Legislature recently over the Alberta and Great Waterways agreement. Many Liberals here are in hearty accord with the policy of the government in this matter and will look for full explanations of all opposition to it from their local member. While there may be some minor points in which the government is open to opposition yet we consider that Premier Rutherford has inaugurated the course of his government in the matter to the satisfaction of all fair-minded men.

Beaver Lake East

The debate on Ambition was a good one. Messrs. Shaw and Moody, especially the former were witty and humerous. In a debate however, three qualities don't count unless accompanied by solid facts to boost that particular side. We must unreservedly state that those speeches were not strong along that line, whilst those of Billy Stewart and Miss Doby were. Hence the decision of the judges was unanimously in favor of the view upheld by the latter two debaters, [illegible] that [illegible] does not [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

TOFIELD, MAR 24 1910.

Unless some unforseen incident arises the votes of the ratepayers of the Town of Tofield will be taken on the Nuisance Grounds, Main Street and Town Well Bylaw on Friday, the fourth day of April next. As usual, there does not seem to be much interest exhibited by the ratepayers as a whole in these matters. It is doubtful whether the pros and cons of the proposition have been fully discussed by the public nor by the council with the ratepayers as a whole. While the ratepayers by their votes on election day put the present council in office it cannot be considered business like to censure the council for all the trouble and expense they have gone to in finding out what in its opinion are the best means to provide the necessary provision of water supply. Either in voting down a bylaw the council has [illegible] There are always [illegible] Sometimes the [illegible] thing. It is always easier to find fault than to find a remedy and not one of us likely to agree on what is a proposition should be carried. To censure an individual always gives rise to possible suspicion of motives. But the outstanding point at the time [illegible] the public does. It appears that there are two public questions in Tofield which could get [illegible] and all of us [illegible] of [illegible] consideration.

In the case of independent [illegible] have been a long look ing at the matter, come to the conclusion that the population put forward in the bylaw in the best that could be found. The council having in charge this matter did all what they thought possible to secure grounds at a reasonable figure. The present proposition is [illegible] one presented to them which combined suitable locality and reasonable price.

In the market site matter, the choice of the lots, Third Avenue opposite the library and fire hall is a suitable one. The property is [illegible] obtained from the G.T.P. at half of the asked price. They will never be purchased at a less figure it will always be a good asset.

The water question is one that has agitated the citizens for a long time. It is needless for us here to go into the matter again as it has many times been thoroughly threshed out. In fact, progression into which the council has entered with Mr. Hamil as its chief adviser whether a better one could have been arranged between the interests of the town could have been better protected. The main feature of the agreement is the guarantee of a minimum supply of water of 30,000 gallons daily or the well will be considered a dry well. The price, $4.50 per foot, if this amount of water is secured is very reasonable and the figure, 50c per foot, if less than this amount is secured is also as reasonable. The amount cited in the by-law, $4,000, covers not only the cost of drilling, but the purchase of and installation of suitable machinery to handle the water. Provided the proper amount of water is secured, the council will in all probability go ahead and provide a system where by additional fire protection will be secured the citizens. The council has done well in negotiating this water proposition and the bylaw should receive the favorable consideration of the ratepayers on voting day.

The Horseman

IT is said that Charles Sanders of Salem, Mass., the man who owned the "mule" that won $30,000, when he went into ownership there with Hamburg Belle—a horse that had been given up as a bad job by his former owner—is going to the same this winter. In Mr. Sanders' stable are Cresceus, Lou Dillon, Hamburg Belle, Lettington, matinee record 2:13, and Sweet Marie, matinee record 2:15.

Last night horse is quite too much for the amateur and trainer to be handled quickly but the others make a good showing when plunged against the pup with the Collie cognomen We are not sure that the gait of Mr. Sanders' dog, but it is improbable that he would enter a race for a purse to which his known is the best of health.

Mr. Sanders says that Hamburg Belle will soon become a "pacer" and will be seen as a formidable performer. Various are already betting on the horse and the issue with traits of the yellow variety that crop out in the factory pictures, and it is safe betting that they will be on hand to divide the dividend further. If association tells to the transmission of the Sanders' dog and one branch of the animal kingdom to another, the same would appear that the lasting might be utilized for such an end. Mr. Sanders has got all Mr. Belle's dog, but it is improbable that he will have either a pacer or a trotter to his known in the best of health.

The Bruce A. Macklin Turf club has announced a mixed programme of high-class events for the meeting to be held Mar. 21, 22, 23, as extension of the usual Victoria Day races. The programme mingles the trotters and pacers together, but offers excellent inducements in the form of $900 purses. Six events are down for the first day of the meet. The classes are: 2:16 trot, 2:25 pace, 2:10 trot, 2:35 pace, 2:15 trot, 2:20 pace, 2:20 trot, 2:25 pace, 2:25 trot, 2:30 pace; 2:40 trot or pace. every man who is not prepared to have his rights and his reasonable recreations curbed abridged or obliterated, must continue or strengthen his efforts. The case for breeding and racing made a tremen dously good show at the hearings before the committee on Mr. Miller's Bill beginning with the authoritative evidence of Dr. Rutherford, the Dominion Live Stock Commissioner and Veterinary Director General, it was supported by the testimony of breeders in Ontario and the Province of Quebec, and by a number of prominent horsemen, farmers and public officials. They told of the value of the horse and the views of such noted persons as the committee realizes it. Ottawa will have any thing but sympathy for any to forecast the result of the agitation for the Conservation of the horse in this formation, there will be the passage of a law legislating legal beyond all question en rare cosmos, but prudent ing on the streets and in the country as well as suppressing the swindling of the public by unscrupulous and dishonest speculators for the duration of race meetings.

The first bout in the race for the championship of the world between liberty, including that of putting Jeffries in condition, will be fought at Reno, Nevada, on the 4th of July. Tuesday was treated last week over the Canadian Northern Railway to a race made notably by its liberty horses. The string got in far from decided, though, and Murphy was a married in all these exercises to superior to the rest of the horses all, he was trustworthy. I do not believe that any of the others could have stood the strain of such a race. The rule of riders to get to the front as quickly as they can, and then to get ahead and without regard to the lives of others on the track. Murphy was sent to other riders and there mounts. As a result he was the only boy who finished up from the rise of the barrier to the money home.

Synopsis of Previous Chapters

Colonel John Sullivan, an Irish adventurer, who has served abroad in many wars, returns to his native Kerry as the story commences, a broken man, owing vast debts and penniless. He is an outcast of Shall, against the futile pretensions of Captain Augustus, who realizes that he has no law on his side.

Colonel Sullivan is coolly received by Flavin and her brother, The Major Hugh, because of his close faith and his uncomfortable position as their legal guardian. They are, however, impressed with Lois Angiil, the reserved, restless, beautiful daughter of a neighboring squire, whom the former has in charge as an order of return as the Colonel's ward. The Major and Lois love each other, but the latter is a Catholic and the former a Protestant, which has proved an insurmountable obstacle to their legal guardian. Lois Angiil, the reserved, restless, beautiful daughter of a neighboring squire, whom the former has in charge as an order of return as the Colonel's ward. The Major and Lois love each other, but the latter is a Catholic and the former a Protestant, which has proved an insurmountable obstacle to their legal guardian.

A group of old cronies—brothers, sisters and trainers—at Horseman's Hotel, Lexington, recently enjoyed a delightful hockey problem. They were all agreed that Uhlan, the great Kentucky trotter, is horsemanship, not as good as Peter the Great, but they were not mindful of the rules of class racing as there the great, and these should not ago. The majority of them were of the opinion that this distinction was unfair to the preponderance of races at Lexington, while the meeting declined, to the freedom that the modern rider has given to the thoroughbred at the detriment of those who employ him and teach him manners.

The old-fashioned jockey, who rides from 1880 to date, were of the opinion that the strong points and the weakness in the horses he rode, and he had that gift of knowing when to and when to make use—that is, when to urge his mount to the utmost and when to check him. Murphy, said Mr. McGrath, was a wonderful jockey, and there was no doubt about it. The greatest jockey of the present generation, however, Isaac Murphy, the negro, who, before he was killed by a fall from his horse, was the best rider in the race for the Ashland cup, which he won in 1884. The race was at one mile and a half.

"There were four starters, each carrying 112 pounds—Pete Rye (thorman) Mary Ann (Murphy), Kanawa (Lewis), and Hiram Woodruff (Lewis-Pete Rye was the favor to at 2 to 3. Pete Hooper was the 1. Kanawa 6 to 1, and Mary Ann 8 to 1. They ran pretty well bunched for the first mile, and when they reached the top of the hill Pete Rye and Mary Ann were going together. For the last quarter of a mile it was head and head, Pete Rye, on the one side of Mary Ann, on the other, then that of the daughter of Billy Kelly, the latter's head in front. Then all of a sudden Pete Rye shot out ahead but she did not do her speed that was assessed by the cunning rivalry, for Hiram was white and Murphy nobility. There was a struggle to weather the blood of my sportsman and send it tingling to his heart, and they came to the finish in the order named—Lewis, Murphy, Lewis, Pete Rye. It was a good race, and Murphy, Lewis, carried Hiram, of Mary Ann, and W. K. Barnes, of Pete Rye, were both cheered as they dismounted.

"Though they were friendly, Gar Lewis and Murphy had some day come where, he would establish his superior ity over Murphy. That came when the Match Race between Salvator and Kingston at Sheepshead Bay in June, 1890, and, as every follower of the turf knows, Murphy, on Salvator, won by a nose after a struggle that inspired lasting admiration for horse and rider from the dictionary writers of the day.

A SPLENDID ACHIEVEMENT

Every citizen of Western Canada should read the Grain Growers' Guide annual report of the Great-West Life Assurance Company, Winnipeg. Few Canadian companies have been able to re port such stupendous figures as this company has done.

The record of the Great-West Life is remarkable when it is considered that it commenced business in the Province of Western Canada not by no means as old as Manitoba. It is today, and when its greatest asset was the courage, the energy, the honor, and the confidence of the men who launched the enterprise.

The successive years which represent the period of the company's existence have been years of hard times, and these years have brought great trials to the first directors of the company. But confidence in the company grew slowly established, and the Great West Life's record for 1909 is a proud financial resource of Canada.

The Great West Life grew up with the west in fast pace to maintain. Its growth was phenomenal, but that's why it thrives. Flow it has yearly at tained higher and higher levels, and higher in the esteem of the public to which it owes its existence. At the annual meeting, held in Winnipeg on January 26th, the one hundred and fifty-seventh, and when the insurance in force was $17,116,000, a gain of $2,211,000, or 14.84 per cent. In 1909, the premium income from $1,274,355 to $1,487,357, and the interest income from $317,436 to $392,976 or 23.78 per cent. These are the splendid example of western energy that shows what is possible in the west and an example which every west erner can go to with pride.

CHAPTER XX.

Ill Tidings.

A LITTLE before sunset on that same day Colonel Sullivan, riding alone, and having left his horse at the stable, entered the village street, which, seated beneath its thatched roofs and inclosed by hedges, ran from the bridge to the market place. Here, at the door of the village inn, he found a number of men gathered, and among them Captain Augustus, who realizing the position, and how he had been outwitted by Flavin and her brother, The Major Hugh, had left the house in a rage, and, mounting his horse, had ridden to the village, where he had begun to drink with his riding cronies and made an open threat of killing Lois Angiil rather than see her married to Colonel Sullivan, the latter's enemies and unacceptable. This drunken and abusive conduct was assessed by the Major, who, on the appearance of the Colonel, had called Sullivan who—"Who trod the hole with Lucanus at Trabo?" Angiil cried heartily. "The same and no other. He is here today but to be returning tomorrow, and will be back there as fast as he can ride. Let those that have fools in the head and be'll pass the time pleasantly with them."

Captain Augustus had not known to the last moment when shall had turned the joke against him, and he face between the two feelings. Had he foreseen the meeting he would have left the job to subalterns. "Hang it!" he exclaimed, vexed by the recollection. "A fine mess you've made of it!"

"I did not know him then," Angiil said lightly, and, as he spoke, he reseated her. "Let's no man to bear malice behind."

"I hope, indeed," Captain Augustus answered, "I think it's best—"

"Ah, you are right again, my son," Angiil agreed, laughing silently, for although he hoped for a duel, he knew that cause might be manoeuvred out of the hands of the Major. He knew Flavin. He knew the man's arrogance, the confidence in which he held the Irish, his power of face as an inferior race. He knew that he was Flavin and has used her he was capable of any outrage, any insult to the Colonel, any violence to the estate he might prove a formidable enemy. He knew that he would use either cane to hasten the man's depart ure, and that he would be glad to see the back of the monstrous beast—the Angiil's chief aim.

James McGrough, on the other the tower and her miserable plight.

As he went on with Matty, he gave him a kick or two, more in sport than in earnest, and the boy, who had been in the habit of receiving a severer hand from his father, laughed and took it in good part. Then he said, "Where are you going, Matty?"

"Home, master, some how," Payton answered with a grin.

"And me," the Irishman returned, controlling himself, "some more, some how. And now, I'm asking?"

"I think I must stay over tomorrow," Payton remarked, looking at the sky. "There seem to be a good deal of rain coming."

"As there," Angiil answered in the apparent good humor.

"I'll ask young Lois, I'll be swore!" the Englishman replied, smiling more broadly.

"And that's true, too," the other re plied.

He had himself in hand, and it was plain that he was prepared to accept as the party came. The Major it was not, and he was equal to the occasion. Their bearing and their equal respect were the force of the colony whose industry has made it famous.

Such is the Socialist's ideal existence and such is the fate that may be in store for the Russian Experiment Station and the way here the Socialist would look upon sensitive on these lines, but, judging from the success of the co-operative movement in Canada, there is no reason why it should not be tried.

The only experiment which seems to have been made in this direction on this continent is that of the Tolstoy Settlement in Manitoba, near Beausejour, on the north coast of England. The settlement was founded in 1899 by a large number of Russians who had emigrated not entirely because of religious beliefs, but also because they were not allowed to own land. Each settler was allowed a homestead of 160 acres, and now has only to make use of it, but he might become to all intents and purposes.

He looked up at a touch from Matty, and to his astonishment he saw Flavin striding at the end of the table. There was a hasty scrambling to the feet, for the men had not dreamed that he would be in the house—except her brother—the Major Hugh, who was away.

"Was thinking," Angiil said, forestalling the other, "that I would not be anything for you call his way, and your wife or children) for it is the best land for wheat in the province, and it is out of private ownership and cannot be purchased. It is open for homestead entry to the world. Lots is given to the settlers by the plateau and the streets were allowed to take all the land they wanted, and however they felt NOT LIKING IT. The lot are on an average of 12.62 lbs. per acre. Buckwheat," he said, "and 12.77 lbs. cut in Russia, while in a great deal better than the other streets are. But although they have been in the country for many years, and while they have grazed on an average of 2.36 lbs. each day, they have only put on 0.37 lbs. of flesh per day, and the result is a profit of $17.80 for feeding the whole herd for 150 days.

The other lot was given the same treatment, but the cows were fattened on the mixed meal with it. This mixed meal was given as a gift and the steers

By-Law No...

A By-Law to authorize and provide for the making of a public well or wells, for the purchase of the land, machinery and appliances necessary for such purpose, and the costs incidental to the boring thereof, and to provide for the raising of the sum of $ by the issue of a debenture or debentures therefor.

Whereas the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield deem it necessary, advisable and expedient to construct or have constructed, a public well or wells, within the municipality, and for that purpose, and incidental thereto, to purchase such machinery, and appliances as may be found to be capable and necessary and such purposes.

And whereas it has been estimated that it will be necessary and advisable for the purposes aforesaid to create a debt in the sum of $

And whereas in order to do it will be necessary to issue debentures of the Town of Tofield to the amount of $ and to provide for the annual rate sufficient to pay each of the annual sums of money hereinafter mentioned, and to pay the interest upon the said debentures at the rate of per annum, payable yearly on the 31st day of December in each year, and to provide a sinking fund for the payment of the said debentures at the end of years from the date of the issue thereof, which said sinking fund will be sufficient to pay the said debentures when they become due and payable, and the said sinking fund is hereby pledged for the payment of the said debentures and interest thereon.

And whereas the total amount of the assessment upon the whole rateable property of the Town of Tofield, according to the last revised assessment roll, is $

And whereas the total debt of the municipality, outside of the amount due for the current expenses of the year, is $ and no part of the principal or interest is in arrear.

THEREFORE the [illegible] MUNICIPAL COUNCIL OF THE TOWN OF TOFIELD duly [illegible] ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:

The sum of $ shall be expended by the Town of Tofield in [illegible] the purchase of [illegible] machinery and appliances and the [illegible] and incidental thereto, and the sum of $ is hereby declared to be and is hereby declared to be found necessary for the purposes aforesaid, for the payment of which the Town of Tofield may issue debentures to the amount of $ in sums of not less than $ each, upon the Fifth day of April, A.D. 1910.

Said debentures or debentures shall be dated on the date of the issue thereof and shall be payable within twenty years thereafter at the Merchants Bank of Canada in the Town of Tofield.

The said debentures and coupons shall be signed by the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer of the said Town of Tofield for the time being, the person or persons authorized by law to sign the same, and the Secretary-Treasurer of the said Town shall attach thereto the corporate seal of the said Town.

The said debentures or debentures shall be payable at the option of the purchaser, payable in yearly or equal annual sums of $ and not exceeding the [illegible] of [illegible] Bank of Canada, at each debenture coupon attached for the aggregate amount of the annual rate of principal and interest [illegible] the respective years.

During the currency of the said debentures a special rate sufficient to pay the interest upon all the rateable property of the municipality at the same time and in the same manner as the ordinary general municipal taxes, and sufficient to meet the amount of the annual instalments of principal and interest payable in each year in respect of the said debentures, shall be levied and raised annually by special rate on

THE ANTIQUITY OF HATS

JUST now, when a well-known New York pulpit orator has been lecturing against carefully most absurdities of female headwear, and when the very low roof stops in and says, "Set there be light," it may not prove uninteresting to trace very briefly the evolution of the hat.

WAS VERY SORRY—AFTERWARDS

In a town not fifty miles from here a lady went into a store and asked for a box of Jam Dab. She was told that it would cost fifty cents, and that a larger box of another ointment could be bought cheaper. In a moment's weakness she took the cheaper box and paid fifty cents, and she still needed the Jam Dab as badly as before, and bought it later.

Her Jam Dab did what she needed and she has since bought the Jam Dab at the price of the pool post as advertised. She has told her friends about the Jam Dab and they also use it. She was very sorry afterwards.

THE Pontiff himself attends a monthly "ing of the Consistorial Court, at which the Cardinals sit in judgment on the cases submitted to them. The present Pope has presided over the Consistory for the first time since his election. He is a very old man—he was eighty-one last birthday—but he is still a man of strong will and great energy, and he is said to be very methodical and business-like in his habits.

THE Consistorial Court is known as a "Secret" Court, because it sits behind closed doors. People have pressed their cases before the Consistory for centuries past, and there is a considerable body of precedent to guide the Cardinals in their decisions. But the Consistory is not a "Court" in the ordinary sense of the word. It has no power to enforce its decisions. It can only give advice to the Pope, who is the supreme judge in all matters which there are never, so that in the Consistory there are no counsel to address the court and settle their claims. All that happens is that the Cardinals who sit there are never, so that in the Consistory there are no counsel to address the court and settle their claims. All that happens is that the Cardinals who sit there hear the case stated by the parties themselves in person, and then give their opinion to the Pope, who gives the benefit of Auditor Chamberlain's advice to the Consistorial Court.

THE Pope appoints the heads of Auditor Chamberlain's staff, and he will call across cylinders to the Consistorial Court, and he will call across cylinders to the Consistorial Court, and he will call across cylinders to the Consistorial Court

Bardo

Spring work is in full swing, and soon wheat is already sown. An interesting experiment with spring wheat has been made by J. Larbalestier and H. Haugen. They each sowed some spring wheat late last fall, about the last of October. On examining it this spring it is found to be sprouting already and will be up in a short time if the weather keeps mild. Haugen declares that this is the only sensible way of sowing spring wheat in this country and maybe he is right about it.

This promises to be the busiest season ever seen here. Preparations are already being made for clearing and breaking new land. The brush cutting machine operated last year by P. Haugen and T. Haugseth is being overhauled, improved and made ready for work. So when they get their big four horse hitch-et outs it you had better get out of the way.

At the last meeting of the Bardo Young People's Christian Association the question of decorating the church for the Easter Service was brought up and was unanimously carried. A special committee was appointed for this purpose and it certainly carried it out in a highly satisfactory manner. When the congregation entered the church on Easter Sunday their eyes beheld a beautiful and pleasing sight—quite a revelation to many. In the centre was a white cross on a white foundation all ornamented with evergreens and a profusion of white lilies. Surmounting the cross was stretched a banner with the words "Christ is risen," in golden letters, and on either side was arranged small tables with a wealth of flowering plants and evergreens, the white lily—the Easter emblem—being predominant. Special songs were rendered by the choir, and everyone seemed to feel that it was the best Easter service ever attended.

The Meat Boycott and What it Means

By Ralph D Paine, in Collier's)

PHILIP ARMOUR is the name of the man who quietly and unostentatiously has done what proved to be a national service. He has taken the initiative in breaking a meat boycott, and during a fierce week of excitement on Friday, January 7, he happened to chat with one of his men about that unnecessary topic, the high prices of the necessaries of life. Down in the packing house was a scrap of paper and scribbles thereon a resolution, in which he proposed to shatter food prices and smash the trusts.

Within an hour the shop dining room armed with his resolution as a typewriting. The county forenoon at his table signed it with never a flourish of a pen. Before the afternoon was two thousand more, the twenty foremen were organized as a committee to solicit signatures. Next day 500 signatures were obtained among the employees of three or four factories.

Meanwhile, a couple of stage carpenters in the packing house over a prairie fire. Within a week all Chicago was ablaze with the boycott and lukewarm meat. The Armour resolution was overflowed by the newspapers and the Meat and Provision Trade Association spread in a solemn protest against the boycott.

It is certain that this peaceful insurrection was not anything of a joke, and it never is harmless for anybody to monkey with a human Tea Party than a "crowd of Western cowboys and the English Corn Laws. Behold a meat boycott which was more abusive the average, both for and against, and more vociferous. The great army of unorganized consumers who promptly joined their cause were something more than a mob.

Throughout the Atlantic coast and south to New Orleans the meat boycott is the latest absorbing topic of conversation. In Boston at the municipal lodge was being signed by 5,000 men and women. In Baltimore a campaign button was adopted with the slogan "I don't eat meat." In Pittsburg and Cleveland, Buffalo and Detroit, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Omaha, Cincinnati, Kansas City, St. Louis, Denver, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and the cities of the Western States and Canada, the boycott is endorsed by the consumers, with the result that there might be fairly a fall egg market. Everywhere, in all communities, the distribution of meat is rapidly passing into the hands of the retail dealers, who are forming associations to fight the packers. The country merchants are joining in the movement. Even in England there is a meat boycott. The country is aroused, and the cry is heard in the land.

Behind the boycott lies the fact that the cost of living has increased 46 per cent in the last ten years, and that the increase in meat prices has been 63 per cent. The consumer has been squeezed in an ever tightening vise. The farmer has been getting more for his cattle, but not enough more to make him prosperous. The packers have been piling up profits and dividends. The middlemen have been the only class who have not complained. They have been the buffers between the producer and the consumer, and to natural enemy of both. They have been the tax collectors for the trusts. In the meat industry they have been the most conspicuous and obnoxious parasites. But the public has not singled out the middlemen for its wrath. It has struck at the packers, because they are the trusts. It is the trust that has been raising the price of meat, and it is the trust that the public has determined to destroy. The boycott is a revolt against the tyranny of the trusts, and whether it succeeds or fails, it will have served a useful purpose if it teaches the trusts a lesson.

The meat boycott is not a movement of the poor alone. It is not a movement of the poor alone. It is a movement of the middle class, of the well-to-do, of the rich. It is a movement of the whole people, and it is the most significant and formidable uprising against the trusts that has occurred in this country

Colonel John Sullivan, an Irish soldier who has served abroad for many years, returns to his native Kerry on his dying commission, a French wounded officer, Lucien Rabaut, who confides to him that he has to take his son under his protection. Sullivan is coldly received by Flavin and her brother, The Mo'Mart, both of whom are in love with Angell, because of his eligibility as an heir and his desirable position as their neighbor. Angell is also courting Peyton.

Sullivan, the newest arrival, at once denounces the return of the exile, Colonel Flavin and her guardian, who are in favor of restoring the reign of the Stuarts by payment of the throne. The Mo'Mart sends Sullivan to this, but finally agrees to call on Colonel Sullivan's if he can get back Flavin's favorite mare, which was seized by British soldiers. The colonel and his servant, Blake, set out and find the mare in the possession of Taylor. The colonel, in no good temper at the sight of the English robbers, and more of them, named Taylor, who seized the mare, throws wine in his face. The colonel refuses to fight, because his right arm is permanently disabled. He wins a left-handed fencing bout with the master-at-arms, at the same time winning the mare on a wager. At dinner upon his return to Morrin's he is amazed when Flavin drinks a toast "To the King across the water." Angell fears that a ruling of sentiment will force him to resign his seat in Parliament, and the people to their loss. The colonel refuses and next morning after breakfast is invited to join a family council of war in refusing the proposed uprising, knowing, as he thinks, Flavin's plan to be a foolish one. The Mo'Mart, however, the McMurrough and his friends impress him and his guest with the need of keeping up appearances before the people at her bazaar. She and her brother find the colonel's presence irksome and consider means of getting rid of him. When Angell comes to dine Flavin, and because of either his liberality or forbidden the bazaar by the Colonel the McMurrough and his friends refuse to subscribe. Angell, however, is not to be deterred by the colonel's refusal, feels, on the plea that he can be impressed by the latter's personality, that then turn the colonel to account at night and has him carried out there, without food or water, in the hope that he may thus be induced to sign over to The McMurrough all that he has under the will of Sir Michael McMurrough. Meanwhile, Peyton walks out of her outdoors room from Trajan on investigation. Peyton is remarried; Angell is in love with her, and she with him, but he is engaged and he dumb he upon her head. She releases him and bears back to Morrintown, with the aunts in house of Peyton, while her brother and Angell flee.

CHAPTER XXII

The Scene on the Passage

UNDER the shadow of the great pentagon, whither he had retired that he might make up his mind before he faced the three, Angell cursed The Mo'Mart with all his heart. It was not to be, though he duly and with management that he being had behaved that the prisoner had been released, that he had not left him to die in the dungeon, that he had not fled for Peyton. How or just enabled Colonel John from running that cursed scrape at the house which he had entered and helped? How sop in the best that succeed scrapping, that feeling for him with Flavin's outbreak the night before had suggested? Or how, short of all this, was he to face either Peyton or the colonel?

In accord with James McMurrough he might have arranged a plan of action, at least, he would have learned from him what was the position of affairs; but meeting some time in the rain before that he could whisper, Angell was to support

Colonel Sullivan was not there, he was in no condition to descend. Nor was Flavin, whereas Angell reckoned with dragon, that probably she was at breakfast upon the ground. Peyton was at table, with the two O'Sullens, and the two other Peytons. The Englishman, amused by the discovery he had made, was apparently delighted of his company here, while the Tirlahmon, sullen and out of humor, were not aware how much he knew. If The McMurrough chose to say nothing of the circumstances, it was flattering to them; nor a matter into which gentlemen coming at his table and his house could be drawn publicly and cattle upon to pass too closely.

But for his repute as a dandy they would have picked a quarrel with the stranger before they left the house; but the presence of his four troopers in the background they might have fallen upon him in some less regular fashion. As it was they sat eyeing him askance, and without their wont relaxed when Angell entered. They looked to him to clear up the situation and put the latter right in his right place.

"I'm fearing I'm late," Angell said, after he had The McMurrough by the hand.

"Time to meet your friend, I should think," Peyton replied, with a sneer

Angell maintained a steady glare. "My friend?" he repeated. "Oh, Col ane Sullivan?"

"Yes, your friend who was to return today," the other retorted. "Have you been anything of him?" he continued, with a grin.

Angell found his eyes steadily on Peyton's face. "I'm fearing you have the advantage of me," he said. "More by token, I'm thinking. Maybe, you have seen that same friend already."

"I have," she said.

"And had a bout with him?"

"Eh!"

"And, faith, had the best of the bout too!" Angell continued coolly, and with his eyes fixed on the other's features so if his one aim was to see if he had hit the mark. "So much the best that I'll be choosing a guess he's upstairs at this moment, and wounded! Lamentable, I hear you and the young lady brought him to the house between you and him seemingly able to use his ten toes."

Peyton, with a scowl on her face, glared at him, but in a second Peyton or the other three could have prevented him by laughter.

"Isn't that the fact?" Angell said coldly.

"The fact!" the other burst forth loudly. "The wound if it is not the fact, have it is not! You know it as well as I do"—and she turned to Angell with a version of the events at the affair hand.

When he had done, "That's a strange story," Angell said, "and I'm sorry for it."

"True!" Peyton rejoined, laying his hand on a glass and spooning in a towering rage. "I've been it's true! I'm sorry for nothing about it," Angell replied, with the utmost coolness.

"Nothing!"

"And for a good reason. Sure, and on the last occasion I remember I had to tell it to!"

"And you were not a party to it?" Peyton cried.

"Why should I be?" Angell rejoined. "What have I to gain by robbing the young lady of her inheritance? I'd be more likely to help by it than hinder it. Lose by it! Why?"

He Dashed the Glass and Its Contents Into Peyton's Face

"That is my affair," Angell answered. SEE Mr Sullivan!"

They tried put the coastber on Judy McDale.

"Oh, come, come, come, now, there! cried another and rounder and Paddy O'Ban;

For who but she's owner of Ballytrane should be?"

He made his meaning so clear that Peyton, scowling at him with his head on a glass as if he meant to throw it, dropped the eyes and his head and fell into a gloomy study. He could not but own the weight of the other's argument, that Angell was a welcome to the house of Colonel Sullivan. Simply in his mind would be of more use to her properly.

Angell read his thoughts, and paused to

"I hope the wound is not serious?" he said.

"He is not wounded," the latter answered curtly. Meanwhile the O'Sullens and their fellows grinned like monkeys at the sight of the bone fancier; and went out soon by one, until the last, they were together

They set some way apart. Peyton brooding savagely, with his eyes on the ground, and Angell laying with the flicks of fern his. Each saw the price clear he knew; each saw the other in the way. Peyton cared for the girl herself only as the key to the estate, but the latter, with his mouth watered for her possession. Each, therefore, was ready to go to the length of killing the other, and each of the two should never live to possess the woman. "It is a pity," Peyton at last stated, "for, with his aid, I could take the girl, willy or swilling. She'd be not the first Irish girl who has gone to her marriage across the pommel!" While Angell reckoned that if he could but get rid of Peyton by fair or foul he would not be his small sword would help him to her at the very moment and find him! But it must not be at Morrintown house, for there were the troopers, and the other had taken precaution enough that he would not be the first to fall.

Peyton, on the other hand, glared at the other from under his brows, and resented the presence of his four troopers in the background they might have fallen upon him in some less regular fashion. As it was they sat eyeing him askance, and without their wont relaxed when Angell entered. They looked to him to clear up the situation and put the latter right in his right place.

During the progress of the fire the other night we asked the fire brigade chief how he would replenish the engine tank with water when empty supposing the fire to be still burning and the other engine working. He answered that he would have to take the engine away to where they could get the water. Now everybody in town knows or does not know where that would be. In the neighborhood of a quarter-mile run to secure the supply. It does not matter what extent the fire might have in considering the matter. We are soon to face with one of the most ordinarily conditions possible and simply lamenting fate. Asked why they had not a wagon and tank of water at hand, the chief replied that they had repeatedly asked the council to provide the same but they had not done anything. The moral of story is plain. Why do they not do it?

CLASS WE WANT

Fort William Journal.—In two or four hours the settlers coming into Canada from the United States represented no less than one million dollars in capital. To-day these are twelve thousand people from Europe on the same way to Canada. Seven or eight train goes through Fort William these days from east to west, but not in three or four sections of 10 promises to beat all records.

We were present at the meeting of the U.F.A. local last Saturday, and were again struck with the unanimous absence of farmers from parts more immediately adjacent to town than those actually represented. It really looks well or those farmers who made it their business to be present and particularly as they had to come many miles to the meeting as against the short distances those who did not appear would have to come. It leaves who are the enterprising men among the local farmer class and who will make the most out of their vocation

Canada Selects Her Immigrants

Washington, D.C., April 1.—"Canada wants immigrants whose purpose it is to enter agricultural pursuits, to land owners, tenants or clerks, and desires to exclude those whose purpose would tend to a congestion of the towns or cities."

This is probably the most important statement in a report submitted to Congress today by Senator Dillingham, chairman of the joint immigration commission, in regard to the attention to Canada.

The striking feature of the report is a comparison of immigration into Canada during the last decade with that into the United States. This shows that while 70 per cent. of Canada's emigrants during that period came from Northern and Western Europe, and only 30 per cent. from Southern and Eastern Europe, the reverse was true in regard to the immigrants entering the United States.

Railways Will be Badly Blocked

Chicago, April 1.—James J. Hill believes the railroads will experience the next fall and winter the greatest traffic congestion in their history and he sees no way of preventing it. He passed through Chicago yesterday on his way from St. Paul to New York. The tonnage which is being offered the railroads for transportation is constantly on the increase" he said, "and there is little doubt that the railroads will be called upon this year to furnish more transportation units than they have ever been asked to furnish. From all indications it seems certain that by next fall or early winter the railroads will be totally unable to furnish anything like the amount of transportation facilities which will be demanded by the country. I do not think that the railroads are to be blamed for this situation, for it is next to impossible for them to raise the money needed to provide the additional facilities which the railroads of the country really ought to have. About $1,000,000,000 annually would have to be spent for the next couple of years in order to catch up with the growing demands made upon them. But it is a well known fact that they cannot get this money under present conditions. Until railroad credit shall have been restored the American public will have to continue to suffer the lack of railroad facilities.

Sick Headache

Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Coated or Sore Mouth Cured by Mi-o-na

Sick headaches are caused by indigestion and a general disturbed condition of the stomach.

Cure the indigestion and the headache, nausea, heartburn, sour stomach and that "all in" feeling will vanish.

Mi-o-na tablets will cure indigestion or any other stomach trouble. They will relieve almost instantly. If Mi-o-na does not do as much for them as it has done for you your money back if they don't.

Mi-o-na cures by making the stomach strong enough to produce enough gastric juices to digest all the food you want to eat. It promptly puts new life and energy into the overworked and played-out walls of the stomach.

Use Mi-o-na for a week, and you can eat what you want any time you want it, and take pleasure in doing it.

Your blood will be richer, purer, purer after taking Mi-o-na, and it only costs 50 cents a large box.

Frank Ohr, St. Thomas, Ont., says: "My wife was troubled with indigestion for a number of years. We tried a number of preparations to no effect. Finally she began to use Mi-o-na and has been entirely relieved of all those troubles. I can confidentially recommend Mi-o-na.

The Board of Trade Reorganize

The Tofield Board of Trade was reorganized last Monday night at a large meeting of the business men of town held in A. J. H. McCauley's office. The officers for the current year were elected and are as follows:—President, N. C. Leggo; Vice-President, J. A. Yeamie; Secretary, Jas. L. Hammond; Treasurer, W. C. Swift; Council, C. E. Jamieson, Wm. Lee, J. O. Letourneau, A. F. Fugl and C. H. Cress.

The membership fee was set at $1.00 per year as before and it is expected that the town council will materially assist the Board in active campaign of publicity for the town and district.

SEVENTEEN SPECIALS BOUND FOR THE WEST

Montreal, April 1.—Seventeen special trains from Halifax and St. John are due at Montreal this week end, with over six thousand immigrants, this big rush ending the biggest week in the immigration line that Canada has had for a good many years.

Over 12,000 settlers have reached this country during the week. In this party there are six special trains from the Empress of Britain and several from other boats, while six specials laden with immigrants are coming in over the Intercolonial and Grand Trunk. Most of the settlers are bound for the far west.

That they are well laden with supplies is shown by the fact that the C.P.R. had to send 15 baggage cars to St. John to bring forward the effects of the people coming in over that line. Included in the party are 80 families comprising about 180 people who are going to Calgary, to take up farms under Sir Thomas Shaughnessy's latest scheme of ready-made farms for settlers in the irrigation country.

Woman's World

"THE DEVIL'S FRUIT CAKE."

Mrs. Wilson of Hamilton, Ontario, Extraordinary to the World at Large.

Here is the story of a woman who finds herself famous without makes advertisement upon her part. A career has, in fact, thrust itself upon her. All she has done has been to develop an inborn art impetus, a rather wonderful palate, and among the items of least resistance, but of most profit. As a consequence she has kings and noblemen, presidents and cabinet ministers, not to mention simple millionaires, among her patrons. The truly wonderful thing is that it all comes not from ambition, but from doing woman's work in what should be woman's way, which is to say better than ever it was done before.

So much for the general portion is to. Here follow a few much more interesting: Name, Elizbeth Lyle Wilson; local habitation, Nashville, Tenn.; condition, happy wife and mother; profession, exhaustion is extraordinary to the world at large. And such cake as she makes! To eat of it is something novel; as an experience and an epoch, indeed. It leaves a haunting memory, an aching void which only more of the same cake can fill.

Small wonder, then, that no less a person than William Howard Taft has served in a way as the cake's press agent.

Mr. Taft while at Nashville, just before the 4th of March, ate of her "devil's fruit cake," which is innocuous to sound digestion despite its name. It captivated him. He took back with him to Washington a generous sample. As a consequence Mrs. Wilson has received orders for several cakes to be sent to the White House at Christmas-tide. She has express receipts showing that her cakes have been delivered at the tennis of Vienna and St Jamestown as well as American fairs-known and not a few other repositories. They have gone safely as far as Australia and Russia and even into Russia. Mrs. Wilson never ate the inside of a cooking utensil. All she has done is through inherent flair gift. She has married much in the direction, becomes among and housekeeping were, as they still are, her interests. She had not the least thought of doing more than delight the palates of her family and her friends. From baking for her friends she drifted into regular work, once again at her husband's will. He was taking care of their family. Still, the exercise has not bred family discussion. How could it when through her work the two have but found out only profit, but happiness and health?

The maker of this delicious cake has very generously given the recipe for the delicacy:

One pound of flour, browned and sifted; one pound of butter, one pound of sugar, twelve eggs, four pounds of raisins, one pound of homemade citron, one pound of crystallized cherries and pineapple mixed, one pound of almonds cut fine and sprinkled overnight in cocoanut, one pound of pecan meats cut small, one glass grape jelly, half a glass of molasses, one glass of good whisky or brandy, tablespoonful each of powdered allspice, cinnamon and nutmeg and teaspoonful of powdered cloves. Sprinkle all the fruit evenly before in the whisky, cream together butter and sugar, add to them egg yolks beaten very light, then the cream, spices and jelly. Put in next two teaspoonfuls of melted chocolate, next add the whites of eight beaten stiff and part of the flour. Add the fruit in the rest of the flour and add to the mixture. Put in nests last of all. If nuts are not cut put in a third more fruit. Bake several hours, keeping a bowl of water in the oven until almost done.

When the Wind Blows.

In an old house with numerous frames were sensitive natures are often driven on what by the rattling of wind down on a blustery night. It is a good thing in the country for the nervous agency to keep in each room four or five quiet chickamins, to be used as wedges between the upper and lower sash.

Silent chickamins can also be found into the latch of a noisy window in such a way that it is impossible to open it from the outside. This is a benevolent bit of knowledge when either is frequently heard or the hour of midnight not unseen.

Round Hill

Breezy Budget from Growing District South

The farmers of this district are busily engaged at this time cultivating and seeding.

The dance at Mr. Carl Hansen's on Saturday evening was a great success, a large crowd being present to enjoy the good time.

Our local implement man is busy every day of the week setting up machinery.

Mr. Lewis Farness is put confined to his home as a result of the fall he suffered from his horse a few weeks ago. We hope that his recovery, if slow, will be complete.

Do not forget the grand basket social to be held at Round Hill on the evening of Friday, April 1st. Every preparation is being made to give those who attend the time of their lives.

Mrs. Havens, who with her two small children, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Johnson, has returned to her home at Bawlf.

Mr. Currie has just returned from visiting friends at Calgary.

Mr. Stauffer of Nebraska, has rented the farm of Mr. James Shephard and has moved onto it with his family. He intends to build on his own property, section 7-49-18, this summer and begin farming on a considerable scale. Round Hill always has a welcome for settlers of that stamp.

A meeting to organize the new Round Hill school district will be held at Round Hill on Friday, April 8th, at 1 o'clock.

Reliable rumor has it that the C.N.R. are once more laying steel on this line and will be here in the near future. We will all be glad to be them.

A serious and what might have been a fatal runaway accident occurred here on April 1. A livery team had just arrived from Camrose and while proceeding down the main drag to the livery barn took fright and became unmanageable. The occupants were thrown out and others hurled against the garden fence, the face of the driver being severely lacerated by the barb wire. The other occupant being under the benign protection of the god of chance came through unscathed.

Mr. P. A. Ferguson has been granted a lease on section 28, adjoining the townsite and has found the very same vein of coal of the same quality and thickness as that underlying his own land. Other prospectors are working in the neighborhood.

The basket social and dance held at Round Hill in the home of Mr. Ross was an undoubted hummer. Parties from Camrose Tofield and Ryley were present to enjoy the eveng of the season. The fame of Round Hill dances was sustained in all its glory. Mr. Ross officiated as auctioneer and disposed of all the baskets for generous prices. Early in the morning the large crowd departed delighted with the time they had enjoyed.

The baseball club has ordered a full outfit and expect in the near future to lay out and fit up the diamond.

Miss Ferguson of Mehlahl attended the teacher's convention at Calgary at Easter.

Rev. O. Anderson of Redwing, Minn., who has been visiting Bardo in connection with the Lutheran Synod left Tofield on last Wednesday's train for Edmonton.

Rev. Mr. Ronning of Bardo was in town last Wednesday.

Miss Magwood is holding a series of gospel meetings this week in the Methodist church.

Good Crops the Usual Thing in this District

An epidemic of the grippe has been evident here for a week or so. The attendet have been pretty severe.

We saw it stated recently that there was no precedent for bumper crops following an early spring. We gave one example in our last —1905— and 1907 is another. With the exception of 1908, when there was practically no crop on account of the terrible drought, good crops at least have been the usual result early seeding. Some people are worrying on account of the ground being so dry. In 1907, 1905, and 1908, this feature was evident, yet crops were either good or extra good. In 1907 a large amount of barley and oats and some wheat didn't germinate till June. May way exceedingly dry that year, and farmers looked blue, but the rains set in on June 7th harvest followed in August and the yields were extra good considering the fact that no drills were used at the lake then. We close by saying that we do not prophesy a bumper crop or any kind of a crop. We are as much opposed to that fool-humbug as anyone can be, but, per contra, we are not pessimistic, for the probalities are in favor.

Some of the speculators holding lands here have been 'done' payment for taxes are come road. This year some lands changed owners and the new proprietors paid up. This was welcome.

Mrs. D. A. McCallum and Alfred McCallum who were seriously ill, are recovering we are glad to say. Dame put in a very anxious time for a week or so.

When Tom Ryan Glendale-Irma across some racy political news he rushes to the phone and calls up our leading Tory. All the same Tom says he holds his nose when the Rabbit government is mentioned. The Ottawa survival of corruption is as stiar of rouse to him however.

Building in Tofield

Building has begun to proceed apace at Tofield. Present indications go to show that the active building season has commenced several weeks ago in the Standard is rapidly taking form. During the past week construction has been started on several buildings. The new guests' furnishings store on Main street south of Cress's general store has been put up by contractor Storey and will shortly be completed. Wm. J. Hopgood has put an alternative addition to his house on 2nd street south. J. L. Abbot this week began construction of his new residence on 4th avenue south, just east of J. W. Carter's. Preparations for the building of the new Hall block, a 50x by sixty two-story brick are under way. The post office building is being moved across the street and being placed immediately north of R. O. Bird's hardware store. Jamieson's Drug Store is to be shifted and placed north of Cress's general Store, while Jamieson's

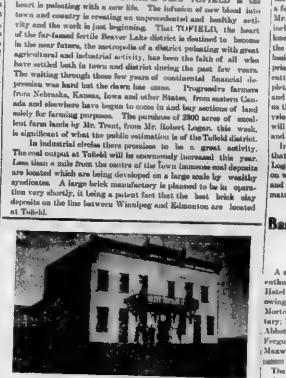
Building Active in Town. Farm Lands Changing Hands. Progressive Farmers and Business Men Coming In.

1910 Will Be Record Year in Tofield District

Development Steady and Permanent

The season of 1910 is opening auspiciously in the TOFIELD District. The Beaver Lake District of which TOFIELD is the heart is pulsating with a new life. The infusion of new blood into town and country is creating an unprecedented and healthy activity and the work is just beginning. That TOFIELD, the heart of the far-famed fertile Beaver Lake district is destined to become in the near future, the metropolis of a district pulsating with great agricultural and industrial activity, has been the faith of all who have settled both in town and district during the past few years. The waiting through those few years of continental depression was hard but the dawn has come. Progressive farmers from Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and other States, from eastern Canada and elsewhere have begun to come in and buy sections of land solely for farming purposes. The purchase of 2000 acres of unsettled farm lands by Mr. Trent, from Mr. Robert Logan, this week, is significant of what the public estimation is of the Tofield district.

In industrial circles there promises to be a great activity. The coal output at Tofield will be enormously increased this year. Less than a mile from the centre of the town commercial coal deposits are located which are being developed on a large scale by wealthy syndicates. A large brick manufactory is planned to be in operation very shortly, it being a patent fact that the best brick clay deposits on the line between Winnipeg and Edmonton are located at Tofield.



Queens Hotel

Purchased this week by Messrs Denny and David of Camrose and which will be re-modelled throughout as well as largely added to.

Keeping pace with rural development the activity in town is strong. Business concerns are coming in preparing to cater to the needs of the growing population in the country surrounding. Business blocks are being erected. Carpenters, masons, lumber men, bankers, professional men and laborers are busy. This week also another change in the march of progress. Messrs. Denny and David of Camrose, who see a good thing in Tofield have purchased and taken over the Queen's Hotel at a cost in the neighborhood of $20,000 and will remodel it thoroughly and large 50 foot addition on the Main St. frontage besides putting up a two story addition on the 2nd avenue frontage. And so it is going, the country is filling up and Tofield, the heart of the far-famed fertile Beaver Lake district is growing. There is still room for more. Many are coming. Reader, why not you?

Logan Farm Sold

2300 Acres en bloc Purchased by Progressive Farmer

One of the largest real estate deals which has ever taken place in the Tofield district and which shows the strong faith which is held in Tofield realty by the outside world, was made this week when Mr. W. H. Trent, now of Edmonton and recently of Medicine Hat, became the purchaser of 2300 acres of land a few miles north of Tofield from Mr. Robert Logan. This purchase includes what has commonly been known as Mr. Logan's ranch, on the lake. The purchase included besides the rich land which comprises the estate, some 80 head of cattle, 27 head of horses and complete outfit of farming implements and machinery. Mr. Trent informs us that it was his intention to develop this large farm at once. He will put a large outfit in charge and farm on a large scale.

Incidentally we might remark that it was on this farm that Mr. Logan resided for many years and on which he successfully grew corn and tomatoes which ripened to maturity year after year.

Baseball Club Organized

A meeting of the local baseball enthusiasts was held at the Queen's Hotel on Monday last. The following officers were elected: J. W. Morton, president; J. Lea, secretary; N. C. Legge, treasurer; J. L. Abbot, R. E. Emery and M. W. Ferguson, finance committee; A. S. Maxwell and R. N. Whitham, managers.

The secretary was instructed to write the towns along the line as far east as Wainwright with regard so forming a league.

The matter of securing new uniforms was discussed and it was decided that the new suits be green with white and green sacks, white T on shirts and white caps with green peak.

Tofield will have a fast bunch of ball-tossers this year and should make them all travel.

The Horseman

"Although the quantity was no small, it seemed to do the usual work of a gasoline preparation in a car fitted with a high compression head. Put it in your gasoline tank and you will be surprised at the results. It is not a gasoline substitute, but a gasoline improver, and it does not dissolve the rubber connections and diaphragms as do most gasoline substitutes. Any man who is handy with tools can put it up in his own home. I had a number of the parts made by a machinist friend of mine, and then quite absolutely proved the device. First money is whispered a big car. You will notice that there is a gauge on the dashboard that shows at a glance the amount of gasoline that is being used. Before I had this gauge I was never sure how much gasoline I was using, but now I can tell at a glance. I have had it in use for some time, and I find it a very satisfactory device."

Perhaps in some particular cases the Horseman's methods may be open to criticism from over-sensitive persons, always ready to see just as surely giving his work all the time that he can in order to get out of their money prisoners. It is because we are well more human in every one customer but ourselves. And it is because we are human that we are willing to put ourselves on the back and say well done because we have "finished it" job in a true.

But all this is neither here nor here said, that the definitions are taken from the Horseman's own words, and before it becomes outdated, must have the unqualified approval of the Nation as the paying Lone Horse and the Lone timber of noble Mohawks. And the more should know, because after we see he travels with all manners and forms of the horse like it is his life, that habits, dispositions, peculiarities fundamentally he has. With them he labors incessantly and untelligent as the vast majority of his kind are, he distrings when the downside and will be spent the earth and start anew.

It is of for every man who loves a horse to give some time in life to in things we know as the extravagant fancy of a genius quick money with some coming occasional performer. Here you bet on some horse and lose in after. You felt the excitement of the track, the face of the racing owner, and found feature your mind upon the glory of the winner and the exuberance that the winning carried! With your feet tilt at high, your pipe bringing soothing feelings to your mind, to the sound out the cheers of the crowd, you are in a heaven. You are filled with contentment. Then he lost for long years been an utter and it the horses have not had a mind—I see more nags many of them that you have come to you an over whelming desire to get closer to the game. Or, as a tactful perhaps to drive one. In that twilight vision, you see all the bright, shining features none of the disappointing ones. A grand speed, winning steam, rushing cheers. You see it all. And when you had awakened from your revelry, it was possessed with a fixed determination to buy a racing prospect.

Maybe you fell for the clever manipulations of some horse dealer eager to unload an animal that had often beer glanced at contrary. Perhaps you bought of an honest person who rep sented the horse just as he knew him. If the latter was the case you may have realized some of your fondest hopes in them. For it is written that not all horses are liars. But if you unfortunately got the former, you will probably have the blame where you will, dealer horse, stage, judges, track, or any of the innumerable and often time honorable things connected in the life of the book. The nag that need no blame for his failure. The other fellow may be a rank counterfeit in your hands, as natural as it may seem and unexplained as it may be.

We say, then, if there comes a fall of all to your dreams make a diagnosis of your horse before throwing, as before, as it goes in the stomach to the anatomy of the animal. Then you will be sure of the cause of your disappointment. Then you will be able to avoid the same mistake in the future. Then you will be able to know that the horse is not a rank counterfeit in your hands, as natural as it may seem and unexplained as it may be.

TOFIELD, APR 14 1910.

WHAT A HUSTLER CAN DO.

The reason why some towns grow is because there are men of push and energy in it who were not afraid to spend time and money to boom their town. They erect substantial buildings, organize stock companies and establish factories, secure railroads, work for public improvements and use every means in their power to induce people to locate in their city. Wherever they go they tell of the advantages of their town, they write about them in every letter, they send circulars and newspapers to all whom they can get to visit the city, and when anyone visits them treats him so kindly that he falls in love with them and their city at once. It is enterprise and everyone pulling together that makes a progressive town, and don't let the fact escape your memory. --Galt Reporter.

Prepare for Fair

Now that the Tofield Agricultural Society has been successfully organized and it has been decided to hold an Agricultural Exhibition and Stock Show this fall it behooves every farmer in the district to set about preparing an exhibit for the coming show. Begin now. Set aside a plot for the growing of some vegetable, grain or fruit. Tend it carefully and show how successfully our prudence and enterprise be rewarded in the Tofield district. Be a patriot and a booster. Remember that your district takes second place to none. That the best of everything in vegetables, cereals and small fruits can be raised successfully in your district. Bring up that calf in the way you should. Care for that steer, the cow and the colt. Let everyone and everybody take a full share in the responsibility and the pleasure of boosting the district. Remember our future is what we make it. The eyes of others are upon us. Are we going to make good? We can and we will. Let this be our watchword. Success for TOFIELD FAIR 1910.

SELLING A NEWSPAPER IS NOT QUITE SO EASY

The Rev. Malcolm James McLeod, a Presbyterian clergyman, of Pasadena, Cal., was very anxious to learn of some of the difficulties, dangers and fascinations of newspaper making. He edited the Star, of his home town for one day and this is his verdict.

"My time is now almost up as I pen this last line; my head is almost paralyzed; my brain is befuddled and I am free to confess that I am right glad to vacate the holy spot. Such rush and riot and disarray. Such jumble and pot-pourri. It strikes me as the daily effort to bring order out of chaos and to do it lightningly quick. I am reminded of the memorable words, 'The earth was without form and void, and darkness was upon the deep.' And the spirit moved upon the face of the waters." Never shall I criticise newspaper men. I shall pray for them. They will have our heart's forbearance henceforth and forever, the hardest worked, shortest lived, poorest paid brain-workers on this weary world of ours.

That's the opinion of a man of education and ability who tried the job out and found that it wasn't all luncheons and free tickets. And yet even in Tofield it is not uncommon for somebody without education or intelligence to brag about the ease and grace with which he could edit a paper and make it so free from defects that everybody would cry for it as the babies in the nursery days used to cry for Mrs. Winslow's soothing syrup.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.--Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Indians in North Dying of Starvation

Edmonton, April 11.—A. Brabant, a Hudson's Bay factor on the Mackenzie River, who has been a resident of that district for over twelve years, brought into the city news that, slowly, but surely, Indians in the north country are dying off. Brabant has headquarters at Fort Rae on the arm of the Great Slave Lake, more than a thousand miles north of here.

Mr. Brabant states that 75 deaths were recorded in one tribe this year and that the red men were slowly dying of starvation. Many lives would have been lost had not the government come to their assistance and furnished supplies.

which recently purchased the coal properties immediately south of town is contemplating putting in a brick manufacturing plant. This will mean quite an increase in industry at Tofield and will fill a long felt want as well as providing another valuable commodity for export. It is authoritatively stated that from Winnipeg to Edmonton along the G. T. P., there is no other point that has the necessary materials for the manufacture of brick in quantity and quality that Tofield possesses. It will not be long until this feature of Tofield's industrial resources will have been properly prospected and developed. A practically unlimited market awaits the development of this industry at this point.

We have it on good authority that the Tofield Coal Co., Ltd., will shortly resume operations on a large scale in the development of their large holdings in the immediate vicinity of Tofield and through which the Tofield-Calgary branch line runs immediately after it leaves the limits of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Than Noland were in town last Tuesday.

H. W. Nanton is building a new residence in town.

J. L. Abbott is making good headway on his new residence on 4th Avenue.

Mrs. S. E. Lane, of Ryley, is visiting this week with Mrs. A. A. Story.

Hutty McKeon, of Edmonton, came down last Tuesday on a business trip.

Mrs. G. R. Owens has been seriously indisposed several days this week.

Mr. Carney of Wetaskiwin who is putting in a livery Outfitting stock in Tofield shortly was in town this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Shaw made a trip over the G T P. to the Capital last Monday returning on Tuesday.

Work began last Monday on the new Kellner block 25 feet by 60 feet which is going up on Main St. opposite the new Hall block.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller of Caledonia spent the last week end visiting their daughter, Mrs. J. W. Carter of Tofield.

A. Lamontagne is returning to Tofield this week and to reside having received a position in connection with the Queen's Hotel.

The Weekly Chronicle of Fort Saskatchewan, Vol. I. No. 1, has reached this office. We wish it every success.

Rev. R. Whillans will attend the Presbyterian Synod which meets in Edmonton next week, as the delegate from the Tofield congregation.

Morton & Adams removed their stable last Monday from the rear of the Queen's Hotel block to a lot north of the new town well, west of Main St.

Walter Bellamy, family butcher, late of Edmonton, opened the Palace Meat Market on Main St., Tofield, opposite the Reliance Store this week.

Fall wheat is above ground in several parts of the Tofield district and looking fine. Spring wheat is up on Geo. McKay's farm and is apparently a good stand

Send the Standard to your friends as a no. the old home. A large weekly letter telling of the progress of the district you have chosen as your Western home.

Fred Kellner, a brother of Miss Kellner, came up from Wetaskiwin last week and this week began preparations for the erection of the new Kellner block on Main Street.

Messrs Dreyer and Hustler, students from Alberta College, were in Tofield last Sunday and conducted the service in the Methodist Church in the morning.

M. E. Coykendall has rented W. J. Hopgood's farm for the summer and has taken up residence there. Mr. Coykendall recently arrived from the States.

Mac Mills Magguard, a well known Christian Worker, has been making a series of special gospel meetings in town and there is not a resident in town who would not have felt better if he or she had attended at least some of the meetings.

Prairie and bush fires in the neighborhood west of Tofield caused some anxiety to settlers in that region. On Sunday Munro's area reported to have lost their hay. The smoke from the fires lay very heavy around town on Monday. J. W. Horton took a party out to his farm in the afternoon and found the fire burning up quite close to his buildings. Many settlers have had to turn out during the past week to fight the fires.

Preparing for 1910 Crops

I. H. Olson was in town last Monday. He is building a 24 x 36 granary which will hold 12,000 bushels. Mr. Olson informs the Standard that his fall wheat looks fine. He expects a lumper crop, 35 to 50 bushels of fall wheat, he says, can be raised per acre in the TOFIELD district.

Tofield District Looks Good to Denver, Colorado Man

The Tofield District looks good to me, said Mr. Geo. Fowler the other day. Mr. Fowler comes from Denver, Colorado, and has been looking around the province for some time for farm lands. He has spent some time in various districts and arrived in Tofield last Saturday. A drive around on Monday morning settled his mind and from now on it is 'Tofield for him.'

Round Hill

The Steel gang on the C. N. R. is rapidly approaching Round Hill and they are expected to be here in a few days.

John Johnson has opened his past room at Round Hill and the iron gang will be commenced.

It is expected that Round Hill will have a lumber yard in the near future there being at present two lumber firms considering the proposition.

Mr John Anderson intends giving a dance on the evening of Friday April 15. All who attend are assured of a good time.

A meeting was held at Round Hill on Friday April 8th at which the new Round Hill Village School District was organized. Messrs E. Bathen, Andrew Foss and P. A. Fergstad were elected trustees. The new District embraces Sections 7, 8, 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22 in Township 48-18 and sections 23, 24, 25, 26, 35 and 36 in Township 48-19. It is intended to move the present school building two miles straight south and annex some additional territory from the Lake Isle No. 2 District.

Mr Geo. P. Smith M. P. P. for this riding held a meeting at Round Hill on Friday afternoon April 8. Mr. Smith outlined his remarks at most entirely to a criticism of the Alberta and Great Waterway Railway Agreement the main object of the meeting being to enable him to justify to the electors his opposition to the Government on that project. Mr Sir the remarks were listened to by a large crowd with the closest attention and at the close of the meeting a vote of confidence in him as our representative was moved seconded and carried without a dissenting voice.

Council

Four Debenture By-laws, Health and Good Order Pass

SCAVENGER APPOINTED

Fire Com to Report

Four debenture by-laws will be submitted to the vote of the ratepayers of Tofield on the 14th of May next. These are the Exhibition Grounds by-law, the Nuisance Grounds, Market Site and Water Works by-laws. The drafts of these by-laws were recently submitted to the corporation lawyers employed by the Financial Brokers who have contracted to purchase the debentures and it was found that they had to undergo some alterations to make them technically and legally correct from the brokers stand point. The vote was accordingly passed and the new drafts submitted.

The amounts of the debentures to be authorized are as follows :-

Exhibition Grounds $750, ten years at 6 ; Nuisance Grounds $583, ten years at 6 ; Market Site $485, ten years at 6 ; Water works $1000, 20 years at 5 .

These bylaws were considered, and read a first and second time at the council meeting last Tuesday evening.

A new by-law regulating conduct upon the streets and in public places within the municipality and for the suppression of vice and immorality was introduced and passed its three readings.

The account of the Globe Lumber Co. for $654.62 for lumber was passed and that of C. E. Jamieson for $31.25 for supplies laid over.

The election of a school trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Wm. Lee was set for May 14th, simultaneous with the vote on the by-laws.

The mayor introduced the matter of the appointment of a license inspector. Constable Mahaffey will receive the appointment and the License Committee is to report the question of salary to be attached to the position.

Coun Ferguson presented a verbal request from the fire brigade for an additional supply of firearms and coals. He stated that as long as the supply was low it was impossible for the brigade to have fire drill. The chemicals were ordered to be purchased.

Matters affecting fire protection would have at this juncture been indefinitely postponed were it not for Councillor Fagl raising the question of the necessity of a water wagon tank as an auxiliary to the chemical engines. Councillors Harper and Ferguson thought that this might be left over to see whether a supply of water would be struck at the new well. Councillors Fagl and Maxwell vigorously opposed this, holding that in the present circumstances the fire brigade was practically useless in the case of a large fire. As a result of the discussion the Fire, Water and Light committee were ordered to bring in a full report on fire protection matters with relation to the brigade so that the council can take definite action in the interests of the citizens. Councillor Ferguson promised a good report.

After having been considered, passed, reopened and all but nullified and repealed, the scavenger by-law matter has at last been settled and Frank Bauer will receive the appointment as scavenger.

Police Court Young Men Fined

The new by-law regulating conduct upon the streets and in public places within the municipality, and for the suppression of vice and immorality which was passed last Tuesday night by the Council and which immediately became operative was productive of good effect today. The first two offenders under this by-law were Ivan Hayes and Ernest Ingram, who being found guilty of using abusive, vulgar and indecent language, and in the latter case insulting also, were each fined $1 a dollars and costs by Justice of the Peace Swift, this morning. The prosecutor in both cases was Town Constable Mahaffey.

A. B. Maxwell appeared to answer a complaint laid against him by Ernest Ingram for assault. In the hearing of this case the evidence went to show that the complainant had used the most insulting and threatening language against the accused and that the plea of self defence put up by the accused was amply justified. The justice therefore dismissed the case against Maxwell and laid the costs against the complainant.

The justice severely censured the two offenders, Hayes and Ingram, and warned them that if they ever up again they will be much more severely dealt with.

Burst a Blood Vessel

Last Tuesday morning Councillor R. E. Kinney was attacked very suddenly with a severe hemorrhage caused by the rupture of a blood vessel in the nasal passages. The prompt attendance of a physician gave the patient immediate relief.

Camrose May Get Another College

Hauges Branch of Norwegian Church Will Erect College in Alberta. Strong Bid From Camrose.

The Hauges branch of the Lutheran church have decided to build a college in Alberta and a committee of that church are now looking for a desirable location.

Ryley and Kingman have offered free sites. Tofield and Edmonton will also make offers and it is understood that Camrose will offer a choice of two free sites, as an inducement to locate to the college here. The sites mentioned are one west of town north of the C.P.R. tracks, the other, east of the C.N.R. station. Other things being equal it would seem that the count of their railway facilities the choice would lay between Camrose and Edmonton.

The committee, Rev. T. T. Carlson, of Camrose, P. B. Anderson of Ryrdo and Rev. A. E. Hanson of Strandos, who are acting for the church, will decide on a site according to offers submitted and present their report at the Synod meeting at Red Wing, Minnesota, the first week in June.—Canadian, Camrose.

Navigation opened on the Great Lakes last Monday.

The elections just over in Australia show the Liberal party to be victorious, they having a large majority. The Labor policy of the new government will be earnestly watched by the nations.

Synopsis of Previous Chapters

Colonel John Marsham, an old soldier, who has served abroad for many years, returns to his native Berkshire to find himself a French exile, owing money, and with his estate mortgaged to the verge of the sheep-walks. He has but one son, Philip, who is a captain in Argentan, was wounded, and has had to leave on account of a duel.

Colonel Marsham is chiefly troubled by the presence in the neighborhood of Jacques Jacquemart, a Frenchman who has made a fortune in Australia, and who has taken Lake Angell, the manor-house, and is doing his best to ingratiate himself with the squire. Jacquemart's daughter Marie is the heroine of the story, and Colonel John has taken her rough to by the front and forced her to make a bandage on, while he treated it. She looked at the stout man, and, charging him to be careful, left the room.

Presently there came an hour out for tea to the fluttering breath, a few minutes after the start. At 4 rays from the window, and we on the west side of the bed, she stole to it and found Mr. Carew Bourne on the threshold. She hesitated in her, and, closing the door, she followed him downstairs to the hall, where the man's reformation was complete. Mr. Bourne shook hands with him in a hearty fashion.

"It's not knowing what to do, we are," Matty said.

He did not look at her, nor did his brother. Her heart sank. "Is he ill?" she asked.

"The fool's in the sun," Monty replied, tapping with his fingers on the table. "But it's your own fault, my dear, Phelim."

"It's he that's not content," Phelim retorted. "The thief of the world!" "Verse him!" cried his brother. "Not content?" she echoed. "After what he's done?" Then the downcast look on his face arrested her. "more told me the story," she said, "and I'm sure, Phelim, that you're a good brother!" she whispered.

"He'll be content with no less," Monty answered, with a grin. "Tell her so, Phelim." And The Murtroyds—more he's no stomach for it—Phelim, I'm sorry, I'm sorry, that the man says he'll be lodging in the Tudor that he's for dinner, and so far as Galway City he'll not be rounds for him at all, by my faith, but that!"

Phelim listened, despairing. The house was quiet, and the rooms were in the west of the afternoon. Her thoughts were no longer with the wounded man and his brother, but in that other room, where he had left Jacquemart safely and where the nameless man might have been perhaps at his bed in his hand. Some of his fears, or her own, came of heaven to her the sense that had deserted her and vata-sized, and she would rather have seen him dead. The two men in here her, she was very sure, would have to fight, and she trembled between fear and love, but they would have fought! Then, as she thought of the duel, and of her own share in the matter, she went through the open door the figure at the man, moved over to the table, and, with a cool gaze, his sword under his arm. It was the Englishman, he who felt the sting. Her cheek, that had been pale, flushed darkly.

"Mr. Patrick fly away with the sand and the night smoke of hour!" Monty said. "I'm thanking it's between the two of you, Phelim, you and he, and I'm sure he'll send help the other."

"Send more, and I'm not going!" Phelim cried. "I'll get rid of him handsomely," he replied.

"Ah!" she replied firmly. "Not I should be!"

Again the man mustered by the on the table, and again he put down his and, walking back at the house. They watched him pass, an ominous shadow on the sunshine, and Phelim shuddered. "I'm thinking he's doing, then," he said. Monty nodded, without speaking. "He's saying that if I'm the Mr. Patrick he's need him by-and-by," he added, at last it isn't short of it, he'll be telling the truth," he said, "and there's no a better lodger, and it will be fool not to keep him."

Flat-a down on her breath sharply—it would be comical, had been allowing her to act as the stepdaughter of a "Is he not worth the shot brother!" Monty asked, turning to her. "Is he not, Jacques?"

But when she returned a minute later she was followed, not by James McMurrough, but by Father Sullivan. The priest's face had lost the look of ill-health; but he trod firmly, as if his eyes were clear as I had.

"I am waiting, I say, if I can," he said. "What is your trouble?"

"Tell him," Phelim said, averting her in which they had broken the news to her. And her sister at Chesterwold came now, but he's parading up and down the room, and he's not looking at her, nor at the sea dead whatsoever he passes, as much as to say, "Is it coming ours ave!" till the boor's fairly melted on me with the rags!"

"But it's shame on us we let him be," cried Phelim.

Colonel John did not answer. He was silent even when, under the eyes of all the servants, Monty stood again before the entrance gates—came and went without a word. Only when he had gone to him, and held out her hands.

"I am sorry, my dear," he said, in the tone of one who betrayed her dependence on him, "that you have had this trouble."

"It is hard to say," Colonel John answered slowly. His face was very gloomy, and he bids it or his thoughts he turned from them and went to one of the windows.

They waited; Flavia with a growing sense of disappointment. She did not know what she had thought that he would do, but she had been confident that he would help, and it seemed that he could do no more than others.

He came back to them presently, and smiled, but not with his usual confidence. "I will deal with it," he said. "I will see Father Sullivan. He is the man to deal with. He has lived here and left suspicion and a silent table, and he will be able to manage it. A cheerful sense of well being.

Phelim looked himself between him and the door. She fixed her eyes on his face. "You are going to do?" she asked in a low voice.

"I will put him off—later," he replied gently.

"Not now," she retorted, controlling herself with difficulty. "Now!" "Yes now," he answered, with a sigh.

"I am not going to fight," he answered at last.

But her answer was not so easily decided. "Not—not?" she cried. "Then you are a poor wretch," she said. "What shall I do?"

"I am not going to fight," he replied gravely, "but to punish. There is a difference. Even while she spoke she remembered in what circumstances there had been used. "He has the blood of fear on his hand, and another

CHAPTER XXV.

Under Elliott, with the mud of the road on his boots, and the rain still stiff in the bag which the town barber at Mallow had dressed for him, rubbed a stick with his hand and seemed himself pacified. Had his absence run into months instead of weeks the lapse of time had not suffered to explain the change which he felt, but could not define, in his surroundings.

Certainly old Darby looked a thought more bent, and Mrs. Darby a trifle more wizened than he had left them. But the change did not stop there: perhaps did not begin there. Full of news of the outer world as he was, he caught himself pausing in the door to question a boy—self, and his eyes sentinel his compassion for the shower-wet man who had refused to give.

Elizabeth Reginhman had come, and, after running Lake Angell through the body, had paid the penalty—for fight so fair that the very lawyers who had prosecuted him to the Assizes declared that they regretted it. So much Parker had told learned. But, as to the fight itself, and, striving as he pressed himself, it did not regain a the difference in the atmosphere of the house. Where he had left suspicion and a silent table, he found smiles, and someone, and a cheerful sense of well being.

Again he looked about him. "And where will James be?" he asked.

"He has left us," Parrin said, with her eyes on Colonel Sullivan.

"He landed at Galway City he is," Darby or O'Brien explained with chuckle.

"He's not to be driven out of his home!" Uncle Dick exclaimed in astonishment. "And why's he there?"

"The story is long," said Colonel Sullivan.

"But I can tell it in a few words," Parrin answered with dignity. "And as the owner it is told the letter. He has been in Ireland well, Uncle Dick, and by his request and with—the legal owner's consent it is I have agreed to pay him one-half of the value of the property."

"The dower you have!" Uncle Dick exclaimed in greater astonishment. And, rubbing back his head and rubbing his finger thigh with his hand, he looked from one to another. "Is it a fool I am, or is it I may take the liberty of saying, young lady, you're sheer a vast deal o' the best of it?" he added. "Is it a fool I am, or is it not?"

"It was done at by a request," Flavia answered gravely.

Uncle Dick continued to rub his thigh and to stare. Then things were very surprising. "And they be married?" he said. "That Lake Angell is bed up and down?"

"Yes."

"Good rewarding!"

"It is, glory be!"

"And that name's not the best news I low," Matty said with a grin. "Tell the last."

"True for you!" Uncle Dick cried. "If it was the last we'ed you speak!"

"What are you talking of?" Uncle Dick asked.

"He's turned," said Monty — "he's turned!" He's what his father was before him. He Phelim's left the Church back to Holy Church, and not a morning but he's at Mass with Father Sullivan!"

"Holy Mary!" Uncle Dick cried. "Ask Angell, the justice, and he'll be the head man of us!" he added, as he believed what the O'Briens told him, he looked at Father Sullivan. "Then it's a Catholic Phelim is?"

"It is true," she said.

"Bedad, it is!" Uncle Dick replied. "Then I'll not be surprised in all my days again! More by token, there's not one thing left to hope for, my jewel, and that's a necklace. Cheer you to the man to the man that's beside you!"

Flavia smiled quickly at Colonel Sullivan, with a heightened color, she looked down. "I am sure," she said.

But she blushed and the smile that accompanied it, and something strange in the way she hung toward her neighbor, made the rumor to him, had Uncle Dick all. The bag men smoothed the hair, and, with a wink at Colonel Sullivan, began to rub his thigh again.

"Indeed, it's true, and I felt it in the bones!" Dudley said. "I'm thinking I'll sit over his face. "He, he! He, he! Sure, and I'll be the first to wish you joy, my dear! Then that does Father Sullivan answer enough?"

"For you!" she said. "For you!" "For those who had eyes, betrayed her heart. "Ah!"

"For him," he replied. "For him now and for a return."

Flavia looked her knees before a chair, and, hiding her face, she laid her head upon her hands. She would prevent it, she knew that they were gone, and she, in the sudden reaction of her feelings, was of her suspense she raised her head free, and looked darkly at him.

Some months of afternoon life lasted, and the night smoke of hour!" Monty said. "I'm thanking it's between the two of you, Phelim, you and he, and I'm sure he'll send help the other."

CHAPTER XXVI.

Today the Royal Agricultural Society is giving hospitality to the Lawnsorting Association, one of several recent organs for the encouragement of the British horse. At this moment there are gathered a number of important delegates from the Argentine Republic, Australia, the agriculture and the Central Chamber of Agriculture, a number of deputations at which the principal speaker has been the Duke of Devonshire, and a luncheon at the Mansion House. This morning, too, will be completed the census of England and Wales, which was inaugurated by Lord Farrington, as Lord Lieutenant of Devonshire, and which has been carried out chiefly under the direction of Mr. Haldane.

What does all this unusual activity mean? It means, in the first place, that the country is awakening to the fact that armed Departments are considerably behind the times, and that the question of the supply of horses We spent £12,000,000 on horse-breeding in a single year, most of them stocks, and the years ago the number of horses in Great Britain was 3,000,000 of young horses estimated at £100 each. Of these, 1,000,000 were on behalf the home population has been overlooked at a rate not expressed in any statistics by the extraordinary increase of the omnibus horses. These strong and well-bred animals have been among the most satisfactory of all the developments of recent years. The battles of England were won between Waterloo and Omdurman—it was something more than a goal. We have that would only charge when the rider flung a bolt or shouted "Higher up" or "Lower down," and that would not shy at a bicycle. I can say for myself that I have never had a horse that would not stand quiet when I mounted it, and nothing pleases me more than to see a child who has learned how to ride. Children are the best judges of horses.

But the hitch and the snub that accompanied it, and nothing pleases me in the way she hung toward her neighbor made the rumor to him, had Uncle Dick all. The bag men smoothed the hair, and, with a wink at Colonel Sullivan, began to rub his thigh again.

"Indeed, it's true, and I felt it in the bones!" Dudley said. "I'm thinking I'll sit over his face. "He, he! He, he! Sure, and I'll be the first to wish you joy, my dear! Then that does Father Sullivan answer enough?"

SPRING SKIN TROUBLES

Pimples, Eruptions and "Spotty Complexions"

At the season, scores of people—girls and young women especially—find their faces disfigured by pimples, dark spots, blotches, etc. The skin needs extra attention—something after the long winter it has passed through during the winter.

Just think what it has gone through! You have been out in rain and sleet and snow. You have been at one temperature—and quite another—in the course of the day indoors at a temperature about 70 degrees, and you have been covered up your skin—except your face and hands—at a temperature of about zero. Is it any wonder that, with such treatment, the skin of the face and hands shows signs of needing attention?

It is a fact that the skin of the face must get an any other organ of the body—and if you overlook it, it gives out its protest in the shape of pimples, or in lightly over the nose. Sometimes the sallow patches, at other times the whole face quickly your appearance. As the rich, refined [illegible] are never troubled with a coarse, muddy complexion. Their skin is always clear, soft and transparent. The blood beneath the skin is pure and rich, and gives the skin a healthy, delicate color. Nothing does more to improve the appearance of the face than a pure, rich blood.

Ten Inch is also of great use for skin blotches and disorders, [illegible] eczema, ringworm, acne, boils and pimples. It is also of great use in [illegible] rashes and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible]

FOR THE ENGAGED GIRL.

Pretty Ways of Announcing the Great Secret of Her Happiness.

Usually an engagement is announced by the young woman writing notes to her friends, her fiance to his. It is becoming more and more the fashion to "break the news" to one's friends at luncheon or dinner.

This can be done in a formal way by the girl herself or her mother, but it is less embarrassing and more clever to convey the news with a unique touch.

The dessert course is a good time for the announcement. One girl had the box served in the shape of small wedding bells. Stuck into the top was a tiny heart shaped envelope which contained the names of the girl and her fiance. Each guest was written on a small silver paper heart joined by a silver paper arrow bisecting the two.

Another girl had a tray passed at the close of the luncheon with a single red rose for each guest. Coiled in the heart of the rose was a pronounced insect of white paper with the names of the engaged persons bracketed together.

A third young woman had suspended from the chandelier over the center of the table a large bomb shaped decoration made of snowballs. From it white ribbons were attached to the plate of each guest. When the table was being cleared for dessert each person was asked to pull her ribbon. The bomb burst, scattering rice and small confetti, which on being opened was found to contain the announcement in the shape of a limerick.

A clever announcement at one luncheon came in the form of a telegram brought by the maid to one of the guests in the secret. When opened it was found to contain the news of the betrothal smuggly kept within the usual ten words. It was read aloud at once, creating much surprise.

crepe paper, and, as the accompanying illustration shows, it is carried out in realistic fashion, even to the basket suspended by silver cord from which depend suits bags for favors, the selection of this particular airship being to serve as a Jack Horner pie.

The Servant Question.

In England the proportion of men to women indoor servants is as one to three or four. In France the reverse is the case, parlor maids being unknown, the one female de chambre being lady's maid as well as housemaid. The housework—sweeping, dusting, etc., etc.—mainly falls upon the men-servants. One element enabling men's extra work for servants in England is found in a French home. This is the daily guest, the succession of visitors. Outside private hotels and in the handsome flats of fashionable quarters there is, indeed, no room in Parisian households for friends. The words "dine and sleep" or "week end" chairs have not found their way into French dictionaries, nor have dine and sleep or week end guests yet become French institutions. It is easy then to understand why three or four servants suffice in France, while in England a dozen would be needed for people of similar means and position, and where two or four maids are kept in England only a gourmet servant is kept in France.

She Will Decorate Governor's Home.

Miss Marie Irvin of Boise, Ida., has been awarded the contract to decorate and furnish the new official mansion for the governor of that state. It is one of the few contracts of the kind that have been won by women in this country. In that city there are several women who have found furnishing and decorating a profitable profession, but most of their commissions have come from women's clubs or other women's organizations. It is a line of work for which women are especially well fitted. Miss Irvin studied in art schools there and in Chicago, returning to Boise a little more than a year ago. She arranged the decorations for the last inaugural ball in Idaho, and it was her success then that led to the award of the present contract. Miss Irvin aims at simplicity in all her work, which when examined seems the least artistic expression.

G. M. Slade of North Beaver Lake was in town last Tuesday. He recently lost his stable and 1200 bushels of grain by fire.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hill will shortly remove from Tofield, going some 130 miles each on the G.T.P., where Mr. Hill has taken an agency.

NOW OPEN FOR BUSINESS with a new stock of furnishings, boots & shoes, clothes etc. — TOFIELD MEN'S OUTFITTERS.

The G.T.P. is forwarding specifications for construction from Tofield south, to the heart of the steel on the TOFIELD-CALGARY tunnel.

C.W. Johnson of Kethamut district, died suddenly last Tuesday morning shortly after getting up. While out for a pail of water he dropped dead from heart failure.

Robert Logan yesterday purchased the lot on the S.E. corner of Main Street and Second Ave., from Manchester and Shaw. It is understood the price was $1150.00 for the bare lot.

A remarkable fact in connection with the recent fire in TOFIELD is that Mayor Letourneau and Councillor Murphy, Ferguson and Pugh, were sufferers in the losses sustained.

Mrs. J. W. Cockburn returned to Tofield last Saturday, from a several months trip to the Old Country. She brought back two nieces, little girls, who will remain with her.

Miss Rollins desires to thank the citizens of Tofield, for their hearty assistance during the recent fire, and for the substantial and practical sympathy extended to her by the loss she suffered.

Mrs. Scott Noland and Miss Jensen of Ryley, were the guests of Mrs. J. Noland last Monday evening. They leave next week on a several months visit in the States.

Judging from the way the telephone business between TOFIELD and Edmonton is growing, it would seem likely that a new circuit to Edmonton will have to be put on when the trunk line east to Wainwright is established.

Beeding is now practically complete in the Beaver Lake district. Some have already sown their barley, others are waiting a little longer. Fall and spring wheat are in many cases several inches high and here and there all over the district crops are well above ground.

Miss Rollner has taken A. A. Harrison's house on Tidal Ave. east, and is no longer offering rooms or meals at the said rooming house as many of its past patrons in its new place of business.

Messrs. P. B. Anderson and Ben Banning of Sands, were in town last Monday. While here they had an interview with the council of the Board of Trade, relative to the proposal of the Lutheran church synod, to establish a Lutheran College in Alberta.

A. G. Harrison, secretary of the Edmonton Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition Association and A. B. Cunningham of the Cunningham Milling Co. who is also president of the Association, came down from the Capital last Tuesday and spent a couple of days in and around town.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hill desire through the columns of the Standard, to express their deep gratitude to all those who so willingly assisted in saving what could be saved during the recent fire, and also for those who contributed financially in helping them over their loss.

TOFIELD NEEDS A BRICK PLANT

What TOFIELD needs now as much as anything else is to have a brick manufacturing plant located here. Every thing points to a success in every way for the enterprising man or firm who will undertake to put in a plant at this point. A market for hundreds of thousands of brick awaits the man who comes right at this point. It has been readily seen this building season would be a more advantageous time to be in the business of manufacturing brick than ever before. The completion of up to date brick manufacturing plant to locate here would place Tofield in the front rank of the brick manufacturing towns of Alberta. A town besides, provides that all chimneys should be of brick or like material.

Holden

Rykeyans Rotten-Egg Holdcoites as a Finale to Stubbornly Contested Football Game.

(Correspondence)

Farmers have finished seeding. Prospects bright for a good crop. Mrs. W. E. Harding of Huntsville, Ont., is a guest at the Holden House.

It is understood that the Traders Bank will erect a fine one on their new building very shortly.

A meeting is called for May 6th, to discuss the proposed new school for Holden.

Much land has been sold in the Holden district this spring and land agents tell of many inquiries.

On Friday many of the Holden people journeyed west to Ryley to help the Ryley day's sport there. The chief events of the day were the baseball and football matches. The game between Ryley and the Holden rookies per couldn't keep warm and wore mittens during the whole game. The Ryley bunch was so sure that they even disgusted their town by the money they put on it at the Holden lads' up climb. down after the game. There will be a return match. The Holden boys refuse to associate with such a measly bunch of sports as are found in Ryley. We simply ignore them. They are a fast going people there. But why recommend them to Holden.

Mr. P. P. Kipp son of Rev. Kipp of Holden, who for last week's mid-term exams, attends the pre-medical course in College which is to prepare him to have herded cattle in Ryley. The people of Holden do not, I dare say, all have still more cause to grieve. We know of one place in Holden that needs a good lace water than Ryley if not. If only a couple of pailfuls could be transported in Ryley we can think of another town where the proposed project did good.

Football.

The Tofield Football Club opened the season on Saturday last with a match against an eleven from the G.T.P. Fence Dept., now stationed at Tofield. There was a fair number of spectators present, and the ground was in excellent condition.

The game at the start was of a slow and lake nature, but Tofield gradually settled down to combination play and a number of well directed shots were shortened on the opponents goal.

Half time was soon called with no score on either side.

The remainder of the game was entirely in favor of Tofield, who pressed continually on their opponents goal, but owing to poor shooting, failed to score more than two goals, which were put through by Martin and S. Carter.

Tofield expect to arrange another match with the Fence Dept. before they leave Tofield.

Kingman

Mr. M. Cook, representing the Carey Co., was a visitor at Kingman on Monday.

Seeding is nearly all done in this district. Both spring wheat and fall wheat are looking fine.

W. S. Kingsbury who has been sick for some time is slowly recovering.

Mr. Stirling has sold his interest in the Kingman Livery Stable to John Christenson of Daysland. Cordal Nelson has opened a boot and shoe repair shop in connection with the Kingman Hotel.

Tony Lamoureux is moving a granary and 600 bushels of grain to Kingman on Saturday by a prairie schooner.

Rev. T. T. Carlson of Camrose, will hold services in Kingman every fourth Sunday.

Lorna Doone

A big fire swept over this district on Tuesday last. The only losses reported at present is a stable belonging to Andersons, Jack Carter and Tom Orilles said a visit to the district and were just in time to save the buildings on Mr. Cappels claim.

Carl Anderson is to be prosecuted for breaking and intends to break about Heaven.

Henry Lee was in Tofield on business on Tuesday.

Mr. H. Lee and son Adam very cheerfully saved the buildings of Mr. Anderson boys from being burnt during the great fire.

There are still one or two more bachelorads vacant in this district.

Fernand Barn began today, for the erection of the new Cyphert Bros. block on Main St., south of the Bellamy Store. Teams and men are at work making the excavation for a cellar.

A BATTLE BETWEEN NATURAL FORCES

A boy died recently from blood poisoning in a wound which had only been inflicted a few days. It is terrible to read of cases like this when lonely one of Zam Buk or a known preventive of blood poisoning.

The mortiferous germs, which are able to cause blood poisoning and death, abound in every home. Some are, but they are instantly killed by Zam Buk. Zam Buk is prepared from purely herbal extracts. In other words it is a natural healing force. By applying Zam Buk in a note or other poisoned wound, the germs are killed, the pain ceases, ugly matter is drawn out, and healing proceeds rapidly.

What better line of action could be taken? And just as surely as nature-healing force is greater than its destructive power, in most cases Zam Buk wins. Try it on that old wound, that ulcer, that bad leg, or that eczematous patch. Only fifty cents a box, all drug gists and stores, but don't have any substitutes.

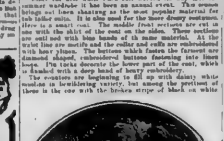
DAME FASHION'S DECREES

THE cotton frock is not the first to be announced early in the season, but a girlish model in dove gray voile is worth thinking about. The bodice and short sleeves are cut in one piece and ribbed on cords so as to be full-figured. The gored skirt has some fullness at the waist line below the yoke. The middle front panel, which has entirely the forming a girdle, may be made of cotton poplin to match the voile, and also the round yoke and the short band which finishes the skirt. The embroidery of rose design at some of the same color as the frock.

Since the first white lawn suit worked its way into the summer wardrobe it has been an accepted fact. The summer brings out lawn chasing as the most popular material for the leather coat. It is to be seen in all the smart shops and there is a small variety of designs to choose from. The newest has a small square of white on the shoulder. The outlines are cut and tied with bone bands at the same material. At the waist line are motifs and the collar and cuffs are embroidered with bone ribbon. The buttons which fasten the fairest are diamond shaped, embroidered buttons fastening into linen loops. The tucks decorate the lower part of the coat, which is finished with a deep band of heavy embroidery.

The cotton crepe de chine is a much dainty white needle in bewildering variety, but among the prettiest of these is the one with the broken stripe of black on white



Mary Pickford Wears Her Hair Curled Over the Shoulder

The skirt is a five-gored model edged with a bone black band. The waist falls in a deep point at the right side of the front and is also edged with black. The tunic is fastened to a wide panel which falls beneath the tunic, forming a jabot effect above the hem.

The neck has a deep round opening at the back and front and is also edged with black. The tunic is fastened to a wide panel which falls beneath the tunic, forming a jabot effect above the hem.

Newkrown is increasingly attractive, and the collection shows some smart types. Lacy jabots are worn at the neck to give a touch of bright color to the white frock, and the sleeves are finished with elbow cuffs of the same material.

Some of these in shorts of Irish lace and are worn at the neck over a jabot of delicate spig Brussels lace tie in the front and also over a deeper small frame at the side. Another model has a deep collar of white pique lapping in a deep scallop to one side and finished with black. The pique cuffs are used to edge the cuff and each are bound with pale pink lawn and are decorated with embroidered dots in pink floss. A dainty jabot to go over the lawn, embroidered in delicate green in a second design. Another is a jabot of batiste with a band of Irish frill lace running down the centre and weighted with a crocheted gre

The jabot and butterfly bow are outlined with fine crochet edging and are decorated with embroidered dots.

The neckwear is shown at Irish lace and with crochet gretels. An exquisite jabot is sheets of batiste outlined with Valenciennes lace. The jabot is finished with a deep frill of Valenciennes lace, which is also used to edge the cuffs, nearly 2 shown also and consists of a tulle bow crisply tucked under a skeleton bar of pearls and knot ornament.

Crepe de Chine Gown With Bretelle Braiding

Lisle thread gauze net is a novelty for the season. It is used for the jabots and cuffs of the smartest models. Plaids are also much in evidence. Plaids, as usual, will prevail at the beginning of the season, but they never really become the rage here, as they do in the States, though pretty when fresh.

Lightweight nets of the "chantilly and Mechlin order are rapidly becoming popular for whole gowns as well as for collars and sleeves, and are made up over white, black and colored linings of plain or glace taffeta or satin or mercerine. Naturally flouncings and edgings to match are also much in demand.

Lisle embroidery on pure white net is looked upon with favor and such nets made up over white or colors are in fine form again.

A noticeable feature is the tendency toward the yellow tints in summer wash fabrics. The pongee is shown in all the new tints, from cream through the ivory, "X" brand, to the deeper shades of tan and brown. The ginger root effect is another pronounced feature.

Cotton voiles are shown in many of the new tints, and different directions for months to come, there is, and will be, a cream delight, silver and steel tone, and the inevitable brown gray suit; they are said to be scarce even now. Cloth of gold and silver, a sheer of metallic ribbon, is also a high favor for robes, sleeves, girdles, belts, etc., and heavy nets like the one illustrated are going into the construction of the toilettes. For instance, they are being made into opera wraps and theatre gowns, and the evening dress is frequently combined with lace or dainty lawn.

Many of the new tailored buttons are in high relief, and are made in the shape of the old-fashioned cloth or fancy metal buttons. Antique they are called rather than Victorian, although the latter is a popular name in a general way.

SAD NEWS WITH GOOD FACES

SIR ROBERT ANDERSON, for many years the chief criminal expert in Great Britain and until a few years ago in charge of London's Scotland Yard, declares that when it comes to special feats, such as safe-breaking, the men compriest for the task are so few that some police officers could probably write down the names of them all from memory.

"On taking charge of the criminal investigation department in 1877," he writes in the Strand, "I was no novice in matters relating to criminals and crime. Notwithstanding all that, to my surprise I found myself confronted with a vast amount of ignorance by one of my principal subordinates. When my notable crime occurred and I began to investigate it, a Sherlock Holmes, he used to turn to me in the way many people turn to someone in church, and at the conclusion he would excitedly announce that the crime was the work of the Red Hand, the Green Hand, the Yellow Hand, the Black Hand, Stranger, Dagger, or Quick Poison Gang. Their methods were of the most extraordinary and elaborate description, and the more mysterious the better.

"There is nothing spontaneous and nonsensical about the people of professionals. Take the case of a 'cracker for away,' for example. While the family is at dinner the house is entered by means of a ladder placed against a bedroom window, all outer doors and ground floor windows having been fastened from outside by screws at nine pegs. Wardrobes are ransacked, access the lawn to bedfor permit in case the house is disturbed.

"A case of that kind occurred some years ago at a country house in which I was interested. The next day brought the chief constable of the county to Scotland Yard. Such a crime, he said, was beyond the ability of provincial investigators, and he requested me to undertake the investigation among the criminals on our side of the Yard.

"He gave me a very clear description of two strangers who had been seen near the house the day before. An hour or two later I handed him three photographs. Two of these were promptly identified as the men who had come under local observation, and proved to be the actual criminals. The third was well known 'leader thieves.

"The chief constable called upon me. I put his 'type' theory to the test. I took a couple of photographs, and never dreamed that the leader of each told him that one of the men was a notorious criminal. I challenged him to say which was the type but he could not.

"The way Raymond, alias Wilde with some of the most able criminals in the country, and Sidney, also a well-known criminal, was responsible for the robbery of the Bank of England. Raymond was a cripple with strength and benevolence than the last man I met. Sidney was a man of the type of Charles Peace, a burglar, for whom Mr Ingram had recently paid fifty thousand dollars.

DARK SIDE OF GERMAN COLONIZATION

COLONIAL adventurers in tropical countries have always had their fair share of difficulties, sometimes of the gravest.

Often valuable lives and treasure have been wasted. Even in cases where the climate is not unhealthy, as in Canada, where the advent is not necessary, disasters and on a large scale have occurred. Take the case of the German settlers in Africa, if we may believe the political critics of Berlin. One particular German pessimists in Southwest Africa have been called "the grave of the German soldiers" and of the native negro. The climate is called partly in the Reichstag have frequently brought up the question of the wisdom of the colonial policy, and it is cited merely for the benefit of certain capitalists, and August Bebel has even gone so far as to say these settlers in Africa (Berlin) with emphatic eloquence. In a recent article in this connection the Berlin Vorwarts says: "Every year thousands of emigrants turn their backs on the German possessions in disgust, as unsatisfied," as read. They have been "robbed of their land and of their cattle." The complaints of the settlers are upon them jobbers there but a bare subsistence ""Not only are the soil and the climate unfavorable, but the Government squanders the money of the taxpayers. Of the 2,000,000 marks which the German Government has spent in Southwest Africa, 1,500,000 marks, "not the children have to find and accept work they must starve."

He quotes from the report of the missionaries at Tsumeb, a station in the north of Southwest Africa, to show the deplorable condition of the settlers in the hinterland of that district. When the administration tried to establish a school for the white children, they could find almost no pupils. To quote:

"Out of forty to fifty children of school age only four could be found. The young people, as usual, work unpaid or small wages in the service of white farmers, and many were the vile things they saw, and in most cases were forced to undergo."

The general condition of the natives, the once were prosperous cattle raisers on the high grazing grounds of this dis-

THE LATEST MODE IN EVENING COIFFURES

The top figure shows a modified Grecian coiffure, extending far out at the back and finished with a mass of loose puff curls, ornament of gold spangles.

The middle figure is an adaptation of the 1830 coiffure with puffs and curls at either side over the ears, which are held in place with large shell pins. Rows of pearls are gracefully twined round the head.

A modified turban artist effect, the front and sides being "en pompadour," is shown by the lower figure

DAME FASHION'S DECREES

BOTH tailors and gown makers in their own fields are especially considered and catered to in the spring and summer dress materials, where texture and color seem to have reached a superlatively harmonious effect. There is a decided manufacturer's aim, which, however, though not quite positive, is nevertheless a high mark of the fascinating, to glance over the new importations and note the various departures from past seasons, and at the same time become familiar with what smart wear awaits our choosing To make an interesting debutante at the start, it is understood that foulards are to be the grand rôle for the entire season, and in a new materialistic way may go by the name of "textile de mode," for they no longer resemble the old silks known as foulard. Woodall avoids, so we calling these foulards, but emphasizing that they are of the new sort. They are as thin as summer now, and measure forty two inches in width. Another noticeable feature among these silks is that they all have most distinctive designs, usual stripes as we have known them, but with the stripes broken into bits, closing a row rather than a row of broken ones bits. All manner of variety is shown by adding fine hair lines to the usual stripe, or by polishing the surface. Often the colors are in a most delicate shade, the color field showing up the four-and-under figure. Charming are the very narrow affairs, eating in broad and white stripes, and their surfaces quite finished and the two sides quite different. For instance, on one side may be a full moon and white contrasted, on the other a hoop de rose, and white reflects on affecting both sides. The combination blending of these mates many of the new silks and remains more loved than it was last season come equally more naught after

From these hints concerning the new foulards we come, finally, to the genuine surprise in store. That concerns the very same new silks described, plain "crêpe de soie," which is now taken like a chiffon, but having more body, yet very transparent, and being braided to veil the foulard. As an example, imagine a foulard having an odd rose pink satin 36 long into four-sided figures, forming the white ends of some of the corners, then short white arms taking one arm to the other three sides of the figure, and the whole effect is quite bold. In the same way we find a black grey foulard, having white stripes with a lavender grey single shot spot let on one side only by a full moon and white contrasted, on the other a hoop de rose, and white reflects on affecting both sides. The combination blending of these mates many of the new silks and remains more loved than it was last season come equally more naught after

BUBBLE DRIFTING AWAY

The Herpal Commission is moving on to Toronto, having heard many witnesses in Winnipeg whose testimonies of the government fondly hoped would prove the iniquity which they admitted had not been shown by the evidence produced in Edmonton. It was expected that W. A. Faulkner and J. D. McArthur would, on account of their being at outs with Clarke, tell freely anything which they might know that was damaging to him and incidentally to the government but those men have not made the expected against the government any worse than before they spoke. Practically all Bennett's witnesses except Cushing, Boyle and Hawes have now been heard. It is not probable that Messrs. Cushing and Boyle will add much to what they said in the legislature and Hawes cannot add much to what Murphy and Faulkner said regarding the A & G. W. Ry. As his connection with the subject under controversy was as a member of the Athabasca syndicate only. On the other hand the Premier and the Attorney-General, the chief of the administration, are yet to be heard as well as Deputy Treasurer McLeod, and Mr. Thom, private secretary of Mr. Cross, and Mr. Blue per. These men have undoubtedly much to say that will clear up any shadow of doubt that may yet remain in the minds of anybody regarding the integrity of the administration.

One after another the mystries which were propounded by the opposition in the legislature, have had such wonderful effect upon the people of the province, has been cleared up by the evidence produced in the investigation and the campaign of suspicion has been turned back upon the men who started it. It is now high time for the legislature who opposed the government in the House with honest motives to return to their support. With not the slightest evidence of fraud or wrong doing on the part of the government either collectively or as individuals the dissatisfied ones have nothing left on which to base their opposition, but the charge that railway bargain was not as good as it might have been. The same might be said of any business transaction and we do not find that the evidence has done much to prove that this transaction was indirectly better than most of the colonization railway deals in the history of Canada and that the interests of the province have not been left unguarded.

The charge that the department of lands were stripped has been completely refuted. Mr. Weeks admitted the destruction of timber, a copy of which was preserved and produced and contained absolutely nothing damaging to any one. If Mr. Woodward's wrong he has been well punished for it by the verbal castigations he received from the members of the legislature and from counsel for the investigators, and he has resigned his office under the government.

It has been shown that the specifications for the railway are not bad but good and that the intentions of the management are to build a road that will be the best pioneer railroad ever built in Western Canada.

The bond guarantee of $20,000 per mile came in for an immense amount of discussion, whereas there is the evidence has all gone to prove that it will require every cent of that bond issue to build the line and probably much more, so that whatever profit Mr. Clarke may have hoped to make out of construction will have to come from his salary. In the light of the evidence produced the government is to be commended for declining the proposition of the Athabasca syndicate to build under a guarantee of $13,000 when they had neither company funds nor any assurance of Dominion government subsidy to supplement this amount and that syndicate is to be congratulated that their proposition was turned down before they got into financial difficulties over the execution of it. Recently it was announced in the Dominion parliament that this prairie section of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is costing $33,000. While the A. & G. W. is not to be such an elaborately built road as the main line of the G.T.P., it traverses a country much more difficult to build through than the prairie section of the G.T.P.

If further evidence were necessary in defence of the $20,000 bond issue we might cite the guarantee by the Dominion government of the C.N.R. bonds on the line from Edmonton to the Brazeau coal fields, just a stake last week. That company is to receive guarantee of $13,000 per mile for the first 50 miles out of Edmonton and on $25,000 per mile for the next 100 miles or an average of $21,000 per mile for the whole distance. The purpose of the C.N.R.'s line to the Brazeau is admittedly selfish, being simply to give that company access to a body of coal which they control old mostly what Murphy and Faulkner said regarding the A & G. W. Ry., for his connection with the subject under controversy was as a member of the Athabasca syndicate only. On the other hand the Premier and the Attorney-General, the chief of the administration, are yet to be heard as well as Deputy Treasurer McLeod, and Mr. Thom, private secretary of Mr. Cross, and Mr. Blue per. These men have undoubtedly much to say that will clear up any shadow of doubt that may yet remain in the minds of anybody regarding the integrity of the administration.

CHANGE DAY OF PUBLICATION

Beginning with our next weeks issue, we will publish the Standard on Wednesday of each week. We find that certain out lying Post Offices of the district do not receive the paper until the following week. It is our aim to give the greatest value as an advertising medium, to our patrons, and to do so we must endeavor to have the Standard in the hands of our readers during the week it is published. Our patrons will readily see the point and see that all copy must be in by Monday noon.

Arbor Day Next Friday.

The second Friday in May is set apart as Arbor Day in the provinces this year which brings the fateful day on the 12th. The second legal holiday of the month will be Victoria Day on Tuesday 24th.

Steel Across Wolf Creek

The trestle work on the bridge over Wolfe Creek was completed last Saturday, and on Sunday the steel was laid across by a gang of men, working with the track laying machine. The trestle has now been extended through the rest to the edge of the Masloud river, where its progress westward is arrested by the river gap which is rapidly being bridged. In less than six weeks the steel should again be stretching out to the mountains. Phelan & Shirley, the Omaha contractors who have the contract for grading the first 81 miles west of the Macleod are pushing forward the work with great despatch. Foley, Welch & Stuart have thrown all their forces into the work on miles 81 to 40, having four camps in this stretch of the road. Men are pouring into the districts in large numbers and all find employment on the road.

Every westbound train through TOFIELD carries many carloads of steel for western construction.

Women with Fascinating Hair Always Attract Attention

If you are a woman with dull, lifeless, ordinary hair, donot feel discouraged. Just make up your mind now that you can have just as luxuriant and captivating a head of hair as any other woman; and quickly too.

Just go to Jamieson's this very day and get a bottle of Parisian Sage. Use it as directed, and in two weeks your scalp will be free of dandruff, your hair will be soft, lustrous and beautiful.

If your hair is falling out, Parisian Sage will stop it.

If your hair is thin, Parisian Sage will make it grow so heavily.

If you have dandruff it will quickly vanish when Parisian Sage is used.

It prevents hair from turning gray; stops itching scalp; is almost indispensable; and is the ideal dressing for daily use.

A large bottle costs only 50 cents at C. E. Jamieson's druggist, all charges prepaid from the Canadian makers, Giroux Mfg. Co., Port Erie, Ont.

Auction Sale of School Lands in Alberta.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that under and by virtue of the Public Lands Act, Public Auction will be held as follows:—
At Edmonton, Thursday, May 19, 1910, at 10 o'clock a.m.
At Medicine Hat, Wednesday May 25, 1910, at 10 o'clock a.m.
The lands will be offered in lots of one quarter section in a certain upset price in each case, which will be the appraised value of the land, plus the cost of survey, and no bid for less than such amount will be allowed. A deposit of twenty per cent of the purchase money will be required to be paid by the successful purchaser at the time of sale, and the balance of the purchase money must be paid within thirty days from the date of the purchase, and the purchaser will be allowed thirty days in which to make his payment.
TERMS OF PAYMENT
One-fourth in cash at time of sale and balance in three equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum on deferred payments. Purchaser may pay the whole purchase money in cash at time of sale, or any instalment due at any time thereafter, at the option of the purchaser. Interest at the rate of six per cent per annum will be charged on all deferred payments. Failure to make any payment when due will render void the purchase and the land withdrawn from sale.
Certificates will not be issued for any land sold until the purchase money has been fully paid and the land withdrawn from sale.
Lands containing coal, timber, mineral or water powers will be disposed of by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners.
Sales of lands to be open for bid and application for information may be had on application to the Secretary Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to the Secretary Board of Public Utility Commissioners, Edmonton and Medicine Hat, Alberta.
By order of the Board,
FRED'K G. KEYES,
Secretary.
Department of the Interior,

BY-LAW NO . . .

A By-law of the Town of Tofield in the Province of Alberta to authorize the issue of debentures above the sum of $720.00 for the purpose of purchasing an Estate in funded property for a plan for Exhibition.

WHEREAS the Council of the said Town of Tofield deem it advisable to purchase property for the purpose above and for such purpose to purchase the 22 acres in the south-east corner of the north-east quarter of Section 10 in Township 50, Range 20, west of the Fourth Meridian.

AND WHEREAS it will be necessary to borrow the sum of $720.00 for the purposes aforesaid and to issue a debenture of the Municipality therefor, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent, per annum payable yearly, which is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-law.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Town of Tofield according to the last revised assessment roll thereof is the sum of $708,330.00.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the existing debentures debt of the said Town of Tofield is the sum of $78,000.00 of which $00.00 is the amount of principal moneys in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it is desirable to make the principal of the said debt payable in twenty annual instalments of equal amounts each, together with interest on the said debenture.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Town of Tofield according to the last revised assessment roll thereof is the sum of $708,330.00.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the existing debentures debt of the said Town of Tofield is the sum of $78,000.00 of which $00.00 is the amount of principal moneys in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it is desirable to make the principal of the said debt payable in twenty annual instalments of equal amounts each, together with interest on the said debentures.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Town of Tofield according to the last revised assessment roll thereof is the sum of $708,330.00.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the existing debentures debt of the said Town of Tofield is the sum of $78,000.00 of which $00.00 is the amount of principal moneys in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it is desirable to make the principal of the said debt payable in twenty annual instalments of equal amounts each, together with interest on the said debentures.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield enacts as follows:—

1. It shall be lawful for the Mayor of the said Town of Tofield to borrow from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, the sum of $720.00 for the purposes aforesaid and to issue debentures of the Municipality therefor, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent, per annum payable yearly, which is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-law.

SAVED HER FINGER.

Mrs. B. E. Jr. of 331 Pro... Ave., St. Louis, Mo., says: "...to-day I have a finger that would have been useless but for Zam-Buk. I had a bad whitlow on my finger, and it was getting worse and worse. I tried one thing after another, but nothing seemed to do any good. The pain was terrible, and I could not sleep at night. I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. The very first night I got relief, and after using it for a few days the whitlow was completely cured, and my finger saved."

Would You Like to Have This in Your Home?

Just a Little Hustling and You Win

We will issue trade certificates with every purchase at our store. These certificates represent ONE VOTE for each DOLLAR of purchase and the person holding certificates representing the LARGEST NUMBER OF VOTES at the end of the contest, will receive this beautiful instrument, the Upton Piano, ABSOLUTELY FREE OF COST.

The certificates are transferable and if you are not interested in securing the piano yourself, you can assist a friend, or some Charitable Institution, Church, Sunday School or Society in securing the instrument.

Our object is to interest you in our store. We want a chance to show you that you can do better here than elsewhere. We do not expect to recover the heavy expense of this contest through a greater percentage of profit, but through the difference in volume of business—we expect the increase to more than pay us and in the future we shall endeavor to give you EVEN MORE for your money than we have in the past.

We solicit your patronage solely through the merits of our goods and Lower Prices.

Message From The Colonial Secretary

His Honour the Lieutenant Governor is in receipt of the following telegram from Hon. Chas. Murphy Secretary of State, Ottawa.

Ottawa, Ont., May 12th.—I am commanded to inform you that a telegram has been received by His Excellency the Governor General from the Colonial Secretary at Ottawa. Cablegram begins:

"May 11th. Court mourning will last until May 6th, 1911. It is expected that the public will wear mourning from May 12th. Duration not fixed yet. King Edward's funeral will take place on the morning of May 20." Cablegram ends: Kindly give publicity to the above in your province.

BARDO W.C.T.U.

A meeting was held on Friday afternoon, 13th inst., at the home of Mrs Lewis, some distance south of Bardo, to organize a branch of the W.C.T.U. The following ladies were present, Mrs. P. B. Anderson, Miss Anderson, Mrs. Parker Sr., Mrs. Parker Jr., Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Nelson, with Mrs. Whillans Pres of the Tofield Union, and the Rev. R. Whillans. Mrs. Bailey was elected Pres., Mrs. Nelson Sec., Mrs. Anderson 1st, Vice Pres., Mrs Parker Jr., 2nd. Vice Pres., and Mrs. Parker Sr., Treasurer. It was decided that the regular meeting be held at 3 p.m., on the 1st. Wednesday of every month, and the aim of the society be Bardo W.

A social time having been enjoyed, light refreshments were served by Mrs. Lewis, and a pleasant time was spent in social intercourse.

Beaver Lake East

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Young have gone to Washington State to reside. Mrs. Young thinks the locality "picked out" by her, on her recent trip, is an ideal one as a place of residence. It is not far from Puget Sound. We regret that they have found our district unencouraging. Charlie is running the range now.

Fr...es have been troubling us b... damage not very serious. It was probably started by some careless smoker. It seems that the losses caused in the U. S. last year in this way was far up in the millions.

Miss Mabel McCallum is now teaching in the Ukrania district. Her services there last year were highly appreciated.

The dry weather is wearing on the most of us farmers. One or our neighbours wished it would rain for a solid week. Well, with frosts and dry weather now, the proverbial bad beginning may have a good ending next August.

Lake many others, our sympathies were with the sufferers by the recent fire in Tofield. We hope misfortunes of this kind, will in future come like angels' visits, few and far between.

Cut an Artery

John Lee of Lee and Lee, met with rather a serious accident last Monday afternoon, when out with a prospecting party for the Dobell syndicate. He was cutting brush with an axe when it slipped and slashed into his foot, cutting into the top of his instep and severing an artery. Engineer Henderson happily made a tourniquet stopping the flow of blood and the sufferer quickly brought into town by Rev. Mr. Whillans who it was close by when the accident occurred. Dr. Tofield dressed the wound putting in several stitches. Jack is doing well and feels little the worse of what might have cost him his life had not experienced and keen at hand.

G.T.P. Service to Improve by June

"We hope to give a much improved train service between Edmonton and Winnipeg by first of June. I cannot say whether a daily service will then be inaugurated, but it is our intention to put one into effect at the earliest possible moment. I cannot give any definite information, however, until my return to Winnipeg."

Thus spoke General Manager Chamberlin, of the Grand Trunk Pacific, Monday at his private car in the yards near Fraser Avenue. Mr. Chamberlin came into the city on Saturday afternoon by the regular C.P.R. train from the south. He has just returned from a trip to Prince Rupert. Monday he went out to Wolf Creek, returning in the evening.

NOW TO McLEOD RIVER

The general manager expects that the main line of the G.T.P. is now completed to the McLeod River, 125 miles west of Edmonton.

"We hope to reach the Yellowhead Pass with the track this season" said Mr. Chamberlin "and I don't see any reason why we shall not be able to do so."

Speaking of the entrance of the branch line from Tofield into Calgary, the general manager says that no decision has yet been reached with reference to the entrance into the southern city.

"We expect the track on this line to be laid as far as the crossing of the Red Deer this fall but we will not be able to complete the line to Calgary before the end of next season," he replied in answer to a question with reference to the southern branch.

Tests of Clay Being Made

W. W. Howe, representing the Dobell syndicate, which recently purchased 320 acres of rich coal lands adjoining TOFIELD townsite, is in Tofield this week. Assessor, saying Mr. Howe is Mr. Henderson, an expert civil engineer. Together, they are making tests of the clay, which is lying above the coal deposits, with a view it is understood, to the establishment of a large brick manufacturing plant.

Geo. Smith, M.P.P., and party from Camrose, spent Wednesday and Thursday at Miquelon Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindberg spent Sunday at C. O. Bergman.

The Thompson, Black and A. A. Taje's aforas are receiving a coat of paint this week, which adds greatly to their appearance.

The O.T.P. is going to put in a water tank at this place.

John Christenson and family arrived from Bawlf on Saturday.

W. S. Kingsbury lectured on Temperance in Thrayman's Hall on Thursday, to large crowd.

Rain is needed badly in this district.

G.T.P. Service to Improve by June

It is understood that the G.T.P. officials, when on a recent visit to Camrose, assured the merchants there that the company would be in a position to forward freight to that point over the Tofield-Calgary branch by the middle of June. The C.N.R. claims that it will be in a position to forward freight along its branch in three weeks.

Mr. Geo. C. Manners, of Wingham, Ont., accompanied by Miss Blanche Beatty of the "Sun," arrived in Tofield last week over the G.T.P. Mr. Manners has not been west for over ten years, and is naturally surprised at the wonderful progression and development during that period. They have been visiting Mr. J. D. Manners of Spirhead. They returned to the east last Monday.

The local lodge A.F. & A.M., held a memorial service to their most illustrious and late lamented Sovereign-Brother Edward VII. Past Grand Master of the United Grand Lodge of England, A.F. & A.M., in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last Sunday afternoon. The service throughout was most impressive and was witnessed by a large number of townspeople.

Ottawa, Ont., May 4.—The second session of the eleventh Canadian Parliament, which opened November 15, prorogued at 3 o'clock this afternoon with the usual ceremonies and for the last time His Excellency Earl Grey was seated in Parliament Hall by a brilliant military cavalcade furnished by the Princess Louise Dragoon guards and received by a guard of honor of the G.O.F.G. His Excellency read the speech from the throne in both English and French and gave assent to a large number of important bills, including the anti-gambling bill, the insurance bill, the naval bill and the anti-combines bill. After the proceedings had ended the members of both houses gathered in the senate chamber where His Excellency was presented with a farewell address of both Houses to which he made a suitable and feeling acknowledgment.

In a short debate on conditions of the service in the Canadian navy in the House of Commons, Sir Wilfred Laurier said that it was the intention to admit, may to invite young Canadians into the naval college. The terms of admission were not settled. As to officers, at present they have been borrowed for training purposes from the British navy, because there were none in Canada.

TOFIELD, MAY 18 1910.

On Saturday of next week the ratepayers of the Town of Tofield will be called on to decide by their votes whether the by-laws now placed before them by the Council shall be finally passed. The Municipal Act specifies that all debenture by-laws must be submitted to the ratepayers for their assent. The Council duly elected by the ratepayers of the town has decided that a nuisance grounds is necessary. After casting about for a suitable site one was chosen and the agreement of sale made out.

A market site was also selected on 2nd Ave. west opposite the livery and feed stables and a purchase figure at half the listed price obtained from the G.T.P. No one in his right mind will gainsay the fact that both these propositions are such as to commend themselves highly to the town. There is a great need right now for a proper market site. The need will grow as time passes and the grounds will never be purchased at a cheaper figure.

A third by-law which is being submitted to the ratepayers is the exhibition grounds by-law. This by-law as it was submitted in its form has already been favorably passed upon by the vote of the electors but for the reason of technical irregularities has had to be again placed before the ratepayers in correct form. Even as a matter of speculation the purchase of these grounds is a profitable undertaking. At any time after the purchase this plot can be sold at several hundreds of dollars advance over the purchase price.

Now as to a possible adverse vote. The ratepayers of the town should seriously consider these proposition pro and con. It takes a unanimous vote for these by-laws to carry. The Council is authorized to purchase landed properties for municipal purposes out of the current year's revenue. Should the electors not give that endorsement sufficient to carry these by-laws by the necessary, two-thirds majority vote, council can go ahead complete these purchases and charge all amounts up to the current year's expenses. On the other hand if the necessary majority vote is given, the expense will be divided over the next ten years and the burden will fall considerably less heavily. So ratepayers it is up to you. Do you desire a heavy tax this year or a low tax dispensed over a term of years.

In the waterworks and sidewalk by-laws we have two propositions that commend themselves highly. The ratepayers have long been crying out for an adequate water supply primarily for fire protection purposes and after due consideration the Council decided upon the well proposition. True, modern age seems to haunt the development of the town well, but where the resources for both long and prudent action had to be taken to clear the town of any entanglement with him over the contract. Council is now open to go ahead with the well on its own account.

The sidewalk by-law needs scarcely any comment by us. A majority of the ratepayers signed a petition for this and its desirability is generally conceded. In fact it is an absolute necessity especially during the approaching wet season. Again we say, ratepayers, it is up to you, if you want these improvements to get out and health votes for the necessary two-thirds majority. May the 28th.

Untruthfulness of Children

(CONTRIBUTED)

There are few things more painful to witness, than a child who has no regard for the truth. If parents were told that, in many cases, they were the cause, they would be highly indignant and deny the charge. Sometimes the parents are deceitful in fooling the child in what is considered by them all of no importance, but when that child finds out the falsecom of what has been said or done, if he or she has an atom of sense, will soon discover that mother does not think it so very bad to tell a lie. Two ladies, not far from Tofield, were out visiting one day, and knocked at the door of a respectable family (and one that should know better than to do so else did). No one answered the knock. Then, thinking the lady might be in a distant part of the house, they knocked again. After a few minutes a small boy came to the door, and with an embarrassed manner, said, "Mamma's out". The ladies, having other calls to make, passed on. In a very short time after they were on the street again, and near the residence first called at, when lo! and behold! who should be coming out of the gate but the mother of the boy that met them at the door. It pained one heart, to think a mother would be so unthoughtful of her childs morals. Shecould just as well have said that she was engaged and any right minded persons would have been satisfied with that excuse.

CHANGE DAY OF PUBLICATION

Beginning with this week's issue, we will publish the Standard on Wednesday of each week. We find that certain out lying Post Offices of the district do not receive the paper until the following week. It is our aim to give the greatest value as an advertising medium, to our patrons, and to do so we must endeavor to have the Standard in the hands of our readers during the week it is published. Our patrons will readily see the point and we feel sure they must be in by Monday noon.

Many of the bridges throughout the country are in need of repairs to the flooring. We are glad to note that some of those are being attended to. While there is always room for difference of opinion, it seems that the most satisfactory manner in which to fix these bridges is to rollour on top of the present floor rather than remove sections and replace with new pieces.

BAD STOMACH

Many in Tofield are Being Thoroughly Purified by Hi-o-na, the Concentrated Cure for Indigestion.

People of Tofield who suffer from dyspepsia and other stomach troubles are getting tired of taking preparations containing pepsin because pepsin simply digests the food artificially. Pepsin relieves, it never cures.

And remember, pepsin only digests normal food, it has no effect on starchy food, such as potatoes, rice, bread, &c. Modern diseases and pains the stomach and bowels, and tissue up and rots energy into the stomach walls, so that they properly mix the food with the natural digestive juices of the stomach.

Hi-o-na tablets quickly arouse the stomach from its inaction, and in a few days it is able to do its work easily and without exertion. There will be no more sour stomach, fermentation of food, dizziness, sick headache, belching of gas, or foul breath.

Hi-o-na only costs 50 cents a large bottle and is guaranteed by Jamieson to cure dyspepsia, sour or sick stomach, vomiting of pregnancy, and stomach sickness resulting from over-indulgence the night before, or watery back.

BY-LAW NO.

A By-law of the Town of Tofield in the Province of Alberta to authorize the issue of debentures to the amount of $750.00 for the purpose of purchasing an Estate in landed property for a place for Exhibition.

WHEREAS the Council of the said Town of Tofield deem it advisable to acquire grounds for the purpose aforesaid and to issue debentures to purchase the 25 acres in the south-east corner of the north-east quarter of Section 12, Township 51, Range 19, west of the Fourth Meridian.

AND WHEREAS it will be necessary to borrow the sum of $750.00 for the purposes aforesaid and to issue a debenture of the Municipality therefor, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum payable yearly, which is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this by-law.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Town of Tofield according to the last revised assessment roll thereof is the sum of $1,000,000.00.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the existing debenture debt of the said Municipality, outside of the debt due for the current expenses of the year, is the sum of $1,327.50, and no part of either the principal or interest is in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it is desirable to make the principal of the said debt and the interest thereon repayable in equal aggregate yearly sums during the period of ten years from the time on which the By-law takes effect, within which the said debt is to be rendered payable.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield enacts as follows:

1. It shall be lawful for the Mayor of the said Town of Tofield to issue to the credit of the Corporation of the Town of Tofield the sum of seven hundred and fifty dollars for the purposes aforesaid and to issue debentures of the said Town for the said sum of $750.00 payable in ten equal annual instalments of principal and interest combined as herein provided, having coupons attached thereto for the annual payments of interest.

2. The said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum payable yearly, and as to both principal and interest at the office of the Treasurer of the said Town of Tofield, Alberta, or at the option of the holder at the Bank of Montreal at Tofield or at the Bank of Montreal at Edmonton, Alberta, in sterling money or Canadian currency.

3. The Mayor of the said Town shall sign and issue the said debentures and shall cause the seal of the said Town to be attached thereto to be signed by the Secretary-Treasurer of the said Town and the Secretary-Treasurer is hereby authorized and required to attach to the Corporate Seal of the said Town to the said debentures.

4. The said debentures shall be payable in ten equal annual instalments during the ten years next after the 1st day of June, 1910, and the first of such instalments shall be for the sum of $101.50, and the remaining instalments falling due each year for principal and interest combined shall be $101.50.

5. That for the purpose of paying the said instalments of principal and interest as the same become due the sum of $101.50 shall be raised and levied in each and every year during the period of ten years from the time this by-law takes effect by a special rate sufficient therefor over and above all other rates and taxes upon all the rateable property of the said Municipality.

6. That the amount hereby raised each year for the payment of the said debentures and interest as hereby mentioned shall be and is hereby appropriated for the purpose of paying such sum.

7. That the votes of the electors of the said Municipality entitled to vote on the present By-law shall be taken on the 7th day of May, 1910, on the application of any person interested in the proposed By-law, at the opening of the By-law aforesaid the following persons be attend the final summing up of the votes by the Returning Officer, and the votes to be attended at the poll on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting the passing of the By-law and one person on behalf of the persons interested in opposing the passing of the By-law.

8. That the Returning Officer shall attend at his said office on the said Town of Tofield, Alberta, on the said afternoon on Saturday the 28th day of May, 1910, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of votes given for and against the By-law.

Read a third time and finally passed this day of , 1910.

Editor Tofield Standard:

Sir:—If you will allow me a little space in your valuable columns I would like to pass a few remarks on how the members of the local branch of the U.F.A. take an interest in the meetings that are called for the purpose of discussing the questions that every farmer ought to be interested in.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am just going to state a few plain facts, which in my opinion the farmers around Tofield ought to consider; perhaps I may be wrong, if I am I want someone to set me right. When the Alberta Farmers and the Canadian Society of Equity amalgamated we organized a local at Tofield with a membership of about forty farmers, taking in the districts of Tofield, Bardo, Auiesk Creek and Ryley, we agreed to hold semi-monthly meetings at Tofield and Bardo alternatively. Our meetings at Tofield have been fairly well attended, but I am sorry to say that our meetings at Tofield have been a total failure as far as the farmers around that district are concerned. We should all that have been attending our meetings here have come from the outside districts. How is it that the farmers around Tofield can't see that it is to their interest to attend the meetings. Now what is the reason? Is it the fault of the officers or is it because the farmers are too blind to see that it is to their own benefit and also to the benefit of the whole association that these meetings are attended. It must be the latter, for I don't believe that the officers of any organization can ever make it a success unless the members take some interest in it and that is something that the Tofield farmers certainly are not doing with this local. I can't, for the life of me, see how it is that any farmer would even a very limited supply of intelligence can and not see if ever we are going to get any benefit from our organization we have such one got to take an interest in it and not expect benefit from an organization when they won't even come out to the meetings. There is not a farmer in Alberta but what has been benefited more or less by the organization whether he is a member or not but we need not expect non-members to be interested when the members won't take any interest in it.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space

Telephone Construction Begun

The construction of the rural party telephone line from Tofield south through the Bardo settlement began today. A large party at work under supervision of Superintendent Grierson who will build the main trunk line from Tofield to Wainwright. This same party will erect the poles and string the wires for the rural party line through to Bardo. Superintendent Grierson also informs us that within two weeks a large party will be working in Tofield installing the local exchange lines. The vigorous action of the Board of Trade recently is bearing its fruit.

Mr. Burks of the Government Telephone Dept., will be in Tofield on Thursday, when those desiring to receive signed contracts for telephones on their land will be taken by the local exchange. Parties interested would be taken by all parties concerned as they must be on hand in person that day and sign up or have their duly appointed attorney on hand to sign contracts in their behalf. Persons not making contracts now will not be able to receive phones this year as construction parties are exceptionally busy.

Steam Plows Busy

Hundreds of Acres in Tofield District Being Broken

The acreage that will be brought under crop in the TOFIELD district in 1911 will be a great increase over that of the current year. Great as has been the increase this year over 1909, 1911 will far outstrip that of the present year. Last year's summer being dry lent breaking of virgin and was done owing to lack of sufficient power. This year the very condition of dryness throughout the spring season is the main condition to a successful breaking season for on every side steam plowing outfits are busy turning up hundreds of acres of prairie. Last week Chas. Bowick and Robt. Mitchell finished breaking 60 acres for John McConnell and repaired town of Wm. Lee, resigned Dated under my hand at Tofield this 18th day of May, A. D. 1910.

Round Hill

We regret having to report the serious illness of Miss Bailey, from appendicitis, which necessitated her being taken to the Camrose hospital. She is at the time of writing, once more at home and slowly regaining her former health.

Mr. Boswell of Camrose, was a guest at the home of Mr. Chas. Currie's last week.

Mr. William Ross was elected Trustee of the Round Hill Village School District, a meeting of the ratepayers held on Friday, May 13. The vacancy in the Board resulted from the resignation of Mr. Andrew Foss.

Great interest was manifested by the neighborhood in a Baseball match between Round Hill and Salt Lake at Round Hill one day last week. A large crowd was present to enjoy the sport. Salt Lake won out by a narrow margin.

Dr. and Mrs. Stewart of Camrose and Mr. and Mrs. Hanson of Bawlf, were Sunday visitors at Round Hill.

Miss Gladys Currie is home at present on a visit to her parents.

Mr. James Mohler of Ohaton, is back for the summer on his Round Hill farm. Jim is building a new residence at present.

The C.P.R. are contemplating at present floating a subdivision at Round Hill on their property, Section 19, immediately south of the townsite. Their inspector is expected here any day to look the proposition over.

The usual prospectors who are at present at work on the Esk farm have met with the best of success.

Woodlawn

Frank Reed has moved to Kingman.

Stanley Day has almost completed his new house. Congratulations are not in order — yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Everett, who are living in Kingman, were up on the homestead this week.

George Shepard and Clarence Mitchell drove up from Camrose last Sunday. Clarence left for Ohaton on Monday morning. I may add that he left with him a pleasant trip, and those who know him, a safe and quick return.

The new school is rapidly nearing completion. Who was it proposed some thing of a basket social dance, the end of this month? By all means let us have it. The school can surely be of some advantage as a social feature, even if is not making a bit as an Educational probability. I would suggest that the dance be used to pay the fiddler, and any balance (if) is caught help the roads, we'd express into that in the morning.

There are several cases of hoof jaw among cattle in this vicinity. The owners are not aware of the fact that there is a penalty for allowing these animals to run at large. It is wrong, morally as well as legally.

The undersigned desires to publicly acknowledge with deep gratitude the warm and heartfelt sympathy extended to him and family during their late bereavement.

of minutely how pan pool and pay ball are played. That the best man did not always win a game of pan pool or pay ball. Cross examined by Mr. Freeman Witness admitted he was a loafer around pool rooms and bar rooms, that he had been interdicted, that he was not allowed now to play in the pool room, that he owed the proprietors money for games played, that he had had a row with Mr. Maxwell, that he had lost a case of charge for assault against Maxwell that he had been drinking on April 18th, that he had been drinking the day he laid the complaint, that he had been sorry in a way that he had laid the complaint, that he had done it in a measure for spite, that in pan-pool or pay-ball the most skillful player had the best chance of winning the game.

J. F. Mahaffey called, being sworn said, that he had seen pan-pool, pay-ball, and other games played in the pool room, and described the manner in which they are played. He said that the most skilled player stands the best show of winning the game, but he does not always win.

OBITUARY

Death of Mrs. O. H. Mahaffey

A heavy gloom was cast over the town last Friday, May 20th when almost without warning Mrs O. H. Mahaffey suddenly passed away in the presence of her husband and a few intimate friends. Only a short time before a telegram had been received from Pawnee, Oklahoma, conveying the sad tidings to Mrs. Mahaffey of the death of her father, Rev. R. P. Oswald, earlier in the day. Mrs. Mahaffey had been suffering somewhat from heart trouble following inflammatory rheumatism, and had been feeling more under the weather than usual. They knew that her father was ill with dropsy in Pawnee, Okla., and while the tidings of his demise was not unexpected, his suddenness is supposed to have greatly affected the patient, her end coming within a very short time after the receipt of the affecting and exciting news.

The deceased was 34 years and 5 months of age, being born in West Virginia, Dec 21, 1875. Her maiden name was Rosa B. Gould. On June 26, 1897, she married Oscar H. Mahaffey at Pawnee, Okla. They came to Tofield, Canada, in 1902, homesteading a few miles northwest of town. Besides a sorrowing husband, she leaves two children, Ora, a daughter of 12 years, and Otis, a son of seven, all of whom have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the Methodist Church. Rev. Pastor Munton preaching the service. At the grave, after the private religious service, the local lodge of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen of whom the deceased was a social member, performed their ritual ceremonies for the dead. The funeral was one of the largest ever seen in Tofield.

Local

Miss M. Mahaffey made a business trip to the Capital last Monday.

Mrs. Osgood of Kansas, is visiting her parents Mr and Mrs. Jas. Mahaffey and will stay the summer at Tofield.

Departmental Examinations

The Departmental Examinations for Standards V and VI will be held this year on June 27th, 28th, 29th and 30th.

Attention is specially directed to the fact that examination in these two standards will be conducted at one station, during the same days and under the same presiding examiners. The Department will supply the required paper and ink but the candidates are advised to provide themselves with rulers, compasses, penholders, etc. Forms of application and copies of timetable will be mailed upon request.

The Department will endeavor as far as possible to have the candidates of each school unite at the most convenient centre, and each teacher when making application is requested to state which he considers the most convenient of the following centres:

Edmonton, Vegreville, Innisfree, Vermilion, Tofield, Viking, Wainwright, Strathcona, Leduc, Wetaskiwin, Camrose, Daysland, Killam, Hardisty, Provost, Ponoka, Lacombe, Olds, Stettler, Red Deer, Innisfail, Olds, Didsbury, Carstairs, Calgary, Bassf, Gleichen, Medicine Hat, Okotoks, High River, Nanton, Claresholm, Macleod, Pincher Creek, Taber, Raymond, Cardston.

TOFIELD, MAY 25 1910.

In the passage by the House of Commons of the bill of the Minister of Labor, Mr. McKenzie-King, which is now written upon the statute books and will be known as the Combines Investigation Act, the government is making another radical and entirely new departure from the conventional lines of legislation, in the interests of the people of Canada.

It is a departure as original and radically different from anything ever before undertaken by the legislative authority of any constitutional country as was the Lemieux act for the avoidance of strikes through conciliation.

Like that legislation it is a recognition of the importance of a new position such as from time to time arise as the outgrowth of modern civilization and that speedily, having to do with conditions which have not hitherto existed, requires to be dealt with by additional methods just as unprecedented.

That is to say that whereas the Industrial Disputes act was a recognition that such as conciliation had to be up a new condition was in the interests of the general public were many times necessary if the industrial disputes were to be prevent which, had no method had to be devised other legislation is a recognition that the mind of modern civilization has caused as the new conditions would, this interests of the people are adversely affected, but in lieu of conciliation a body formed to raise the cost of the necessaries of life to the consumer or to depress the existing power of the actual producer and to coin which, in some quite as monstrous trust must be found.

The method of meeting and dealing with this new condition which the government has elected to take, is one of as an experimental measure may be expected to have a far reaching effect upon the welfare of the people at large and on who be it is confidently believed will be very beneficial, by providing a constitutional means of making inquiry into the methods and results of combinations either in artificially raising the price to consumers or depressing prices for the producer.

The means adopted has the same underlying principle as the Industrial Disputes act. That is that, publicity of the facts in relation to wrongful acts or acts calculated to work harm or injury to the public is a greater deterrent to the commission of such acts than might be punitive measures for their prevention.

The larger phase of the purposes at which the measure aims, is that the people of Canada shall be benefitted by keeping the cost of living within reasonable bounds and, upholding the earning capacity of the producer by preventing the machinery whereby the methods of any combination designed to adversely affect the interests of the people in those respects shall be exposed, the public benefit, by the publicity of exposure will discourage the tendency to the formation of combines for such purposes.

But the measure does not stop there with providing a deterrent to such practices through publicity. On the contrary, if that does not achieve the desired result, there is provision for the punishment of the offenders and the suppression of the practice.

If in any community there is a feeling that a combination exists to keep up the cost of living artificially, say six individuals who are citizens of Canada who believe such a combination exists, may bring the matter to the notice of a judge of the court who will give a hearing. If the judge considers a case has been made, he will order an investigation by a board to be composed of one member to be named by the complainants, one by those accused and the third to be appointed by the government from among the judiciary of the province.

The board has all the powers of a court for the purposes of investigating the charges. If the board finds the charges are examined, the practices complained of are declared to constitute an offence and if continued after ten days from the date of publication of the board's report in the official gazette the offender or offenders are liable to a heavy penalty or if the combination exists in relation to any article of commerce duties or imports into Canada, the government may abolish the duty.

By the adoption of this legislation the government once more has shown evidence of its aptitude for recognizing new problems as they spring up as a result of the progressiveness of the intensive civilization of the day and for finding modern solution of them calculated to preserve rights and safeguard the welfare of the people against encroachment from combinations of capital in their prejudicial aspects.

Certainly Has Not Cold Feet

The Tofield Standard in its last issue takes us to task for claiming at a public lecture read, maybe being misquoted to whether we did or did not say. We claim but the matter is speculated by this great family journal, extends by on the highest heavens to the depths of well half way through, ... earth and we cannot be what we might our Tofield people have to eat a mile or two off our farmers to the west. FIRST CLASS ACCOMODATION

Auction Sale of School Lands in Alberta.

IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to the provisions of the Public Lands Act, Revised Statutes of Canada, 1906, Chapter 20, and amendments thereto, and Regulations thereof, the undersigned will offer for sale at public auction at the Land Office, Edmonton, Alta., on Wednesday, May 25, 1910, at 10 o'clock a.m.

The lands will be offered in quarter sections, or in such smaller parcels as may be applied for before the sale, subject to any reservations that may be made by the Department of the Interior, and will be sold subject to the conditions of the Dominion Lands Act, except that the settlement duties will be performed within three years after the date of sale.

Each quarter section will contain as nearly as may be 160 acres, and the exact area of each parcel will be determined by the Dominion Land Surveyor who will survey the lands. Each purchaser will be required to pay for the cost of survey of the land purchased by him, in addition to the purchase money.

The lands will be offered subject to a reserve bid, which will be fixed at the rate of $10 per acre for all lands within 20 miles of railway construction, and at the rate of $5 per acre for all lands more than 20 miles from railway construction.

The lands will be offered in the order in which they appear on the list hereto, and will be put up for sale in the order in which they are applied for.

Each purchaser will be required to pay down on the purchase price of the land purchased by him, at the time of sale, one-tenth of the purchase money, or a deposit will be received from him to that amount.

TERMS OF PAYMENT

One-tenth of the purchase money at time of sale and balance in ten equal annual instalments, with interest at the rate of five per cent per annum on the unpaid purchase money, payable annually in advance. Time running from the date of the sale. Payment of the first instalment of principal and interest may be made at any time within one year from the date of sale, and payment of each succeeding instalment of principal and interest may be made at any time within one year from the date when the same becomes due and payable, with interest at the rate of five per cent per annum.

Scrip or warrants will not be accepted in payment.

Upon a payment of one-tenth down upon the purchase price, immediately thereon the purchaser will be entitled to receive a certificate of sale for the lands, subject to the conditions of the sale and to the reservations mentioned in the Dominion Lands Act.

Upon such certificate of sale being issued, the purchaser will be entitled to receive a patent for the lands upon the payment of the remaining nine-tenths of the purchase money, and the interest thereon, as above mentioned, and upon the fulfilment of the settlement duties.

Purchasers will not be entitled to receive a patent for the lands purchased by them, as above mentioned, until the settlement duties thereon have been performed.

Lists of lands to be sold may be had on application to the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, to W. H. Cross, Dominion Inspector of Timber Lands, Winnipeg, or to the Dominion Land Agent at Edmonton, Alta., Calgary, Alta., Lethbridge and Prince Albert, Sask.

By order of the Minister,
FINLEY G. KEYES,
Secretary.
Department of the Interior,
Ottawa, 13th April, 1910.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male is years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any Agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

STAY-AT-HOMES.

Duties of Great Juno Graduates Who Become Professional Life.

With the passing of June almost 500 will end for many a girl. Some will start to take up a profession or business. The rest who stays at home will remember over the summer no remembrance whatever, and who remembers.

Many girl graduates will be unable to find employment for the next year or two, or even longer, their decisions will be made by their parents, who think that through the morning dwelling in the shops or gossiping with friends, who wastes the afternoons and evenings in mere gossip or pastime, home life will be a dreaded disadvantage to her. She will deteriorate mentally and morally. She will grow selfish and lazy. No girl should permit herself to become this sort of house girl, even though her mother may want to indulge her or the family circumstances may permit of idleness. It is not enough society in her. An actual one do that. One should live to some purpose.

A certain sum out of parties and pleasures are to be had to-money. Girlhood comes but once, but all one's time should be given up to form. Life does not end at twenty. Many a bright girl remembers more worth while pleasure should be given to proper place and proportion in the day's or life. She is the dreamer on the moon. One cannot live on a daughter with our common duties and unhealthy.

The girl who stays at home should take her share of the household tasks. The time has come to lift some of the burdens from mother's shoulders, to give more time and sympathetic attention to the interests of the younger members of the family, to add to the father's pleasure in the family circle of an evening. The girl who is home with mind free from business and time to study the home life is all to do. Talks will find plenty to do to help and to make it happier. And the girl who stays at home should do it. A study of household economics might be of greatest aid to lessening the housework expenses or lightening the burden of its toil. She will be a wise girl if she does this so. She has elected to make home work her life work, and she should lend all efforts to do it as scientifically and intelligently as possible. She will get more pleasure out of it and more if she goes about it in the right way.

The girl who stays at home should take an intelligent interest in the affairs of the community about her. Sunday schools and charitable organizations need workers. Business women are too busy and too tired to do much of such work. Justice to them serves demands that they rest and recuperate when their daily task is over. The girl who stays at home can, also, be a new in many civic affairs.

The girl who stays at home should help by the Dominion government under the Grain Act, are given in our news columns. The defendants appear satisfied with the findings of the police magistrates court, for no notice of appeal has been given and cheques for the full amount of the fines have by this time reached Ottawa.

The cases are of special interest in that it is the first time an investigation of this nature and gravity has been held under the act; also in that they show with how much the Mission Indians had fallen through the operations of a strong whisky ring which had established a strong hold on the Indians and which never had been successfully coped with. Miss Tree has already won married anyone in the same line of work at the Morongo reservation, to which she has been sent and has become a stronger, and the Indians have sometimes throughout the state for their betterment.

What the latter witnesses endured in her struggle to evict the whisky ring that had operated at such people for years her masters other than scarcely realize. She was first offered bribes then intimidations of every sort, from the circulation of unpleasant stories about her to anonymous letters threatening death, and finally she was shot at from ambush. She has carried on all this trouble with the whisky men she was forced to deal with thieves and ruffianers who had been in the habit of using Indian land as theirs it was their own. But in the end she was the victor and the Mission reservation is rapidly becoming one of the models of the Indian office.

Miss Tree weighs only 110 pounds, but she is as lithe as years of riding in the cattle ranges have her. She has approaching her fortieth birthday.

An Inspiration.

When a fair young girl with sunny hair, red lips, white teeth and gentle manners is seen coming for living to another attending to matching and mesh it can be safely assumed that love and chivalry is the young man. Perhaps they think, "But for father or brother my mother and sister might be doing the same for a lot of us fellows, and I'd punch the head of any one who was impolite or disrespectful."

Mark the numbers with your needle. Help the birds in filling the earth with music. Find yourself a part of this busy, happy, overflowing world and share it as your inside and skin.

The Elevator Fines

(Goose Jaw Times)

Fines aggregating $5,500 were imposed against three terminal elevator companies by Magistrate T. M. Daly, in Winnipeg last week. One escaped with a nominal fine of $60., another was found guilty on six charges and fined $600 for each; and the third was found guilty on six charges of a similar character and fined $600 for each offence. Full particulars of the cases, which were prosecuted by the Dominion government under the Grain Act, are given in our news columns. The defendants appear satisfied with the findings of the police magistrates court, for no notice of appeal has been given and cheques for the full amount of the fines have by this time reached Ottawa.

Notes and Comments

What is our Member of Parliament about? If he is asleep it is time to wake up and commence to look after the interests of his constituents in this part of the district. Heads, if the word may be used, are very few and far between around here. In fact one would think our member is following the example of a certain prominent member of the Government who made the boast that all roads led to his home town. If Mr. Holden thinks that we will be satisfied to have all roads in this constituency lead to Vegreville he is mistaken. We want roads around Holden.
Holden Herald

Edmonton is to have "Certified Milk." This is a scientific method of treating milk which makes it safe for sick children. The need of milk of this kind is most apparent in the hot weather. What is good for the kids is also good for the grown folk. The above at op of the medical department of the Capital's civic administration is a wise one which could well be emulated by other municipalities.

Woodlawn

Our Editor asks us to advertise our districts. Woodlawn has certainly been sufficiently advertised by way of pork going clear out of sight, school rackets, etc. But the Woodlawnites do not exactly like their district to be advertised in such a way alone, and wish to have you think that there are worse places than Woodlawn on this terrestial globe.

DISTRICT

Beaver Lake East

G. M. Steele was down here lately, on a farewell visit. He leaves for B.C. on the 24th. Many are sorry to see him leaving the lake.

Miss Mabel McCallum and her sister Mrs. J. S. McCallum, went to Edmonton on the 2nd, on business and pleasure combined.

Joseph McCallum is digging a well for the corporation of Hunting. They did not go fifty feet deep, and 6 feet in diameter. He is just about done with the job and reports lots of good water.

H. A. Stuart-Wade, our energetic teacher, is spending a few days in the city. While in the capital he may pay a visit to the capitol. Some seem to think these names are quite common, but they're not.

We notice that teachers are asked for conveying the mail to the offices on this side of the lake for another four years' term. The present contractor, J. S. McCallum has been very efficient, and we hope he will get a renewal of the job.

Whenever P.S. Inspector Louks visited our school, if he saw a chip or two lying around the yard, he almost threw a fit, and subscribed the Truteen to a finish in his report. The new inspector, Mr. Butchart, was around lately, and he finds everything very satisfactory, which is certainly a pleasant change.

There was to have been a football match, between the Beaver Lake and the Mondare boys on the 24th, but it fell through, as some of the latter wanted to go to the Fort on that day.

Miss Kitty McCallum is home having a short respite from her arduous intellectual labors at the high school.

Mrs. Weeks and our former teacher, Miss Wright, paid a visit to the lake on the 21st. They were tired of the monotonous vegetable scenery, and were hungering, as it were, for a sight of our beautiful groves, and the rippling waters of the lake. Miss Wright's old friends were very glad to see her. It may be news, I suppose, that we can show in our bush, trees, from the tiny sapling, to the nearly seventy inches in girth. In our gardens are apple trees in bloom. Our crops, too, look quite healthy, in spite of the drought.

Wm. Lemke, an old friend of ours, was over from Bow Creek the other day on business. He is sets to be over again in June, as a sheep-shearing exhibition.

May 23, '10.

All Above Debentures Sold at Par

Last Saturday, the 28th ult., the electors of the town of Tofield by their votes gave almost unanimous their assent to all of the above mentioned by-laws which authorize the issue of debentures upon the town from the sale of which the necessary money may be raised to purchase the properties required or to make the improvements projected.

Council met on Tuesday night and put the five debenture by-laws through their final reading. They have been lawfully passed upon, on Saturday, by an overwhelming vote in their support by the ratepayers. All these by-laws take effect from to-day.

The council took another whirl at the scavenger question last night and for two hours wrangled over the vexed problem of what is, what or shall not do, what is not or shall not be paid. It was finally decided that the scavenger will not have to remove ashes, manure or night soil, from the property of any ratepayer, but merely the kitchen refuse, etc., and the Health and Relief Committee was authorized to make a contract with some reliable person at as cheap a consideration as possible.

Clause V. of the Health By-laws is to be enforced. That is, that all privies are to be thoroughly disinfected monthly, and made light-proof, and also fly-proof. Council re-fused to consider any protection to householders, or property holders who have sanitary cans in their privies, in the matter of a municipal scavenger, whose duty it shall be to attend to privies. That by system was good enough for them. To us who would like to see the system in operation with the suggestions brought in by the councils M.H.O., will not have to shift for themselves as here to-day.

It was decided to call at once for tenders as much per lineal foot, for the construction of the new sidewalks as authorized by the by-law just passed.

Kew figures, for the putting down of the town well, are being secured by council, the Hamilton contract having been cancelled.

Do not fail to get your next order of stationery from us. Mail us your order if you cannot come. Clear cut new type. Good workmanship, quality, and satisfaction guaranteed.—The Standard, Printers & Publishers.

Rev. Mr Munton left last Monday for Red Deer, to attend the annual meeting of the Methodist Conference. Mr. Munton will most likely be transferred to another field at this conference. His many friends in and around Tofield will be sorry to see both he and Mrs. Munton leave.

The papers in all the neighboring towns are noticing the report of the recent Pee-pee case at Tofield, and sounding a warning note with the bounding: No more pee pee at Tofield.

Mark Ferguson, Tofield Harness Shop, who lost heavily in the recent fire, will soon be in his new building on Main Street, which has quickly risen over the ashes of his former place of business. Concrete Storey is rushing the building to completion. Mark will have a bigger, brighter, and better eye and stock, than before. Mr. Chisnick, our boot and shoe doctor will have his office in the same building.

Mrs. (Rev.) Whillans, president of the Tofield branch of the W.C.T.U., was taken to the Misericordia Hospital, Edmonton, last Monday. She is suffering from a bad attack of nervous prostration.

It is understood that Messrs. Maxwell and Kallal, proprietors of the Tofield Pool Room, are appealing against the decision of the Justices in the case of Revs. Maxwell and Kallal a short time ago. The appeal will probably come up at the next sitting of District Court here, which will be on October 5th.

John Stafford and wife, who have been staying at Tofield for several months, left this week for Pawnee, Okla., on a visit of a few months.

24th Big Day at Irma

Irma had a great day of Sport on the 24th. A big baseball tournament was held, at which a cup trophy was put up for the winning team. Viking, Wainwright, and Hardisty teams were on hand to take part in the contest, in which, the home team figured. Viking and Irma played in the morning, the visitors scoring over the home team. Then Wainwright and Hardisty had it out, and Hardisty put it all over Buffalo town. The final between Hardisty and Viking was a hard one, and resulted in the Norsemen being defeated, Hardisty walking off with the prize.

Rutherford Resigns Sifton Now Premier

Last week, Premier Rutherford handed his resignation with those of the other members of the Government, to the Lieutenant-Governor, immediately Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Chief Justice Sifton, of Alberta, was asked to form a new government. He new premier wired his resignation from the bench to Ottawa, and accepted his new position. The new Premier is backed up by a very strong majority both in the country and in support of the Rutherford government. Ex-Premier Rutherford is expected to quit politics until over the next head of events and is in the best interests of the Liberal party in the province. The Legislature will not meet for over two months.

FATHER, meditating on Tom's future: "Ah, me, Tom—I wish I could afford a performance at the theatre—I would send you to see Irving and Ellen Terry." Tom: "Oh, I've seen them, father. I've been to the Zoo."

"Well, why don't you shave me?" inquired the irate customer. "Why, we lather before we shave the next street for a shave."

A CANADIAN lady was showing a friend over the house. "This is the room I intend for a performance at the theatre, and it would be quite next to one of the parties." "Yes," replied the friend, "I suppose it would be handy in case of fire."

HE—"Do you think you could be happy with me in a cottage?" SHE—"I should think so with a mouse and a few rats to keep me company."

THE KENTUCKY FUTURITY

You met in the race of 1906, and it was quite an affair of straight heats—that is, each horse had to win two heats to win. In 1907, Dr. Willis, who was a great breeder of trotters, and who had a number of horses in the race, and all, that is looked on as a sure winner of the futurity in the third heat, he was 2:18½, but in the fourth heat he was 2:18½, and in the fifth heat he was 2:18½, and in the sixth heat he was 2:18½, and in the seventh heat he was 2:18½, and in the eighth heat he was 2:18½, and in the ninth heat he was 2:18½, and in the tenth heat he was 2:18½, and in the eleventh heat he was 2:18½, and in the twelfth heat he was 2:18½, and in the thirteenth heat he was 2:18½, and in the fourteenth heat he was 2:18½, and in the fifteenth heat he was 2:18½, and in the sixteenth heat he was 2:18½, and in the seventeenth heat he was 2:18½, and in the eighteenth heat he was 2:18½, and in the nineteenth heat he was 2:18½, and in the twentieth heat he was 2:18½, and in the twenty-first heat he was 2:18½, and in the twenty-second heat he was 2:18½, and in the twenty-third heat he was 2:18½, and in the twenty-fourth heat he was 2:18½, and in the twenty-fifth heat he was 2:18½, and in the twenty-sixth heat he was 2:18½, and in the twenty-seventh heat he was 2:18½, and in the twenty-eighth heat he was 2:18½, and in the twenty-ninth heat he was 2:18½, and in the thirtieth heat he was 2:18½, and in the thirty-first heat he was 2:18½, and in the thirty-second heat he was 2:18½, and in the thirty-third heat he was 2:18½, and in the thirty-fourth heat he was 2:18½, and in the thirty-fifth heat he was 2:18½, and in the thirty-sixth heat he was 2:18½, and in the thirty-seventh heat he was 2:18½, and in the thirty-eighth heat he was 2:18½, and in the thirty-ninth heat he was 2:18½, and in the fortieth heat he was 2:18½, and in the forty-first heat he was 2:18½, and in the forty-second heat he was 2:18½, and in the forty-third heat he was 2:18½, and in the forty-fourth heat he was 2:18½, and in the forty-fifth heat he was 2:18½, and in the forty-sixth heat he was 2:18½, and in the forty-seventh heat he was 2:18½, and in the forty-eighth heat he was 2:18½, and in the forty-ninth heat he was 2:18½, and in the fiftieth heat he was 2:18½, and in the fifty-first heat he was 2:18½, and in the fifty-second heat he was 2:18½, and in the fifty-third heat he was 2:18½, and in the fifty-fourth heat he was 2:18½, and in the fifty-fifth heat he was 2:18½, and in the fifty-sixth heat he was 2:18½, and in the fifty-seventh heat he was 2:18½, and in the fifty-eighth heat he was 2:18½, and in the fifty-ninth heat he was 2:18½, and in the sixtieth heat he was 2:18½, and in the sixty-first heat he was 2:18½, and in the sixty-second heat he was 2:18½, and in the sixty-third heat he was 2:18½, and in the sixty-fourth heat he was 2:18½, and in the sixty-fifth heat he was 2:18½, and in the sixty-sixth heat he was 2:18½, and in the sixty-seventh heat he was 2:18½, and in the sixty-eighth heat he was 2:18½, and in the sixty-ninth heat he was 2:18½, and in the seventieth heat he was 2:18½, and in the seventy-first heat he was 2:18½, and in the seventy-second heat he was 2:18½, and in the seventy-third heat he was 2:18½, and in the seventy-fourth heat he was 2:18½, and in the seventy-fifth heat he was 2:18½, and in the seventy-sixth heat he was 2:18½, and in the seventy-seventh heat he was 2:18½, and in the seventy-eighth heat he was 2:18½, and in the seventy-ninth heat he was 2:18½, and in the eightieth heat he was 2:18½, and in the eighty-first heat he was 2:18½, and in the eighty-second heat he was 2:18½, and in the eighty-third heat he was 2:18½, and in the eighty-fourth heat he was 2:18½, and in the eighty-fifth heat he was 2:18½, and in the eighty-sixth heat he was 2:18½, and in the eighty-seventh heat he was 2:18½, and in the eighty-eighth heat he was 2:18½, and in the eighty-ninth heat he was 2:18½, and in the ninetieth heat he was 2:18½, and in the ninety-first heat he was 2:18½, and in the ninety-second heat he was 2:18½, and in the ninety-third heat he was 2:18½, and in the ninety-fourth heat he was 2:18½, and in the ninety-fifth heat he was 2:18½, and in the ninety-sixth heat he was 2:18½, and in the ninety-seventh heat he was 2:18½, and in the ninety-eighth heat he was 2:18½, and in the ninety-ninth heat he was 2:18½, and in the one hundredth heat he was 2:18½.

How and Why Aeroplanes Are Able to Fly from the main planes. These rudder planes are speed about two feet apart, and are hinged to the rear end of the fuselage in the high speed machines operated in unison by a rod connecting them, so as to point some few degrees to the right or to the left, according as the machine is to be turned.

When the aeroplane gets ready to start, the engine is started, the propeller is set in motion, the steersel is released and the aeroplane runs along the ground at a tremendous clip. Just before the speed of the rail is reached the front edges of the front rudder planes are lifted upward, and they are turned down a little at a downward angle, so as to point to the earth. Perpendicularly to the front edges of the rudder planes are hinged elevated planes. This is used to prevent the machine from rising too quickly.

Likening human flight to that of the planes about air fast, is a wooden framework in the shape of a long and small vertical planes. These are in length equal to the baby carriage and the main planes, held parallel to each other, and are separated about a foot apart. Their edges are at right angles to the top planes, and the main planes and the rear rudder may be moved from left to right and from right to left, exactly like the rudder of a ship. These planes, as a whole, are known as the tail, and are sent in the direction of flying the aeroplane from side to side, and preserving its balance.

Resting on the upper side of the low are two planes placed one behind the other, and parallel to each other. These are the main planes, held parallel to each other by a framework of tubes and wire. Their edges are at right angles to the top planes, and their rear edges

MR. CLARKE'S FINANCIAL RELATIONS

"Is it true that Mr. Clarke has not put any of his own money into the railway, as alleged?"

"There has been a great deal of criticism concerning Mr. Clarke's financial status in certain newspapers and some members have made sarcastic references to $50,000 which he is supposed to be worth. As a matter of fact Mr. Clarke has spent several hundred thousand dollars in preliminary construction work. Ten have cut along the right-of-way, a good part of the right-of-way purchased, elaborate surveys made at heavy cost, and Mr. Clarke paid for all these things personally. Not one dollar of the proceeds of the land sale has been touched. There is not one man among all Mr. Clarke's critics that would have dared to put half as much money into the project as Mr. Clarke has. Several attempts had been made to finance the road before Mr. Clarke took hold of it but they all resulted in failure. I am certain that Mr. Clarke has no intention of allowing the results of his efforts to spoil failure. I am sure that he will carry his undertaking to success and that every one concerned will be well pleased with the resultant benefits.

relieve their minds. People who are acquainted with this north country and official reports gathered and compiled at great expense all agree that there great quantities of gypsum, rock salt, pulpwood, asphaltum, coal, timber, fish, oil, copper and other resources which can be made available for market by means of the A. & G. Outlook for Agriculture in Tofield District

$100 in Prizes

Local Agricultural Societies in Alberta are giving $100 prizes for the farmers in the province the best ears of clean seed grain.

According to W. C. McKillican, the district officer of the Dominion Seed Branch, these competitions which have taken place in order to improve the quality of the grain produced in the province.

It is difficult to prevent the mixing of varieties of grain and the spread of weeds in a system of farming so extensive as ours. To combat this tendency and to develop heavy-yielding, early varieties is the purpose of the Agricultural Societies in offering these handsome prizes. It is believed that by stimulating a spirit of rivalry and by offering material reward to the successful, the grain quality of the crops in a whole neighborhood may be affected.

The support of both the Provincial and Dominion Governments is behind these competitions. The latter gives a money grant and the better supplies judges to inspect the fields. The majority of the more progressive Agricultural Societies in the province have already organized competitions.

TOFIELD FAIR SEPTEM[illegible]

[illegible]

The council have given orders that the provisions of the Health Act are to be rigidly complied with on the part of the householders and have given notice accordingly.

The farmers in the Barks and Asphalt Creek districts are taking advantage of the fine weather, to do a large part of road improvement work. L. H. Olson has had the government road grader at work several days in his district.

A man in Cargill, who took a city paper in preference to a country paper, because he got more paper for the money, was attracted by the advertisement of a fire excape, which would be forwarded on the receipt of $2. He sent the money, and in a few days received a copy of the New Testament.

"The Trail" is a bright name, but [illegible] has filled to the brim with [illegible] and articles adapted to our western life, and should commend itself to every reader of good literature, particularly throughout the western provinces.

At last the pressure being brought to bear upon the department of Public Works from local sources has prevailed, and the construction of the bridges on the township line, immediately east of Bardo post office, has begun. The opening of this road will be a great convenience to the farmers and [illegible] generally. It [illegible] a pleasure to [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] of the [illegible] of

"That Reminds Me——"

A kid man in a poorhouse who was asked by a visitor if he had any source of income replied, "Mine, if you must know, I haven't got any money, but I've got good looking. You put the front looking, I'm backed by one of the richest counties in the whole."

A NORTHERNER sitting on the veran da of a southern home was outraged by the honesty of the negro. "How wonderfully beautiful is the moonlight falling on the water, he exclaimed. "It is indeed," replied his dig nified and accommodated Southern hostess, "but all you should have seen is before the war."

A MAN, HUNTER once took his wife to the Palace Music Hall. The Palace girls came on and did their accustomed dance to a jazzbow down that," or "dance of the spiritual shake," no one might say a boghook. The Manchester woman regarding the dance, smiled. "Well, that beats me," she said. Without either sympathy or art her husband chuckled. "You bet it does!"

A COLLIERY blacksmith in Georgia was recently engaged in shoeing a mule when the mule stretched around suddenly and kicked him on the head. A few days afterwards some one asked the smith's wife how her husband was getting on. "I don't know much about the blacksmith," he replied, sniffly, "but I know one thing, I've got a fool mule that's going around on three legs."

LOOKING out of her window Miss Tabitha, for past middle age, saw her young spouse walking on the roads while he fast dangled sugarcane daily. "Johnny!" she called, opening the window and leaning far out. "You Johnny! Johnny! Johnny, I wouldn't do that!" Reasoning his natural position Johnny looked up at her and made the opposite reply. "Wouldn't By Jinks, you couldn't."

THE debonair young man with the plush hat and the Turkish cigar was in a hurry. "Don't push me," he thought, "don't push me." But the thought of striking me when I've got my cane in this hand," chattered, "what a terrible position I'd be in if the barber suddenly became a racing maniac!" "Oh, don't worry about that," said the barber, evidently "I don't think anybody will ever go crazy over you."

AFTER subjecting a lady witness to a troublesome fire of cross-questions, the lawyer, thinking that some apology was necessary, threw up square himself. "I really hope, madame," said he, "that I don't annoy you with all these questions." "Oh, no," was the prompt reply. "I am no more annoyed in it. You don't mean at all." so haughty returned the lawyer. "Yes," rejoined the lady. "I mean it's part of his work."

A SCHOOL TEACHER instructed a pupil to purchase a grammar, and on receiving, next day, that useful book the child's mother——

ONE thing for sure—I can tell it, we is going to fall to-day with the force of determination; and when apart I need pretend I'm sick. Let me of you that "Mame has go, he came to me last fall—he was the doctor."

He was the property of Lloyd Jones, who bought him a little over a year ago. King Direct was foaled in 1890, the property of the estate of Dexter King, Buffalo, N.Y., and was for several years owned by the New York horseman, James Butler, proprietor of that Vare Farm. He had quite an extensive professional career and was considered a exceptionally good roadster, and was a member of the "Big Four" and lead for various periods by Mr. Butler, who drove him a mile to waggon in the fall of 1903 at 2.08¾. His first appearance on the professional turf was 1894, as a four year old, and his first start was made in the country at Windsor, and he negotiated the mile by reeling the 2.39 class in straight heats, the fastest of which was the second, that was paced in 2.18¾. He retired that year with a record of 2.18¾, and was Columbus, where he won the 2.24 class after taking the first heat in 2.18¾. He retained the title until 1900 when Lou Dillon claimed the record, which was lowered

THE AGRICULTURAL FAIR

The main purpose for which the agricultural fair was instituted, for which it still exists, for which it must ever exist if society is to continue and for which large government grants are made, appears to be forgotten by many persons.

What is it? Is it not to enhance the agricultural interests of the whole community? By giving opportunity to gather together men interested in agricultural pursuits, encouraging of the world by showing the varied products of the farm and household that they can be compared and that methods of production may be reviewed, comments and criticisms invited, by illustrative lectures and competitions in many ways, the agricultural society, aided by the government and occasionally by a municipalities, strives to better the condition of the producer—be he farmer or artisan.

But how often do we see this important feature — the educational — entirely overlooked and ignored by exhibitors and, in many cases, to a large extent by the fair managers. It is too frequently the case for an exhibitor to show no products only for 'what there is in it,' for the managers to put on attractions that cover no educative purpose but simply to draw the crowd.

In a bank or man's office the ordinary visitor was pleased to see the products of farm fields and gardens displayed in the past. The man's wife, the [illegible] were more for the dollars and cents represented by the prizes than for the honor of winning. I protest to be rejected that spirit. Should we not all, though we do not expect to take a prize, have an immediate return in the pleasure we have had in producing our vegetables, flowers, etc., and in the knowledge that we have done our best in every detail. If we win honor, even though we do not win a prize? You can make your vegetable garden bring you in some excellent prizes.

The Daily News always endorsed Mr. Riley's actions, but this journal has no hesitation in saying that on this occasion he is taking the only logical step that the situation warrants so far as he and those who think with him are concerned.

The Daily News agrees with the Hon. W. H. Cushing that Mr. Riley's action is consistent with his previous attitude towards the government.

Next!

But Holden is not in such a hurry to take action. He is waiting to see first which way the cat is going to jump. The Vegreville "Observer" says:

"The member for Vegreville is not making any rash promises in connection with the resignation of Mr. Riley. He is satisfied that Hon. Mr. Sifton will bring out one of three at Edmonton, but prefers to wait until something definite in the policies announced before placing himself on record as a supporter of the present Government. Mr. Holden said to the Observer, 'I am doing an independent stand in this thing, and am not going to commit myself in any way until I see where we are at.'"

We have not given vent to our feelings over the death of our beloved King chiefly owing to your limited space, but here the following opinions of eminent British Non-conformists will interest your readers and that you can find room for them. Sir W. Robertson Nicoll, editor of the British Weekly, wrote: "We knew that we loved him, but we did not know how much. In his case loyalty had long passed into strong personal affection. There was something in the King's gracious kindness, his genial love of life, his courtesy and warm sympathy, which won all hearts. Men and women cared for him as they cared for none but the very nearest and dearest of their own circle. . . . Nor did the oceans calumny. There are critics which law cannot reach, for, as a Prime cannot bring a libel suit, he is absolutely defenseless. All he can do is to live down these lies and that our King did. None the less, the maligners were guilty of an act of cowardly brutality."

DR. CLIFFORD:

"We wish that his Majesty had been spared to us for at least another decade to enjoy the special graces and good humor, to advance our national unity, to guide us in our perplexity, and to further the peace and happiness of mankind. He was a great King and deservedly beloved. Not one of the monarchs of the earth had a higher regard in the affectionate regard of his people."

DR. JOWETT:

"I do not know that the Free Churches of this country have in my time had any practical acknowledgment by the Sovereign until King Edward came to the Throne. Recently his reign began the Free Churches have been represented at every function and ceremony which had national or imperial interest. It may be a comparatively small matter, although I do not attach to it a small significance, that a responsible body of local subjects, although differing in many matters from what is called the Established Church, should be regarded by the Monarch as a vital and worthy element in the life of the state."

DR. HORTON:

"We ought to express our profound gratitude to God, that we have had on the throne of England for nine years, a King whom we could not only honor, but love. Edward VII had been one whom all the world honored—one whom his subjects had loved, with a deep and genuine devotion. For thirty years, after his recovery from typhoid fever, he was exposed to scurrility and slander, accused of gambling, which he detested, and other things which foul minds loved to attribute to the great.

DR. G. S. BARRET:

quoted a little incident which happened on Friday night before the iron gates of Buckingham Palace illustrating the feelings which the King's influence had created in South Africa. A brbrned, weather-beaten man, looking at the bulletin was heard to say: "I fought against you in South Africa. I helped to kill some of your soldiers. I would lay down my life to save that man who lies dying there."

KINGMAN

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Tait were visiting at Crooked Lake, last week.

P. H. Bandal, organizer of the Alberta No- License Union, was a visitor at Kingman.

Quite a large crowd from Kingman, spent the 24th at Mirgelon Lake, where they had a jolly time.

O. Horte made a business trip to Tofield on Monday.

Crops are looking well in this district.

Mr. Trainor, from Vancouver B.C., was a caller here a few days ago. He intends starting a newspaper here, in the near future.

WHY NOT YOU

A lady from Barby came into the Standard office last Thursday afternoon, to have a quantity of BUTTER WRAPPERS PRINTED. In an hour she had her job done, and delivered other. She was immensely pleased with the nature of the work. Promptness, neatness, and quality, are all associated with all Standard printing. Moral:—See us when you want your printing done quickly, neatly and with despatch. Mail orders promptly attended to.

Standard subscribers would confer a favor on the publisher, if they would promptly report direct to our office, any irregularity in the delivery of the paper at their post offices. All papers leave this office regularly, and should reach the addresses in due course.

U. F. A. Meeting

The Tofield branch of the U.F.A. held a special meeting at Kingman on Saturday, May 21st. A very appreciative audience assembled on the occasion. The question of organizing a local was discussed and it was deemed advisable to do so at the next meeting. Eight new members joined the local on condition that they be transferred to their own local when organized. The farmers around Kingman are alive to the fact that if they are going to get their just rights they have got to be organized. The pork packing plant was discussed, and signatures for 70 hogs were secured. The elevator question was also discussed. It was moved and adopted that the official in charge of the local elevators be empowered to buy grain the same as street buyers, and not to be sold by sample as in Manitoba, and that this resolution be forwarded to the elevator commition. A number of trial subscriptions to The Guide were secured by the secretary. The question of erecting a farmers cooperative elevator was brought before the meeting. A committee was appointed to secure signatures of farmers wishing to take one or more shares in the proposed elevator. Orders for binder twine amounting to 2430 lbs were secured.

Furred and Feathered Doctors

SURGICAL treatment of injuries [took to] itself is not practised by the lower animals, who are left to the tender mercies of Nature. Nature is a considerable doctor, as many know who have carefully watched how she treats the lower animals" who are murdered in the fundamentals of this branch of science to a considerable degree.

Dr. James Watt of the Indian Veterinary Hospital, Bellmont, tells of a dog so many years unsuccessfully doctored and cured. In the cage in which the doctors were kept, and prescribed from the outside, and on this the animal put its shoulder body. After a season dog the wounds by putting the hair which grew around it the utmost carefully removed a handful of clean sawdust, which it pressed firmly on the bleeding surface. The clotted blood merged with the sawdust in place and there was no further loss of blood. The wound was then bandaged and dusted it over that was saturated with blood. The to-be-healthy tissue dried and formed a coating over the wound, protecting it until it was entirely healed.

"For two or three days," Dr. Watt states, "the healing of a portion of the coating was accidentally disturbed. would replace it with fresh sawdust. He insisted on reason had taught it to protect the wound from air or dust, to see nothing of the recognition of the healing qualities of the sawdust itself.

Another case of animal surgery to which Dr. Watt was a witness a couple of years ago required 16 months' work in it study.

At Young owned a number of dogs whom were used for drawing his sleds over the ice. Among them was one named Rover, who not only attended to his own tasks, but actually performed the duties of surgeon to all of his fellows. Mr. Young is well known in the Klondyke in Canada and in the United States, and has statements are not to be questioned.

He says that other injuries due to the severe [illegible] dogs had to perform were unconsciously and momentarily healed by Dr. Rover. The dog had only one remedy, which was the cleansing of the affected part by licking it and a subsequent sweetening of the place with saliva. Whenever the remedy was applied, the cure was speedy.

Mr. Young also avers that Dr. Rover was in pretty constant demand, and that her fellow-dogs compassionate invariably came to her for treatment instead of trying to cure themselves. Which, if true, would be a most remarkable canine professional reputation is daily rising street. It was noticed that those parts of the lame of the dog patients which could not be reached by the dog doctor's tongue were subdued, showing how thoroughly the saliva and the cleansing process did their work. The [illegible] employed by Mr. Young admitted the dog's skill and sagacity that they christened it "Mahoba Ajax," mean ing "Good Surgeon."

This treatment of wounds by means of the tongue is peculiar to dogs, however. Cats, cats, rats, mice, and deer boys are all known to lick their wounds when they can get at them, and when they cannot do so they endeavor to get their companions to perform this office for them.

The most [illegible] case of the British army, who was famous for his huge shooting tents in India, says that on many occasions tigers that had been hurt had licked the flesh around their wounds completely bare of hair, thus making it easy for the animals to get at the parts, enabling them to perform this work. On one occasion he saw a tigress perform the office for one of her cubs that had been badly wounded on the shoulder.

He adds that on several occasions tigers that had thus treated themselves sought some river or water hole, in which they submerged their bodies so as to cover the wounds, remaining in this position for hours at a time.

Those who have studied the matter of the treatment of animals by their wonderful instinct declare that it is their own treatment. The dog, for example, is a physician as well as a surgeon, differing from his human contemporary only in the matter of the type of remedies used. The dog does not employ a multiplicity of poisonous drugs to cure his body gets out of condition, but in stead goes searching around a field in an apparently aimless manner, finally chewing up some unattractive and usually repulsive plant that is the presently needed remedy for his case.

In view more of the fact that the vegetable growth which it thus swallows is comparatively simple, which is scientifically known as Triticum repens. That plant is an effective purgative, and, to extend it is used for that purpose by human physicians.

In other instances a species of sky is swallowed by the ailing animals, especially by horses and mules when they are afflicted with a stomach disorder known to the veterinary surgeon as "worm."

It has long been known that cattle that are suffering from serious plaster will eat the leaves of the [illegible] and so relief to being cleared a cure.

Dr. Watt, in a recent report to his university, stated that a new deficiency by books the ins that had formed out a good and founded the sticking joint to a both of wood. In some cases animals have been known to renew the plaster from time to time until the cement had disappeared.

There is a remedy said by the major ity of druggists that is known as anti-phlogistine. It is a sort of greyish, brownish clay found in Colorado and other parts of the West. In the case of colds, sprains, wounds, etc., the stuff has proven very efficacious.

Some years ago a nursing proprietor noticed that dose and birds were in the habit of eating a certain kind of clay that was found in the vicinity of their homes and in it. The noticed his curiosity, and after some investigation he discovered that the animals that thus behaved were in all cases suffering from ailment or injury. This led to experiments on his part, and it was finally discovered that the clay had highly curative properties. The attention of some sharp-witted per sons in the East was called to this na tural substance, the result being that a company was formed which is now pro ducing the stuff.

Most of us have observed the desire for salt nibbling at plants. This it does for the same reason that the dog eats [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

A newcomer named McHan, from Ontario, added to by learning himself, over from last week. He was despondent, because he could not locate a homestead. He had brought up a carload of horses and cattle.

Writs have been issued for the elections, to be held on June 20th, in the electoral districts of Vermilion, Medicine Hat, and Lethbridge. Deputy returning officers in Vermilion, Dr. Judge Mitchell in Medicine Hat, and A. J. McLean in Lethbridge.

"Advertising is the life of trade," is the motto in old Sutton. "It never helped me none," The millionaire smiled. "That's because you don't advertise," said the Sutton merchant. "If you'd let folks know you're alive, they'd come to you instead of other people." An Indian trader, who had taken up locations along the route of the road, and who are clamoring for a service to meet their requirements. The great wonder to me is that the Edmonton board of trade has not presented the matter more strenuously."

Mr Douglas has written a letter to the Hon. Geo. P. Graham, minister of railways at Ottawa, asking for information with regard to the delay in putting on a passenger service and setting forth the case of the people of his constituency living along the line of the G.T.P.

G. T. P. Claims Railway Commission is to Blame.

That the Grand Trunk Pacific are ready and even anxious to place an up-to-date through passenger service on their line between Winnipeg and Edmonton and are only prevented from doing so by the action of the railway commission, was the information handed out to J. M. Douglas, M. P., for Strathcona, by G. T. P. authorities in Winnipeg, while Mr. Douglas was there recently.

He was told by W. J. Hinton, the general passenger agent for the road, that while the company was ready to place a passenger service on the prairie section of the road at the earliest possible date, the railway commission had refused to grant the company permission to do so. This information was received by the other railway official with whom Mr. Douglas had conversation on the matter, who stated that the reasons for the commission's action was that the railroad has not yet been finished.

To a Journal reporter yesterday, Mr. Douglas stressed the opinion that if the rails or roadbed in building up the proposed passenger service on the grounds above set out, the action is rather inconsistent. There are hundreds of miles of the prairie section of the C. P. R., said Mr. Douglas, "That are not fenced, and this company is not refused permission to run a through passenger service. It is a matter that should be looked into at once, on behalf of the people who have taken up locations along the route of the road, and who are clamoring for a service to meet their requirements. The great wonder to me is that the Edmonton board of trade has not presented the matter more strenuously."

Mr Douglas has written a letter to the Hon. Geo. P. Graham, minister of railways at Ottawa, asking for information with regard to the delay in putting on a passenger service and setting forth the case of the people of his constituency living along the line of the G.T.P.

Base Ball

Tofield Defeats Bardo 5 to 4

In a Splendid Game

"Home class to that!" was the unanimous comment after the ball game last Monday evening between the Bardo boys and the home team on the local diamond. Probably the best game ever pulled off in Tofield was seen this evening. With cranky, busy "Mike" in the box for the boomers and Helmer Johnson for the visitors, the batteries were of no mean order. The Bardo boys put up a better game than they have ever played before. The home team, while they played good ball showed a weakness from want of sufficient work outs at practice. Had they had a period of good hard practice on a team, they would have given the visitors almost a shut-out. Muffed balls and a few wild throws, a few of which we saw during the game are responsible for the loss of many a game. Monday night's game was all the same, a splendid exhibition and as this is the first game of the season here, it may confidently be expected that other night stood 6-4 in favor of the home team.

Farm Property Brings Good Price

That farm property in TOFIELD district is commanding a good price is well shown, when farmers from the older parts of the country will come in and pay around $20 per acre for the land. Such was the figure at which the farm which formerly was owned by J. Nora, and last year purchased from him by S. C. Leggo, was last week purchased by Mr. Ferguson, who had come up from the Eastern townships, Que., on a short visit to his nephews, Mark and Earl, of the TOFIELD district, and consider it served to note that they have seen throughout the entire West.

The farm in question is about three miles north of town, and lies on the west shore of Beaver Lake. A most excellent farming district is this west Beaver Lake district, which lies between the lake and the Beaver Hills range to the west. The land is a rich loam and as level as a tennis court, running creeks pass across it, flowing down from the chain of lakes on the[illegible] above, to the large expanse of Beaver Lake below. This district is well settled with a good class of farmers.

$30.00 Per Acre

Rob Logan has purchased from Edward Pruden, a part of the latter's farm, lying along Beaulieu Creek, at $30 per acre. This is a most excellent piece of land, and from the Lake on the east, which is bordered on the main road [illegible] to TOFIELD from the north.

Telephone Construction in Tofield District

Tofield's active agitation of the past two years, for the extention of the government telephone system is now reaping its full reward. Last year the trunk line was extended to Tofield, and the business men and others, given long distance connection to Edmonton and other points. This spring, when when the construction gang was sent down to push the trunk line on to the east, the Board of Trade, having had created solicitations from the farmers in the Bardo and other sections of the Tofield district for the extension of rural lines, into their neighborhoods, took up the matter, and sent a delegation, Messrs A. A. Story and R. N. Williams, into the capital to secure the representations of the Bardo line at once. That the delegation was eminently successful, is demonstrated by the fact that already the farmers along the rural lines through the Bardo section, and between there and the town of TOFIELD are now enjoying the privilege of telephonic communication with their neighbors. On Tuesday of this week, the gang of men from Edmonton, who will put in the TOFIELD local exchange, in the new telephone business soon of TOFIELD will be in a position to roll up and camp from their present location. The[illegible] party be on the local exchange, or any other part of the province where the government installs a stand.

The contract[illegible] let on the G.T.P. last Saturday, was delayed a couple of hours, near Cooking Lake, owing to the refrigerator car leaving the track, and breaking loose from the train, after running along the line for a short distance. No damage was done outside of the breaking of the couplings in connection with the draw bars.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

Does not contain Alum

Canada will some day stop by legislation the use of alum in baking powder. Alum powders injure digestion. Great Britain already prohibits alum in foods.

MAGIC is better than any food law requires.

MAGIC insures healthful, wholesome food. Brings success to you in baking light, flaky biscuits, cake and pastry.

NO ALUM

MAGIC is a medium priced baking powder and the only well-known one made in Canada that does NOT contain alum.

THE BUCK-EYE

VOL. 1 | WEEKLY EDITION | No. 30

All Western Canada Loves a Buck-Eye

There was a young girl in Waskada
Who made up her mind that it paid her
To sell a good smoke
That would please the men folk,
So she shipped some BUCK EYES to Waskada.

There was a bar tender in Watrous
Whose cigars were confined to slaughter on,
So we boarded the train,
Yoicing, "A better cigar,
For they both 1 a BUCK EYE in Watrous.

Said a newspaper man of Lacombe,
"It's like getting money from home.
When you buy a cigar,
Get a BUCK EYE, it's far
And away the best smoke in Lacombe."

* * *

A miner there was in Wadena,
Than whom there was nobody meaner.
When a stake—a BUCK EYE'd
Catch his eye, he would cry,
"That's a real, Simon pure Pencherina."

P.S.—And everywhere you go, the burden of their song is that the BUCK-EYE is the best Ten-Cent Cigar on the market.

or J. W. CARTER, Tofield

At last meeting of council, Councillor Lamoureaux moved that the councillors get what is coming to them in the matter of sponsoring or salary, for attending the meetings of council. The motion was carried without a dissenting vote. Councillors are allowed a maximum or sum of $15 per year for attending meetings of council. Councillor Lamoureaux contends that the council has wasted a lot of time in useless talk, instead of getting busy and securing some thing tangible for the money expended.

T. J. Ferguson, an eastern Canadian of 50 years, from Grande Que., is a guest of his nephew W. Ferguson. He is accompanied by his son T. W. Ross, the latter who has purchased N.C. Legge's farm at the west door of Beaver Lake, at a figure of $20 per acre. He intends to come out at once and make his home here. Both father and son spent some time in the Ryley section visiting Fergusons and looking over land with a view to the future investment of capital.

Piano Contest

The Piano Contest at the Reliance Store will start on June 15th. Any person desirous to enter same, will please call at the Reliance Store, and make arrangements. The above contest is a purely public affair, and will be absolutely exclusive of any family connections.

Silton on the Hustings

Premier Sifton passed through Tofield yesterday morning via G. T. P. to Irma where he will fire the first gun of the by-election campaign. He was accompanied by Mr. McKinnon of McKinnon & Cogswell, a prominent Liberal campaign orator and J. M. Douglas, M.P. With the party were John Mowat, editor-in-chief of the Bulletin and a representative of the Capital. Meetings will be held throughout the constituency as follows:—Irma 21st, Scottstown 22nd, Manville 23rd, Vermilion 23rd, Minburn 24th, Innisfree 25th, Rasberry 27th and Vermilion on the 28th.

J. G. Clark, the Conservative candidate, is receiving a support not only from the party workers in the riding, but from a large number of prominent leaders in the party in Edmonton. Both parties are determined to make this a fight to the last ditch.

The election takes a week from today, and never before was a byelection is being centred upon the result of this political campaign.

Daily Passenger Service To Be Put On

We learn from excellent authority, that the G.T.P. has made all arrangements to put on a daily passenger service between Winnipeg and Edmonton. It is expected that the time-table will go into effect at 12 o'clock midnight next Sunday night. It is not known definitely, whether the present mixed train service as at present will be maintained.

Conservatives Nominate Candidate

J. G. Clark of Irma, Choice of Convention Monday Last. Hot Campaign to be Waged Throughout Entire Riding.

The Conservative Convention of the constituency of Vermilion, was held last Monday night of last week at Manville, in the Telegram Hall and was attended by some sixty delegates from various parts of the riding.

When the public meeting opened at 8 p.m., the hall was filled. J. T. MacAlister, president of the district, occupied the chair and among the outsiders present were F. A. Morrison, Vegreville, and Messrs. Maclintosh, Hyndman, Kering and Morris of Edmonton. Each of these gentlemen spoke briefly but enthusiastically about the future of the Conservative party in the provinces of Alberta and commenced

Will Have Splendid Crop

Fall wheat in every part of the TOFIELD district is well headed out. The growth during the past two weeks, has brought the grain on wonderfully fast. In spite of the dry weather of the spring season, the crop outlook is good. Where the farmers made a diligent use of the harrow, the crops will give an excellent yield. Spring wheat is well over a foot high, and doing well. The latter sown grains, oats and barley, are both doing nicely, the last sown grain being put in just before the rains of a few weeks ago has come along splendidly. The farmers are already talking about the adequate supply of binder twine for the harvest.

What Do You Know About It?

That's what a customer asked me recently about a patent medicine I had sold for many years and I was proud to admit that in reality I knew nothing more than what appeared on the label, wrapper and advertising.

Some of the claims made were so extravagant that of course I could not take them seriously, but remembered I had better find a line I did know something about.

TOFIELD, JUNE 22 1910.

Hospital for Tofield

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. has offered to donate a hospital site to the town on any part of their TOFIELD townsite. The offer was placed in writing in a letter received by the secretary-treasurer a short time ago. Dr. H. Hammond, the medical health officer, has for the past year advocated the institution of a hospital here and right now is the time to take action. Dr. Hammond has several times stated that suitable and mutually satisfactory arrangements could be made with the Victorian Order of Nurses, a Canadian body, for financial assistance and assistance in the operating of the institution. Steps are being taken to find out definitely what nature, and to what amount this assistance can be. In the meantime, the town council is taking up the matter of the hospital site, an acceptance of the offer being made, and an inquiry sent to the company, as to whether the company has chosen a site, or if it will be left to the town to select.

The matter is scarcely a debatable question as to the advisability and importance of a hospital at Tofield, is scarcely a controversial point. That such an institution is an imperative necessity, is conceded by every one. The rapid growth of the town, and the development which is fast going on throughout the district, and the fact that this is a terminal point on one of the G.T.P.'s important branches, besides being on the main line, all these conditions point towards the necessity of having the means at our disposal for the prompt care of the injured and ill, surgical, medical, and nursing.

By the nomination of J. D. Clark, of Irvine, by the Conservatives, it is quite evident that that party is preparing to give Mr. Bifford a little touch of the real thing in a real election in that riding at the coming election.

Mr. Chas Spilsted made a trip to the Capital this week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Brown and Miss Lloyd of Edmonton, have been spending a couple of weeks in Tofield. Mr. Brown has conducted a most successful closing out sale of C. H. Crum's stock of general goods.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, backache and urinary disorders.

Mrs. M. E. Parr, of 222 John Street, Brockton, Ont., says:
"I have found more actual results after using Doan's Kidney Pills than I did from any other remedy I ever used. I had suffered for several years with kidney and bladder trouble and after a short course of treatment with Doan's Pills I have been cured. Miserable pains across my back which would catch me any moment, and all the back of my head, frequent headaches, dizziness and kidney secretions that were scanty and irregular, soon disappeared after using Doan's Kidney Pills. I am pleased to give Doan's Kidney Pills my best wishes for success and my hearty endorsement."

LOTS of men do and never know it. Just stay in some hot day and work in a kitchen with the thermometer at 95° and a coal fire going. It will furnish you with food for thought and also reduce your weight. Then you'll understand the plea contained in the headline of this advertisement.

You wonder why the roses in her cheeks are fading; you wonder why she is always tired. IT'S YOUR FAULT—it's up to you to repair the mischief to the best of your ability and luckily you have the opportunity.

A Gasoline Range or Blue Flame Coal Oil Stove will turn the trick. A Gasoline Range gives more unwearied comfort and health found. Figure it out in $ and ¢. When a fire is started in a coal range it is there for keeps, has to be nursed to give results. A Gasoline Stove turns on and off without wasting an atom of heat. What does that mean in money and comfort to you?

We are placing on the market a line of the best Gasoline Stoves made—they give the maximum results for a minimum outlay. They are ground bakers and will wear for a lifetime. Look them over at

W. T. Stead, editor of the English Review of Reviews, is not only a leading journalist of the great metropolis but of the world. He is right where accurate information as to our new King, George V., his character and habits, is to be had, and the following from his pen puts the kibosh on a story that had even reached this humble locality, carried in the cranium of a talented young emigrant from the Welsh Principality: The story now current that the new King is a confirmed drunkard is neither more nor less than an infernal lie so far from the King being a drunkard, he is nearer being a teetotaller than any King who has ascended the English throne. For years past, I know on first-hand authority, from those who have lived in his house, dined at his table and travelled with him at home and abroad he has been one of the most abstemious of men." That should settle that lie for time and eternity. But we don't suppose it will, all the same.

The editor's remark re using the harrow finely and at the right time, during a dry seeding season, is to the point. Right here those who did this have a good stand of grain in their fields, those who did not haven't. A learned friend once remarked to us that anything in the shape of a man could be a farmer, meaning that little brain power was needed in that occupation. There never was a greater fallacy, especially as applied to farming in this country.

what they termed the gross negligence and incompetency of the Liberal government as shown by the A. & G. W. railway deal.

After the preliminaries, it was decided to place a candidate in the field to oppose the Hon. Mr. Sifton. J. T. McAllister of Manuville and J. G. Clark of Irma, were duly nominated. Mr. McAllister withdrew making the nomination of J. G. Clark unanimous.

Mr. Clark is a member of great energy and ability, a fighter and is well versed in the public issues of the day and the demands of the provinces. He is looked upon as a strong candidate.

The candidate opened the campaign at Bardwell Tuesday night, where he was assisted by Messrs. Hyndman and Malcolm of Edmonton.

A big meeting is announced for Vermilion, Tuesday, June 22nd, when it is expected that R. B. Bennett, M.P.P., leader of the Conservative party in Alberta, will speak.—Vermilion Standard.

HYMENEAL

Wedding Bells will shortly again be ringing in Tofield. Two have a gonna coming.

Rev. H. J. Munton preached his farewell sermon in the Methodist church last Sunday evening, taking as his parting admonition, the text from Luke 16: "Son, Remember," from the story of the rich man and Lazarus. The church was crowded to overflowing, many regretting the early departure of Mr. and Mrs. Munton who have won many friends in this community. We bespeak for them the hearty support of their new parishioners in Innisfail to which they go this week.

Messrs Stenbaugh, Hunker and Plante were in Edmonton last week, proving up.

Three new settlers this week, on Section 1.

J. D. Manners visited Camrose last week.

Mr. Reed, Sr., of Camrose, drove up here last Saturday.

A. Mickleburgh has taken over the Tofield—Sjoleand mail contract, beginning July 1st.

The matter of Government assistance in building roads in this Township, is receiving very general attention this year, and there is a wide diversity of opinion in regard to where this aid is most required. Some are in favor of opening up the south Township here, though as this would benefit but a few, Chipman Lake cutting off all the district to the south) it can be dismissed. Again, it is argued that this money should be spent on the same line as last years appropriation, so as to complete a fine running direct to the sliding between Kingman and Tofield, and serving equally for a road to Camrose or Tofield. At the present writing, this would be of benefit to the greatest number of settlers. Others are in favor of the line running east from Spilsted, and much can be said in its favor, though the west half of this line is of such a rough, broken nature that it would necessitate the expenditure of a sum ten times as great as is reasonable to present, to make a road. It is the Government Inspector's report stated that it would require $2500 in bridges and approaches exclusive of all other items. The Government policy is, at present, so as to point to the North Line as the line, running straight east to Tofield. This is the dividing line between Rutherford's and Smith's municipalities, and would gradually be opened up with a joint grant of these two members. Without a doubt, in time this would be considered a wise undertaking. But, it wouldn't relieve the situation in this district, one iota, and there are not half a dozen settlers in Smith's constituency that could advantageously use this road. It's Government policy in a little this respect is 5 years premature. We all feel keenly, the urgent need for immediate assistance on our roads, and it should be done on those roads that will benefit the greatest number of settlers in the year. This policy looks real good to an uninterested person, on paper—it's the Tofield line, but to the people on the ground,—the ones most interested—the ones who should derive the benefit—the ones who are the voters, and should at least be consulted on the matter, this policy is anything but acceptable. That road up there would be such a jolly, as those 2 miles north from Spilsted, upon which the Government appropriation of 1908 was spent—which does not reflect credit upon the foresight of those concerned. There are two ways to determine the proper policy in such matters—sitting in a comfortably tilted chair, and doing it on paper, (proper according to one view) or finding out by actual intercourse with those interested (and who ought to know) just what is most required. The latter course requires an effort, but it is an accepted fact that that effort is not without it's reward.

G.T.P. Cafe

The New Kellner Block will be completely finished, early this week, and Miss Kellner is now taking possession. It will be opened for business on July 1st, and will be known as the G.T.P. Cafe.

The new building which is twenty five feet wide, and fifty feet in length, will accommodate a number of roomers, besides the boarders which the restaurant will take care of. In this way Miss Kellner is doing well, to provide rooming facilities for guests, as this feature has been sadly lacking in Tofield.

Miss Kellner has been running a restaurant and boarding house, for the past two years in town, and has met with a success in its management, which she has well earned and merited. She was one of the heavy losers, in the recent fire on Main St., but, nothing daunted, she engaged Mr. Harriman's house, on 8rd Ave., a new outfit, and continued business. From now on, she is assured of a greater success than has been.

Bruce vs Tofield

On Friday last, Bruce and Tofield met in a friendly game of ball. Tofield had an easy time in scoring 22 runs, Bruce managing to run in 2. From the spectators stand-point, it was a poor game, being too one-sided. In the first innings, Bruce's first baseman received a nasty smash on the thumb, putting him out of the game. Brooks of Bardo taking his place. Neff and Bard's batting the p'aye. Neff and Bard's batting the p'aye.

The Big 1st July Celebration

The horses taking part in the races here on Dominion Day, began to come in, in the early part of this week. The day promises to be a good one in horse races. R. S. Davidson came in Monday with two runners. John Lee of Edmonton, is expected in any moment, with his trotter. J. W. Morton's trotter has been in training for the harness race, for a few weeks, and will lend a pretty race.

Base ball promises something doing. The Fort Saskatchewan team are billed to appear, and put up a strong contest with the local nine, the "Muskrats" as the fans termed us. Ryley is expected to bring up their pig skin chasers, and give the local scouts a run for the prize. The rival basket ball teams of the Tofield Public schools, both young ladies, are going to give each other a lively tussle, in a lively game. Bardo Brass Band have prepared an entirely new program of music, and will entertain the crowd with first class music. If Jupiter Pluvius will only hold off for the Day we will have the best First ever celebrated in the Beaver Lake district.

When you are in need of any kind of printed matter, and want it quick, see us at once. We are the ones you are looking for. If you are at a distance, and need the printed matter quickly, send us your copy with directions. Rush orders executed promptly, neatly, and with dispatch.—The Standard Printers & Publishers.

THIRD PARTY WILL MEET NEXT MONTH

Although the "third political party" of Alberta has been rather quiet for the last few days, it has not died an early death yet. The committee appointed to organize the movement, of whom Mr. A. T. Cushing of this city is a member has been busy arranging for meetings in the near future. A meeting is to be held in Edmonton the first week in July, at which the platform of the party will be thoroughly discussed, and possibly a local committee appointed.

Following this meeting it is the intention to hold mass meetings all over the province of those interested in the new movement. According to one of the leaders in the embryonic party, the main idea will be to work for the interests of the farmers and the labor man. It is, they say, to be a party without any ambitious leanings politically aggrandizement. Further, it will support, they say, candidates who subscribe to its policies indifferent of what political faith they may be. Whether or not the new lay movement will gain enough supporters to make its influence felt, time alone will tell.

Fast Freight Service.

The G.T.P. has announced a 48 hour fast freight service between Winnipeg and Edmonton to go into effect on July 6th. This is official. Freight for points on this division will come by fast freight from the Pas to Wainwright and then come on by way freight.

While no official announcement has been made as to the beginning of a fast passenger service, it is understood that the company was all but completely ready to put on the through passenger service from Winnipeg to Edmonton this week as forecasted recently in these columns. But owing to delay in receiving a full complement of rolling stock for the air or more trains that will all be on the road when the service is installed, the opening was, as a result, postponed. It is understood, however, that daily trains will start at the beginning of next week and that the express for the east will leave Edmonton at 8.45 a.m. This will arrive in Tofield about 10.15 as we understand a 20 hour service is to be put on. The westbound will leave Wainwright about 3.30 and will pass through Tofield about 6 p.m.

Two large gangs are at work lifting the track on the Wainwright-Edmonton division. They are working west from Bruce and Holden. The whole division, it is understood, is to be rehabilitated.

Local

J. D. Gilchrist of Round Hill was in town last Monday.

Robt. Begg of Amisk Creek district, was in town this week.

J. H. Olsen, of North Bardo, was in town this week, on business.

A big crowd is coming in from Chipman, to take in the July 1st Sports.

DON'T FORGET JULY 1ST. TOFIELD'S 10TH ANNUAL DOMINION DAY SPORTS

Mrs. C. Fraser returned from Edmonton last Saturday, where she was visiting her son, Mr. Allan Fraser, manager of the Merchants Bank there.

Hon. R. F. Roberts and daughter, arrived Tuesday, for a short visit with A. W. Hunt. Miss Roberts is a niece of Mrs. Hunt's, and is professor of Mathematics at the Iowa State Agricultural College. They are enroute to the Pacific Ocean, and will return by way of Yellow Stone Park, after visiting places of interest on the coast.

The examinations for Standards VI and VII of the Public Schools, are being heard this week. Principal Fleming, of Strathcona schools, is presiding examiner here. Principal Venske, of the Tofield schools, is in Wainwright acting as presiding examiner there. There are 31 students writing on the exams in Tofield.

A. Hoyt, of Kingman was in town last Monday.

BORN: On Saturday June 25th, 1910, to Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Black, a daughter.

BORN: On Sunday June 26th 1910, to Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Smith, Tofield, a daughter.

Legator is to drive the first spike of the Alberta-Pacific at Red Deer.

The Board of Trade meeting last night was a blank. Members of the board are apparently more interested in play than in taking an active interest in town and district affairs.

A. W. Story and family left for B. C. last Monday Afternoon. Mr. Story has been in declining health for several months, and thinks the B. C. air will suit him better.

Wm. Cameron, proprietor of the Brunswick Hotel, Edmonton has taken over the Mayston House at the Fort, and Adolphe Lamoureux will manage the hotel. Mr Lamoureux will be missed from Tofield.

On Tuesday, the seventh of June it being the occasion of the fifty-fifth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jas Harper's wedding day, they were the recipients of valuable presents, including a purse of gold from the children of the family. Congratulatory messages, with regrets at being unable to be present, were received from children at Toronto, Peterboro, and Tofield, also from relatives in Philadelphia, Winnipeg, Grand Rapids, and Berlington.—The Register, Norwood, Ont. Mrs. C. L. Cross, and Jos. Harper, of Tofield, are children of the above named Mr. and Mrs. Jas Harper.

Presentation to Rev. Mr. Munton

Quite a social gathering took place Thursday evening a week ago in Ferguson's Hall when the members of Tofield Lodge No. 26 Knights of Pythias, and friends assembled in entertainment of Bro. Rev. H. J. Munton and Mrs. Munton who had been appointed by Conference to another field of missionery work at Innisfail.

The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion and the evening pleasantly spent in social games. After a dainty collation and ice cream were spoken were made on the subject of Fraternity at the close of which Bro. Munton was presented with an address and a K. of P. emblem in the form of a beautiful pin, the address being made by R. N. Williams and the presentation being made by Bro. M. W. Ferguson, C.C. Bro. Munton responded very feelingly and stated that he held at no little worth the teachings of the Order.

Mr. Munton and family have found their new field a most pleasant place and are becoming comfortably embossed in their new abode.

Deeton Wins Game For "Y's"

On a most decidous from Umpire Deeton, the Y.s of Edmonton secured their game over the home team, in an exciting game on Diamond Park, Edmonton, last Wednesday night. The score of 8-9 tells that the battle was well fought. For classy ball, the "Muskrats" had the Y's beaten a mile. Only 2 errors were chalked up to the Tofield players, as against 3 to the home team. Home wild throws and a weakness behind the bat, was responsible for the visitors losing the game. With diligent field practice, a great improvement can be gained, and when the Edmontonians come down to visit us next month, we will make them go some. A series of games and return matches with the amateur teams of Edmonton, is very likely to be arranged as soon as the daily express train service starts.

Alleged a Swindle

United Wireless Telegraph stock is worthless. Thousands of people have been gulled into buying valueless shares. The U. S. Postal authorities have caused the arrest, as swindlers, the chief officers of the United Wireless Tel. Co., in a raid at New York, the other day. The exposure is complete. The swindle has amounted to over $20,000,000. Western Canada included many buyers. Even in Tofield there were some that bit—and were hit.

What Do You Know About It?

That's what a customer asked me recently about a patent medicine I had sold for many years and I was loth to admit that in reality I knew nothing more than what appeared on the label, wrapper and advertising.

Some of the claims made were so extravagant that of course I could not take them seriously, but concluded I had better find a line I did know something about.

Wyman And a Sealed Wire

STILL turned to the American agent to seek her reassurance, but the agent, with his eyes on the wireless operator, shook his head.

"The inspector insists—"

"No," the director broke in, still in his assertive boyhood. "I doubt whether I'm not the gentleman in the case we are after, under public suspicion. I think we had guessed this morning. I think we had the man, and were going to our arrest for our own satisfaction."

Then he followed the two young lovers as they made their way quietly through the inquiring, wondering crowd making outside. A part of the crowd started to follow as they saw the police inspector accompany the Americans to send the hotel. But as most of the police lingered at the wireless station, the crowd turned about and waited about the little dome house.

No young Frenchman, not the girl and the inspector, noticed the sleepy little car that stopped there. It was little more than a double row of pretty, picturesque stone and thatch shops and houses extending along both sides of the shabby little street, narrowly paved with big flat stones. But beyond the end of the street stood a newer and more pretentious building, put up to attract the travelling Americans who love Louis well.

A big motor car was standing before this inn. Colonel Yarris recognized it as such an enthusiast of pleasure, and he noticed, also, as he saw her English friends with her mother in the morning room of the inn.

The girl at once brought in young Preston and the police inspector and presented them to her mother's friends. Mr. Bromhinglade stared at the officer sternly. The inspector stood to one side, uncomfortably.

"And now, Peter," Mrs. Varris exclaimed when the introductions were over, "what has happened and what is the matter?"

The greatest stupid mistake has happened, mother, but nothing at the matter which you cannot correct in a moment, if you will. The inspector here, who came down from Plymouth with us on the train this morning, merely wants you to tell him what time Mr Preston left us at the Tudor last night to avoid another stupid mistake, mother!"

"Oh, that is all?" Mrs. Varris asked, much relieved. "I will tell you what you give that idea, my dear. Mr. Preston left us—let me remember, when Mr Preston left us—just before the stroke of ten."

"At what time he came is not material, madam," The inspector authorized himself. "The time of his departure alone is the question—and essential. We know that he did not return to his rooms at the Grand Hotel till after half past twelve, and we know that the hall man seized sharp at ten to lock the door and left no entry after that, so we must explain the difference of two hours between that hour and his return to the Grand Hotel at twelve-forty. But if he did not leave the Tudor till after twelve, obviously we are wasting our time in trying to force him to this matter. So I wish to have only, madam, if you are certain that this young man did not leave the parlors at the Tudor Hotel till twelve o'clock or after—"

"I am certain—"

"May I ask you, sir, to my duty, how you are certain?"

"Certainly, Inspector," Mrs. Varris replied sublimely, "some little time before ten, I went into my own room, which was just next to our parlor and bedroom that and my daughter's room.

"I was very tired and lay down on my room. When my daughter closed the outside door of our suite, after Mr. Preston had gone, the noise woke me, and I assumed, later, my daughter, supposing me through, she turned on the light, and I heard her moving about preparing upon the time. It was ten minutes after twelve when I arose, as I remember."

"Thank you, madam," the girl confirmed, coloring slightly at the deception. "I did not leave the parlor till after twelve."

"Again young Preston started, but as he glanced about the others, he checked himself with an effort.

"That is quite sufficient, I fancy, to us not, Inspector?" Mr. Bromhinglade put in.

"Possibly, not" the officer bowed in respectful apology. "It is quite quite unsupportable still in some ways. I must say, sir," the man addressed Preston and moved not reluctantly. . . . I am not still starting my office in every sort of thing you a true." . . . "For—oh, you and you, yourself, starting to the Tudor Hotel last night, you understand me from that?"

But the girl now flushed deeper and lowered her head, and did not answer.

Preston pulled himself together.

"I am sorry to have caused you annoyance for me to go till I can come back to you close at hand, inspector. Good-by, gentlemen" he cried, "It is only that I have so much to start with you then again I can exit out, God-bye!"

He caught the girl's hand more, "Good bye!" He crashed it between both his own, and broke.

CHAPTER XI.

Under the Wing of the Wireless

"Land's End!" The American pointed.

"Not at southernest the extreme point of Cornwall did note the sea.

"We've lost the land now for six days!"

The Englishman smiled seriously, then understood the long, vertical streaks sinking from the mast's cross-tree.

"Not for a few hundred miles yet," he commanded. "The—wireless!" he at last exclaimed.

He watched the American carefully for a moment, as he turned indecisive to the ship's rail.

"And the wireless—Mr. Preston," he added, more meaningly, "cannot only bring back to land and make available those evidences from a ship at sea, but it can also carry from the shore to the ship any matter which may come up against any one on board.

"Privately a man sees a remarkable space at least a week's distance from land, and then he has time for all the freedom of mid-ocean, but when he knows that he can be reached by wireless from the land, he is not free. . . . So you have come on board, you will be upon your guard, and you will not be free. I should shake a thing off, or escape from it for a week though upon the high sea. The wireless will send what ever there is to pursue you but after you, and overtake you with it even in mid Atlantic!"

The American pretended to shiver at the foreboding warning in the Briton's words, but he shook himself up again, and smiled gayly.

"Some of your English certainly have a most remarkably cheerful way of bringing out the gloom in things. You have convinced me for a moment that I actually had come to see to escape something which is new sure to pursue me anywhere. But let's not—or call anything like that." He shrugged with a real contentment shiver than time. "Let's think that we are at sea again, and four hundred miles from America each day!"

The Englishman smiled from his companion and glanced out quickly and hopefully over the bright premonsoe deck, and then over the water and gayety of the first forenoon at sea.

Then from Isles of Scilly, speckled the sea, upheaved with the white, dashing surf of the Cornish coast seven miles away and receding to the American shore, began to slip past in scattered succession. But not just the stupefying ship sleek all over, those last lingering recollections of the Tudor Hotel, of Mrs. Varris and the fair breadth of the glistening Atlantic seemed to fill and fair the American behind the Englishman's back.

"Liberator!" young Preston found himself saying, and he turned to the Englishman, as the beginning of the words of their last, long delightful week at sea, with the Englishman's advantage of the wireless.

The American frowned, with a shrug of his shoulders, and then smiled, and nodded forward and began to walk forward.

"Well—Prisoner!" he cried in his delighted astonishment, "Well—Prisoner!" Well and fair the girl's familiar, teasing voice after her first surprise. And the voice

Scientific Roadmaking

We note in the Free Press, Winnipeg, the other day, a short article on a successful demonstration on scientific and up to date road making, held at the Manitoba Agricultural College. [illegible] land was to [illegible] of prairie soil about [illegible] crown on a 32' [illegible] from ditch to ditch. A Sawyer-Massey 20 ton roller, drawn by six horses, did the grading.

Tofielders and others do not need to go to Manitoba to see scientific roadmaking of this kind. Right here in the Tofield district today as can be no doubt [illegible] one. With the road grader every foot road is thoroughbent the TOFIELD district are being made. Last week Chas. Bowick and Bob Mitchell with steam engine and grader built a fine grade across the level flat south of town. Cookson's old farmstead. Starting at each side of the road proper, then scooped the sod and dirt towards the centre and as the work progressed the engine passing over the less dirt in the centre packed it down closely together. In this way roads are being made in the TOFIELD district.

It might be opportune at this moment to explain all the attention and [illegible] of our readers to the merits of the King Drag. It cannot be supposed that the King grader is available at all times to [illegible] and go over all the streets need now [illegible] just when needed. If the King Drag is constantly in the department in the road [illegible] [illegible] speeds and hard-used [illegible] grade will be maintained and [illegible] sufficient drainage kept up to run off all standing water.

The bridge construction gang, under Foreman Gillis, has been busy putting in bridges in the Hardy section of the Tofield district. This week they are engaged in putting in an 80 foot span bridge over Amisk Creek, almost directly [illegible] TOFIELD and a mile north of [illegible] bridge. This will allow of opening up a road almost straight east from Tofield, east [illegible] I learned the south of the [illegible] Lake road give the [illegible] moves in that section, a direct [illegible] into town.

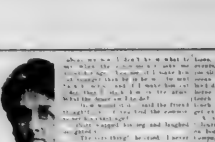
The Agony of PILES



ONLY those who suffer from piles know the misery it brings! It ruins life of its pleasure, steals the brightness from existence, and substitutes days of dull pain and moments of acute agony. Most so called "remedies" give some only for a time, and then back comes the trouble and pain and misery! Zam-Buk cures Piles! And cures permanently. Proof of this lies all around you. Women and men in all stations of life have proved it possibly some of your friends! Let it cure you!

Mrs. Wm. Hughes, of 23 Hawkshaw St., Hochelaga, Montreal, Que., writes: "I suffered for years from Piles, and tried almost every remedy I could get hold of, but never got relief. Then I was induced to try Zam-Buk, and after using a few boxes I was entirely cured. I am thankful to say I have had no return of the trouble since, and I have recommended Zam-Buk to many friends, who have also derived great benefit from it."

A MINISTER living on an Aberdeen shire coast town had preached a sermon which a shipper one of his parishioners, who traded to London, thought very fine and which he had read to his family the Sunday before from a number of sermons which he had purchased in London.

On the Sunday following he, with the brother shippers, took the hook to church to ascertain the subject for the sermon. The minister on the Sunday referred to by the shipper took for his text and proceeded to his theme in his usual, and pointed out to his friends. The minister then proceeded with the sermon going on word for word with the sermon book for a sentence or two, which greatly startled the shipper, who with a cry on his face, kept tossing the words in his book after the minister and saying:

"Go on him, go till him."

The minister, who was flustered to tell the story, said:

"I looked down and saw what there were at, so I turned over two leaves at once, so there never skipped and spoke me fail after that."

NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN MID OCEAN

NOT the least interesting development of wireless telegraphy is the manner in which a number of newspapers have obtained the publishing monopolies of the ocean steamers on which they circulate. Some years ago Dr. Lee, of the De Forest Wireless Telegraph Company, had the idea of publishing a newspaper on board one of the Transatlantic liners. He approached the White Star Company with the proposition, but was refused. Undaunted, he went to the Hamburg-American Line, and they accepted his proposition. The first paper published in mid ocean was the Marconigram, which appeared on the Deutschland in 1899. Since then the Hamburg-American Line has published a daily paper, which is printed partly in German, partly in English, and has a story by some popular writer.

The daily of the ss. Kaiser Wilhelm II has twenty-four pages, and it has so many advertisements that it can be given free to the passengers and still leave the Norddeutscher Lloyd a profit. Its various illustrations are a feature, and a parade page gives much amusement on the voyage.

The "Allantisches Tageblatt" of the Hamburg-American Line is a sixteen page sheet. It is printed partly in the German, partly in English, and has a story by some popular writer.

The "Express Mail," published on board the Canadian Pacific Atlantic liners, is a newspaper of the most elegant affair. It has twelve pages, and is enclosed in a handsome cover, illustrated in gold, with an emblematic design of the Canadian Pacific steamship.

THE BEST ON EARTH

Some years ago, the late Professor Rowland, of Johns Hopkins University, testifying in a case involving the Universal Power Company, in answer to a question on cross examination as to who, in his opinion, was the greatest American scientist, replied, "I am."

After leaving the court room one of the lawyers ventured to criticise the answer for its effect upon the jury, whereupon Rowland exclaimed.

"Well, what else could I say? When I know cats!"

There are the kinds of settled head. One of them is inflated with hot air, pure and simple The other has the goods, and bulges out with them.

Modesty prevents us from glaring ourselves in our correct class, but there are thousands to whom we can refer you for a true estimate of the BUCK EYE. They are loving them daily.

We're no placed on earth, and added when was the best ten cent cigar in the market today, we could do no otherwise than follow the Professor s illustrious example and reply——

"THE BUCK-EYE"

"Panther Spearing"

(By Captain G. A. Hope)

CAN panther spearing be justly considered to be sport in the true sense of the word? The characteristic that it is running and dangerous enough to satisfy the most exacting, and that it requires the utmost nerve and skill is those who take part in it? One form, the spearing of a bag goat, pinioned in a suitable ground, undoubtedly no more sport than any other hunting where the animal has no chance to get away. But the spearing of panthers in the open, where the hunter and his assistants are on equal terms, is quite another matter, and has come to be considered altogether to the strict canons of sport.

To obtain a fair idea of the principles that govern it, it is necessary to understand the way of life of the panther himself. In common with all cats, he hunts by stalking, with a final spring or short rush on his quarry, never by running his prey down. His ordinary traveling pace, when not alarmed, is a fast stalking walk or easy trot, never a gallop, and though he will gallop at great pace when scared, he never does so for any distance that he can avoid, or till he thinks he is out of danger. I remember once, a very large female, getting up under my horse's head out of a bush near day, when I was riding with the hunters through a thin stretch of covert. She broke back and travelled for a mile at a trot, but pulled up within less than a hundred yards and lashed her tail with anger when I and my syce came on, she trotted off calmly into some denser jungle close at hand, into which she knew I would not follow her.

Then, from its natural habits, it will be seen that a panther is designed for short, rapid bursts—is essentially a sprinter, not a stayer—and it is this characteristic of the cat tribe, together with his extraordinary activity and complete armament, which makes panther spearing the one noble affair of it, either in favor of the man or animal.

The method of dealing with a "bagman" is as follows. A trap is constructed in the jungle, usually built into a mud hut, with a live goat behind bars as bait. It is visited every morning, and when a panther is taken he is brought in the trap to be speared the same afternoon on some convenient plain, usually the cantonment brigade parade ground. The trap is placed on a bullock cart, and when the place of meeting is reached, a long cord is tied to the hind leg of the animal. Two sowarrs take their stand, usually mounted on speedy pole ponies. They wait and time within sight and expressed with natives full of delighted anticipation, and when all is ready a sowarry pulls the cord sharply upon the trap, and then runs for his life.

By this time the panther is half crazed with terror and cramp, and as often as not refuses to bolt, and has to be coaxed by a discharge of blank cartridge at his tail. When he does come out he is usually too stiff to gallop, and even when he finds himself pursued, and makes an effort, he speed is nothing beside that of a smart pole pony. What next happens depends on the panther. He has been given much or little start. If the latter, the man on the pony whom one got up enough speed and settled him in the first two hundred yards, and, if he is wise, will spend him in the proper place, until required. If he is to be speared from the off side, he will ride on the near side of the panther, but what every type of the animal will be the pace is almost all cases.

Panthers are not particularly fast, but when cornered they naturally fight like fiends, and the speared animal, who has by this time some of the stiffness out of his limbs, is half out of breath, and is no longer crippled by his wound, turns promptly on and charges the pursuer with the first spear in his paint, which is the second rider, as the first has probably ridden on after spearing. If the latter is a good horseman and a fair shot in the saddle, he will save himself, but he must be as quick as the panther himself, and if he marks the slightest slip he takes, the animal gets home on horse and man, and the rest of the "sport" resembles a bloody and horrible scramble on the ground, ending in the panther being held down by two or three people, and then killed with the first spear that comes handiest to the first speed.

The panther is then killed, and if one can into before being killed, with a service rifle is very unpleasant sensation, I can understand, as on a certain occasion in the Deccan, when the "bagman" was accidentally shot with the first hundred yards. He turned, as usual, but did not succeed in getting home, and after a few moments was pinned down by the rear. I absolutely intent, the spear being through the base of one ear, His appeared to be the last case of the panther's purpose up with a reborn on a stand to obtain a picture of the vagrous occasion, but the photograph, and, strange to say, he is still surprised what followed, but no sooner had he taken it than the panther himself home, and went for the photographer. Somehow the man escaped, but the camera was never flying, and, discovered by the encounter with it, the panther turned and made for the nearest tree, up which he scrambled with the utmost agility. The tree was crowded with interested spectators, and for three or four minutes there was a scene of wild confusion, the panther trying to get with loud blows from a jungle pole, to which the panther approached them. By good luck none of them were hurt, but the panther speedily had the tree to himself, and going up to the highest bough that would bear him he sulked with his enemies from a distance, and finally he was shot.

On the rare occasions when he is given a long start he is usually captured in a manhole hunter he is speared, and he then no shown that he can do nothing in half defence, as still he saves when I describe the legitimate spearing of the panther. Of course, as I remarked, I think it was, the panther proved to be a better sportsman than I was, and got among the bamboos which fringe the brigade parade ground, and gave a lot of trouble before he was speared and killed. But even so, that case he had hardly a better chance of escaping than he would have had if left to run in the open, and this is what one cannot reserving - bagged panther as sport. Dangerous though it may be at times, it is not sport in the true sense of the word, even where such a manhunter lends to a particular occasion.

In the majority of cases of panther spearing the animal is usually put up, more or less by chance, out of long grass in the open country, and is speared on the wing. Not having been terrified out of his wits and cramped for hours in a trap, he naturally makes a fair pace when makes a first spear as the first few hundred yards usually an impossibility up to the rough ground, even on the smartest of ponies, but there is never a badly broken ground within reach, he will certainly escape. Super my duty during the cold weather was in the grass and I never ridden and then break back to safety, but if covert is quite life to him when he is once fairly headed. He slows down to a feeble, stumbling trot, and when speared and killed he has hardly left to do anything in self defence.

I have killed one a three parts grown cub, just under six feet in length, by one spear up to the hilt in my right hand, time where I was riding alone, and when I had all to myself. It was a most exciting affair, and being in a state to know I thought he must escape, although he had not ten yards start. But I was mounted on my own charger, a most perfect hunter, and by the time I had got my spear in my right hand the panther had come to a standstill, and was sulking in the long grass. I should probably have had a very poor time of it. As it was he came back to me, and never going fairly when I reached him, and was only going no faster than a man at a slow jog trot.

I speared him deliberately, aimed at the shoulder as I past ed him, the sensation being somewhat as if I had been attacking a large buffalo, and then I reversed on hand, in hopes of escaping reprisals from behind, for there was no No. 7 for him to attack. But as I looked over I saw him crawling on the side of the saddle on which I had caught him, and dig my spear into him. He was dead in a few seconds, and I had not had time to be angry of the case. Still he did not try to strike, and after I had speared him a third time, he collapsed absolutely and was quite dead when I dismounted. I must declare that this is a confession, but a boast. I have never felt proud of the performance, and am on the contrary rather ashamed when it came to the point.

The spearing of panthers mentioned already illustrates the same thing even more perfectly. After breaking back, thinking himself unobserved, he will lie down in the grass, go to another covert on the other side of a piece of rising ground. However, a man on a tree saw her, and shouted the news to us, and we turned and rode after her.

She went straight away till she was almost at the top of the rise and then she broke back. But as we were between her and the covert, she had to make a large detour to avoid us, which she accomplished successfully, galloping round at speed. The effort was too much for her endurance, however, and before she reached the covert and safety she dropped dead in a little hollow, not five yards from dense jungle, utterly done.

A single spring, a few halting steps even, would have brought her to cover. She could not even snarl or growl, and when we got her she was not cut off, but she had not had my utterly helpless, just showing her teeth, her flanks heaving peacefully, a most pitiful sight.

The ground upon such that spearing her was difficult, on a mile when one of the men had brought was sent for, and by the time it arrived she had recovered sufficiently to make a fresh start. But she could only drag herself along very slowly and laboriously, she made no attempt to attack him as soon round her, and not even when wounded but not killed, by the first shot, did she try to charge. In short, the killing of her was about as pleasant and exciting as the shooting of a tame animal in a cage.

Others may have had more exciting experiences, but these are mine, and the conclusion of the whole matter is that a panther is not to be compared with a pig as sporting animal, although one would always rate him—and legitimately—of pig him up when and pig standing. As to spearing a bag goat on a parade ground, the practice is indefensible on any grounds. At the same time, unless galloped out, the panther is as dangerous a customer as one could wish to tackle; and when the venomous arms it is as well to have in mind the following points.

Always try to spear well forward, just behind the elbow low down, here the heart and big arteries lie. Spear on hand after spearing, shortening your spear, and be ready for an attack from the rear Receive a charging panther with a rather shortened spear, and then turn your horse to three hind quarters if you cannot pin him down. Do very careful here you are spearing from the off side, and never ride on the near side of the panther, or you will be pulled down, go to his assistance or foot. In a melee round him on horseback there is less great a risk of spearing the man instead of the panther. Finally, put your pride in your pocket and have nothing to do with the line nature absolutely near if you are not a sportsman to the bridle. The game calls out all the best qualities in a man when all is said and done, but it leaves no margin for mistakes and the duffer rides to certain disaster for himself, and probably for his companions, who will have to answer for it. You may not always have the luck not to reach your quarry before he is pumped out and breathless.

THE ROMANCE OF THE FUR TRADE

THE history of a lady's fur coat is full of the interest of it, full of strange contrasts. A wild creature of the Canadian wild like the Canada of Hudson's Bay Company trader, the half breed paddlers of a "north" canoe, the Indian hunter, the fur-clad Eskimo driver of the ice-fleet off Ungava, the employees of a British railway company, the operatives of a London factory—all these people have played a part in the making of the coat before it can appear in the windows of a shop in Bond Street or on the back of some proud lady of St. James. The fur trade is one of the few departments of business about which romance still still lingers the odor of romance. Other trades have been revolutionized by nineteenth century enterprise, it has remained, almost alone, primitive in its methods. Since the day when the Hudson's Bay Company's ship sailed from Gravesend "to Hudson's Bay" was founded by Prince Rupert, it has changed but little. A consumptive details it may have shrunk, perhaps. The trade mark of a Hudson's Bay blanket may now be stamped upon the Indian's trap; and the legend "Made in Germany" may appear upon the butter that is given for the furs. but these slight concessions have the force of bald anachronisms. They stand out sharply from the surroundings into which they are intruded, and they merely serve to show by contrast how little has changed.

The life of the bush in a closed book to most people. A great deal has been written about the life of the wild and made that furnish the fur, but very little has been written about the life of the trapper who goes out to collect it, though the latter is a subject full of the most romantic interest. The life of the bush trapper is one of the severest and of bitter trial and hardship. The Indian trapper often goes for days without food, sometimes for weeks, and sometimes he goes still in the distance that with winter's lasting grounds with a single blanket for his only covering. He has to be a looper or in a canvas tent, while he sleeps on the bare rabbitskin in the snow; he travels through the bush when the temperature is below zero, the glass registering with his pack upon his back and has rifle on his arm, through windfall and through tangled swamp, and, worst of all, through perhaps the barest bush where a wilderness of charred poles away in the fire which has destroyed the timber, and where the trail is the hardest soil. He lives on pork and beans, and deer and ten. His clothes he never changes, night or day. He is lucky indeed for all the life that finds it heir to is a drink of burning pain bitter tea, and now and then a drink, and would not hesitate to vest if he could. A good writer may bring him in $500; a bad one may bring him in $5,000, but the trapper who gets the final pelt—"nasty, raw, bloody, and all of the fallow" on the other hand, he is quite content. He does not feel the need of comfort or a bedstead in the bush, and he has a stolid and philosophic calm that enables him to take with equal indifference the good days and the bad days. He does not argues, recoil with the Indian. Why, then, should he take trouble? He is not the nervous—what he is—and he does not shelf out on?

The trader's lot seems even harder, because he has, or a rule, known better things. The Hudson's Bay Company is not what it was in the days when Lord Selkirk and Sir George Simpson and shaggy wood." I have heard one of them re-ply with no small amount of feeling:

"From the dim shieling of the misty island,
Mountains divide us and a waste of seas,
But still our hearts are true, our hearts are Highland,
And we in dreams behold the Hebrides."

This trader was a Scot who had come out to Hudson Bay when a young man, and had married an Algonquin wife, of whom he had a family of half-breed children. Many another Scotch, when they condescended to speak English at all. He had made the best of all the world, he should never see again, and at his trading post from January to January, receiving letters from the outside world only once a year, at the time when the ship which now hardly oftener. Another of the verses he frequently repeats was:

"O, Solitude, where are the charms
That sages have seen in thy face?
Better dwell in the midst of alarms
Than dwell in this horrible place."

And yet he would was the first to confess that anyone who had tasted the life of the bush could not go back to civilization. Once a trapper, always a trapper. "Once a trapper always a trapper." There is a fatal fascination about the free life of the forest. There is a fatal fascination about the free life of the forest. There is a fatal fascination about the free life of the forest.

16th Annual Dominion Day Celebration A Grand Success

The 16th annual celebration of Beaver Lake district at Tofield, was a huge success. The lowering weather and heavy showers of the previous days, with the heavy showers of the afternoon and night before the 1st, made it almost a foregone conclusion that the Sports would have to be postponed, but early in the morning the weather cleared, old Sol shone out brightly and a stiff wind sprang up, drying the grounds, and helping to put the race track in good shape. Early in the day teams with harrows were put on the track, raking over the surface so that the sun and wind could get at the wet ground. By the time the races began, it was in excellent shape, and everything went off in fine style. The uncertainty of the weather kept several thousands away, but in spite of this, several thousands were present, over a thousand people were on the grounds, and amongst them Fort Saskatchewan, Lamont, Chipman, Mundare, East Beaver Lake, Holden, Ryley, Round Hill, Kingman, Camrose, Pretty Hill, Cooking Lake, and Edmonton were well represented. Bardo Brass Band furnished good music throughout the day. In the evening a Grand Ball closed an eventful day's events. The prize list was as follows:—

New Bank Building For Tofield

The contract has been awarded to B. R. Barkwell, contractor and builder, of Tofield, for the erection of the new Merchants Bank Building, to be erected on the corner of Main Street and Second Avenue. The new building is to be a handsome structure of brick, 25'x60', two stories high, plate glass front and fitted with modern bank fixtures in the interior. The plans for the building were prepared by A. W. Story, architect, who recently removed to the coast, on account of his health.

Last Monday, preparations began for the construction of the new building. The old bank building, which has been standing on the corner, was moved to the lot on the north side, and will be completed by the banking staff, until the new building is completed. A brick fire wall is to be built on the south side of the new building, which will protect it effectually from danger of fire on that side.

James Logan Successful

James Logan, who has been attending the Alberta College, has been awarded his diploma in Book-keeping. He was successful in obtaining the certificate of the Business Journal of New York, for excellence in writing, and the Gold Medal donated by R. T. Eaton, for Book-keeping.

Grand Trunk Pacific Open Service

As forecasted in our issue of last week, the G.T.P. has instituted the daily passenger service upon their main line between Winnipeg and Edmonton. On Sunday morning at 9.45, the first train pulled out of Edmonton for the Tug. At 3.20 P.M. the same day, the first train pulled out of the Winnipeg depot for Edmonton. The eastbound passes through TOFIELD at 11.06 a.m., and the westbound at 6.36 p.m. The run is made either way in 20 hours, covering a distance of approximately 793 miles. The road bed is in excellent condition, as is testified by the rapid run of the presidents train last week, which took him from Edmonton to Winnipeg in 17 hours and 43 minutes. A large part of the road is to be relifted and reballasted, to bring it into a still more perfect condition, and when this is done, the officials claim that the record time of between 15 and 16 hours will be established between these two points.

The new trains are of the latest standard class, comprised of first and second class day coaches, chair car with a delightful observation section and library for the use of the passengers, dining hall, buffet, and sleeper. Many are the new features introduced into the equipment for the comfort and convenience of the especially long distance passengers. The dining service is unexcelled. Already the line is well patronized, and in a short time, we have no hesitancy in prophecying, will enjoy an almost unlimited business.

Sifton and Mitchell Elected

Government Candidates Have Good Majorities

Premier Sifton and Attorney-general Mitchell were elected last Wednesday, in their respective constituencies, Vermillion and Medecine Hat, with good majorities. Sifton had a majority of 228, and Mitchell 256. A. J. McLeod, Provincial secretary, was elected by acclamation, he having no opposition.

A large number of Tofield-ites went down to Viking on Monday, to take in the 4th of July sports. A good program of sports, games and races was arranged and carried out. Tofield defeated Hakley at football, score 3-0. Bruce defeated Irma in baseball, score 7-2, and Viking scored over Millet to the tune of 10-2. A ball was held in the evening.

Councillor Ferguson was Absent. Says He is Ashamed of the Bunch. Lamoureux Resigns

Council met in regular session last night, all being present except C. Ferguson. After the reading of minutes and their adoption, and the reading of accounts, council authorized Constable Mahaffey to see that proper drainage be constructed, so that the water lying on each side of Main St., north of the Standard Office, be readily drained off. By-law to indemnify the councillors as allowed by the Municipal Act, which was read a first and second time at the last meeting, on motion of Councillors Harper and Maxwell, was read a third time. Coun. Fugl only opposed the final passing of this by-law. He contended at last meeting that the councillors were not acting honorably with the ratepayers in passing this by-law, to indemnify themselves for their services, until they had arrived at the end of the year. Councillors Harper Maxwell, Flamoureux, and Emery voted for the passing of the by-law at once. Fugl against.

A by-law to raise by debentures, the sum of $300, to build fencing around the municipal cemetery, was introduced, but did not get its first reading.

The town constable was authorized to purchase padlocks, etc. for locking the gates at the exhibition grounds and cemetry, and to fix the fence along the frontage.

NEW BUSINESS

As a protest against the passing of the by-law to remunerating the councillors Coun. Fugl verbally gave notice of his resignation. "Taking money out of the public's pocket, before they have earned it, is the way bee-hasteries the action. He was in favor of taking the remuneration at the end of the year. Councillor Ferguson and he had opposed it from the beginning. Coun. Harper arose, and hotly stated that Coun. Fugl was originally in favor of it. Coun. Fugl denied this; and stated that he did not think any Council from the Atlantic to the Pacific, had taken such action.

Councillor Lamoureux said that it was not the intention to take the money until the end of the year It was just as Coun. Harper said it was to put the thing in form.

Mayor Letourneau said he did not think that anyone was entitled to any money until the end of the year.

Coun. Maxwell stated that every one understood that all were in favor of it the first night the matter came up.

Coun. Emery said that in the district in the east where he came from Council passed these bills at their last meeting.

Mayor said he hoped Coun. Fugl would reconsider his statement. Coun. Fugl said he would have his resignation in next morning

Coun. Lamoureux's resignation was then read. Expressions of regret and well wishes for the future were given Mr. Lamoureux by the Mayor on behalf of the Council.

Mayor appointed Councillors Emery, Harper and Maxwell to look over site for hospital, the G.T.P. Co. having asked for choice of location to be submitted to them. The Sports ground west of Hills Ave will also be considered by this committee.

Coun. Lamoureux raised question of license when application of Mr. Bowlek for the transfer of his license to Mr. Slater, stating that he thought license ought to be done away with when floor space to... was done away with.

The transfer of the license was agreed to.

NYAL'S COD LIVER COMPOUND

This is the greatest all-round tonic, strength-restorer and body-builder that can be found, and it is no wonder that so many people are buying it, for it is equally good for children, for middle-aged persons, and for old people.

It is a real tonic, containing cod liver extract, extract of malt, wild cherry and hypophosphites—a splendid combination.

The cod liver extract builds you up so does the extract of malt. The wild cherry gives you a better appetite and the hypophosphites supply phosphorus to the nervous system—just the thing it needs.

The taste is pleasant and agreeable—it will not nauseate the weakest stomach. Large bottle $1.00.

WHAT, of course, Mr. Dunnoughs," he agreed, "I might certainly have done if I had known."

"Very decidedly dearest of him to have let me off with only eight sons," mused Mrs. Nixon Nirdlef. Presently she pointed to the girl, as the two moved down the dock together.

"But you should not have told! I tried to stop you," the girl rebuked him. "It would entirely your fault, though," she corrected further. "I must thank him! told him before I left him."

Way, should I be, arrest? The American from is a long breath of the fresh sea air, and the sight of the dredged miles across America every day, and the fact that he was actually back in the dock with the girl, and there was the two hundred forward together two hundred and forty times the day! Well, there!

"Good luck! Congratulations!" the girl cried. "You have won!"

"Good luck, yes," Preston agreed. "Still I am glad that I won on fair!" rather than on just a single incident after knowing what we 'bunkie' already knew for me."

"What?"

"Oh, he was telling me last night about a passage he made once when he was running a race with a storm. He was running high, upon that. Well there was a fellow aboard who was a clairvoyant, and he won a total of thousands of dollars upon good after the storm. He had the prophet's word each night that he he did until the captain heard of it and called his off. Then we laughed and told them that if he heard of any one who could prophesy the weather they would be very much offered."

"When was that?"

"Several years ago, I think, he came Mr. Dunnoughs coincidentally as I was telling him. He was very much the fellow and been living the run with some officer of the Navy. I have to meet to retire it."

The Second Wireless Message Heard

Ethel Varrin awoke the next morning with a sense of delicious freshness and lightness of head, which she attributed to the fact that she had slept so well. But, as she looked out her port, she saw the sea was still rough, and that the vessel was ploughing through it steadily and smoothly.

For an instant she wondered at the strangeness of the feeling. Then it began to wear away rapidly as she arose and went out into the stateroom proper and hastened with her dressing.

As she emerged into her morning bath, however, the vague feeling of strangeness that had momentarily left her returned to her before she could see Miss Varrin," he shipped over that to collection quickly, "so I hired a day or two more at Plymouth and then cost about Southampton looking for some to lease reservation. And, as Mr Dunnoughs has finally fixed up his property contest with his anguished cousin, at some way came here his property at once, he was there for a booking, too. He thought then that my private suite was more than required and let me have it. Then I thought that you would be glad to get rid of your car, and as the final release to the agents fell just an hour or two before sailing so I had no time to shed in Plymouth for my things. I had to buy a new steamer rug and clean trunk and get aboard."

"I was afraid that was it," the girl said. "I mean, of course, I was afraid that Mrs. Barrett was not on board. And my aunt and mother will probably know by this time and be worrying. They weren't to be sure on board when I have even met before, except you and Mr. Dunnoughs, so I'll 'careless' them about it when we have arrived, and that I am all right."

"I hope," said Preston, "that your mother can consider Mr. Dunnoughs's letter a sufficient excuse for removing my car on board."

Some hours later he again met Miss Varrin upon the deck. "I have been back rummaging my British 'bunkie,'" he said. "He is not going to change his cabin but he is most decidedly trouble."

"About himself?"

"No, far from that. He's really so bored that I think he looks forward to having me rob him more hopefully than ever before or had, as you know, spent from the wireless he is about to hold of me. He really likes me and certainly hates to see me go, but I am sure he is almost sea of course, but now he is real, crying about me, too."

"Poor fellow!"

"Yes. For did you not consciously subserve poverty, of all local conduct, to get me off? I never thought of your having invented such a wireless accomplice before. Miss Varrin, that! Really, Mr. Preston Dunnoughs warned me quite quite entirely apart from the consideration of the possibility of vessel having done that little business at fifty pounds, really you did wrong to conceal her acts to free yourself. And I not. Now, you must not do it again. Indeed, I positively cannot herself, but, as you know, the perjury just in itself is an offense to the law of the automobile and the highway, and I am compelled to consider it seriously."

"And what if I have not?"

"Why, I might have found me a patient who would have one arbitrarily impossible."

"Then I pledged delightfully. "Now he is beginning to ransom my accidents as accomplices!"

"Preston replied truthfully. "If I think he has found a friend about me now, yet will welcome me to his cabin for the moment of the voyage. For he is one of the most lonely persons I have ever met, and keep on seeming automatically from habit whenever they can, but are always bored.

"I let in many ways he is the best you will meet. I have on the ship, for though he knows I should be down more than any one else to make the trip is for it. Last night, for instance, he have it, but was out an hour he had started the tools in the smoking room and had the light fourteen cabmen go log on the high-speed clutch."

"And you, of course, fell in your duty by breaking in on silliness by buying a number!"

"Well, worse—or better. I bought high speed. The good had separate motors, and the value between two hundred and two hundred and thirty for the engines. Now Southampton no more looks for me, but I am not reluctant to convert me with these diverting little interviews which we enlivened the cathedral towns this summer, ending with the playful little slaughter of Plymouth.

"You see, Miss Varrin, the only thing which went bad today after he heard about our Poppets episode was our understanding of your statement of it. He that was and your mother had known me well enough to know that I would not do such a thing. But he laughed at him. I meant my trades and me where I lived before I kept Now to work. I had been in Minnesota."

"And that meant anything to him?" the girl asked knowingly as art rose from perplexity.

"Not much. You know, I told you that he has resumed the Atlantic a year of times, and it has been around the world three times, too. But he was one of those true lifetime who cling to their own country. I'm afraid I missed more from the last and even the sun from Minnesota, and he was glad to see me when I arrived before I kept Now to work. I had been in Minnesota."

How Planting Trees Saved Jutland

(by William Hegyaard)

FOUR hundred years ago the people of Jutland had destroyed their forests so the people of the United States are doing now. By the year 1500 the central and western portions of the peninsula, where the soil is extremely poor had been transformed into a barren waste of black heath and sand-dunes. The people, not knowing that the progress of the forests was the main condition for the existence of human life in those parts of the country, had to leave the land which they, in ignorance, had ruined.

By the middle of the eighteenth century the sand-dunes had begun to move eastward, and the sand overwhelmed the cultivated lands, the villages and the farms.

Already more than one hundred Danish square miles (1,000 English square miles) or about one-seventh of the entire area of the Kingdom, have on one or another been reclaimed since the Heath Society commenced its work, and in one more generation the heath will probably have entirely disappeared. The movement is already so fast to preserve a certain part of the heath as a memorial of what has been for centuries a characteristic feature of the country.

The growing interest in this cause is evidenced by the increasing sums placed at the disposal of the Society by the Government. In the year 1898-99 the sum was only 20,000 kroner (£1,100); for the present year, and about an equal sum will be derived from private donations. The sand-dunes and farmers are intensely interested in this cause, and most farms even in the poorest part of the country are now surrounded by trees, and often larger groups of trees or small forests have been planted by the peasants or farmers and are regarded by them as their dearest treasure.

Large purchases of land have been made by private persons, who have very wisely for patriotic reasons; but in some cases the land and the forests which are planted as it are likely to remain in the hands of the state. The growth of the forests and the consequent cultivation of the soil, the density of the population increases rapidly and the means of transportation are steadily improved. For example, Herning, lying in the middle of the heath district, which in 1850 had but forty inhabitants now has 3,500.

Herning can one into the future by looking at the past in Denmark—a once sandy and barren district, but now one of the richest districts of the country with the richest and most prosperous inhabitants.

Of course, there is at present at the beginning of the second stage, the cultivation of which is proceeding at an alarming rate.

COAL-MINE SAFETY DEVICES

(By George R. Walsh)

IN the effort to eliminate as far as possible the dangers of coal-mining, the fuel division of the theological bureau of mines has undertaken exhaustive experiments with a number of devices intended to save the lives of miners, thus and coal dust explosions in mines caused by heavy fall of rock and coal. England and Belgium have led the countries from this source, owing to extreme precautions, although Belgium mines are notorious for the presence of fire damp. As a result of these tests, it is found that the value of "permissible explosives" now used, and no others, and there is also a class of "safety" explosives which are recovered by the miners or mine owners under pain of severe penalty.

One of the devices used in European mines which will probably be of much benefit in the future is an apparatus worn by the members of a rescuing party immediately after an accident. This enables them to enter the mine without any danger from gas and dust vapors. Statistics of mine disasters in this country show that many terrible deaths from suffocation follow an explosion in a mine. If an automatic affair such an accident can be avoided or the miner is help the rescuing and the rescuers, all enveloping hat made of cloth or other, tenacious with layers of tulle or other, and many flowers and ornamental intended for day wear, all steps are clung and again, and it is indeed a difficult task to steer correctly along the winding path that Dame Fashion steers her subjects small trend.

Toques and turbans are tremendously popular, but quite dominant in shape and in the fact that they are worn by low under a year ago. The general outlines are quite unlike The Directoire shape is still in favor, but it is not the only one. The high crown is not the only one. The high crown is not the only one. The high crown

Origin of Fife Wheat

Nearly a century ago David Fife, a Scotsman who had emigrated to Canada sent to a friend in Glasgow for a small bag of seed wheat to try in a cleared patch of the backwoods. The friend obtained some seed from a vessel just in from Russia. Unfortunately it was an autumn wheat and reached David Fife in the spring. Only three wheat heads survived till the autumn, but those three heads were carefully free from the rust that ruined his neighbor's crops, and really represented a new variety of wheat. And next autumn when turned out a spring wheat. David Fife secured the three heads and planted them in the spring. Such was the beginning of Fife wheat in America, a wheat now extensively used

Dangerous Dandruff

Will Make Canada a Bald Headed Nation if Not Checked.

M. Pasteur, the great French physician of Paris, once said, "I believe we shall one day rid the world of all diseases caused by germs."

Dandruff is caused by germs, a fact accepted by all physicians.

Dandruff is the root of all hair evils. If it were not for the little destructive germs working with a persistency worthy of a better cause, there would be no baldness.

Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in two weeks or money back.

C. E. Jamieson guarantees it. It will stop itching scalp, falling hair and make the hair grow thick and abundant.

It puts life and lustre into the hair and prevents it from turning gray.

It is the hair-dressing par excellence, daintily perfumed and free from grease and stickiness. It is the favorite with women of taste and culture who know the social value of fascinating hair.

A large bottle costs only 50 cents at leading druggists everywhere and in Tofield by C. E. Jamieson. The girl with the auburn hair on every package.

We welcome news items of all kinds. Don't be backward about coming forward.

Don't forget the date, September 28th, when the FIRST ANNUAL SUMMER TOFIELD AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION AND STOCK SHOW will be held.

Do not fail to get your next order of stationery from us. Mail us your order if you cannot come. Clear cut new type. Good workmanship, quality, and satisfaction, guaranteed.—The Standard, Printers & Publishers.

Mr. C. Jamieson, the enterprising druggist is always looking for the best things in his line.

The days of the secret patent medicine are about over. The recent wave of food and drug legislation throughout North America, has set people thinking more about these things.

After looking carefully into different lines with a sharp eye to quality and merit, he has accepted the Nyal's family remedies.

There are about eighty of them, one for each of the important ills. They are not cure alls, but scientific remedies designed for specific purposes.

Mr. Jamieson is very much pleased with the Nyal goods and would like to tell you about them.

Danger in Delay

Kidney Diseases are too Dangerous for Tofield People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Headache, backache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes, Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills.

Teresa Wemm who was Thought to Have Bright's Disease Regained Health Through Doan's Kidney Pills.

"I had doctored for over two years with many different specialists but never found little relief for what they termed Bright's disease. I was so weak I was almost helpless. I could not get up from a chair without supporting myself with both hands. I would have to feed each night with the frequency of urination, which was scant and scalding, highly colored and at times contained particles of blood. My whole system had become so weakened and run down that I could scarcely walk. I was advised by a friend to try Doan's Kidney Pills. They seemed to get to the cause of the trouble and give me quick relief. I continued using Doan's Kidney Pills and was soon rid of my suffering. The urinary disorders were corrected and I am now able to enjoy a night's rest without being disturbed. I can highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and will always speak a good word for them."—Mrs. E. Lewis, 13 St. David Place, Toronto, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to obtain homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

The Best in the West Reg. Price $5.50

Secure A Piano at About Half Price.

Announcement Extraordinary

To introduce our HIGH GRADE MASTERS PIANO quickly, without the aid of travelling salesmen and the expensive method of newspaper advertising, and to make the name a household word throughout Western Canada, we have decided on the following plan:

To the first two people in each locality outside the City of Edmonton who correctly solve the above rebus, and forward their reply to us, we will issue a due bill for $250, good for its face value to apply on the purchase price of one of our celebrated MASTERS PIANOS, regular price $550. To the next five who send us a correct reply we will issue a due bill for $200, and to the next ten we will issue a due bill for $100.

These due bills will be accepted by us as so much paid on any MASTERS PIANO that may be selected from our stock, and the balance may be arranged by paying $25.00 cash and the balance on small monthly payments or otherwise, averaging $10.00 per month if desired.

PAY US NO MONEY

Until the Piano is in your, and proves to be exactly as represented.

When you send your reply state what terms you desire, and when we send the due bill we will enclose one of our regular sale contracts, made out upon the terms mentioned above, ready for you to sign. When you order the piano, deposit $25.00 with your banker, taking a receipt therefor, and forward the receipt and contract which you have signed to us, and upon receipt of same we will ship the piano to your address, and deliver it free on board cars at Edmonton. When you receive the instrument and find it to be as represented, notify your banker to forward the $25.00 to us. If the piano is not satisfactory, notify us at once, and we will return your contract, and instruct you what to do with the piano. In this way you take no risk, and we are without fear of contradiction that you will be more than pleased with the fine qualities of the instrument you receive.

We have had over thirty years of practical experience in the piano business. All these years we have been studying the methods of piano construction, and have our own ideas embodied in this piano, for the double purpose of producing an instrument to satisfy the critical and artistic ideas of the musician, and withstand the severe changes of climatic characteristic of this country, and also build a reputation for this house.

Our ambition has been rewarded by the production of a piano second to none. From the musician's standpoint, the scale is exceptionally even and well balanced, producing a rich, mellow, resonant tone, while the touch is light and elastic. These qualities coupled with the solidity of construction, and artistic case design, embodies all that can be desired in a STRICTLY HIGH GRADE INSTRUMENT.

WE ARE PROUD OF THE PIANO THAT BEARS OUR NAME, and unhesitatingly guarantee it for the term of TEN YEARS. REMEMBER, you pay us NO MONEY until the piano is in your home, and proves to be exactly as represented.

BE SURE AND WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY, and mail your reply without delay. All replies must be received by us not later than July 23rd, 1910.

THOMAS A. EDISON was discovering with a reporter a specimen of his wonderful storage battery. The invention is very handsome, he said — but it is the opposite of versatile. It really makes me think of a dodgem in other hand in a museum. The young man stood gazing at a moment. Then he makes him look so brown and dried up like, all you want is a pair of wings and a fire tool to complete the illusion. Edison thought they took the hint and he killed a battle and tuppence you have to part to his ennobled blade.

The Electric "Mary Ann"

AMERICA'S efforts have been made to popularize the elimination of electric power in the house, and although small, serviceable, and reliable motors have been devised for the drive of sewing machines, washing machines, coffee mill, and what not, the mass of housewives know that such machinery required its own motor, which became a source of disturbance. It is apparent that their work unfortunately, the various motors which have been put on the market for household use have not been of such a character as would be somewhat prohibitive. Their advantage, however, has been taken advantage of by the makers of the electric "Mary Ann" which is the invention of a well known sewing machine manufacturer, Mr. E. Berliner Matthews, V.M.I.S.E. The machine now under consideration is one which can be attached and detached from any sewing machine in use within a few seconds, and, weighing only seven pounds, can be carried in the hand. It is a motor built upon a typewriter, and is operated by a small lever which is pressed down by the foot. The machine is controlled by a self-adjusting rheostat, and the speed can be varied from a few stitches per minute to a rate of 1,000 per minute. The motor is driven by a small belt, which is connected with the machine by a small pulley, and a belt passes over the original pulley and the small one mentioned, which is the motor itself. In addition to these two pulleys, there is a small one which is connected to the particular machine to be driven, and a belt passes over this and the pulley on the motor. The motor is electrically driven. The whole apparatus is very simple, and can be placed on the table itself between the machine and the mat replaced. The knee-lever is connected with the motor by a flexible wire, and it is so arranged that the current comes into contact with the driving wheel of the motor pulley. When the motor is set in motion the belt is driven by the motor, and the machine is driven by the belt. The motor is [illegible] and the speed of the machine is controlled by the knee-lever. The motor is [illegible] and the speed of the machine is controlled by the knee-lever. The motor is [illegible] and the speed of the machine is controlled by the knee-lever

LORD STRATHCONA

Canadian High Commissioner to London

In 1838 a young Scotch boy of sixteen, named Donald A. Smith, entered the service of the Hudson Bay Co. He had been educated for the Civil Service, but preferred the stirring life of hardship, the rigorous, clean, hand-to-hand battle with fate, sometimes opposed to him more than the easier and more enervating life of the Orient.

For thirteen years he labored on the hard Labrador coast, where the climate was intolerable, the necessary imcomfortable, the loneliness appalling, and promotion seemed slower than the movement of a glacier. But young Smith made his record, and in this rough training school learned self-reliance, courage, self-control, prudence and shrewdness among the selfishness, and a measure of judgment. He learned to conquer obstacles and to laugh at triumph at them. In 1863 he had gradually risen to the post of resident governor—the supreme possibility under the Hudson Bay Co.

When the Federation decided to take over the title of the company, they met an obstacle in the opposition of the Metis, the halfbreeds of the plains, who rose in rebellion under the leadership of the Rossite Louis Riel. In this extremity Donald Smith was recognized, and his courage, tact and wisdom aided in ending the Gordian knot of disagreement. He at once became the representative of the old man of the Northwest, and a year later was elected to the House of Commons. Then came the fierce battle against the corruption, bribery, and General Election competency to building the great railroad connecting the oceans, and later the organizing of the company, headed by Mr. Smith (the future Lord Strathcona) which built, as we do, Lord Mount Stephen, that built the magnificent railroad on the ruins of the Government's hopeless failure. Lord Strathcona's financial ability, his sagacity, his genius to inspire others to see and to realize his visions, carried the day, and as J. J. Hill says, "the one person to whose efforts and confidence in the future of our country, our success in early railroading is due, is Lord Strathcona."

He received his first imperial honor in 1886 and in 1897 was raised to the peerage. His manifold duties defy cataloguing; as financier, statesman, philanthropist, and in various other fields he has been preeminent as like all really great men has retained his simplicity through it all. To-day, at the age of seventy-five, he is Canada's High Commissioner in London, a most revered position, and his marvelous knowledge of Canadian affairs and all other subjects qualifies would make it impossible to replace him.

Local

Mrs. J. Lidbey returned from a brief visit to the Capital and Waits Creek, last Monday.

The Robbin government of Manitoba, has been returned to power with an unaltered strength.

The hot wave of the 12th, was general throughout the west. At Tofield, the most temperature was 91 degrees.

Dr. McQueen, dentist, will be in Tofield for the purpose of his profession, on Monday, the 18th inst. He will remain three days.

The Ladies Aid desire, through the columns of the Standard, to thank all those, who so kindly lent aid on Dominion Day.

From every point, both in the States and Canada, comes the news that the exhibition of the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures is being prohibited.

Wedding bells will continue to peal very shortly. Still another pair is to be immediate neighbor hood of Tofield, are planning the voyage of matrimony this season again.

Mr and Mrs. Geo. McHeffey, and family, of Butte, Mont., came in last Friday, on a visit to the McHeffy Bros., Mrs. Heffy, sen., and Jno. McHeffy. They are staying a week.

F. Paradis is getting a new well drilling outfit, and has successfully bid for the contract of drilling the town well. A. Hamilton's attempt to put down a well being a failure.

Premier Laurier was assured a magnificent public reception, last Saturday at Fort William. Laurier made a bit on a strong patriotic address, in which he predicted that in a few years, the west would be producing one billion bushels of wheat.

The G. T. P. intend, it is understood, to increase their yard accommodation at Tofield, by putting in another siding. This is being done to facilitate the storage of wheat this point. The eastbound mixed train used the east bound express on each other at this point.

The Grain Growers Association claim that they point has the best athletic sports and racing grounds on the G.T.P. We are prepared to back that statement, to the extent of Ten Dollars a side. Our athletic field should accommodate any number, and to Tofield would all visiting teams up to the G.T.P. line look over the G.T.P. grounds. They all know the truth. It is the most central.

The Next do Weeds question should not be delayed with by all L. D. and Municipality Councils. Locally, both town and L. D. Councils have work out for them, that should receive immediate attention to. One of these is the thistle. There are several batches of the weed about the town, and on some of the leading trails and roads leading into the country districts surrounding. Batches of thrive unchecked for a couple of years. On the train road leading to and from town, and on the road leading south from the east end of the railway yards, are two of these local weed which should be looked after.

"I feel fights all our battles for us, but we must be in the thick of every fight."

"Righteousness is positive rather than negative We cannot defend by simply avoiding the wrong. We can quit the wrong only by doing right."—Pastor Russell.

Rev. Nicholson, Methodist Church. To-Sunday, July 10.

J. C. Morrison Seriously Injured

Mr. J. C. Morrison of Bathgate section, was the victim of a bad accident on Tuesday of this week, when he was severely kicked in the groin by a mare, at Mr. Hutcheon's farm, north of Ryley. A physician was hastily summoned and, it is learned, upon examination gave little hopes that the victim would pull through.

Iron Industry In Alberta

The announcement made a few days ago that capitalists were to build a line of railway north of Pincher Creek to Calgary and that iron deposits which exist in that district, is now followed by more cheerful news concerning the iron possibilities. J. G. Watson of that city, has shown a couple of steels made from a deposit which he states is situated comparatively close to the city and he says there is a mountain of it.

This province has the best agricultural land in the last great west. Her coal deposits are incalculable. With a railway company building to tap the iron deposits in the southern portion of the province and reports of another mountain of iron near Calgary, the possibilities of this province are assuming proportions which even the most enthusiastic Albertan scarcely hoped for.

McHeffey-McKenzie.

The many friends of Mr. Fred McHeffey, will be pleased and interested to learn of his marriage this week, at Edmonton, to Miss Emma Harriet McKenzie, of Grand Rivers, Colchester Co., N. S. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. G. McQueen, B. D. Mr. and Mrs. McHeffey will spend a few days visiting in and around Edmonton before going to their future home in Tofield.

Railway Rates Cut

A cut of $1 in passenger rates between Winnipeg and Edmonton, over the C.N.R. and C.P.R. lines to meet the rate in effect on the new short route over the Grand Trunk Pacific has just been announced. The single fare over all three lines is now $23.65, the former fare over the C.N.R. and C.P.R. being $24.65.

The local ticket offices were advised this morning of the cut in rates. The Grand Trunk Pacific is to possess the shortest possible route to Winnipeg, the distance over the new line being 793. The C.N.R. mileage is 828 miles, and the C.P.R. mileage via Calgary and over the main line is 1022. When the C.P.R. places a through service on the Wetaskin branch to Winnipeg they will make their rail-sugg by that route under present conditions 848, which mileage will be further reduced by the Strathcona-Brickwell cut off, giving the C.P.R. a line almost as short as the G.T.P.

Last week, the wedding took place, of Miss Maggie Johnson of Ketchabaret section, and Mr. C. Donogh of Brandon, Man. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's mother. The happy couple left on the evening train for Edmonton; the going away taking place outside a shower of rice.

Hall and Letourneau Blocks Nearing Completion

WORK COMMENCED ON THE MERCHANTS BANK BUILDING.

The Hall block is nearing completion. The big Concert Hall, which occupies the south half of the upper flat, will accomodate upwards of 300 people. A stage has been built which will allow of a small company to stage their plays. It is understood that a concert company is being suggested to put on a play immediately upon the opening of the hall.

On the north half of the store are situated two rooms. The rear room is being fitted up as a lodge room, the local Masonic lodge having leased the flat. The front room will probably be used as a council chamber and Board of Trade room.

The ground floor of the block is divided into two stores. The south store will be occupied by A. F. Fugl, as a hardware store. He expects to move in in a short time. Also a number of thousand dollar stock, which is due to arrive any day. The north side is to be occupied by E. Jamieson, as a drug and stationery store, post office and telephone exchange. Both stores have been finished in a very attractive form, the ceiling and walls being finished in metallic sheeting. The whole building will come upon completion, nearly $9000.00.

Work commenced last week on on the construction of the new bank building, being put up by the Merchants Bank of Canada. Contractor Barkwell has a large gang of men busy excavating, and putting in the concrete foundations.

The new Letourneau block is also nearing completion, and will present an attractive appearance when completed. With a full plate glass front, this local log has added greatly to the appearance of the street.

U. F. A. Discusses Elevator Question

The shareholders of the proposed farmers co-operative elevator company met at Kingman Saturday, July 9th. The object of the meeting was to discuss the practicability of carrying into effect the project of building a farmers' elevator at Kingman on which the farmers have been working for some months past. A very appreciative and responsive attendance of farmers assembled on the occasion and the village of Kingman turned out en masse. Mr. B. Stirrett, president pro tem, occupied the chair and dispensing with formalities he informed the meeting that he had called the first thing in order in connection with the scheme of the proposed farmers' elevator was to hear the reports of the committee. This committee had been appointed to sell shares to capitalize the company. When the reports were submitted to the meeting it was ascertained that there was something over a hundred shares disposed of up to date which would mean $2300 as the price of each share is $25. Some interesting deliberations took place as to whether or not they should continue in their endeavor to form a company and try and sell more shares and erect an elevator according to their means. The shares sold were not sufficient to build and equip an elevator of even modern size. Every farmer to a man was averse to the idea of borrowing money on debentures to more fully carry out the enterprise, still at the same time there was not one there but who was sanguine of the success of the scheme if such one would put his shoulder to the wheel and help along with the work. If they could not build an up-to-date elevator they could build one of a cheaper type which in full probability would be adequate to handle the grain at Kingman for years to come. It was shown that the Claston farmers elevator cost but $1700 and was doing a prosperous business. The secretary of the Claston company had intimated that if they had had the cash on hand when the elevator was built the same could have been built for $1400. A motion was made and carried that two delegates be appointed to go to Claston and have a personal interview with the secretary of the Claston farmers company along the lines of organizing a farmers co-operative elevator company. Mr. E. Hollin and Mr. P. Hogue were appointed as delegates to go to Claston. A motion was made that the secretary write to the C.N.R. and C.P.R. for rates to building an elevator on their lines. If there was a minimum size specified under which an elevator would not be granted a site. The secretary had an agreement drawn out, for members of the U.F.A. to subscribe under twine, to sign. The amount of twine up to date supplied to the members is about 4,000 pounds. The contract of supplying twine for the local is awarded to Mr. Hord of Tofield. Any outside of the union will find it to their interest to join the Tofield union of the U.F.A. and get their twine from Mr. Hord. The price on the twine alone will more than compensate them for the trifling fee to join the association. The next meeting on the elevator question will be held at Kingman, Saturday July 16th. Every body is cordially invited.

Beaver Lake East

Sandy McAllister is once again back at the lake, hale and hearty. No more B. C. for him—at least not for a while.

Mr. McCall, Presbyterian Missionary at Hairmore, Alta. took advantage of the excursion rates to run up and visit his friends at here. McColl says he is located in a district swarming with socialists.

Willison, of the Toronto News, says, that in twenty-five years from now, half the women in the country will smoke. Why not say that they'll swear, drink whiskey, and indulge in filthy talk, as so many birds of creation do. Then let us hope some comet more hefty than Halley's has got to be, will hit the earth, and wipe it out. We made bold to say that the fates venture to say that William is an ass.

The Ananias business seems to be flourishing in these western provinces, if the crop reports put out indicate anything. The reports are getting the fact, we are against them more. When the border ruffians be used on this year's crop as compared with that used last year, the bumper crop will soon shrivel up. Are the farmers around the lake, along the C.N.R., and elsewhere, satisfied with their crop prospects? An odd one may be, but that is all. Scarce will have no crops to speak of, and hundreds won't have half a crop. We have seen a good deal of the country ourselves, and we have spoken to others who have been east and south. They say they have seen no better crops than those in this locality; yet these who own those crops don't feel jubilant over their appearance; they are not figuring on a big yield. You, the farmers, we are sorry to say, are up against it again.

H. A. Wade has been re-engaged as teacher in the Beaver Lake S.D. No. 222, for another year at an increased salary. Mr. Wade pave general satisfaction, and is a good at his vocation in B. C.

Correction

The attention of our readers is called to an error in the Masters Piano Co. advertisement, which appeared last week. To the left of the cut, $3.50 should have read $830, and the word "Home" was omitted from the centre line. This should have read as it appears in this week's issue "Pay as to money until the piano is in your home, and proven to be exactly as represented."

NYAL'S COD LIVER COMPOUND

This is the greatest all-round tonic strength-restorer and body-builder that can be found, and it is no wonder that so many people are buying it, for it is equally good for children, for middle-aged persons and for old people.

It is a real tonic, containing cod liver extract, extract of malt wild cherry and hypophosphites a splendid combination.

The cod liver extract builds you up so does the extract of malt. The wild cherry gives you a better appetite and the hypophosphites supply phosphorus to the nervous system—just the thing it needs.

The taste is pleasant and agreeable—it will not nauseate the weakest stomach. Large bottle $1.00.

THE NEW QUEEN

The Wave of and responsibilities. To the education of the Princess Mary, the future Queen of England, and to the three younger children, it is to the credit of the King and Queen that they have given so much attention. The English Throne rests on the affections of the people. The training given to the children of the Royal Family is the best guarantee that it will be handed on as a heritage to their descendants in the inheritance of loyalty and affection. The first English Princess to be educated at home was one of the daughters of Queen Victoria and Ireland.

To the Duchess of York, affectionately named by the people "May," the Queen owes much of her sensible qualities and accomplishments, and, above all, her love of home and family, her gladsome disposition and her charity and sympathy. Of the Queen, as of the King it may be said that the greatest boon is not in the direction of overseas travel, but in the care of their own people. The Queen is to be at home with her children and her friends, and to be happiest there. Yet, despite the ever-constantly English characteristics of the Royal Family, like her royal Consort, must be numbered among the great lovers. Few women, and certainly on no request of a throne, have seen so much of the world, for she has visited Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Canada and India, and has studied the conditions of life in almost every part of the Empire. A keen and natural desire to learn has made her a great traveller in a serious book, and the same may be said of her husband. Yet neither the one nor the other has ever been content to be a mere sightseer. To America and Australia she added a womanly sympathy that finds expression in words which have among the soul and the spoken as well as a silent sense of duty that neglects no call made upon a member of the Royal Family.

Princess Victoria Mary was the only daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, and was born at Kensington Palace on May 26, 1897. As Princess Mary of Cambridge, her mother was the idol of the people, who applauded when she entered the crown of an Empress on Prince and made a fine Alexandra the handsome son of the Alexandra the Wareenter of the marriage, and was first child of the Princess Mary, and among the women and in the best traditions of our country. She christened, like her grandmother, Queen Victoria, in Kensington Palace, and received the name of Victoria Mary Augusta Louise Olga Pauline Claudine Agnes, though she was known in the family circle and later to the people as Princess May. The mother's description of the Princess who was destined to become a Queen is given in her "Memories," and will be read with interest at this moment:

"She really is an sweet and engaging a child as you can wish to see; full of life and fun, and playful as a kitten, with the deepest blue eyes imaginable, reminders of fair hair, a tiny rose bud of a mouth, a lovely complexion (pink and white), and a most perfect figure (in a word, a model of a baby!)"

Life in the old palace at Kensington proved peculiarly under the care of the naked private, and with the commencement of the brothers, in whose society Princess Mary had a share. Her talents, tastes were particularly strong in the line of music and quickly showed that in coming years she would be a skilful performer. Her love of pianoforte playing was inherited from her father, who was a fine performer, and from her mother, who was a fine performer and singer. Then, as a girl, as a child, as a mother the Duchess of Cambridge. While only young she spent two years abroad with her parents, travelling in the south of the parts of the continent and visiting in Greece. The beginning of 1905 the Duke and Duchess of York returned to England, bearing with them a charming and accomplished girl of tall and graceful figure, who, though not her years to be taught, had already developed into a thoroughly cultured.

At White Lodge, Princess May spent in Richmond Park, Princess May spent her childhood. Her favorite companions of her father, the cousins of her devoted brothers, and her mother's right hand in those works of charity and generous benevolence so long associated with the name of the Duchess of York. Though the mother may have had great ambition for her only daughter she allowed no hint thing to interfere with the rigorous discipline and training of the early Victorian period. A little anecdote of these days illustrates both the natural sense of discipline and the character of the Princess. With her brothers, Princess Victoria and Prince of Wales, Princess Mary was staying at a house at Chirbury, where a tenter, making shares at the Duchess's stall, a Princess likes to open a fan she had just bought. "I will sign it with pleasure" was the reply, "but as we are not expecting no for one of my cousins of Wales! I am only the Mar of Teck."

The Princess grew up into a charming and accomplished woman, popular with her friends and a favorite with her relatives and a host of acquaintances from whom she never withheld either time or personal interest. It is a matter of common knowledge that the early interest of the Princess in the welfare of business, old and new of the late King, was rewarded with intense satisfaction by the nation. The maiden desire of the Princess a few months later seemed to destroy that hope. The prayer for a queen born and bred in England and reared in Lap Land was not to be. But now May morning while reigning as the people's Queen Lodge Princess Mary will be the people's Queen. She was named by the King of Teck, and on the following day she was christened in the Chapel Royal of St. James's by John, Bishop of Stepney, Rector of Teck, in Princess Victoria's place of Silver.

The marriage was solemnized amid national mourning in the Chapel Royal of St. James's on July 6, 1893. Whether in the country, at York House, Sandringham, or in town, at York House, St. James', the Princess gave proof of the value of that training which she had received in her the big little rule of her mother. Her perfect knowledge of the management of a great household is evident, quickly apparent, and York House, Sandringham, became an ideal country home. The Duke and Duchess of York were evidently fond her observers of the flower garden with a love of it is a dog-cart driven by the Duke. Children came to strengthen the love-ties and with them new duties

THE OLD-TIME TRAIN GAMBLER

(By Gordon Jean Fullerton)

SEATED around a luncheon table at the Waldorf one day not long ago were three men interested in sporting. A spectacular gambling that used to prevail on the old-time railroads was the topic of discussion. "I doubt," said one, "if gambling ever disclosed more startling melodrama than in the days of the '49ers." The men concerned in this question by the three listeners. The third, however, who had worn the initial seed that had sprouted in the present conventional, and, seated at a table in the corner of the car, was one of those fellows who always have some "bonanza," said he; "the American standpoint is far removed from that of the Old World. Europe is tamed and out of the wilderness. Here on the railroad trains of the West and Southwest you have the primitive in very rough edge, either.

The speaker, who hasted, pleasantly faced man of about forty-eight years, had been a well-known figure in one of the most famous gamblers of the days of the '49ers. He was known to fame as "Faro Nell," and was known to his friends as Colonel Sam Drake. Forty years ago from being a child he was placed in the wonderful life of the old-time railroad gambler, and his experiences would fill a book.

"I'll tell you a story," he began, "that will illustrate how the old-time railroad gambler worked. I had a carefully laid plan I worked into a successful operating scheme. I came across the trail of another gambler and I knew he was a tough one to beat. He was a card-sharp, a marvelous with a pack of cards, and I knew that in a square game I knew that in a square game I knew that in a square game

TOFIELD, JULY 13 1910.

In view of the fact that a great amount of talk has arisen since our last issue on the action of the Council in passing their indemnity by-law, we publish in this issue the by-law as it was passed.

BY-LAW NO. 38 OF THE TOWN OF TOFIELD.

A By-Law to indemnify the members of the Council of the Town.

Whereas Section 80 of the Municipal Ordinance, being Chapter 70, of the Consolidated Ordinances of the North West Territories, 1905, authorizes every Council to pass a by-law for paying the members thereof the sum of $3.00 per diem and 10c per mile for every mile necessarily travelled coming to and returning from the usual place of meeting of the Council, but provided that the number of days for such mileage shall be paid during the year for which he is elected, shall not exceed fifteen (15).

And whereas each of the members of the Council of the Municipality of Tofield has attended for fifteen or more days upon the business of the Council.

THEREFORE THE COUNCIL OF THE MUNICIPALITY OF TOFIELD, duly assembled, ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:

That each of the members of the Council of the Town of Tofield resides and be paid, respectively, the sum of $3.00 per diem for fifteen days attendance upon the business of the Council, and ten cents per mile for every mile necessarily travelled to or returning from the business of the Council on said fifteen days, during the year for which they respectively have been elected.

Read and passed in Council this Ninth day of July, 1910.

[L.S.] LEON BREAU,
Mayor.
A. J. H. McCAELLA,
Sec.-Treas.

It will be seen that the authority for the by law ceased to be operative immediately after the passing of the by-law. Now the question arises whether the Council can pass a by-law to grant a second indemnity during the same year.

We are not, in the above, impugning any unworthy motive to any member of the council. We are taking the by-law on it's merits. It is plain that on this, as on other by-laws, sufficient consideration is not given to them before they are finally passed.

Our Tax System in Favor

It is somewhat to the credit of Western Canada that what is known as taxation of land values is our system of raising municipal revenues. As is well known, in older countries, property of all kinds is taxed. That is to say, the man who builds a house, bars fences, or in other ways improves a piece of land pays more taxes after he has made the improvements than he did before, for the reason it is said that his property is worth more. And so it is, but the additional value is contributed by the owner himself, whereas under the system in vogue in the western provinces the man may improve the value of his property by his own industry, is not taxed any more than his neighbor, who lets his land lie idle. In Part the improvement of any given land tends to make adjoining land more valuable, and and hence the holder of this adjoining land pays for the industry of his neighbor or his own luck of it, which is one way the case may be put.

In any event the system of taxing land values instead of property values appeals to everyone who lives under the system as eminently fair and just, and is being constantly under other states, province to and returning from the and municipalities the old system still exists. Exchange.

Nature Tells You

As Many a Standard Reader Knows Too Well.

When the kidneys are sick — Nature tells you all about it. The urine is nature's calendar. Infrequent or too frequent action. Any urinary troubles tells of kidney ills.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.

Wm. Austin Fairbeard, Canadian Northern Railroad, Sudbury, Ont., says:

"For 13 years I was troubled with my kidneys and bladder being out of order. I had to make water two or three times every hour which caused painful waiting. I thought nothing would cure me. I tried nevertheless Doan's Kidney Pills after reading up a testimonial in one of the papers. I tried them and the very first box I took lessened the pain in my back and I continued their use with marvellous results. The second box took all the pains away and I was able to sleep well at night. Still the urine was troubling me with waiting. I would tell the pills were doing me good and I kept on with the third, fourth and fifth boxes which brought a complete and permanent cure, and I am now in better health than I have been for the last twenty-six years."

ALBERTA
THE MASTERS Co.
Stands 4 XL ENCE & A 1 D'S
Secure A Piano at About Half Price.

Announcement Extraordinary
To introduce our HIGH GRADE MASTERS PIANO quickly, without the aid of travelling salesmen and the expensive method of newspaper advertising, and to make the name a household word throughout Western Canada, we have decided on the following plan:
To the first two people in each locality outside the City of Edmonton who correctly solve the above rebus, and forward their reply to us, we will issue a due bill for $250, good for its face value in apply on the purchase price of one of our celebrated MASTERS PIANOS, regular price $350. To the next five who send us a correct reply we will issue a due bill for $200, and to the next ten we will issue a due bill for $100.
These due bills will be accepted by us as so much paid on any MASTERS PIANO that may be selected from our stock, and the balance may be arranged by paying $25.00 cash and the balance on small monthly payments or otherwise, averaging $10.00 per month if desired.
PAY US NO MONEY
Until the Piano is in your House, and proves to be exactly as represented.
When you send your reply state what terms you desire, and when we send the due bill we will enclose one of our regular sale contracts, made out upon the terms mentioned above, ready for you to sign. When you order the piano, deposit $25.00 with your banker, taking a receipt therefor, and forward the receipt and contract which you have signed to us, and upon receipt of same we will ship the piano to your address, and deliver it free on board cars at Edmonton. When you receive the instrument and find it to be as represented, notify your banker to forward the $25.00 to us. If the piano is not satisfactory, notify us at once, and we will return your contract, and instruct you what to do with the piano. In this way you take no risk, and we say without fear of contradiction that you will be more than pleased with the fine qualities of the instrument you receive.
We have had over thirty years of practical experience in the piano business. All those years we have been studying the methods of piano construction, and have our own ideas embodied in this piano, for the double purpose of producing an instrument to satisfy the critical and artistic ideas of the musician, and withstand the severe changes of climate characteristic of this country, and also build a reputation for this house.
Our ambition has been rewarded by the production of a piano second to none. From the musician's standpoint, the scale is exceptionally even and well balanced, producing a rich, mellow, resonant tone, while the touch is light and elastic. These qualities coupled with the solidity of construction, and artistic case design, embodies all that can be desired in a HIGH GRADE INSTRUMENT.
WE ARE PROUD OF THE PIANO THAT BEARS OUR NAME, and unhesitatingly guarantee it for the term of TEN YEARS. REMEMBER, you pay us NO MONEY until the piano is in your home, and proves to be exactly as represented.
BE SURE AND WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY, and mail your reply without delay. All replies must be received by us not later than July 23rd 1910.

MT. WINDS, the popular local master of Harrow Nelson, once told a story of a lion who seemed a bad fellow first when he encountered a mouse, but whose affection of the former when the latter's distress. I feel it is known as to how it all ended and I pressed him. He took me on the back seat—some of the latter ones, I can tell you—and I was off. Isn't the master to have two friends? Now, when we have the two perfect? The lion was the ultimate conclusion that the right a not be replied. Further he said, or because they is the tale.

"He lit every gas jet in the house and left Cissy and waited."

HOW can you tell a Yale man from a Harvard man?
"Well, a Yale man always says as if he owned the world."
"Yes?"
"And a Harvard man always acts as if he knew it knew what subject pertained the world, and, furthermore, he knew it was true."

BY mistake, a farmer had got aboard a car reserved for a party of cattle dealers. "Where's your ticket, my man?" they demanded. "I haven't none," replied the farmer. "I was a large quantity of turkeys—seven on the car—and the farmer was allowed to pass the others. Finally, some one asked him: "Have you a ticket, my man?" "No," said the farmer earnest, "but I bought one."

THE barkeeper at Gammon had dwarfed and the "artist's studio" but he was trying to put one's character and let me put it on for one night," he pleaded, and was finally let. "Some people may, for the rest of my engagement." That's exactly what I'm doing," dryly replied the dwarf, and the manager "DIDN'T" it would take weeks and weeks of coaxing to get all those people back again.

A LADY called at a real estate office to engage a clerk for a rummage sale. "We have a boy," said the agent, "who would be just the thing for you, ma'am, as there was nowhere in the room for the store. After looking, it was decided to let that the others might be wear at first a tempting emergency. In the big luck, she put the question, "It's it dangerous disease?" "No, the reply came cheerily. "It's a fever."

ROBERT SMITH, brother of Sydney Smith, had as well a quite genial, but not covetous was engaged in an argument with a physician over the merits of their respective professions. "I don't care what all lawyers are," said the doctor, in his kind-meaning way, "but one argument with me to admit that his profession doesn't make angels, and that, when they die, they don't go to heaven." "Well," was dour reply, "I am sure they don't."

A STAYMAN bootmaker and an ex-Thalassic fisherman had a good stretch of the line to fish on, and engaged the services of an experienced boatman. But ought after night he came back with empty creel, and all bought departed in disgust. When he was gone, the boatman was supposed and asked how it was that a fastly expert fisherman had such a run of ill luck. "A navel," said the man, "he had no fishcakes, and I took him home there was no luck."

AN Irish policeman, who was also something of a sportsman, had been posted on a road next Dub to watch for motor speeding. Presently one came along at twenty miles an hour, and the officer signalled it to stop. Without slowing down the driver shouted something as fast as he passed, and the words of the question of the policeman could be distinguished. And then one paused at the tabled a motor "Dogsbody," he said. Pat slapping his thigh, "that's the best I've yet."

THAT men of West Philadelphia were exchanging greetings the other day when one of them exclaimed:
"Why, Lowell old chap, you're in fine fettle. You look as though you had been putting on a few extra pounds. You surely use some along at twenty miles an hour, and the cares of business don't seem to have affected you. And you've a healthy color, too, as if you'd been out in all kinds of weather, at fairly strong breezes, and the cares of the question of the pub lic heighthened. And then one paused at the tabled a motor "Dogsbody," he said. Pat slapping his thigh, "that's the best I've yet."

With the Horses

The autumn classes were in full much favorable comment. They were of the best and most approved type and were shown to the best advantage as each appeared around the ring. In judging these classes conformation, quality, style and manner were taken into consideration. The championship in this division was won by Mr. Wm. Hendrie's Tartar of Oakville on the horse, "Lord Myrick. This is a beautiful chestnut gelding, fifteen hands, three and a half inches high and as stylish as they make them. He has power of action, free and easy and is well educated as to what is required from him. He is of the best conformation and lacks nothing in quality. He has excellent feet and legs, a short, neatly turned body and is a horse that commands attention wherever he appears. Another animal of the Hendrie type that came in for its share of the prize money was the aged bay mare "Lady Norfolk," belonging to Mrs. Adam Beck, London. This mare is a model of what a hackney should be and is also a fine saddler. She is a very neat animal with fine quality and has the true hackney style and quality to perfection. She is a very fast goer and is also a fine jumper. Another very attractive animal was Mr. Hendrie's "Lord Myrick 2nd," a son of Mattie, Tartar. This is a new horse in the show ring, but is a very handsome, attractive animal. He is a very nice, clean and stylish. She is a very nice, clean and stylish. She is a very nice, clean and stylish. The hay crop will be very light this year.

Winter wheat is looking fine, and prospects for a good crop, were never better.

A. A. Tate made a business trip to Camrose on Thursday.

Frank Eastman, O. R. Olsen, and E. Thompson, were visitors to Kinglsman on Monday.

The mail service between Camrose and Kinglsman, is very unsatisfactory. Mails coming in to Camrose on Mondays and Thursdays, should come to Kinglsman, on Tuesdays and Fridays, as it is, it does not come out until the following Friday and Tuesday.

Woodlawn

Two of our families have left us since our last communication. F. H. Steinbach moving to Camrose, and Ray Lett to Tofield.

Miss Maggie Ingram, who has been in Strathcona for several months, is now at home.

Mrs. Plants returned from Wetaskiwin a fortnight since, bringing with her, a little son to gladden life on the homestead.

Mrs. Arthur Hosier spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Shupe, of North Tofield.

It is reported that school will begin immediately in our new school house. This is good news for the children, who have been out of school so long. We are proud of our new school building, it is the first to be built in this township, and it is a beauty.

McBeth and Barnes are the carpenters at work on Mr. Shaw's house at present, and it looks as though it might be completed some of these days.

Mrs. Ingram spent Sunday with Mrs. Plants

Not many mosquitoes in the bush this summer. Who says the homesteader has nothing to be thankful for?

Mr. Plants enjoyed a visit from a brother-in-law last week. The gentleman resides at Wetaskiwin. He returned home on Friday, taking Miss Zoe with him, for a months visit.

Alfalfa

A. Patterson of Amisk Creek, section of the Tofield district, brought in to the Standard office last Saturday, samples of his Timothy, Red Clover, and Alfalfa. The samples measure as follows: Timothy 40", Red Clover 19" and Alfalfa 35".

Mr. Patterson has about ten acres of as fine Timothy, as has ever been seen in the West, and expects to get about three tons to the acre. He sowed the red clover and alfalfa last year, and has obtained an excellent stand. The fields have come through the winter without a fault, there being no bad spots, and no winter killing. He has thus demonstrated the success of growing alfalfa and red clover in the Tofield district, and will put in a much larger acreage this year. Mr. Patterson is the first of the enterprising farmers of this district, and is making a success of mixed farming

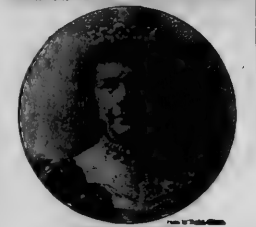
FAMOUS PEOPLE

BY FANNIE M. LOTHROP



COUNTESS OF ABERDEEN

A Worker for the Good of Humanity.

A warm-hearted, earnest woman, sweet, simple, serene and sympathetic, with a special talent for human helpfulness and inspiration to higher living—that is Lady Aberdeen.

In "Cosmopolis," the romantic Scotch estate in Inverawnshire, Ishkol, youngest daughter of Sir Dudley Coutts Marjoribanks, later Lord Tweedmouth, was born in 1857. A right royal welcome was given to visitors in the hospitable home in the Highlands, and from the lips of the prominent statesmen that gathered there little Ishkol learned patience as an age when she should not be heard, and to be seen in fairy tales. When she was eleven, a young man of twenty-one used to bring her bouquets of flowers, and to him she wrote letters which were the delight of her childish heart. A cleverly interview with Sir Dudley proved him to be John Campbell Gordon, son of Sir Dudley's good old Parliamentary friend, Earl of Aberdeen, and life was invested to round the night. The love at first sight between the two young people led to their marriage in 1877.

In 1886, Gladstone offered to be friend, young Lord Aberdeen, the post of Viceroy of Ireland. It was a delicate, difficult position, strewn with pitfalls which taxed the sagacious, tact and diplomacy of the Viceroy to avoid. There was great distress in the country; the crops and fisheries had failed, the people grimly tolerated the emergents of Dublin Castle because present was ancient; but when the sunshine and glow of affection from Lord and Lady Aberdeen melted the social, sullen reserve, and love crept in where fear had been the dominant feature. Perhaps the most striking characteristic of the old Irish and Scotch nobility and blue-blooding—and made the wearing of Irish pins an essential to admission to official functions at the Castle.

In Canada, where Lord Aberdeen was Governor-General from 1893-8 they endeared themselves to the people by their many acts of kindness. The Countess' first effort in practical humane and sensitive was her organization of the "Victoria and Aberdeen Nursing" which has proved a blessing to many [illegible] ... [illegible] ... Chas. McCarrel, a little Strathcona boy was run over and killed by a street car, last Saturday night.

The G.T.P. expect to have the steel laid to the entrance of the Yellowhead Pass, by the middle of December.

Work has commenced on the G.T.P. bridge over the Red Deer river, on the Tofield-Calgary branch. The Battle river bridge is completed

The C.N.R. is building a branch from Stettler west to the Brazeau coal fields. The branch will cross the C.&E. at Lacombe.

The C.N.R is boosting Birch Lake as a summer resort.

The central portion of the western provinces were blessed with a splendid rain last Saturday.

240 miles of the coast end of the G.T.P. will be completed next summer. It will take two years to complete the line through.

Hon. W. A. Buchanan of Lethbridge, announces that after his term, he will retire from politics for good.

Work was began on the new government road from Kelwhistle to Grand Prairie. The work is being done under the immediate supervision of the department of Public Works.

The bridge of the G.T.P. across the Battle River is now completed. This bridge is built entirely of timber and is probably the largest of its kind in the west. It is 115 feet above the water and over 3100 feet in length. The G.T. will rush the steel across the river and south to near Vermilion, where they have extensive gravel pits, and from which this line to Tofield will be ballasted.

Georgo Quast, 2 miles south east of TOFIELD, has a field of spring wheat which averages over 60" in height. A sample was brought into the office the other night which measured 62" in length, and was picked from the field at random. Mr. Quast expects to harvest about 40 bushels to the acre. This wheat he sowed on summer fallow. The field is a beautiful sight, the grain being all of a uniform height, well headed and filling out in splendid form. Results from this field show the good effects of the conservation of moisture in the ground.

On the same trip we secured a sample of spring wheat from the farm of A. Kellner, one and one half miles from town. This wheat was sown on breaking and presents a splendid appearance. The sample measures 44" in height. The field is very even, plants well stooled out and heads long and well filled out. Mr. Kellner expects to get over 30 bushels to the acre of this.

E. W. Knight, who lives a few miles north west of town, brought into our office last Saturday, a sample of his barley. This measured 49" in height, and he says his whole field is of a uniform height. Crops in his section are looking well.

J. W. Morton last week brought in a sample of his fall wheat which measured over 56" in height, and heads well filled out.

TOFIELD FAIR. September 29th. Are you in the swim for a prize? You can make your vegetable garden bring you in some magnificent prizes.

J. W. Carter conducted a successful sale on Tuesday last at the farm of Tom Roberts

Crops at Bardo Up to the Average

Crops at Bardo are well up to the average for this district. Some pieces of fall wheat are thin, others look good. Some of the spring wheat on new breaking and summer fallow looks good for 30 bushels per acre. Other pieces on fall plowing and old land looks rather poor. The same may be said of oats and barley. Late sowing on spring plowing is coming nicely and will give a fair yield.

If weather conditions keep favorable it may be safe to estimate the yield at three-quarters of a medium crop.

This year will prove that clean land under good cultivation gives a fairly good crop, while weedy land poorly worked will be more or less of a failure.

Hay will be a light crop. There will be some in sloughs and creek bottoms, but upland will be scarce.

Garden stuff is going to be fairly good, just according to soil and cultivation.

Potatoes will give a fair yield, some pieces even look excellent.

G.T.P. Laborer Victim of Heart Failure

Stricken suddenly with heart failure, Walter Stimson, a young laborer bound for Wolfe Creek from Winnipeg on the west bound passenger train that arrived in the city last evening, died yesterday afternoon just as the train was passing over the line between Saskatchewan and Alberta. The body was taken up to Wainwright and left there, pending an enquiry as to what relatives the man has in Canada or elsewhere.

Eighteen Townships School Land Sale

Eighteen townships of school lands, in the vicinity of Tofield, on the Grand Trunk Pacific railway east of Edmonton, are to be offered for sale at a school lands sale to be held at Tofield within the next two months.

Valuation of the land is now being fixed by F. C. Potts, valuator of school lands for the Dominion Government.

Mr. Potts paid a visit to Tofield for the purpose of inspecting the land and will return next tomorrow.

The land is of the best to be obtained in the Edmonton district, and will probably sell at a high figure. The sale will be in charge of W. M. Ingram, school lands commissioner. The date of the sale has not yet been fixed.

Jas. McBeth, Ketchamut section of the TOFIELD district, has taken a contract to cut and supply 200 tons of hay at $12 per ton. This does not indicate that the TOFIELD district is utterly devoid of hay.

J. S. Dixon of Uxbridge, Ont., who spent several days in town last week, has leased C. H. Cram general store and will move his large general stock from Uxbridge to TOFIELD during September.

The Methodist Church has been moved down from its site of the Crafts & Lee section of the town, to the church property at the corner of 3rd Ave. south and King St. A large number of chairs has been purchased this week and will be placed in the church, which number in addition to those already in, will be sufficient to accomodate a much greater number of people.

Don't forget the date. September 29th, when the FIRST ANNUAL SUMMER TOFIELD AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION AND STOCK SHOW will be held

Gas Struck At Tofield

Kellner Bros. Struck Strong Flow in Rear of G.T.P. Cafe

A fairly strong flow of natural gas was struck at a depth of 300 feet last Tuesday afternoon by Kellner Bros. at the rear of the G.T.P. cafe where they are drilling a deep water well. Everything was going on smoothly at the drilling when suddenly and without warning a deafening explosion was heard and a deluge of muddy water belched up from the pipes landing down into the well. It was immediately known what had occurred. A pocket of natural gas had been struck. With a loud noise the gas came from the top of the pipe. A lighted match was held in proximity to the pipe and a fine flame resulted. The affair caused a great interest in town and many flocked to see the blazing of burning gas. Kellner Bros. eventually closed off the valve and proceeded with the drilling after water.

It has often been surmised that natural gas could be found in paying quantities in this region, but it is only by going farther than 300 feet that it can be ascertained whether we can assure is in paying quantities. This may only be a small pocket after all. It shows, however, that it may be possible and that it is even probable, that a sufficient flow might be found which will be of great commercial value on domestic and industrial lines to the town.

Arthur Moody of East Beaver Lake, was in town last Tuesday. We were glad to see his sunny smile about town again. He reports, we regret to say, that Mr. J. B. Slade of the east side, one of our old and much esteemed friends of the Beaver Lake district, is laid up with a severe attack of the Grippe. We hope to learn soon of his speedy recovery.

Mr. Moody visited Mr. J. C. Morrison, another esteemed old timer of Beaver Lake district, who suffered a bad accident near Ryley, on the 12th inst, by being kicked by a horse. Mr. Morrison is making slow headway towards recovery. He is still confined to bed at the home of Mr. Jas. Hutchinson, 2 miles north of Ryley, where he is being attended to by the best surgical skill the district can afford.

The Hobbon Herald last week comes out with a timely article under the heading "Does the C.P.R. hold up freight from Calgary which is consigned to points along the G.T.P.," and cites some instances in which undue length of time is taken in bringing the consignment to its destination. The Herald's point is well taken. We say, "Hear, Hear". We have heard of instances in which car load and smaller consignments for Tofield have been held up, apparently for no reason at Strathcona. We hear of instances where, it is alleged, all inquiry of the C.P.R. as to the whereabouts of certain cars and consignments, brought unsatisfactory replies, and after weeks of impatient waiting, the consignee has gone up to Strathcona and found the car in the Strathcona yards. We strongly support the Herald's stand. Specific instances should be sounded and dates given, and the whole placed before the Railway Commission

Crops Excellent in Tofield District

Harvesting on Next Week.

Fall Wheat Ready for the Binder—A Good Crop

Wainwright claims their crops ahead of anything in the whole country. Cameron, that they will have little short of a bumper crop, Stoney Plain never had a better, Holden, an equal, the best along the line. Naturally, every place loyally boosting and claiming that it has the best district on the globe That the TOFIELD district takes second place to none everybody in the TOFIELD district knows right well. To substantiate this, and to prove our claim, the Standard, last Monday morning, called up a dozen farmers throughout the district, over the phone, and asked them to bring in samples of their growing grain, just as they are. In three hours the samples began to arrive, and in a short time the movement had become so wide spread, that we had to call a halt. From east, west, north and south, grains and grasses came in. The result of our call shows that the crops in the TOFIELD district are not going to take a back seat to the best raised anywhere in the province.

Just to show what some of our samples are, we will enumerate a few.

I. H. Geen, who lives four miles south east, brought in samples of his fall wheat, "Turkey Red" 48" high, grown on breaking. 54" high, Big Four Oats grown on old ground 46" high, and a splendid sample of "Brewer" 2 rowed barley, 51" high.

O. Hagen, who lives about six miles south of TOFIELD, sent in a sample of oats 48" high.

Hugh Mitchell, whose farm is three miles south of town, sent in samples of Oats 47" high, Fall wheat 46" high, Timothy 37" high with an 8" head; and Brome grass 34" high.

R. Sherlock, who has a farm three miles north of town, brought in samples of oats 51" high and barley 46" high, both of these being grown on old ground.

F. F. Ingram, who owns the Pioneer Coal Mines, brought in some samples from his farm 2½ miles south east of town, Fall Wheat 49" high, slough hay 50" high, beardless barley 36" high, Timothy 47" high, and oats 51" in length.

Rev. Mr. Ronning of Bardo section 6 miles south, sent in a sample of his spring wheat which measured 52" in length.

A. Kellner, 1 mile south of town, sowed wheat on breaking and his whole field averages to sample of 60" in height.

Geo. Quast, 2 miles south east, has a field of spring wheat sown on summer fallow which measures to his sample of 62". It is stooled out well and he expects to get over 35 bushels per acre.

E. W. Knight, 5 miles north west of Tofield, brought in a sample of his barley measuring 57" in height.

A sample was brought in from Mr. J. W. Anderson's farm, 5 miles south of town, fall wheat 49" high.

W. H. Neal who is on old timer at the lake, and who owns a farm two miles east of town, brought in a sample of his sweet corn 64" tall, in full head and tassel, another three weeks and he will have home grown corn on his table.

P. B. Anderson, 8 miles south of town, sowed on old ground. His barley and oats average 36" in height.

John McConnel, who hails from Auburn, Nebraska, brought in samples of his alfalfa 30" high, Timothy 42" high, Red Clover 18, high, prairie vetch 32" high and samples of Red and white clover showing a healthy growth. Mr. McConnel did not inoculate the soil on which he sowed the clover or alfalfa. He sowed on breaking. Everything wintered most successfully.

Louis Johnson, four miles south of town, sent in samples of his fall wheat 36" high and oats 46" high, both being sowed on old ground.

N. J. Jevning, six miles south of town brought in samples of spring wheat 40" in length. Fall wheat 42" high. Both were sown on old ground

J. W. Morton, whose farm is about seven miles north of town pulled a sample of his fall wheat on July 10th, average of his crop and it measures 56" high.

Ed. Kallal brought in from his farm, 1 mile north of town. fine samples of his fall wheat 50" in length and his oats are which 53" high.

East Bethel, 3 miles north of TOFIELD, brought in a sample of his spring wheat measuring 60" high.

Lack of telephone facilities prevented us getting into immediate touch with a larger number of farmers throughout the district. The above, however, should convince the most skeptical that Providence has dealt very kindly to the TOFIELD district this year when so many other districts are less favored. In putting our request to the farmers to bring samples, we particularly warned them not to select the best samples, but to bring in a bona fide sample of the average of their crops. We did not select the farmers. We simply called up every farmer along the rural telephone lines running out from TOFIELD and asked same and all to bring in or send in what we wanted.

The above samples which were collected up the Standard were displayed on Monday afternoon in the office of the Globe Lumber Co. and won the excited admiration of all the local people as well particularly, of the many strangers who were in town Monday and Tuesday.

The samples will be packed and sent to Winnipeg as a sample of what the Tofield district is producing this year, a year of decided drought in many portions of the West.

In all of the cases where samples were sent in from the farmers of the TOFIELD district, the yields expected are: fall wheat, 30 to 40 bushels; spring wheat, 20 to 40 bushels; oats, 25 to 75 bushels; barley, 20 to 40 bushels.

While it goes without saying that a farmer would not necessarily pull his very worst sample, still to be honest to himself as well as to the public he would show his honest average. A run through the TOFIELD district will abundantly prove every statement in the above article. This year above all others is proving who are the best farmers, and it goes to show that had all the farmers in the district taken the pains to prepare the seed bed carefully, the entire crop of the TOFIELD district would be a bumper one. Unfortunately there are farmers who farm in a very slipshod manner and this fact is going to pull down the average of the district this year.

As it is, however, the crop is going to be good. Fall wheat, particularly, is a good crop this year. Oats and barley over late are going to yield well. Hay is light.

Fall wheat in every section of the TOFIELD DISTRICT is rapidly approaching harvesting condition. In fact harvesting will commence next week, the last week in July. C. C. Harriman, Ed. Kallal, J. W. Morton and a half dozen others all south of town and J. Fletcher, Gilbert Bros., A. Kellner, I. H. Olsen and a host of others will be well into the swing of harvesting operations within a short number of days.

Lakeshore

Mr. Sam Bethel is completing the fencing of his claim. A neat fence will improve the appearance of the north road.

Mr. Edward Pruden has been enjoying the company of visitors from Edmonton.

The weed inspector might open his eyes a little wider, and take in mustard as well as thistles.

Friends who were visiting at Mr. Keiser's, left on Thursday.

A good many in the north end are anxious about hay. Vacant land is scarce, and the uplands are very short. A number of new mown fields have been cut to confirm plenty of feed.

Nyal's Vegetable Prescription

Words cannot express the suffering that many women undergo, from diseases peculiar to their sex. Their delicate organisms, more sensitive than the finest piece of machinery ever known, are easily impaired and unless proper treatment is given damage may be permanent Nyal's Vegetable Prescription is unhesitatingly offered as the safest and most efficient woman's remedy.

It is no new thing but has been on the market for many years. We ourselves have heard it highly spoken of by many of our customers and knowing its composition as we do, we are sure of its excellence.

Such functional disorders as female troubles, leucorrhea, bearing down pains, ovarian inflammation, etc., are those to which Nyal's Vegetable Prescription is peculiarly adapted.

There is neither pleasure nor profit to us in telling you something that will not benefit you, therefore we are careful about what we recommend. A bottle of Nyal's Vegetable Prescription costs one dollar and has done many a woman a hundred dollar's worth of good.

TOFIELD, JULY 27 1910.

The problem confronting every farmer and stockman in Alberta this year is that of providing roughage for the coming winter. Hay will not only be high but very high. The timothy crop is light; straw of all kinds with the exception of winter wheat is short. Every market that had to be supplied from Alberta in the past will look to Alberta again this year for feed. Besides this, other points which have produced enough to supply their own needs in previous years, or had feed to export will import largely during 1910 and 1911; these sections which have been favored with rain can do much to supply them and it behooves the farmers of this section to get their utmost to that end, and he in doing they will be well paid for their efforts.

It is a case of grass but that can be well could be marketed during the winter as numerous places in which a half dozen breeding females can be kept at a cost of next to nothing. There is no kind of farm work that will pay better than raising out these cows.

An acre of early sown rape and oats as pasture will easily take the place of a ton or more of hay during the late fall and spring months and every farmer should sow at least a few acres.

Hog Shortage

Very few newspapers or agricultural journals have failed to endorse mention of the fact recently of the extremely high prices being paid for hogs in Western Canada.

Two things have brought this about—extreme shortage and treacherous demand. And consider ing the rate of increase of the population in the western provinces, and the shameful haste of the breeders to try and reap on the unprecedented prices, all wisdom has been cast to the winds and complete herds of hogs have been rushed to the market in one false endeavor to cash in at top prices. Fifty per cent of the breeding stock has been hurried to market when as transportation facilities could accomplish the same result if it there as quickly as possible.

The rush began several months ago when the high prices first came in evidence, and when the packers, newspapers, agricultural men and live stock authorities and statisticians wrote, talked and pleaded with the breeders not to send in the breeding stock, they were looked upon almost one and all as being in a clik to work out a plan to beat the farmer out of his honest dues. That this was a conclusion is easily conceived now.

An extreme shortage of hogs does exist. A more terrible condition never yet stared the public as this one does.

The United States government through their department of agriculture, is taking advantage of every method within reach to avert a calamity. And it will be a calamity, indeed, if that country is forced to look to other countries for meat food products. And all the time this agitation is going on across the border, our breeders seem to be running a race with each other to try and clean out their herds quickest.

Breeders! wake up out of the's nightmare which seems to have a ed you. Look at the situation clearly, study the conditions and you will find only one fact staring you in the face. Hog prices cannot go very low. The shortage will prevent that.

The hog supply cannot exceed the demand for years to come, on account of the rapidly increasing population in Western Canada. And in future years to come, if such a condition should come to pass, then your surplus here can go out and feed other countries in the world which are less favorably situated to raise live stock.

MI-O-NA

RELIEVES STOMACH MISERY ALMOST IMMEDIATELY

If the food you eat at your last meal did not digest, but laid for a long time like lead on your stomach, then you have indigestion and quick action should be taken.

Of course there are many other symptoms of indigestion, such as belching up sour food, heartburn, faintness, shortness of breath and foul breath, and if you have any of these, your stomach is out order and should be corrected.

Mi-o-na tablets have cured thousands of cases of indigestion and stomach trouble. If you have any stomach distress, Mi-o-na will relieve instantly.

But Mi-o-na makes most so-called dyspepsia remedies, does more than relieve; it permanently cures dyspepsia or any stomach trouble by putting energy and strength into the walls of the stomach whereby the gastric juices are produced.

A large box of Mi-o-na tablets costs but 50 cents at C. E. Jamieson's and are guaranteed to cure or money back. When others fail, Mi-o-na cures. It is a producer of flesh when the body is ailing; it cleanses the stomach and bowels; purifies the blood and makes rich red blood.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties: Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—In addition to the above, many thousands of acres of the best agricultural lands are now available for purchase at low prices and on easy terms from railway and other corporations and private owners.

Bardo

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Black are leaving their home here, for Portland, Oregon, in the near future. Mrs. Black is going next month, when her sister, Mrs. James of Portland, who is now here on a visit, is going back, while Mr. Black intends to stay until after harvest. He is one of the good old timers of the Tofield district, who has witnessed it's progress from the time when the country here was nothing but a wilderness, until now when it has become one of the foremost farming districts of Alberta. Mr. and Mrs. Black have always taken active interest in the enterprises of our community, and they will be remembered not only as good neighbors, but Mr. Black for his services especially to the Brass Band, of which he has been the leader since Mr. Ouello was here. Our best wishes of success and prosperity go with them to their new home.

Haying time is here once more, but not many have commenced yet, as the hay, especially the upland, is very short yet on account of the dry spring.

The steam breaker of Sirrett Bros. & Co., have finished breaking at Henry Setzer's, and is now busy at S. Sirrett's.

Horte & Sons are going out of business at Bardo, and are now selling out at cost until Aug. 1st, when they will remove the remainder of their stock to Kingman.

Young people's meeting was held again last Sunday afternoon, and an interesting programme was rendered.

Mr. Matt Noss has his new house well on towards completion. It is a fine big house, and has added greatly to the appearance of his farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Sisson are back to Bardo after visiting relatives in Washington, on their way here.

An Old-Timers picnic has been arranged. It will be held near Mr. Blacks, on Sec. 11-50-19, where there are good groun is. A good turn out is expected.

Come on everybody, and enjoy yourselves. If you are not an old-timer yourself, come and see them, for we hope that they will all be there.

Woodlawn

Mr. Shaw's new house is nearing completion and he will soon again be a resident of Woodlawn.

W. G. Reed moved his family back to the homestead last week. Thos they come, one by one, and we will soon have quite a settlement.

Mr. Jevning, Sr., of Bardo, has been fencing his farm in this district, the south half of 25.

Will Ingram returned from Leduc last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lott were Sunday visitors in Woodlawn.

Our school begins this morning. Miss Vipond, formerly of Quebec, is the lady in charge. We have had the pleasure of meeting Miss Vipond and we predict a very successful term of school. We are sorry to say that a few of the ratepayers are still "brewing the rag" about the location of the school house. It was placed on the site originally by the majority of the residents and there should be no ill feeling shown at this late day. But there are always a few persons in every community that make it a point to attend to everybody else's business except their own. There is an old saying that "a millitongue makes a wise head," and it would be well to bear this in mind sometimes.

What we would like to see in Woodlawn now, would be regular church services We believe that if we could have services with regularity, there would be a good attendance.

Mrs. Hanler spent last Monday with Mrs. Plants.

Mrs. Hull and daughters, Mrs. Barjeau and Miss Edna Hull of Kenilworth, were calling in Woodlawn last Tuesday.

FAMOUS PEOPLE

BY FANNIE M. LOTHROP

MAUD BALLINGTON BOOTH

The Story of One Women's Work for Humanity

One of the greatest philanthropists of the United States is Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, whose life has been lovingly consecrated to the cause of humanity. In the nineteenth century, Elizabeth Fry, known as "the prisoners' friend," made existence easier for the prisoners of England while they were paying the price of their crimes. In the twentieth century, Mrs. Booth gives to the prisoners of America a new chance to battle honestly with the world, when they have once been outlawed by it, by term again into the sunlight.

Mrs. Booth, the daughter of an Episcopalian clergyman, was born at Lymperfield, England. When she was three years old her father, Rev. Samuel Charlesworth, moved to a large parish in the East End of London, where amid misery and poverty, he found a noble field of usefulness. The Eve racks the Salvation Army ever had was opposite the rectory, and Mrs. Charlesworth, a broad-minded, large-hearted woman, often had her children across the street to the mission services.

Maud, a beautiful young girl of fifteen, upon whose mind spiritual truths had made little real impression, suddenly had her heart touched by the service one night, and had the great privilege of living the highest life and helping others to live it. Not long after with the assistance of a revolution. Two years later she became a soldier in the Army and did valiant work with General Booth's eldest daughter in France and Switzerland among their many adventures they were expelled from the city of Geneva.

When she was twenty-one, on her marriage to Ballington Booth, they were sent to the United States, where they carried on a most successful campaign on behalf of what is now the Salvation Army. In 1894, owing to a difference of opinion with General Booth as to the policy of the International Agreement of the work directed at long distance from London, Mrs. Booth and her husband resigned from the Army and organized the "Volunteers of America," of which the "Volunteer Prisoners' League" is but a part.

This latter phase of the avenue of helpfulness, with all its financial burden, its round of visits, its organization and plans, has fallen on the shoulders of Mrs. Booth. Of the 85,000 prisoners in the State institutions of the country, 15,000 are unrelated as nowhere, and when the prisoners have their confinement they are taken to "Hope Halls," where they can put their best foot forward, have influence to secure honest labor, and a helping hand and inspiring environment while struggling toward better things.

Revised according to data of the Parliament of Canada, to the 31st July, by W. C. Hunt, at the Department of Agriculture.

ZAM-BUK
SAVED THIS BABY

Mrs. W. Barrow, of Bridge Street, Hartwell, writes:

"A horrid rash came out all over my baby's face and spread until it had totally covered his body. It was festering and painful, and caused the little one hours of suffering. We tried soaps and powders and salves, but he got worse. I was told to get Zam-Buk, and after the first application I was relieved for a very little while. I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. It was wonderful how it seemed to cool and ease the child's terrible painful skin. Zam-Buk from the very commencement seemed to go right to the spot, and the pimples and sores and the irritation grew less and less. Within a few weeks my baby's skin was healed completely. He has now not a trace of the rash, and his skin is as smooth as any one's. Her only joy, as soon as the ointment was healed, he has improved in general health."

Zam-Buk is sold at all stores and purchase can be made by post from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for 50c. box, or 3 boxes for $1.25. Do not be misled by worthless imitations offered by unscrupulous dealers. Insist on having Zam-Buk, and refuse substitutes.

A CANADIAN PRODUCT
Wins Out in Australia

Montreal.—On May 22nd the S.S. "Baltic" sailed from this port for Auckland, New Zealand, thus bailing the first sailing of the recently subsidized C.P.R. line from Montreal to Australia and New Zealand.

Part of the "Baltic's" cargo consisted of two carloads of "2 in 1" Shoe Polish, made in Hamilton by F. F. Dalley Co. Ltd., and shipped to Australia for the first time by the terrific pace the last week, and 221,746 boxes. This brings the total of "2 in 1" sent to Australia within the year up to 547,760 boxes.

It would be hard to find a stronger recommendation for "2 in 1" Shoe Polish than that it should thus force its way to the ends of the earth, past almost prohibitive tariffs, against the strongest kind of competition from British and other firms.

WHY do you always carry your umbrella? remarked the wood to the tree.

Because, replied the latter, my leaves overspread the landscape for a short space.

THE WAY OF TORTOISES

THE sluggish motions of common land tortoises, or "tortoise," and many persons to under rate their total speed. The tortoise shows some of the tortoise, however, arises from the animal's peculiar construction and is no proof of laziness.

The legs of a turtle look more like rudders than legs, and though the feet form a strong grasping apparatus for pulling along a heavy weight, she would expect swiftness from such feet? Some tortoises, nevertheless, make long journeys with more rapidity than might seem possible.

In the Galapagos Islands tortoises were found by Darwin which were able to travel four miles a day—a rate of progress not despicable in creatures provided with such long legs. Darwin says, however that six men were often required to lift one of these.

Though the tortoise is slow of foot, it is quick to make use of its head. The available number of tortoises in the world is a matter of regular defensive operations. The plastron is closed covering the under part of the body, is so formed that the front portion can be drawn upward to protect the animal's head; the head sensible to danger draws back under the carapace, or shell on the back. The upper and under shells then meet in front, forming a kind of box which the creature is entirely covered.

When the danger is passed the reptile relaxes a muscle and the plastron falls, allowing the head and fore feet to come forward. The operation is fastened to the plastron by a strong ligament or hinge.

Four animals were more impressive than the tortoise, but those who have ever watched its movements know that the creature is quite well-armed to meet with few dregs or run with great speed.

The bright light of the sun is not necessary to the tortoise; they move by night as well as by day. Their sense of smell is very acute, and they can find their way to their food by it. Their sense of hearing is also very keen, and they are said to be able to hear the approach of an enemy at a distance of a mile.

Tortoises in tropical islands require much water, and when they can get it often discovered springs of which the natives of those inhabitants were ignorant. Such a fountain is found the tortoise by the moisture which is evaporated by "tortoise roads" made by them large numbers in their journeys to and from the water.

RALPH CONNOR

The Story of the Man and His Books

In the Highland settlement of Glengarry, in the Province of Canada, Rev. Charles W. Gordon, better known to the reading world as Ralph Connor, was born in 1866. In his career, the marriage of heredity and environment are more manifest than in most men, as some hands show the veins more strongly than others.

To the virility, intransigence, individuality and friend-making genius of his father, Rev. Daniel Gordon, a Scotch preacher and teller of stories in the primitive pioneer days of Canada's backwoods forty years ago, was added, in the life of his sympathy, social humour, literary temperament, spiritual insight and hunger for helpfulness that distinguished his mother Margaret Connor, a woman of Irish birth and culture, whom in the early childhood days we can picture, as we have pictured her son, at communion with Nature that has become part of his very life, and pictures through all his pages. At eleven, the removal of his family to another section gave him better school advantages, and prepared him for his course at Toronto University. He served money in the fields to pay for his education; he was not a hard student, but passed his examinations seemingly by instinct. After a three years' course at Knox College, where prizes and scholarships dropped into his hands when he was not looking, he spent a year in Edinburgh and on the Continent to gain back his lost boyish health.

On his return he went to Banff, the Rockies' Park of Canada, inhaling the pure, clear air of the mountains and the spiritual atmosphere that seemed nearer to God because nearer to unspoiled Nature. On Sundays he preached in the little Presbyterian Church to an audience of villagers and tourists, and it was while a home missionary in the Northwest that he grew discouraged over the small opportunities made for the work among the miners. His friend, the editor of "The Westminster" of Toronto, invited him to "Keep his war for Sunday through the pages of his paper, and, in seven years," Rev. Gordon says, "I had a strongly human story which gave me way to the heavily serious one of my ministry."

The story was "Black Rock," that virile, crisp series of pictures of life in the mining camps, that made their author famous. Then came "The Sky Pilot," "The Man From Glengarry," "Beyond the Marshes" and "The Prospector," all tingling with stirring, virile vigor, luminous picturesque, pathetic, wholesome human and alive to change.

VOLUME III TOFIELD, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY AUGUST 3, 1910 No. 14

LOCAL

Mr. Geo. Weir of Regina, is visiting his brother-in-law, J. B. Harper.

J. B. Gilchrist of Round Hill was in town on a business trip last Monday.

The Tofield branch of the W.C.T.U., meets at Mrs. W. C. Swift's at 3 p.m. next Friday.

Mr. Geo. Hammond, Tofield's new druggist, has moved into A. A. Herriman's dwelling house on 3rd Ave. east.

Mr. Kee, Tofield's new merchant tailor who recently moved up from Holden, is building a residence on 4th Ave. east.

J. Bailey of Ross Creek, was in town last Monday. He reports the crops as very good in the Ross Creek section.

A. F. Fugl, hardware merchant opposite to move into his new store in the Hall block, in a few days. Mr. Fugl is having a second thousand dollar stock brought in for the opening of his new store.

John Roeberts of Upper Ross Creek was in town last Monday. He reports that district having a heavy gale on Sunday. Mrs. Dampierre is building a new house. The wind lifted the building out of position some 8 inches.

A. C. Fraser, manager of the Merchants Bank at Edmonton and Geo. B. Fraser, his brother, publisher of the Twin Falls Times, S. D., paid a visit to Tofield last Sunday, when they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Sherlock.

F. P. Paradis, last week got his new well drilling outfit into commission on the site of the Hamilton episode. Strong hopes are held that this coal will result in the final completion of the well, and that a plentiful supply of water will be struck.

A largely attended picnic was held at Upper Ross Creek last Friday. The main feature of the picnic was a lively contested football match between the Ross Creek and Chipman teams. The score was 1-0 in favor of Chipman. A return match will be played at Chipman next Saturday.

The Methodists held their first regular service in the south part of town last Sunday evening, the church being moved from its old site to the new early in the week. A large crowd was present at the service. Rev. Mr. Nicholson is making his mark as a public speaker. His logic and powers as a speaker make him appreciated as an expounder of the gospels.

It will be a welcome change when Mr. Jamieson locates himself in the new store. The telephone switchboard, or central, is in this store and at Mr. Jamieson's gets in, the people of the town will have no use for the telephones which have been installed in their various offices and places of business. The subscribers on the rural circuits are also anxious for the change.

TOFIELD will complete it's premier position among the towns along the G.T.P. It has to-day a thoroughly up-to-date hotel (telephone exchange and two rural lines running out into the country about 14 miles. The telephone exchange is located in Jamieson's drug store in the Hall block. Additions to the number of instruments on the local and rural circuits will in all probability be made before the end of the year. As it is now, any subscriber in the TOFIELD district can call up any town, village or district in the province, having telephone communication.

Lee & Lee shipped several cars of oats to Vancouver during the past several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Logan returned last week from a short visit to Banff and Calgary.

His temporary premises on 3rd Ave. east has been too small to accomodate a very large stock.

Miss Ethel Noland entertained a few friends at a camping party last week, at the old homestead.

TOFIELD FAIR, SEPTEMBER 28TH. EVERYBODY COME AND HELP TO MAKE THIS FAIR A GRAND SUCCESS.

The new press and machinery for the Standard Press, Ltd., has arrived and is being installed this week.

The infant child of Mr and Mrs. John Jevning, Bardo, died last Sunday. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon.

The Methodist S. S. picnic will be held on the 9th of August on the point at the lake east of D. Francis farm.

The north of the district enjoyed several heavy showers during the past ten days which will help the crops to a great extent.

Rev. S. Nicholson of the Methodist Church here, will hold services in the Woodlawn School house, next Sunday, August 7th, at 3 p.m.

F. P. Paradis, sidewalk contractor, expects to complete the laying of the sidewalk from the south to the north sections of the town this week.

The Tofield school board are having several improvements made to the new school building and grounds, prior to the opening of school in a few weeks.

Wm. Thomson last week brought in an excellent sample of new potatoes. They were large and dry and will by the end of the season be a splendid crop.

Mr. Henderson, managing director of the Dobell Coal Co., Ltd., of Tofield, is building an attractive bungalow on the ridge on the coal property, overlooking the townsite.

Wedding Bells are continuing to chime. Mr. Heber Johnson is today being married to Miss Inga Anderson of Bardo section. Their many friends in the Tofield district, wish the young couple a life of happiness and success.

A heavy gale and thunder storm at 4.30 last Saturday afternoon, brought a large number of parties who were out driving, into town on the double quick. The rain fell steadily for the space of half an hour. It did a lot of good.

Mrs. Gallagher and Mrs. Sam Bethel were in town last Monday. Mrs. Gallagher reported that while they had a little hail on Sunday evening no damage was done to either grain or garden vegetables. She brought in an excellent sample of new potatoes.

Small hail fell in several portions of the Beaver Lake district last Sunday evening. Inquiries in all the sections reported failed to reveal any damage to the crops as the hail was so small as not to be harmful. Rain fell in deluges during the crops a lot o. good.

J. A. Charlesworth, late of Saskatoon, has opened a Meat Market on Main St., Tofield, opposite the Queens Hotel, with a well assorted stock of fresh and cured meats. Mr. Charlesworth has had the store freshly painted and generally renovated. He has with him Jas. Smith, also late of Saskatoon, who has been with him during the past several years. They conducted a wholesale meat business at that point.

Tofield Gas Is A Genuine Strike

Drillers Were Looking For Water and Had No Interest in the Discovery.

ENCOUNTERED FLOW AT DEEPER LEVEL

While there is nothing to indicate that the flow of natural gas struck at Tofield may not be all that is hoped for it, it has not been sufficiently developed to determine its commercial value. The well in which the gas was encountered is being driven for water, and gas therefore not the first consideration. No effort was made to develop the gas flow and the gas strata has been ceased off to permit of further drilling for water.

"We were not looking for gas," explained the man in charge of the drilling outfit, "therefore we were not prepared for it. Nor are we equipped to develop gas. There is a big difference in method between drilling for gas and drilling for water. We are under contract to furnish water and that, of course, is our first consideration. The tapping of a flow of gas means nothing to us in a business way, though we fully recognize its value to the town and the community. However, we could not afford to abandon our attempt to get water and confine our efforts to developing gas."

The first flow of gas was encountered at a depth of 930 feet. It was of sufficient pressure to "blow the hole." A pipe was screwed in the top of the well casing and the gas was carried into the building, the pressure being reduced by compression to permit of its being used for illuminating. There was no apparent diminution in the pressure up to the time it was cut off to permit of further drilling operations.

At 235 feet a second flow of gas was tapped, of apparently about the same volume and pressure as the first. This flow was ignored, as the drillers did not wish to lose any more time in their efforts to obtain water. While there is a leakage of gas through the pipe casing and outside the piping, it is not sufficient to hinder drilling operations. The drill is now down 370 feet in a hard shale formation in which there are occasional boulders. It is the intention to go down 200 feet unless a sufficient flow of good water is found nearer the surface. The first flow was struck at 160 feet, but the water was not considered pure enough for domestic purposes on account of the presence of alkalois.

Men accustomed to handling natural gas express the belief that that the pressure obtained through the three-inch and two-inch holes at Tofield is sufficient to warrant the assumption that there must be an abundant supply behind it.

Charles Taylor of Edmonton, who has charge of the development of the Crafts Lee & Gallinger coal fields at Tofield, and who examined the gas flow last week, says:

"My prediction is that at least two of the towns along the Grand Trunk will be lighted with gas from the recent strike at Tofield."

"The formation at Tofield where the strike was made is exactly the same as at Medicine Hat, and I have no doubt but that the strike will prove to be quite as valuable as the wells at Medicine Hat have proved to be."

First Annual Fair

A meeting of the directors of the Tofield Agricultural Society was held in the Ferguson block last Saturday afternoon, President P. B. Anderson of Bardo, occupying the chair. It was decided that it would be advisable to get up an exhibit of the grains and grasses etc., of the TOFIELD district and ask the TOFIELD Board of Trade to use after the exhibit at the Edmonton fair.

With regard to the grounds offered by the G.T.P., one of the present townsite it was resolved to memorialize the G.T.P. Townsite and Development Co., informing them that owing to the youth of the Agricultural Society, it did not feel itself able to purchase these grounds and that it wished to release itself from the position of commercial value. The well in which the gas was encountered is being driven for water, and gas therefore not the first consideration. No effort was made to develop the gas flow and the gas strata has been ceased off to permit of further drilling for water.

The Fair will be held this year on the grounds owned by the Town, the Society getting the use of those grounds free.

The secretary was instructed to make arrangements with the G.T.P. for reduced rates on the G.T.P. for the Fair.

The directors of the society were appointed a committee to look after the gathering of samples for the exhibit at the Edmonton Fair.

The next meeting of the directors will be held on Saturday the 20th of the month.

Benny Anderson of Bardo section, last Monday captured two young deer in the Beaver Hills, west of Edmonton. He brought them home and is bringing them up on the bottle.

W. Rieck and C. Gallinger of the Tofield Coal Co., Ltd., came down from Edmonton last Tuesday, to look over the interests of the company at the mines.

Miss Gertie L. Thor of Ross Creek, who attended the Tofield Public School last term, and who wrote on the Standard VI exam., was successful in passing. Her name appears as one of the successful students. Miss Thor was the only student who wrote here on the Standard VI exams.

Mr. Geo. Hammond, druggist, late of Detroit, is opening a drug store in the new Letourneau block, and will occupy the north half of the double store flat. It is understood that he will put in a stock of jewelry also. He has engaged Mr. Chas Davison as expert watchmaker and repairer and Mr. Davison will move in when the new store is opened.

The spur into the Dobell Coal Co. mine is being completed this week. By the end of the week the steel will be laid. It is expected that the machinery for loading of machinery for mining purposes, will arrive in a few days. As this consignment is coming from Montreal, the strike on the Grand Trunk of the trainmen, has caused an undue delay in it's delivery.

From Regina To Tofield

IN AN OVERLAND

Stephen Golden, editor of the Trail Magazine, published at Regina, passed through Tofield the other day, on his route between Edmonton and Regina. He was travelling in an Overland auto mobile.

TOWN COUNCIL

Council met last night at the office of the secretary treasurer. Communications were read from Mr. Cook and Mr. Studer, requesting the Cary, and Goldie-McCullough Safe companies respectively, offering deals on a safe for the municipality; from Mr. Nauss, tendering his office of town solicitor; from Supt. Brewer of the G.T.P., stating that they would look after the fixing of the Tofield-Calgary fly, crossing, on the east side of 35-50-19.

The Works and Property Committee, and the Fire, Water and Light Committee, brought in reports which agreed in the subject of their recommendations. They advised that a town and fire hall be built as an early date, at a suggested cost of about $2500. The site recommended is 24x40 with basement in which a furnace and room for coal supply be situated, a first floor for a fire hall, two rooms for firemen, two cells and office for town constable; a second floor for council chamber.

Nyal's Vegetable Prescription

Words can but express the suffering that many women undergo from diseases peculiar to their sex. Their delicate organisms, more sensitive than the finest piece of machinery ever known, are easily impaired and unless proper treatment is given damage may be permanent.

Nyal's Vegetable Prescription is unhesitatingly offered to the safest and most efficient woman's remedy. It is no new thing but has been on the market for many years. We ourselves have heard it highly spoken of by many of our customers and knowing the composition as we do, we are sure of its excellence.

Such functional disorders as female weaknesses, leucorrhea, burning drain pains, ovarian inflammation, etc., are those to which Nyal's Vegetable Prescription is peculiarly adapted.

There is better evidence we could quote in asking you so nothing that will not benefit you; therefore, be careful about what we recommend. A bottle of Nyal's Vegetable Prescription costs one dollar and has done, and will, in many a household where it is used, good.

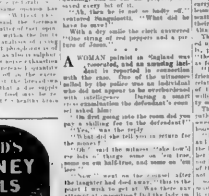
NERVE FOOD

SPEAKING of foods which are be lieved specially to feed the nerves, one might well be tempted to return to eggnog, which, of the many ways in which it can be made, is probably the best nerve food of all. Without it, however, the following recipe, which is highly recommended by a physician who is a well-known authority on nerve troubles, is a most delicious substitute:

Whip gelatine to a stiff froth with a Dover beater. Sweeten a pint of cream with confectioner's sugar and flavor with vanilla. Whip the cream to a stiff froth and add the gelatine and a pinch of salt. Pile in glasses and sprinkle with nutmeg.



Storyettes

A NEGRO was arrested in Atlanta recently according to Lyle on a charge of vagrancy and brought before Judge Bryson. "Boy, what is you name? What have they arrested you for?" Nothin', judge, sayin' fragrancy."

A WOMAN woke up her husband at dead of night and told him a burglar was in the house. "I don't want you to go after him," she explained, "but I do want you to remember that if you find anything missing from your pockets in the morning it wasn't me."

UNDER the heading "cruel and unusual" a country contemporary reports the suit of a Miss Yorke's against the Northwestern Railroad, and makes the statement: "Miss Yorke asserts that she took a freight train at Sandusky and was hissed on the car house by the conductor."

POSTMISTRESS — "Then you like those town names to send you those new fangled surveyor postal cards made out of cardboard?"

Uncle Weatherby—"By hen, you'd ain't so much use swimmin' either, but when they are made out of leather they come in handy for a lot of purposes."

MR. summers grunted at the letter he was reading. "Such foolish! Pulaw er! Stuff!" and laid down the sheet. Then he read, and, Eh!" she ejaculated, repeating the headline aloud. "Here's a big city paper that has its laughers, and th' silly public force all its following nonsense! What a country!"

A SHOE dynamiter slighted from the train at Lynn, Mass., and walked up and down the street. Presently York law entering with a bundle of sealed laundry, and the dynamiter hailed him with: "John, how much for a pair in this here town of Farville?"

"Hlood and thunder mimmie," re plied the Chinese.

A NEW-MADE widower called at the office of an insurance company and the manager met on her husband's policy. The manager said: "I am truly sorry, madam, to hear of your loss."

"That's always the way with you men," said she "You are always sorry when a woman gets a chance to make a little money."

A YOUTH in SAINT GAUDENS used to illustrate the development of an American by a story of the Irish poet. He said that in the "forties a Jack Donnelson built a log house in the black lier. He decided to adorn the logs with statuary, and had Daniel Boone at the Venus de Milo, he wrote to Rome for a copy. The copy duly arrived. It was marble. But the Boston man no sooner got it than he sued the railroad company for $2,000 for mutilation. He won the suit, too.

A STORKEY GENERAL WICKED PILAM, at a dinner in Wilkingson, told of a young headed donator for whom he tries to defend them he gone to prison.

"In fact, he reminds me of an old turn who was brought up before a country judge.

"Judge," said the judge, 'you are accused of stealing Gen. Johnson's chickens. How do you plead?'

"'Na, sah,' old Jethro answered haughtily. 'I hab not sah it in my mind whatsoebber to' witnesses' sah.'"

WHEN down in Texas a man named Washington does all the gunnery work for a family and boasts of having killed his man, he is not likely to be molested. He advertises his game, but keeps the locality strictly quiet. One morning, having heard that a family had moved into town, he turned out the night before, he sent his clerk around to interview the new-comers. He was discovering and in need of assistance. The clerk returned, reporting that the Mexicans did not care the destroyed his dwelling, and as for property had saved every bit of it.

"Oh, then he is not so badly off," lamented Washington. "What did he do for a living?"

"Why, he makes his own tamales and sells them," was the reply.

"Tamales!" repeated Washington with contempt. "Tamales! Why, he don't even know how to spell the word!"

A WOMAN named in Saginaw was "converted, and as amazing incident in connection with the conversion with the case. One of the witnesses called by the police was an individual who did not appear to be overburdened with intelligence. During a short examination the defendant's counsel was asked him:

"On first going into the room did you see a walking fan to the defendant?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"And what did he tell you in return for the money?"

"Oh," said the witness "she low'l I was her uncle, things come on time, some on on half-time, and some on 'em here."

"Now," went on the counsel after the laughter had died away, "this is the point I want to get at. Was there any attempt at opposition? Did he look in a poor spirit at all?"

"Oh dear no!" was the response "I showed him a real gunnuck, so there wouldn't be no opposition. Besides, it was a bad shilling so I gave her to him."

SUPERINTENDENT McCLITH of Hoolet was going around the reporters who had broke shells after the reporter had seen him. The reporter said that he had, but the reporter counted that the "trip was an remote as to be to the point. The surveyor by way of reply told the story: "A young man had been calling upon a girl for some time when the young lady's father asked the man what his intentions were. They are honorable, was the reply, but rather remote."

WILLIAM PUSEY, the composer of the "Star Spangled Banner," at the Empire Theatre, New York, is in the habit of having his own way. He is, however, no match for Mr Chalres Podmore, who several years ago he was working with Mr Podmore over a new production at the Empire Theatre.

"That's too loud, Billy," Mr. Podmore would call out. "I certain might of two."

"I can't help it, governor," replied Pusey, "it's forte."

Then he consulted Mr. Podmore in particular, "that's thirty five."

TOBY D. RUNNEFELLER, Jr., at a dinner in New York, admitted that he was a self-made man.

"Those fist, red faced men," he said, "usually remind me of the old Carthaginian queen of champagne, Bordeaux, who, when asked to choose a husband, hesitantly between Lafayette peach red and Roudabout the sun. They compare the flavors of the two, the soul and the color, the bouquet, the sparkling, only made. It all reminds me of the old Carthaginian queen and her husband.

"Then two little boys were sent to the queen's room to choose a husband. 'Which is the other one?' the queen asked, when the two little boys were out.

"'Please, your majesty,' one little boy answered, 'we were unable to decide. We both of us tried to push the other one out.'"

RELIGIOUS SIDE OF THE SERVANT GIRL QUESTION

THE right to have a domestic servant are agree to be discussed at the Church Congress in Manchester, England, at here and the Anti-White Slave Conference in Paris, to be held coming August. Apropos of these con ferences, the following letter from a mistress is treated at some length by George Robinson in the London Daily Mail. The responsibility of those who engage domestic servants is a very serious one. The sinfulness and want of consideration shown by many employers in their treatment of employees is pointed out in the most forcible manner by the writer of the following letter, which is one of the most religious claims of the servant girl question that we have seen for some time, and one which will not be agreeable to many of our readers. Nevertheless it is well worth their careful consideration:

"Many housemasters," writes Ever ard Carpenter, of Keston, "complain of the insecurity of their servant girls and the uncertainty for their moral uplift—but forget that they themselves, by their whole manner of dealing with them, undermine in them the strongest safeguard force against temptation—the sense of their personal dignity. Let a girl be treated as a human being, and give them respect, that, sacrifice in re turn, and her bowers of degrading the girl who does her menial work. Let her, on the contrary, be treated as if she had no dignity. The word 'servant' is in itself a term of degrading, and the girl who is treated as a servant, be a mere slave, a most dear bath to respectful to men. Shekhel ways to the Christian mistress of the household.

"The lady of the house must endeavor, above all, to find a counterbalance for the humiliation of personal indignities in the form of her servant, furnish occasions for its exercise, create in them it is dor mant, and will force upon the servant to learn the art of self-respect of one's own personality. Nothing is such a way to destroy self-respect as disrespect.

CURRENT

The seasons are set as long as the memory of man runs. Very few horses began to race before they were three years old, and in the middle of October the 3's and 4's year old began in May and raced till the end of November. In those old days horses raced year after year, some of them as long as five seven and even for ten years and won races. Now a champion horse who is put in three one mile heats in a day is considered unusual as a wonder. How in the Encyclopedia Britannica they compare the horses of the turf, the bull ring, and the prize fight. This is interesting, only made. It all reminds me of the old Carthaginian queen and her husband.

"Then two little boys were sent to the queen's room to choose a husband. 'Which is the other one?' the queen asked, when the two little boys were out.

The Tariff

At Saskatoon last Friday Sir Wilfrid Laurier, discussing the tariff question said he considered that the Laurier government had given the people of Canada freer trade. "We abolished the tariff in Canada," he said, "we should have a financial crisis. It would be impossible for us to raise our revenue as they raise it in England. I am in sympathy with the policy of free trade and I am not a protectionist. We stand for a revenue tariff and nothing else."

Co-Operative Legislation

On the subject of co-operative legislation he said: "I see no reason why the privilege given to the retail trader should not be extended to the farmer. What is good for one is good for the other.

"Each man is as good as his principles are. We must first convince ourselves that a given course of action is right for us, or we cannot pursue it freely."

"Most of our principles we accept ready made."—Pastor R. Nicholson, Methodist Church, Tofield, July 31st.

Bards

We have been blessed with a few more good showers and the crops are doing splendidly.

The old-timer's picnic last Friday turned out very well considering the busy time and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves.

The thought of rendering a programme as advertised, had to be abandoned on account of the absence of so many of the ones who were to take part. However, one good feature resulted from the day's picknicking and that was the organization of an Old-Timer's Association in the Tofield district. Mr. Story was the originator of it and it was certainly a splendid idea which has given us the prospects of having a good rousing Old-Timer's picnic annually after this. A farewell speech to Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Black, who are soon leaving here for Oregon, was also given by Mr. Story.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Black, with Mrs. U. James and Mrs. Beier, visited Mr. Barnes last Sunday.

The little baby of Mr. and Mrs. John Jerving died suddenly last Sunday. Funeral was held on Monday afternoon at 4 p.m. We extend our sympathy to the sorrowing parents in their bereavement.

Mr. A. Moon is building an addition to his dwelling house.

Haying is in full swing and as hay is scarce and many after it there is quite a scramble for the article.

B. B. Barkwell has ordered an Overland runabout. We will soon see Ben taking the high spots. He's a fast man, Ben is, when it comes to setting the pace.

Handicapped.

This is Case with Many Tofield People.

Too many Tofield citizens are handicapped with a bad back. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stooping or lifting an impossibility. The back aches at night preventing refreshing rest, and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief, but cannot reach the cause. To eliminate the pains and aches you must cure the kidneys.

Booth's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently.

Mrs. E. Griffith, of Main street, Hepworth, Ont., says:

"A heavy bearing-down pain had settled across my back and sides. There was a soreness in the kidney region and I was often unable to stoop or straighten myself up. Many times each night I would have to leave my bed with the irregular and frequent secretions of the kidneys, and had often been just as done out in the morning as on retiring. A languid feeling would come over me and I would have to let my housework stand. Nothing I had tried would benefit me. I learned of Booth's Kidney Pills and considered I would try them, which I did and soon found the long sought relief. The kidney secretions were soon regulated, my back strengthened and I began to feel better and stronger. I am able to enjoy perfect health since being discharged and feel grateful to Booth's Kidney Pills for what they did for me."

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male in person old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties: Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties: Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

Additional Local

Lee & Lee are shipping oats this week to Calgary and Vancouver.

Mrs. A. G. Fraser and children, of Edmonton, are spending a couple of weeks at Mr. and Mrs. Reitz, Sherlock's.

At the Old Timers' picnic last Friday on the school section east of H. F. Black's, an Old Timers' Association was formed. Old Mr. Anderson, Pt. R. Anderson's father, 89 years of age, was present, and who took a keen interest in the proceedings, was elected Hon. President, Hugh Mitchell, President, A. A. Story, vice-pres. P. R. Anderson, secretary, Miss L. Mitchell, G. H. Owens, and H. N. Whillans, a managing committee. It is the intention to have an Old Timers' Reunion each and every year.

C. E. Jamieson, druggist and postmaster, will move into the north half of the of the Hall block ground floor, in a few days. The post office section will be occupied this week. Mr. Jamieson has installed a new feature in post office fixtures in this town, this being a large number of lock boxes for the accomodation of the public. Each box has a distinct combination and entirely separate from any of the others. Persons may have the use of these boxes at a small figure per year. These boxes are being rapidly spoken for, and any persons desirous of procuring one will do well to see about it at once.

The boards of trade along the railway line should get particularly busy right now and have the proper authorities see that the railways have their fire guards made in such a way that fires cannot get away from the right of way. After such a dry year the farmers and settlers are out on the frontier of settlement as well as many of those nearer the great commercial highways have not a bit too much fodder and other feed for their cattle and horses and it should be seen after that no danger from fires should threaten. The slovenly ness of the law with regard to setting out prairie fires should be most rigidly enforced also.

Police Court

Last Tuesday, Ivan Hays appeared before A. W. Hunt, J. P., on a double charge of creating a disturbance on the public street by being drunk and disorderly. Justice Hunt imposed fines of $5 and costs, and $1 and costs.

Hays was subsequently brought up on a charge of attempting to break jail. The offence took place on Monday evening at the R.N. W.M.P. barracks where he was confined. He had smashed the bars of the cell and had gotten out into the main room. Justice Hunt imposed a fine of three times the amount of $2 and sent him to the cells.

We were in error in stating that the charge against Hays in the afternoon was one of attempting to break jail. The charge was that of destroying government property. Accused pleaded guilty. A $2 fine was imposed and prisoner sentenced.

It now turns out that friends of the accused have succeeded in having the Justice give an order for the release of the prisoner, on the strength of an appeal being made from the conviction, bonds having been furnished, guaranteeing the appearance of the prisoner at the next session of the district, which meets here on October 5th next.

Beaver Lake East

The crop reports showing that everything is lovely enough in inclined localities still continue to fill columns of the papers. We wish they were true. One thing is true the rains of June 20 & July 15 did an immense amount of good. This is plainly evident here and elsewhere. We are very glad of this, for it shows that even with an extremely dry spring we stand a chance of a moderate crop at least. There are some fields of wheat, oats and barley here that are well up to the average, the grain, in some cases, being over 4 feet high.

The Cabbage Patch (Mr. H. Doby's stamping ground) is not as good as usual, but good enough all the same. We paid the Patch a visit recently and enjoyed it very much. Here you find loaded apple trees, currant bushes a mass of fruit, tomatoes as large as one's fist, cabbage, cauliflower, etc., to beat the band. It is plainly evident that the cross-bred apples propagated by Dr. Saunders are going to suit this climate all right. As to the standard hard crabs, our own raisons ought not encourage us as yet to advise others to get them. So far they have only produced about one apple for every hundred blossoms.

The recent accident to Mr. Morrison of Bathgate, gave his friends long great anxiety for some days till favorable news came on the 16th.

The Bulletin said after the Manitoba elections that the Liberals there preferred defeat to victory if the latter had to be attained by the methods used by the Conservatives. Then the devil whispered: "London, Hastings, North Simcoe," etc., in the editor's ear and grinned.

A local paper that publishes a reliable market report is worth a good deal to its subscribers for that alone. That is the Ryley Times is a farce, the type being changed about once in three or four months Rotten eggs!

Messrs. W. H. Stone and J. W. Smith were in Edmonton recently and visited the Board of Trade rooms. Here they were shown samples of wheat, oats, etc. and were expected to about with amazement but they didn't. "Why," said Mr. Stone, "come out to Beaver Lake and I'll show you better samples than any of those." "Beaver Lake? Where's that?"

The editor of the, Edmonton Journal was in hilarious error in the fact that Calgary and other localities have poorer crops than those in the Edmonton district. Don't get too fuzzy old boy. Don't you remember 1906? How good the crops looked, how much better in fact than this year, yet old Berea came down with a snowstorm that left whole fields intact, and knocked the wheat crop into chicken feed. Better have a little sympathy for others, you chump!

E. Hamsher of Copenhagen, Denmark, arrived in Tofield last Tuesday, and was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Fugl. Mr. Hamsher, who is a lawyer in his home-land, is travelling about the American continent on a tour of observation. He came direct from Montreal via Niagara Falls, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Edmonton, to Tofield. He is leaving here in the course of a week, return via San Francisco and inland United States points to New York from which place he will sail for home.

The names of the successful students in the Public School Leaving Exams, Standard V., over all the provinces, have appeared in the Edmonton papers. While we do not know all the names of those trying at Tofield, we have selected a list number from the list as some of those who may have written at Tofield:—Esther I. Aisbetson, Palmer I. Anderson, L. Darrie, Wilmar H. Gold, H. M. Lawrence, Olive Letourneau, V. Nettie Hickner, Herbert I. Shaw, Mary E. Shaw, Francis L. Sherlock, Mildred K. Sherlock, John M. FAMOUS PEOPLE

QUEEN ALEXANDRA
The Sweetheart and Champion of England's Queen

Queen Alexandra, whom Dean Stanley termed "the angel in the palace," has for over forty years endeared herself to the hearts of the British people since 1862, when a girl of sixteen came to her coming 18th, old-fashioned French and Danish court, she landed at Gravesend.

Her early life was passed in extreme plainness and simplicity, because of the smallness of the family income. When she was here, her father, then Prince Christian, had no hope of ever being King of Denmark, for his relation to the reigning king was so distant. He had nothing but his military pay and his with modest dowry. The life in their home, the Yellow Palace at Copenhagen, was peculiarly easy in some. The daughters, Alexandra and Dagmar, who became Empress of Russia, were garments of cheap material cut in the plainest style.

When Alexandra was seventeen, the Prince of Wales, while speaking in one of his friends, jestingly asked to see the portrait of his sweetheart. To advertently the wrong picture was handed to the Prince, and instead of the face of his friend's fiancée, he saw the likeness of "the most beautiful woman in Europe." The future King of England promptly fell in love with the portrait, and said in his marriage two years later

The charity of her early years has ever clung to the Queen, though to its every form she gives the best of it, not for society she has raised title. Her home circle has been her throne, where she has reigned with sweetness and love. Her kindness, gentleness, and unselfishness have been always at the call of need, and since she went to England has been instrumental in raising or causing to be raised over $250,000 for charity.

In one of King Christian's weekly letters to her, he wrote that an elderly lady is waiting to the late Queen of Denmark was dying, and that her son who was to speak again to her dear "Princess Alex." At that time it was impossible for Alexandra to leave England, but a long tender message of love and hope spoken by her into a phonograph, was sent by special courier to Copenhagen. Its arrival a short time before the aged lady's death made her last hour normally happy.

At San Sagham she led the life of a country lady, finding her pleasure in her children, the house, the grounds, her cottages, ministering spirit of mercy. Serene, gracious and beautiful, her life has been quiet, though with a charm of power reaching from the days of sovereignty golden happiness.

The G.T.P. has added another "Pacific" tracklayer to the gang of men in operation and who are due to arrive early in the week.

Mr. Easton, who lives a couple of miles east of town the other day purchased four prepaid tickets from Scotland to TOFIELD for his relatives who are coming out to TOFIELD to live.

A meeting is being held on Tuesday of this week in Camrose of the committees representing the Battle River district and the Tofield Church branch of the Lutheran Church in Alberta, the object of the meeting being the proposed union of the two branches.

Lee & Lee, who own a quarter section of heavy coal-bearing land just south of the TOFIELD-CALGARY, LTD.'s property have applied to the G.T.P. for a 2200 foot spur to be laid from the TOFIELD-CALGARY branch line which traverses their property.

The steel has arrived at TOFIELD for the G.T.P. car sorter which they are installing in their yards here. This will be built at an early date and simultaneously the steel for the additional sidings laid. The grading on this siding has been completed several weeks ago.

Business at TOFIELD station on the G.T.P. is assuming large proportions. A night operator is expected to come on this week. Two additional hands on the TOFIELD-CALGARY hennes this week. This means that considerable extra work will be handled by the operators here. Ties and steel have been arriving at TOFIELD lately for the branch. The fencing gang is waiting for the steel gang to lay track further down the line towards Red Deer from Camrose. Things in general will be humming along the branch line towards Calgary in a few days.

W. L. Crafts of Crafts, Lee & Gallinger, Edmonton, Mrs. Gallinger and Miss M. Heap of St. Paul, daughter of State's Attorney of Minnesota, paid a visit to Tofield last Monday and spent the day. Looking over the pleasant surroundings. Mr. Crafts was greatly surprised with the wonderful growth of Tofield since his last visit two years ago. Miss Heap, who comes from St. Paul, was greatly taken with the appearance of the town and the fine scenery surrounding. They saw some splendid samples of grain grown in this season in the Tofield district which beat anything they had seen at other places this year

Distinguished Visitors Are Banquetted

Hon. P. J. Graham, Minister of Railways and F. F. Pardee .. Guests of Honor

"INTERESTS OF EAST AND WEST ARE IDENTICAL"

Perception by Ontario "Old Boys" Is Voted a Complete Success

Edmonton Tuesday, August 9 1910

The banquet tendered to the Hon. Mr. Graham, Minister of Railways, Canals and Telegraphs and Hon. F. F. Pardee, K.C., Deputy Minister of Mines, at the Alberta Hotel last night by the Ontario Old Boys' Association of Alberta was a huge success.

A long table had been arranged the full length of the dining room and here were the honored guests and the executive of the association. Over the head of the chairman, J. J. Young, was suspended a beautiful Union Jack, and on the walls were hung the flags of the various provinces of the Dominion, and the flags of the United States and Great Britain.

The toast list was an interesting one, and called forth eloquence from a number of those present, as well as the orators from the east. The toast to "The King and Country" was proposed by the chairman of the occasion, J. J. Young, and was responded to heartily by the audience in the singing of the National anthem, and "The Maple Leaf for Ever."

"The Provinces and the city of our adoption" was the next toast on the programme, the same being proposed by the chairman and responded to in a most witty manner by Hon. C. W. Cross and Mayor Lee. Mr. Cross referred to the 15,000 graduates of Upper Canada College who are scattered throughout the world, which number 10 per cent. were in Western Canada. He also referred to the fact that a large number of Canada's foremost men had been natives of Longueuil. Among others whom he mentioned as such were Sir Hugh Allan and Alexander McKenzie both of whom were to a great extent instrumental in the formation of the Dominion.

Mr. Pardee in replying to the toast spoke of the relation of the east to the west and the fact that no farmers are developing the soil like that the time has come when the east must give way to the west in the production of wheat.

The interests of the east are absolutely identical with those of the west and both citizens of the country must be considered alike.

"The call for change is the cry of you and for other things which we realize to be necessities and all these things will come in time, but in making the changes the interests of all must be considered.

Following the toast to Mr. Pardee a toast to Ontario was proposed by Mr. R. J. McKenzie and was responded to by Hon. Mr. Graham in a splendid speech.

The toast to Hon. J. P. Graham, minister of railways and Canals, was proposed by Joseph Clarke.

Mr. Graham in replying to the toast said that he noticed that he was down on the toast list as being from several countries. He supposed that this was because he was a Scotchman, Ontario's son and Canada's What's the matter here go on about it?"

"Why, sir," replied the engineer, "we've passed through the Milky Way, and the propeller's full of butter!"

HE was embarrassed to public speaking, and sounded an embarrassed friend as to how he should it—and in proposing the toast of a distinguished lady's visitor at a function for which he had been commissioned. "It is, he spoke brief," said his friend, "you might sometimes have thought of all the virtues and none of the failings, but it's what he said—briefly. And that is what he said—briefly. Now, I'm afraid I really must be off." "There's no hurry," replied Kitchener answered pleasantly. "You have a train to catch, you know." "But that's just what I have was Bishop's reply. "I was afraid you'd say that!" reported a successful Boer raid on a British armored train on the Delagoa line, only a few miles off Durban had been captured.

THE benevolent looking old gentleman stopped at the sight of the little girl who was standing in a corner of the park, and said in a fatherly tone to the girl in attendance "Is that your little sister, my dear?" "No, sir," replied the girl; "both her dad and me's married."—Punch.

With the Horses

IT is the opinion of Gilbert Thompson, agent for the Boston Work Horse Association, that the motor truck will never completely take the place of the work horse. This state ment is set out by the Boston American following a thorough investigation by their agent Thompkins, who gathered his information in New York and other large cities. He says: "Many heavy dealers in commercial cars and autocar trucks have interviewed on the subject, attention was given to loading and the men who were using them. The conclusion reached is that the motor cannot compete with the horse in the short haul delivery work and the haul of the city, such as in the Eastern service of suburban and out lying districts. Delivery of coal, ice and milk is more efficient and economical than horses can serve for."

One thing is clear, and that is that the increased use of motors is not going to benefit the horse that most needs the benefited. That such conditions will afford no substitute motors for horses where the latter are most needed, and that horses will still be with us, some what, and work horse prices and human wonders should not fear that for their behalf. Many lines of the working traits that should not in allow be put in harness, but the supply of the fair finish usable second hand horses for those lines will be short and all kinds of horses are very high.

Many horse dealers—real ones—there seems to be no possible for years to come, will be able to keep on supplying the legitimate demand—in spite of the automobile and the motor vanes mentioned in this report the horse will still be with us for years to come

TOFIELD, AUGUST 10, 1910.

Wetaskiwin Star-Tofield claims to have made a gas strike. Probably it's just hot air.

People, as a matter of fact, judge others by the standard they set up for themselves. We therefore cannot expect anything else than the usual line of slops as is regularly handed out by our learned friend of the Star.

Speaking about gas—not the kind of our worthy contemporary, the Wainwright Star—but the real thing, NATURAL GAS, that was struck at a depth of 300 feet, just behind the C. P. R. office by Gallie Bros. Main St., Tofield, a short time ago, leads us to say that we understand a proposition is ready to be put before the council by a representative of the large company which has been putting down several holes to depths of several thousands of feet in the city of Edmonton during the past year, and who are by memorandum of a franchise given by the town to this company the right or will undertake to furnish sufficient gas for the requirements of the town. We do not know what the terms will be, but we do know that a number of business men have been approached and have signified their willingness to sign a petition requesting the granting of the franchise. We believe that the town will be benefited by having such an industry established here, and we trust that the council will take early steps to have the matter consummated. We also understand that a number of well known capitalists have been interested in the proposition, and that the extended trip through Canada undertaken by Mr. Hammond, the well known financier, was for the purpose of investigating the TOFIELD district. We congratulate the TOFIELD people on the bright prospects before them, and feel sure that the TOFIELD district will soon be known as one of the most prosperous districts in Alberta.

"A constant prayer will transform any life. We imitate those we are with most. To be much in the conscious presence of God, is to become like God. To spend much time with God, means first, inward joy then outward righteousness joined with usefulness to God and man."—Pastor E. Nicholson, Tofield Methodist Church, Aug. 7th.

MARRIED

NAUNTON-McCUSKER—At 8 a.m. Wednesday, August 3rd, 1910, at St. Joachim Church, Edmonton, Harold Ward Naunton, solicitor, of Tofield, to Mary A. McCusker.

The Coal Companies of TOFIELD are making strenuous efforts in preparations for the prospective opening of the various mines. It will be a short time only until train loads of coal will be being mined daily at TOFIELD. The Bobell Coal Co., Ltd., have had a 1,000 foot spur graded in from a point on the Tofield-Calgary branch, where the latter crosses their property. On this, today, 600 feet of steel has been laid. Mr. Henderson, managing director is in Edmonton this week, looking after the arrangements for the machinery. This is expected to arrive in a few days. A large steam shovel will be used to strip off the dirt from the coal, the latter of which will be loaded direct into cars. This company expect to have a large gang of men at work shortly.

The Tofield Coal Co., Ltd., in which Crafts, Lee and Gallinger of Edmonton, are large shareholders, have been busy at development work for the past several weeks. A 2200 foot spur is being built from the Tofield-Calgary branch into the mines. The rails of this spur are carried right into the mine at a level with the bottom of the coal seam and the train will be loaded with coal without a second handling. The huge steam power stripping machine which was installed last winter, is being used to take the dirt off the coal. With this extensive plant, the company can place the coal upon the cars at a minimum cost, and train loads handled in a day.

Lee & Lee, who own 160 acres of coal land a mile further south, are, it is understood, shortly to lay a spur some 2200 feet long put in from the same branch line into their property, from a point where the line crosses their property. Here too, will be seen a hive of industry during the next few months. The eastern politicians need not lack for an abundance of the needful article for their warming purposes during the coming winter.

Notice to Homesteaders

Owing to the great demand for Railway labor, and the difficulty that is being experienced by Railway Contractors in securing the number of laborers they require, authority has issued from the Department of the Interior to protect to Homestead and Pre-emption entrants until the first day of April, 1911, upon the following conditions:

Application for such protection must be made to the Agent of Dominion Lands for the District within which the land is situated, who will grant same, provided it is known to his satisfaction that the applicant has resided bonafide upon and cultivated his land for at least three years.

K. W. MACKENZIE,
Agent of Dominion Lands.

IN THE MATTER OF ESTATE OF CHARLES A. DAVISON, TOFIELD ALBERTA.

INSOLVENT.

Notice is hereby given that the above named Insolvent, Charles A. Davison, who has been carrying on business as a Jeweller, at the town of Tofield, in the Province of Alberta, has made an assignment of his Estate to me for the benefit of his Creditors under the Assignment Act of the Province of Alberta.

The Creditors are notified to meet at my office No. 237 Jasper Avenue East, in the City of Edmonton, at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon of Tuesday, the ninth of August, A.D. 1910, for the purpose of receiving a statement of the affairs of the above named Insolvent, for the appointment of Inspectors, and the giving of directions with reference to the disposal of the Estate.

All persons claiming to be entitled to rank must file their claims accompanied by Statutory Declaration, with me on or before the Sixth day of September, A.D. 1910 after which date I will distribute the assets thereof having regard to those claims only of which I then have received notice.

Stomach Agony

Abolish the Cause, and Misery and Distress of Indigestion Will Vanish.

Can indigestion be cured? Hundreds of thousands of people who suffer from belching of gas, bilousness, sour stomach, fullness, nausea, shortness of breath, bad taste in mouth, foul breath, nervousness and other distressing symptoms, are asking themselves that question daily.

And if these same doubting dyspeptics could only read the thousands of sincere letters from people who once suffered as badly as they do now, but who have been quickly and permanently cured by the use of Mi-o-na, the mighty dyspepsia tonic, by first removing the cause, they would go to C. E. Jamieson's this very day and get a large box of Mi-o-na tablets, or start themselves on the right road to health at once.

The price of Mi-o-na tablets is only 50 cents, and Jamieson guarantees them to cure indigestion, or money back.

This one box or strawmey people will find in Mi-o-na a marvel of flesh and blood, because it causes the stomach to extract more nutritious matter from the food, which quickly enriches the blood.

'Frisco Examiner Writing Up Alberta

A series of articles on Alberta, its resources and development are to be given wide publicity in the San Francisco Examiner, one of the big papers of the coast state. A correspondent of that paper has just completed a tour of the province, and has written Chief Publicity Commissioner Hotchkiss for data which will be useful to him in preparing his articles.

This is practically the first time that any of the San Francisco papers have gone to the expense of sending a correspondent to our province. The articles and tour of this correspondent will cost the Examiner $2,000, but that paper has readily undertaken the expenditure to place before its readers true facts about the only province in the world that has the golden state of the Pacific coast beaten for climate.

In correspondence with Mr. Hotchkiss the representative of the coast paper states that he has been amazed at the development of the province, and particularly with the climate.

He could not believe that such a climate existed, a climate that was superior to his native state, although that state has been famed for years for it's superb conditions throughout the year.

Others will be a leading tenor an elocutionist and a violinist. Names will be announced later.

REVEALS PLOT AGAINST SPANISH GOVERNMENT

BILBAO, Aug. 8.—Six thousand rifles were seized here last night by the police on board a fast steamer which had arrived from Antwerp, where the great anti-clerical demonstrations are supposed to be being organized. Before the clerical leaders can control the manifestation, the local authorities at San Sebastian had told that the Catholic were planning to take advantage of the Catholic meeting to start a movement against the government.

No statement, however, is made as to which part in the conflict distributing the tag and loaded rifles with arms.

"Oh pardon, Mr Manling, the man greeted, in drunken courtesy. "I was told I would find two here, but since I only see you were with your—your lady friend—"

Phoebe had jumped to her feet.

"Sir!" he demanded.

"Oh, I was only going to say," the other—stepped now, "that I was the lady today as you probably know I was expected to number 141, and I'm ready for a visit from you any time."

Preston laughed and pleasantly.

"I hope to accommodate you with a visit," he replied politely, "as soon as I can obtain Miss Varrie to be my hostess."

The gentleman had stalked her room and out again as the other man was speaking, but had never seen him before. "Miss Varrie!" he echoed, "why, there's nothing to be done! I'll send a register right back down and have it changed at once. Front!" he called, and a boy appeared instantly at the door.

"Front!" he commanded.

"Perhaps," the girl felt herself awaken quaintly, "they sought him with the pond."

"What!" the Englishman asked as he listened. "What's that?"

"You're an idiot, Captain!" Preston had a words came hastily and uncontrolled as they as the group gave way before "friend Heavens, sir," he shrugged a little more calmly, "I am, do anything as well please with me, but don't drag a girl into this fool's business. Eradicating Wild Oats

E. C. Clark, Halton Co., Ont.

Wild oats are hardier and more vigorous than cultivated varieties of cereals, and are rather hard to eradicate once they get into to the soil. They are apt to become troublesome on farms where the growing of grain is carried on extensively. The first point in the eradication of this weed is to be sure and sow pure, clean seed. Wild oats are the most prevalent impurity in western grown grain, and if western seed is used, care should be taken to make sure that there are no wild oats in the seed. In the mature previous to being treated with wild oats may be seeded to grass for his years. At the end of this time, if the land is plowed, no wild oats will not be troublesome.

On grain fields surface cultivation after harvest will start germination of the seeds scattered during the harvest. Any method of cultivation or arrangement of the crops that will induce the seeds in the soil to germinate and prevent the destruction of the plants before they have produced seed will eventually exterminate wild oats.

A short crop rotation with clean cultivation of the hoed crop is the best method of fighting with them and all other weed pests. Seed is given engineers and apprentices also allowed to report on the edges of fields and fence corners and thus the object of much faithful work is defeated.

Don't forget the date, September 28th, when the FIRST ANNUAL SUMMER TOFIELD AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION AND STOCK SHOW will be held.

Dogs and Poultry

Downie's Educated Ponies

Andrew Downie and his company of educated dogs and ponies will be one of the features of the sports. They will exhibit here next season on Monday, Aug. 23rd. Andrew Downie has favorably known as a trainer of animals, and it is said that his company this year is even superior to that seen before. There are 100 dogs and ponies and in the company, all of which has been trained to a remarkable degree of intelligence. In fact it would be almost impossible to devise a more pleasing and instructive exhibition than the one given by Downie and his talented dogs and ponies. The seventy-three dogs which form such an important feature of the entertainment are said to be unusually attractive most of them being snow white. The ponies are the East Indian breed, and are much smaller and more shapely than the Shetland's. There are twenty-six of them and they all perform some unusual act. All of the little animals will appear in the street parade, which will appear on the streets of Tofield, which will be given to-morrow, starting about noon.

Mr Downie's dog show comes well recommended, and it is said to be well worth a visit. The dogs and ponies travel in a special train of cars which will arrive in the early in the morning, and will be open for inspection during the day.

The show is especially attractive to ladies and children, who will no doubt take advantage of the opportunity to see the talented little animals together with many new added features.

We welcome news items of all kinds. Don't be backward about sending forward.

Ross Creek

Miss Miller, sister of Rev. Mr. Miller of Strathcona, is teaching in our public school.

The many friends of Miss Gertie Thor, rejoice with her in the fact of her passing her Standard VI examinations most successfully.

Olaf Wilton and Jack Hains returned last week from working on the railway construction near Calgary. They report very little vegetation south of Stettler.

Miss Minnie McLean was the guest of Miss Thor last Sunday.

Our football boys did not go up to Chipman as intended, last Saturday, to play the return match. Too many of them were busy putting up hay.

Speaking about hay, there was a great scramble for hay when the mass appeared. A number of the people thought that there was going to be a great scarcity of the article. One might well say that everybody in the Ross Creek district will have plenty of hay for this winter. There is an abundance in the Beaver Hills which just skirts the Ross Creek section on the west. Bailey and Thor will have over 100 tons this week. S. Bengtson of Good Hope, is putting up hay at Goose Lake, which he will winter over 100 head of cattle this winter.

Messrs. Anderson, Labrackus, Johnson and Haugen of Bardo, are putting up hay near Blackfoot Lake, west of here. They will winter their combined herds of cattle there this winter.

R. Logan is reported to have secured a permit for the hay at Blackfoot Lake. He will put up several hundred tons here.

Jas Bailey, who was slightly hurt during the recent football match with Chipman, is slowly recovering.

The stork paid a visit, recently, to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Malcolm, bringing a welcome mements, a fine baby girl.

E. R. Hallberg returned from the Dried Meat Lake district, where he spent a month or so, having been working on the railway construction. Mr. Hallberg did very well during the few months he worked at railway building.

Mr. Bailey expects his sister and her daughter to arrive from the east this week, on a visit.

Miss Mabel Hallberg is visiting at Lacombe.

Rev. Mr. Todd, presbyterian minister at Tofield, is to preach here next Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. This is a new departure. We have been neglected many months in the way of ministering to our spiritual necessities. It is hoped that the union of the several church organizations in Alberta west of the spinnion that we did not have one.

Potatoes are going to be an excellent crop in the Ross Creek section this season. The hilly contour of our section provide an excellent drainage for our lands, that the potatoes of this district are noted for their dry and mealy qualities.

CROPS TOO. Ross Creek seems to be the place to take a look at this year in her crops. We have no good crops this year as we have in other years. We have been having an abundance of rain all summer. As a result, the crops are showing an excellent stand. Of fields that we might make particular mention, there are those of Mr. Chambers who has fine crops of spring wheat, oats and barley. J. Malcolm has fields of oats and barley that promise an extra heavy yield. They are belonging to places already S.A. Hallberg has a field of fall wheat which is a pride of the district. P. Thor's fields of oats and barley are in excellent shape. Harvesting will commence here this week.

STRAYED

From my premises, the N.E. 1 Sec. 16-49-19, about five weeks ago, a dark grey horse, 5 years old, rope around neck. Last seen about 2 miles west of Bardo. Reward will be given for information leading to recovery.

VOLUME III — TOFIELD, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY AUGUST 17, 1910 — NO. 52

LOCAL

Mr. and Mrs. Abbott of Vegreville, visited their son, Mr L. Abbott, Tofield, last week end.

Council was to have met last night. Councillors Fugl, Story, Abbott and Ferguson were present. That's all. Nobody else. No business was done.

Miss Zoe Flanis, who has been visiting friends in Wetaskiwin, returned last Saturday. She was accompanied by her cousin, Miss F. Dayton of the Wetaskiwin Times staff.

We had a grand rain last Sunday night. Just what was needed to fill out the grain to a nicety. The hay crop will not suffer either from the splendid tidings. It will grow quite a bit yet.

J. A. Veasie, B.A., principal of the Tofield Public Schools, returned from Ontario last Friday evening, having enjoyed a well earned vacation. He brought with him his sister, Miss Veasie, who will make a stay out here for several months.

A very quiet, and successful social event was held in the Methodist parsonage, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of that church, on ——— pleasant evening was spent in a very pleasant manner, and during which an entertaining programme of musical and song was rendered.

At Holden recently, the citizens formed a mutual improvement society, and gave the organization the appellation "Locomi." We trust the good citizens of Pretty Growing Holden, will be much improved through the agency of the "Locomi" society, and that the next writing is to be held at the Criterion Hotel.

Hon. Frank Oliver says that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the only realistic statesman of Canada. Sir Wilfrid could not make a trip through Western Canada without it causing such. Sir Wilfrid says however, that before coming west he was an optimistic statesman, but now he is an enthusiastic statesman. He has caught somewhat of the western fever.

Mr. J. Kee, late of Toronto, Ont., and more recently from Pilot Mound, Man., Merchant Tailor, who has commenced business in Tofield after carrying on business in the following towns along the G.T.P. east-west will shortly open up a shop for the purple if this town in Tofield. Mr. Kee is an artistic tailor, as his work will find in Mr. Kee just the man they want here to fix up their suits. Mr Kee is building a new shop.

Our attention has been called to the fact that Prairie Chicken are being shot within a short distance from the heart of the town. Now everybody knows that the season is not open for chicken yet. The law prohibits it should be. There is no reason why persons should wantonly break the law. The law is enforced. It should be observed. Infringements should be severely dealt with. Birds, game birds under, be a sport and give the birds a chance to shoot.

We make something more about the necessity of civic organization on the part of the country villages against prairie fires by prairie fires this fall. Owing to the extremely dry state of the country is going to be greater this fall. Boards of Trade about the railway lines should see to it that the railways have sufficient fire guards cut along their lines of railway. Settlers should take particular care that their buildings and stacks are guarded with good and lawful firebreaks.

Good Crops

In Tofield District

The Free Press special crop inspector, E. B. Parker, paid a visit to Tofield last week end and took a drive all through the TOFIELD district. He was very strongly impressed with the evidences of an abundant harvest. Many of the fall wheat fields were already in the stook, and several fields of spring wheat and oats were cut. The fall wheat and barley which in Mr. Parkers estimation, will give an excellent average yield to the acre as will also much of the oats.

The Free Press in its crop report this week of the west, says in regard to the TOFIELD district:—

Tofield, Alta., Aug. 14, 10

"Coming from Edmonton this morning, I found that the heavy rains there of Saturday night had not touched this district, but during the nigh the country this afternoon with P. N. Whillans, publisher of the Tofield Standard, we were overtaken at about 7 o'clock by a heavy rain and at the time of writing, there is every indication of it continuing throughout the night.

The country around Tofield is known as the Beaver Lake district, and has had for a number of years a great reputation as a grain growing and mixed farming country. This year they will also realize a good crop, particularly in wheat. Four times as much land was put in there to-day as was in crop last year, and fall wheat sown in the spring is in stage and also in average. But both are good and will average in the neighborhood of 25 bushels.

There is every variety to the oat crop. I saw some fields that were ripe with wheat. I have been interested to inventive enough, and I can only say that if I come again, whether in two and a half or in five years, I will find the farmers year estimate that I would find a population of fifty thousand people.

The Growth of Edmonton.

Mr. Whillans addressed me the first time the population of that day was about seventeen thousand, with reserved counting, as per Friend Mr. Oliver has it. When I visited it again in 1905 it had increased only from two thousand to five thousand; and again, according to Mr. Oliver, by good authority, to-day the population is twenty-five thousand, whether it is correct or not, in two years and a half years the population will be doubled. Edmonton is the centre of a rich agricultural district, and in regard to the country.

Edmonton is the natural one for the West I have become more Canadian than at any time before. In the autumn of 1905 I had intended visiting Ottawa, but was prevented from doing so by the many stacks necessitated being scattered profit to the farmer this year. A forward crop is also an outside attraction. I accept its employment. Whatever I thought then I left Ottawa I thought that I was an optimistic statesman, but now I must say that I am an enthusiastic statesman.

The Best of All Lands.

Last year I was in Australia, in Tasmania, in New Zealand, and in the Canadian West. We have the best of all lands; we have the best of all climates; we have the best of all institutions.

During the same address of the municipal council I noticed another paragraph to which I would like to refer. Only a few years ago Canada was regarded by many little better than a known; in the thought of the many Canada was a place to go to when you could not get on elsewhere. Within the last few years, however, it does not pay to be a man of that kind. Canada is now a country where men of ability and energy can get on. We are proud to say, and to be proud of the fact, that we have a country where men of ability and energy can get on. We are proud to say, and to be proud of the fact, that we have a country where men of ability and energy can get on.

Tofield opened with a full house on Monday morning. Mr. Veasie wishes it understood that he is opening a Standard VI class and all who wish to enter should do so at once.

Misses Grace and Ethel Cameron of Toronto and Lochmer, Ont., are the guests of their sister, Mrs. C. E. Jamieson.

Warden M McCauley and Mrs. McCauley of Edmonton, came down to Tofield today.

Must Accept Responsibility of the Free

Canada as a Self Governing Nation Must Bear Her Share of Responsibility for Its Defence

Stirring Address by Sir Wilfrid at Edmonton

The magnificent reception accorded Canada's most distinguished statesman last week in the Capital will long be remembered by all who had the good fortune to be present. As the years roll on, the younger generation will look back with no small degree of pleasure to the memory of the speech made by their premier. We premised in our last issue to publish this week, the memorable speech made by the man who is honored by all parties and revels throughout the length and breath of this Glorious Dominion. The mass meeting at which thousands were present, took place in the Thistle Rink. Hon. C. W. Cross presided. Rousing speeches were made by Hon. Mr. Sifton, Premier of Alberta, F. Pardee, M. P., and Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, prior to Sir Wilfred Laurier's stirring address.

SIR WILFRIED'S SPEECH.

Sir Wilfrid said: You, sir, in the remarks with which you opened the meeting, were kind enough to mention in invitation which I would be glad to accept. It was that I should again visit this city. And you said that if there is one thing that is always changing, while undergoing a constant growth, it is Edmonton. Well, I am glad to see that the growth has been such as to justify the remark. Twenty years ago, when I was last here, Edmonton was a small place, and I am sure you will not be offended if I say that it was not the Edmonton of to-day. Twenty years ago, I was in the midst of the campaign of 1891, and during which an entertaining programme of music and song was rendered.

A Lesson in this evidence some old heads. There are not many old men in Western communities, and the things which can surprised us during our last through the western country is that we see so many young men. There are here and there some old heads, almost all of whom I suppose came from the old provinces on the Atlantic coast. They will remember the struggle of their forefathers in the interests of responsible government, the struggle to be admitted to the privilege of governing the matters which are in a manner peculiar to ourselves, as a province within the British Empire. They will remember the efforts we have made in 1905 to bring about unity, when names have become household words in the Dominion—Alexandria, Pugsleau, Lafontaine and others.

The Struggle for Autonomy.

The struggle for autonomy, as I call it, the one that came from the old provinces, resulted in the only way to obtain the recognition of the principle of responsible government.

The principles of responsible government are to-day the basis of union with the Mother Country. We Canadians have imitated the principle by which it is possible for the colonies to become a nation without severing the connection with the parent state. It is the glory of the Canadian people that they have been instrumental in introducing the principle which is to-day the basis of the rules and guiding principle under which the British Empire is governed.

Objections Swept Away.

Many step taken in that direction were met with objections and arguments from those who were elderly, from those who were timid, but those objections were swept away by a free people, and to-day we are enjoying the benefit of their struggles in that direction.

What we are a nation at the present time, however, it does not prevent that our task is accomplished, it does not follow that there is nothing else to be done. No. It is our duty to go on in the same direction. There is a difference between a province and the other nations in the world. We are a province, but we are not altogether a nation. We are proud to say, and to be proud of the fact, that we have a country where men of ability and energy can get on. We are proud to say, and to be proud of the fact, that we have a country where men of ability and energy can get on.

Canada's Glorious Climate.

The climate of Canada is the glory of Canada. It is the climate of Canada which makes the No. 1 hard wheat. It is the climate of Canada which puts the bloom upon the cheeks of the better half of the audience. I see before me tonight. Is there a man in this audience who does not agree with me?

When I rise in the month of June or February and see the smoke rising in the atmosphere one hundred feet above the chimney perpendicularly in the clear, cold, still air, I know that it is this bracing atmosphere that makes our strong men and beautiful women.

In Canada it is cold in winter but it is warm in summer, as also we know, and the land of fruit is also the land of strong men and of beautiful women.

A Land for the Strong.

This country has not been made by God for cowards, for it is the immense ice for the laggard. We say so much. We have no business here, we have no right and no mission. In this world God has endowed with certain gifts one way, others in another country. Come with me and we will find your labor worthy of better in any other part of the world."

A Message From Manning

"Oh! by the way, Parker," Preston added, "I had to notify your stable and stevedore bottoms this way, too!"

The purser looked sheepish before he answered. "I—I'll get it out before landing. But there is a note at ground tackle on the bottom of the bill, Mr. Preston, which you did not see."

Preston caught up the papers and glanced over them quickly.

"I'm aware!" he cried. "Mr. Manning not only returns the thousand dollars I sent, but he also considerately pays over the pilots he no longer has use for! I'm aware of that, and of this in pencil, personal, private, and a good deal profane! I've seen much to you, Parker, but not at explaining anything apparently, including the little matters which you have marked as rather publicly yesterday—at 11 by 4 was as well send it all to—to—hang it!—and rather hard on me."

"Mr. Preston, he begins"—

"I'm giving my whole best evening to this low, cruel thing, but I fear many things must be explained. But to be fair to you let me assure you that I am not far from the first person I have peg-ged up for profit. Nor need you suppose that I minded you in all matters. Actually, as I told you, once—they are an exercise of mine, who get together quite a fortune in trifles—I have had for four years all the pickings for food and flowers for the cathedrals in the Kingdom. And exactly as I told you, I proposed this practice upon her decorators and made it perpetual with the help property. A bet more perpetual than the property, indeed, for, when the last cat gut down to me, about all I could use in it was my pious memories to the name of rare profit for me in making a war of the cathedrals."

"Of course, I'd been living by my talents for ten years or so before this! In my time I've done my bit at almost everything, and parted my more than a few tricks like telegraphing, etc., to help on in my voyaging. And just before I made a slight slip, which made it advisable for me to stay out of London, the money, and, what I needed something to take home you, a hurricane about a bit and some fun about the cathedral service, I knew, at the same time, my name would be on to the hereditary executor that I would find some profit from using these terms, I thought I would try it.

"I must say that, from the first, the puzzles of the case proceeded my most magazine speculations especially when they could be so easily taken for a hoax. I had to keep myself from being suspected. And, obviously, both the safest and surest way to turn away suspicion from one is to turn it upon some one else. So, you see, I have hastily been carrying out with you, Mr. Preston, but, the first hour of leisure, you, one that some one else is suspected, the most so reputable.

"From before St. Albans, I noted your extraordinary actions in the cathedral rooms, and, though I suspected my first opinion, that I was interested in other explorations, you might become to me. Therefore I was careful to collect the different incidents of my tour only when you were conspicuously absent, and let the logic of events take care of themselves."

"When you passed with me at St. Albans, of course, it mightily complicated matters. And when I saw that you seemed to positively delight in the entertainment of being suspected, I wrote the letter to the News at Ely, suggesting to the paper and to the police the simple theory of the theft—the theft which I thought I had put so cleverly that it was roughly suspected. You will remember that my letter also convinced them that my interest was the fellow doing something. So, when they wired about the confirmation of that theory, from every town where the thefts occurred, your name was immediately wired to them, I, being an Englishman, was not noted on this connection.

"I may say further, that the deeds and interest which I had myself made and taken in the part I was playing against you was only increased by the lively de fiance of you by the delightful young friend, Miss Yarris, to which you had invited me at Ely. That suggestion of the letter to her, in case of trusting to her the precious locations, she took in love; and I have the polite hint of valid from I knew, therefore, that Miss Yarris's interest was a matter of policy. It became a point of honor, also to place her out against her will, and, though I really hated to rob so charming a young girl, I decided to treat as soon as possible the concerns of her sometimes to me, and, therefore, I reserved them of their things in such a way that, if they themselves would not suspect you, they must, at least, throw the entire suspicion of the police upon you.

"And now let me confess to you the very sincere admiration I felt for the young girl who had so cleverly put herself into—I'm sorry, but I must say it—into a position of suspicion. I was not quite sure beside the investigation how I had started against you.

"Originally, of course, such as I would have used to let up on you then. I could not come with the lessons to clients in her hand. And by merely tracing down every baggage after you went for it and by making my hands in it as unobserved as possible, I kept the police from myself by still keeping on their after you, of course, however, consistently they kept at you, they would never get anything against you.

"But I was not sure of you, and I was not sure, therefore, that you were to the police. But when I finally received you, in Plymouth I was ready to leave England, and could see you better in above and more conscious—in question with me, I might say.

"I was very glad, then, to meet you at breakfast and find out exactly how matters had been at your end. And I prepared and primed you, as you may remember, for the questions which were to follow. I need not say that I entered into the game with added zest when I found that my many bet cap able opponent was again at your side.

"And the next morning, to the time, though I felt that she was commencing to better formulate her ideas, I felt no sure that she would not comprehend the entrapment which alone seemed to threaten my immunity and freedom to leave the country—the"—

"Yes, as I explained the operation of the system to her that morning, I did not point out the essential weakness of it—"system to the communications—the confusion which I had determined to em ploy, viz., the impossibility of any re covering station knowing from what station a message originated.

"I explained that morning to her that any "wireless" station can receive from all directions and establish communication with any other station within a reasonable distance—but there is no certain way of identifying the wave from a certain station.

"Therefore, as I had already recog nized the dangerous possibilities con tained in the "wireless," I did not for get the little incident which happened above me that night I put Mr. Harcourt aboard the Baltic. In fact, I very scrupulously visited the "wireless room and, by carefully noting the ap plings, objectively watched that room for the time, I already prevented the "wireless" from being used against me, I made it doubly safe by forcing it against you, and doing.

"Therefore, when we reached Pat ten, and the police and all the town be hind had assembled at the new "wire less" station, I simply entered the old station and, by graduating the current from the engine, I had the pleasure of cut Land's End, I replied to the Baltic, and sent to your description in detail to the police. But one thing destroyed the full effect. In the turn that more I sent, I saw that you had hurt your wrist, and I must that silver bag, and from your description I knew that your wrist was sprained so as to establish your ownership when Miss Yarris that you showed your at once with her clever ness.

"I didn't find out that morning by your absence the sights of the houses from me. But, as it was later than she did, I was very glad, in deed, to find her with you upon this vo cation, and to meet me in a final contest. And, really, I began to regret that to best and constantly to take revenge to the "wireless," which she natively served, I knew, but which she never understood.

"So, as long alone suspected me and yet could bring nothing against me, I was sure that employing the same simple mechanism of the "wireless," which helped me on at Pulpero—

"The first "wireless"—messenger—the one which warned the capitals of the Republic to be ready to receive you from shore and was been fake. The me ceeding messages, until the one from Vantaskret, were mine, and manipulat ed in this simple manner"—

"Since the ship has but one "wire less" operator, he was often out of his cabin. Now, I had been given free ac cess to the "wireless" room, and, when the operator was absent, I simply sent messages to myself.

"I knew that I composed a message in the wireless operator's name and sent it when I needed it. Of course, I took care that the operator received no word of it. But the "wireless" operator is not the only one who receives messages, and the other suppose that all messages are received by him.

"As we approached the American coast I was ready to repeat the same operation via the St. Petersburg. And, done old thing, I sent the "wireless" to have put it over you so violently three days ago particularly that you would go up as I did today—for the mere carry ing out of my plan. As you know now, I had to do it to get off the ship myself. Really, I had to, you see, I rather feared, as it developed, that the bandit would have me from a certain bread, and that my true character might be discovered. But the other simple plan of my being put off by the Kaiser Wilhelm and then picked up and rushed it across. Truly, I felt that I had earned a rest for some time to come, and I have the polite hint of valid from I knew, therefore, that Miss Yarris's interest was a matter of policy. It became more than a matter of policy, it became a point of honor, also to place her out against her will, and, though I really hated to rob so charming a young girl, I decided to treat as soon as possible the concerns of her sometimes to me, and, therefore, I reserved them of their things in such a way that, if they themselves would not suspect you, they must, at least, throw the entire suspicion of the police upon you.

I need not say that I entered into the game with added zest when I found that my many bet cap able opponent was again at your side.

"Thank you, sir!" The captain turned to consult with the others.

Young Preston drew the girl aside. She had listened and found him an already ears

"What else does he say?" she asked haltingly

"That which doesn't concern the captain or the others!"

"Oh!"

"Still, he says he is glad that his letter gives with no squeeze to have been of assistance in bringing about [illegible] happy result toward which, he says, he has labored earnestly."

"Is that all else he says?"

"It's enough some sort of a queer line here as a postscript. It seems to have been scribbled in pencil after the rest was written.

"'Dear P.,' he says, 'believe me, I hated especially to have to use Miss Yarris's property for my plan like that, but did—the despatchboring and robbing again, and all. Of course, I have to pay for her things, which I have every in tention to do, but I'm afraid I've lost her back as well as—as—and, as to me for her sake.'"

"Yes," the girl murmured vaguely.

"Why? The other caught her up quickly. "Why?" She did you ask he said was more and—and why did he say that?" he demanded. "Let me see the page he gave back to me! Why—why, Dagrey! Here!" he exclaimed, thought that only two were taken."

"Only two were"—

"Oh, then he meant to make things, sir!" with two by giving you more than Preston wondered at first. "But no!" he added, "that won't do, for I saw him take them as well as me, and, to me for her sake, and, to me for her sake!"

"Yes," the girl answered vaguely.

"Why? The other caught her up quickly. "Why?" She did you ask he said was more and—and why did he say that?" he demanded. "Let me see the page he gave back to me! Why—why, Dagrey! Here!" he exclaimed, thought that only two were taken."

What kind of a ring is that—let me see it! I must that silver bag, and from your description I knew that your wrist was sprained so as to establish your ownership when Miss Yarris that you showed your at once with her clever ness.

"I didn't find out that morning by your absence the sights of the houses from me. TOFIELD, AUGUST 17, 1910.

Are our councillors men of right calibre for the transaction of the business they are elected to look after? Do they realize the responsibility that the duties of their office demand? Do they realize that the interests of the whole community are in their hands? Have they considered the great good that can be accomplished by the men and women who have sought them. Dogs, ponies, goats, pony hunts and even the indigent tramp are all scholars at the same school with which will be in session when the show comes to these lands.

THEY ARE THEY ASLEEP?

I suppose that fully ninety per cent of the town people are in favor of such a show, but how many will take the trouble to express their opinion? Any man who does the possibilities of the enterprise which have arisen through the recent discovery of coal on the lands of the Edmonton and who does not do so is failing in his duty to himself and to the community in which he lives.

When God created a world, he did not create it perfect and complete, but in a chaotic form and left nature to develop it. When he had put us, he does not at once make us perfect and complete, but gives us a life that we are to foster and development beauty, and use. Pastor S. Nicholson, Methodist Church, Tofield, Aug. 14

Educated Animals

Man's two most faithful friends and the friends that most of them adore the most, are dogs and horses. Authorities have been generous enough to admit that dogs are a notch or two higher on the scale of man and the sense they have is called instinct. They will not give either credit of possessing brains, but there are times when they exhibit more sense than do some that have been credited with having an abundance of the gray matter. This is true with the horse and dogs that are with the Bostock World's Best Dog and Pony Shows, World of Wonders and Trained Animal Exposition, which will be here on Monday, August 22nd. Trained in hardly a babbling term for the intelligence of these animals. In fact they are not trained, they are educated. These wonderful canines and equines furnish a performance in which all the acts, usually seen with the largest circuses and performed by the leading lady and gentlemen artists, are duplicated and with a vim and willingness that is wonderful when the sagacity of these little creatures is considered. There is not that look of spirit with those brutes that is conspicuous when the whip has been made the power to train. The animals with this show have not been taught by fear, but by kindness. They love to show just how well they have been trained at the circus men and women who have taught them. Dogs, ponies, goats, pony hunts and even the indigent tramp are all scholars at the same school with which will be in session when the show comes to these lands.

WARNING

Since its introduction into Canada the sales of Parisian Sage have been phenomenal. This success has led to many imitations similar in name. Look out for them, they are not the genuine. Now that the girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. You can always get the genuine at C. E. Jamieson's.

Parisian Sage is the quickest acting and most efficient hair tonic in the world.

It is most invaluable to Dr. Sanford and a Paris) proves the story that dandruff, falling hair, baldness and scalp itch are caused by germs.

Parisian Sage kills these dandruff germs and removes all traces of it, and in two weeks or money back, it stops falling hair and stimulates a new growth of hair.

And remember that baldness is caused by dandruff germs, those little, hardworking persistent devils that day and night do nothing but plug into the roots of the hair and destroy its vitality.

Parisian Sage is daintily perfumed hair dressing, not sticky or greasy, and any woman who desires luxuriant or beautiful hair can get it in two weeks by using it. 50 cents a large bottle.

Peter Olsen was buried last night at seven o'clock, as we could get no minister, Mr Karges buried him. Mr. Olsen died Wednesday morning between three and four o'clock. He was 58 years of age and came out here four years ago last March, from Minnesota, U.S. He leaves a wife and three children Christian, who is 18, Eva 14, and Willie 5. Henry, a son aged 11, died on the 21st of July, and was buried the same day. Both Father and son died of same complaint. Mr. Olsen was well liked and leaves many friends.

Some of the farmers had their grain cut this week.

R. Karges from Wisconsin, U.S. is visiting his brother, Mr. A. H. Karges.

James Ahsley, who was fixing a hay rake last week, let a part fall on him and it hurt his back. He crept from where he was to Bill Lennie's, a distance of about three quarter of a mile. Mr. Ahsley is in Tofield under a doctor's care.

Marmaduke, son of Mr Bailey, was bitten by a dog last Saturday, as carrying his arm in a sling, but is getting better. Although it was the dog's first offence, his owner shot him.

There is a great rush with the haying at present, and the hay about here is now either down or in stack.

Track Laying Gang Back on G.T.P. Grade.

The signs of old time activity on the G.T.P. grade south of Camrose are seen today with the large track laying machine again in operation.

H. G. Jamieson, assistant to W. E. Mann, divisional engineer, and R. J. Godfrey, foreman, arrived on Tuesday evening with 100 men, having come direct from the G.T.P. camps at Wolf Creek, west of Edmonton. From Tofield the men brought with them a new track-laying machine, which has just been shipped from the G.T.P. shops at Rivers, Man. The machine had to be partly dismembered in transit with the result that the men spent all day yesterday getting everything in shape. It is expected that the laying of rails will commence this afternoon and continue at the rate of about three miles a day until the Red Deer river is reached. The laying of the rails is a sight worth seeing.—Canadian, Camrose.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, in Edmonton last week said that he considered the Edmonton district an ideal one for the dairy industry. We see where Mr. Grahame was right. And he had not seen the large number of cream cans that leave Tofield daily well filled, either.

A WISE OLD TOAD

THERE was a wise old toad that lived for more than thirty-six years in a hole beneath the base of a fresh farmhouse.

He sat in a way where flies used to come in out of the cold probably lived a long time—at least as insects go—but the night came unbeknown to the toad that he was about to end his days in a most horrible manner.

The step became the bathroom—a fearful place, where with little or no light reigned the gods which patronized the evening and morning of the toad, hunting for his supper, came to be regarded as one of the sights of the neighborhood, and certainly the skill and manner in which it used to win delicate morsels became entitled to be to be called an expert.

For one thing it showed wonderful activity in jumping, for the tongue was accurately aimed at until the insect was within a few inches of the toad. The extent of the creature's aim was astonishing, and the insect that had been gazed at by its enemy often fell victim before it could move. Instances of two insects being caught with one dart of the tongue were recorded, but the toad was not particular about the number it caught at one time.

The insects with which the tongue came in contact were struck senseless. The toad then proceeded to draw the victim into its mouth, and it is said that it never failed to get a firm hold of the morsel and then the lashing of its tail.

The action was that of the tongue, with the victim pressed on the tip, was not less remarkable. Notwithstanding the rapidity with which the tongue was withdrawn, the victim was certainly assisted in its passage by the tongue, which was held in the form of the tongue of the mouth,

New Norway Station Assured by G.T.P.

Officials Make Definite Statement—Merchants' Bank Gives Daily Service—New General Store.

Letters have been received by New Norway Board of Trade from E. J. Chamberlin, general manager of the G.T.P., and H. H. Brewer, A. Howard, and other friends, general superintendent of the com- pany, confirming the statement with the Merchants' Bank that a station at New Norway which was given some months ago. Mr. Chamberlin remarks in his letter that New Norway is one of the most promising points for station along the line of the Tofield-Calgary Branch, and the statement is definite a modern letters that they will arrange, as soon as it can be done, a number wagon hauled by compressed coal after the track reaches there, to build a station at New Norway. In the meantime "Watch New Norway Grow."

The Merchants' Bank has this week opened a regular daily service with H. C. McLean, formerly of Camrose branch, as manager, and W. L. Whitlaws as accountant. The farmers will appreciate this effort on the part of the bank to give them a first class service.

TOFIELD, AUGUST 24, 1910.

This week the Edmonton district has been visited by a general rain and snow fall. Coming after the long-continued dry weather, the soft rain was welcome. Although in a few districts it came just when harvesting operations on fall wheat, the threshers as well as the farmers as well as the stock will be benefited. Fall wheat is looking splendid, and a bountiful storage of moisture which will be of untold value to the growth of fall wheat. The abundance of moisture which has been stored up in the soil so early in the season, especially in the south parts of the province is this being felt. There the farmers have been waiting for this to do their fall wheat seeding. No matter how dry the weather may be from now until the end of this season, sufficient moisture will have been stored up in the soil to ensure good germination and food enough to promote a strong growth before frost sets in.

Alberta seems to give every one a turn. For many years the farmers of the province has been looking for a crop of spring wheat to make good. Last year the spring crop failed and the fall wheat was the only crop that could be depended upon. This year the spring crop is fair, but the fall wheat is a failure. Next year will be another year of spring wheat, for it is invisible. Meanwhile, the farmers of Alberta will be content with any crop that will feed their stock, and be fit for shipment to new Ontario, or failing that will feed the stock and make a couple of car loads of hay for sale or stock, thereby doing the prairie farmer a favor, and laying the foundation for great things later on. He does not even frown when the rain stops haying or harvesting for he has been working so hard for the last few weeks, he needs a day of duck shooting. And then those rains will help the roots, and sprout the fall wheat he has put in. Then fifth—dollar hay makes those doughnuts look valuable and if they do not get a good soaking this fall they won't yield so well next year.

Surely the man on the prairie won't complain if his frowned in the hills has he turn now, and if the season that bosses the land of the bush and hills, hits him rather hard, let the man of the dry belt remember that he has had his turn, and there is still another chance coming.

"Christ asks the services, not only of those who are avowedly his servants, but of those who are not. His aim is to draw all men unto Himself, and no man at the same time be intentionally in His service, and be his enemy."—Pastor S. Nicholson, Methodist Church, Tofield, August 21st.

Under the heading of "Appointments" in the Alberta Gazette of last week, the following appears: "Justices of the Peace—Alfred Fernsley Pugh, of Tofield, Robert Norman Whillans, of Tofield."

The new Masonic Hall will be turned over to the lodge on Sept. 1st, and a grand opening concert will be given on the evening of the 5th (Labor Day). The committee in charge is sparing no pains in making this entertainment a treat to all lovers of high class music and singing. The plan of hall is at Mr. C. E. Jamieson's drug store, where tickets will be on sale.

J. D. Walker of Owen Sound, Ont., and J. Osborne of the same place were guests of the latter's brother, B. Osborne, of 7th Ave. this week. Messrs. Walker and Osborne are making a trip throughout the West looking for openings in their line, contracting and building. Tofield looks good to them and they have good reason that from the looks of the country around as well as the appearance of the town, the Tofield district will be one of the most important in the province. It is possible that they will locate here.

Beaver Lake East

Harvesting went on apace till the storm of the 21-22 stopped the binders for a couple of days.

So the Free Press correspondent calls the country surrounding Tofield known as Ge Beaver Lake District". We always thought we had a share in it; also all the other settlements around the Lake.

What awful stuff some correspondents swallow anyway. One lady visitor got lost in the Grain Growers' Guide, said that from the Hotel at Winnipeg was 800 miles, that averaged fifteen feet a day. Lunacy? I wonder if the lady knows what lunacy is?

Dan McCallum arrived home from the old country on the 20th. We haven't heard whether he "struck it" while there, or not.

Mr. Munro, who bought the fourth half section of 21-52-17W.4, has almost completed his house. Edwin Auld who has bought land here also, is expected out shortly with his family, to camp for a month or so.

We notice that the crowd at Mundare on the 8th, is figured all the way from 1500 to 5000. Our estimate of five hundred may have fallen a little short, but not much. Aug. 23, '10

Loyal True Blue Organization

On Saturday, August 20th, Geo. A. Dixon and wife left on the evening train for Edmonton to organize a Loyal True Blue lodge in this city, he being the District Organizer for Alberta. The organization was held in the Macoleb Hall, Namayo Ave. The meeting was opened with a full house, there being about thirty five ladies and fifteen gentlemen present. This lodge will be known as Welcome Lodge No 67, Edmonton. After the initiation ceremonies, the election of officers took place and resulted in a good staff of officers being chosen. They were then duly installed by the District Organizer. This is the first lodge the Organizer has had the honor to open in Alberta and it is his hope to shortly have the privilege and honor of instituting a lodge in Tofield.

Labor Day Picnic

A picnic is being held at Hellman's on September 5th, Labor Day, half way between Ross Creek and Chipman. The Chipman and Ross Creek Football teams play a match at the picnic and will be an interesting affair.

A number met in the Methodist church on Tuesday evening to arrange for meetings for amusements and recreation during the winter evenings. A library club, a debating club, a reading room, and other matters were discussed but no organization was effected. Committees were appointed to arrange for a program, for another meeting to be held next Tuesday evening, consisting of a debate, [illegible] and music after which it is expected an organization will be effected.

Council Meet Tonight

Mayor Ledgerman went up to Edmonton last night and as a consequence, council having matters of great importance on hand, did not meet. Architect Simpson of Wainwright was in town with plans & particulars re the proposed town hall fire hall and met the committee having charge of this department and who will report at a special meeting of council tonight.

Taking Up Land In Tofield District

Farmers of Right Sort Coming In

Prospects Bright

The soil, climate and steadily advantages, natural and commercial, of the TOFIELD district as they are, as before, proving a drawing attraction to that class of settlers which this district is glad to welcome. The peculiar, park like nature of it constitutes the Beaver Lake district in particular, is adapted to mixed farming. On every hand are seen excellent fields of grain in stook or being harvested. Cattle are in prime condition. Hogs are fat and bringing good prices. The quantity of cream being sent in by the farmers to TOFIELD for transmission to Edmonton, is daily increasing. Good roads and bridges and rural telephones. These are all conditions noted by the prospective settler on farming land, and induce him to make a wise choice. He becomes one of us and another enthusiastic booster for Alberta and for the TOFIELD district in particular.

These are the conditions for the next two years in the TOFIELD district. These are the conditions that appealed to the large number of outstanding farmers from Milford, Nebraska, who came in last spring and located in the Bardo section of the

INTESTINAL PARALYSIS

"Fruit-a-tives" The Only Medicine That Will Really Cure Constipation.

The Liver both causes and cures Constipation—Constipation or Paralysis of the Bowels.

When the Liver becomes torpid or sluggish, then it cannot give up enough bile to move the Bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives" acts directly on the liver and makes the liver strong and active.

By curing the liver, "Fruit-a-tives" overcomes Constipation, the cause of 99 per cent of all sickness. Bile is made to move the bowels regularly and naturally, and then exist "Intestinal Paralysis."

"Fruit-a-tives" is made of fruit juices and tonics and is undoubtedly the only medicine ever discovered that will positively cure Constipation in any form.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c, or may be obtained from Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa.

A DANGEROUS JOB

WHAT is the most hazardous job in Canada? I rather interesting question arising from this slaughter, railroad accidents are numerous every year but neither of these occupations are attended with so much peril as lumbering according to the report of a British Columbia newspaper. The fact is that the man who is employed in cutting and assisting to haul those unbelievably new killed every year in his province than two or six of the so-called "extra hazardous trades. This fact is not generally known because adventures of these to one against but seldom in the newspapers. Notes from the logging camps burned in the back does not filter out regularly. When a big tree knocks a man out, there is no reporter on the scene, sometimes it is weeks before word of the toll is known.

A CINDER IN THE EYE

PASSENGERS who put their heads out of a railway carriage window often get a cinder in the eye. It is both painful and dangerous. The following hints should be kept in mind when one experiences this common mishap.

Nine persons out of every ten with a cinder or any foreign substance in the eye will instantly begin to rub it with one hand while hunting for a hand kerchief with the other. This is all wrong. The right way is not to rub the eye with the cinder in it, but to rub the other so vigorously as you have a few months ago," says a railway official, "that you will be given a month's pass at the first opportunity." The driver threw open the front window of the cab, and I caught a cinder in my eye, which gave me intense pain. I began to rub the eye desperately, when the driver called to me "Let that eye alone and rub the other one." Thinking he was shafting me, I only rubbed the harder. "The doctors think they know every thing, but they don't; and if you will let that eye alone and work on the other one you will soon have the cin der out." Shocked at his ignorance I did as he directed and was delighted to find that the movement of the eye and muscle caused the cinder to leave it and keep at the well eye, again I went to the driver. I did so for a month I kept and then, loaning into a locomotive I rubbed the eye with the one the effect on my cheek. I have rubbed it many times since, always with success."

HIGH HORSES

HORSES have crept up three or four times in value during the last ten years, even the markets are rebelling. This was quite strikingly illustrated at Glasgow. Messrs. Ryan and Parse, Wyoming and Mr. F. P. Day, Moderne Hall, wanted to buy 100 teams and reserved on their properties in Hazelbeck. The cattle broker's job was to waste on the kind of work. How was contractors to proceed? They came a happy idea. To ranchers quest by disappointed. After a few weeks absence they came back to Portal with 100 teams of horses. Each team was the envy of every other rancher who saw it, for the long prices for horses. The existence of the new steeds was explained. They had been roped out of the Western plains. Device the beasts with the powers as it were are a cheaper investment than horses. There is work in them, too. The new owners, who have been trained to half-fright, are reported to pick up the tricks of the round up with ease. Their board bill won't rest much; they live till forty and over, munching only the tough and prairie grass.

"Tom, him," said Heather Bloom, "what's he done?"

"Nothing," said Heather Bloom. "Only he's wanted by the police."

"Tom, him," said the captain. "Him a smuggler?"

"Tom" and the captain. His face was a picture of astonishment.

Mr. Bloomer rather enjoyed the confusion under the circumstances. "Tom, by Gosh!" he said.

The Phillathea Class of the Methodist Sunday School spent a very pleasant social evening at the parsonage last Thursday evening. The class invited some of their gentlemen friends and all report having a good time.

Chas. E. Darby, representing H. H. Dun & Co., Mercantile Agents, Edmonton, spent several days in town and district last week on business and a game hunting trip. Mr. Darby was accompanied by Mrs. Darby, and were greatly taken with Tofield and district.

Monday being Labor day, it was generally observed throughout the town, the stores being closed. Many went out duck shooting at the lake and among the sloughs back in the hills. Quite a large number of hunters came down from Edmonton and returned heavily laden with the spoils of the day.

T. W. Fountain, late of Orillia, Ont., visited Tofield last week, looking up prospects for the re-opening of a first class Bakery business. Mr Fountain has been in the business for upwards of twenty years and is well experienced in all the little turns of the trade. On fancy breads he is an expert. He has decided to locate in town. Many of our ten supporters welcome the advent of a first class baker. His success will go with the town.

For local complaints of children always use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and Baby's Own Tablets. Both are easy to take and pleasant to take. No physician can prescribe a better remedy. For sale by Dealers Everywhere.

Tofield Station Building

G.T.P. To Put Up Large Attractive Depot Here Will Be Fine Building

It will be pleasing for the public of Tofield and surrounding district to know that the long wait for the G.T.P. to build their station at Tofield will soon be at an end. Mr. Weller, superintendent of Buildings and Bridges, has been several days in town and it is understood that his department has the plans and specifications for the Tofield station completed. It is a fact worthy of note that Tofield being entitled to be a much larger building than other stations along the line outside of the large cities. From reliable information which we have received, we understand that the G.T.P. have several classes of buildings which they are putting up as depots. These grade A, B, C, R, E and F, A being the smallest and grading up to F, which is the largest and which they erect in large cities. The station at Tofield which is a Junction point on the main line, the Tofield-Calgary line running out from here, is to be a class E station. We understand that these large stations are not built by the company themselves as the station at the north or less small towns along the line are erected by their own construction gangs, but are let out by tender. Tenders are now being called for, the building of the Tofield station and will shortly be let. It is expected that the building will be completed before a few weeks are over.

LAURIER COULD NOT COME

Kamloops, B.C., 26th Aug. '10

Dear Sir,—

I am directed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 18th instant, for which he prays you to accept his best thanks.

He regrets exceedingly that the time at his disposal will not permit him to avail himself of your kind invitation to stop at Tofield on his way East

Yours very sincerely,
F. J. LEMAIRE,
Private Secretary

J. A. Letourneau, Esq.,
Mayor's Office,
Tofield, Alta.

The debate last evening on the resolution, "Resolved that a local supply of water was more desirable to Tofield than a supply of fuel" was well attended and a great interest taken in the discussion. Mr. Young and Rev. Mr. Nicholson for the affirmative, brought out many interesting and important points, showing that a plentiful supply of water locally was absolutely necessary at all times for immediate use. Fuel could be imported readily if it was not on hand locally. F. W. Russell and Rev. Gold for the negative contended that their opponents should show that water was of more important than fuel, and argued that one was as indispensable as the other. Both was equally necessary to the town. The audience was divided in favor of the negative.

Mr Carpion and Miss Noland sang a duet during the evening.

After the debate a discussion arose as to the continuance of these meetings regularly this night the winter. It was decided to do so and the arrangement of program for next week and a standing up of a constitution to govern the Club were put in the hands of committee.

Tofield Forging Ahead

Building Activity Continues New Business Firms Coming In

TOFIELD still continues to forge ahead. This year, 1910, is a year of much development. Quickly following the fire of last fall, buildings began to spring up on the site of the disaster. Mark Ferguson has erected a fine story building on the site of his old shop and now has probably the most attractive and best appointed as well as equipped harness shop on the line outside of the large cities. A. H. Letsgers has erected a fine brick veneered front, two story building, two stores down stairs and dwelling above, on the site of the block that he had burned down in the spring. Mrs. Letourneau's Millinery shop and Hammond's Drug Store are going in these two stores. Guy Owen's two story business block was completed before the fire. Kellner's block built by Stewart Hall at a cost of nearly $10,000, one of the most substantial and attractive building in town, has been completed and is now fully occupied. The Merchants Bank has under course of completion a fine two story brick bank building. M. W. Urquhart has also put up and occupied a fine two story business block as a general store.

And now comes the latest. Twitchell Bros., of Clinton, Ont., arrive in last week and the town and district looks so good to them that they bought the corner lot on Main St., formerly occupied by Harper & Letourneau at a cost of $900, and have let the contract for the building of a large two story business block which they will themselves occupy as a general store on the ground floor. A part of the upper story will be occupied by one of the brothers as a photo studio, one of them being an expert photographer. Twitchell Bros. expect to be doing business on the stand before the first of November.

Nor is the building activity of TOFIELD limited to the above mentioned buildings. Several residences have gone up, most of them being erected by new comers. The town is now calling for tenders for the erection of a fine two story town fire hall which is to have a full size basement. It is expected to have this building completed this year.

Miss Letourneau Won the Masters Piano

Our readers will be pleased to learn that Miss Olive Letourneau daughter of His Worship, the Mayor of Tofield, was the successful contestant in the competition for a Masters Piano, the advertisement of which appeared in the Standard on July 6th last. We were in Edmonton last Saturday evening and went in to examine the instrument and are pleased to report that the Masters is such an excellent piano as to fill piano. Miss Letourneau is to be congratulated upon her good fortune.

The G.T.P. is pushing steadily on the Tofield-Calgary branch. The rails have now passed New Norway and are headed towards the Red Deer

Local and General

Chris Creamer of Irma was seriously injured at the Edmonton Power house last week, by falling 20 feet to a concrete floor.

President Campbell of the Edmonton Exhibition says that the capacity of their stock sheds will have to be doubled next year.

Magazines and Daily Papers at Jamieson's Drug Store.

The many friends of Mr and Mrs. J. B. Harper will regret to learn that they will shortly leave Tofield. They are going to take up residence in Killam, where Mr. Harper and Mr. Wm. Ives brother in-law have bought out a general store. They have already taken over the business and Mr. Weir is running it alone in the meantime. Mr. Harper will not complete his business in this new locality before the end of October.

At a meeting last Wednesday evening, the council authorized the payment in full of his account for the construction of sidewalks. J. P. Paradis, accepted the plans and specifications for the town hall, drawn by F. P. Shipman, architect of Wainwright and ordered notices put in papers calling for tenders. The Mayor was appointed a committee to go to Medicine Hat to look into the matter of cost and maintenance of a municipally owned Natural Gas plant.

The C.N.R. have said you will have your mail at Tofield next year. Letters and parcels will not go from east over the G.T.P., as they have in the past, but will be forwarded to Edmonton. They will go east over the C.P.R.

Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, says trains Ottawa-Calgary will not be completed for a year. He says the Grand Trunk Pacific will build the G.T.P. through the mountains.

A Delightful Concert

It was a delightful audience that attended the opening concert of the New Masonic Hall last Monday evening. The programme was presented by Edmonton's leading talent and in every respect was a rich treat. Miss Ethel Webster the well known and accomplished soprano soloist, sang in that delightful style which is peculiarly her own in this western country. "The Creole Love Song" and "Bring Me to Sleep" the latter being sung with violin obligato by Miss Edith Webster. Violin solos by Miss Edith Webster were truly soulful and deeply enjoyed. Miss Wetherald gave several readings. "Santa Claus in the Mine" and "The Wind and the Moon" which showed her to be an accomplished devotee to the art of impersonation. Mr. Watt's base solos were grand. Miss Beatrice Crawford's use of Edmonton's leading accompanists affiliated at the piano and gave excellent renderings of several of the great composers. Every feature of the programme brought unthoughtful expressions of appreciation from the delighted audience which were generously responded to in pleasing encores.

The program was as follows:

PART I.

(1)	PIANO SOLO — Miss Beatrice Crawford	Selected
(2)	BASS SOLO — Ye Banks and Braes o' Bonnie Doon — Mr. Watt
(3)	READING — 'Santa Claus in the Mine' — Miss Wetherald	Hart
(4)	SOPRANO SOLO 'The Creole Love Song' — Miss Ethel Webster	Smith
(5)	VIOLIN SOLO — Miss Edith Webster	Scotch Air
(6)	DUET 'O That We Two Were Maying' — Miss Ethel Webster—Mr. Watt

PART II.

(1)	PIANO SOLO — Miss Beatrice Crawford	Selected
(2)	READING 'The New Cure for Rheumatism' — Miss Wetherald	[illegible]
(3)	BASS SOLO — The Deathless Army — Mr. Watt
(4)	SOPRANO SOLO 'Angels Guard Thee' — Miss Ethel Webster — Violin Obligato—Miss Edith Webster	Godard
(5)	READING — The Wind and the Moon — Miss Wetherald	Geo. M. Donald
(6)	DUET — Life's Dream is O'er — Miss Ethel Webster—Miss Edith Webster

TOFIELD, SEPT. 7, 1910.

Calgary M.H.O. is getting after typhoid flies. Calgary flies are being a filthy and unmannerly addition, and has threatened a small flight hostage. A municipal epidemic in bakeshops and tairns are certainly responsible for typhoid epidemics and infant mortality. Calgary's M.H.O. is right.

The forest fires in Western Canada and Western States, which have caused such appalling loss of life and property, were due to human agencies—lost no lives and recovered any repetition of such losses as have occurred in the past in this district, this fall. Prompt and effective precautions should be taken will make our conditions as to immunity from fire as far better than they have been in the past that it had been a book of visions as to what book had been.

The church of the future would not insist on much statement of creed but would insist that men should love one another. His work would be chiefly practical instead of doctrinal.

Apropos to the fact that at last general meeting of our town fathers and the Hon. Minister of Municipal Affairs, the question of the Tofield Public Library was discussed, it may be well to mention the fact that Mr. A. S. Grant of Walsh, Alta., who was mentioned in the correspondence from the Hon. in response to the query was down in the country on the report of the Library Board, was in Tofield on Wednesday of last week and that he expressed himself as pleased with the building and the way it was conducted. Mr. Grant is a member of the Provincial Library Board and is a man who takes a keen interest in the welfare of the Public Library movement throughout the province. He is also a member of the Provincial Legislature and is a man who takes a keen interest in the welfare of the Public Library movement throughout the province.

CROP PROTECTION

The most far-sighted fruit growers of B.C. realize the necessity of protecting their crops from insect pests and fungous diseases. Spraying is the only way to do it. Spraying is the only way to do it. Spraying is the only way to do it.

Sick Headache
Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Canker, Sore Mouth Cured by
MI-O-NA.
Mi-o-na tablets will cure indigestion or any other stomach trouble. They will relieve almost instantly. Mi-o-na tablets are a sweet tablet to chew that will give you your money back if they fail.
Mi-o-na cures by making the stomach strong enough to possess enough gastric juice to digest all the food you eat regularly. It promptly puts to rest every ugly symptom of disordered digestion, such as sick headache, bad breath, heartburn, sour stomach, etc. Mi-o-na is such a good tonic and you can eat what you want any time you please and take pleasure in doing it.
Your blood will be richer, redder, purer after taking Mi-o-na and it only costs 50 cents a large box.
Frank Ellis, St. Thomas, Ont., says: "My wife was troubled with indigestion for a number of years. We tried a number of preparations to no effect. Finally she began to use Mi-o-na and has been entirely relieved of these troubles. I can cheerfully recommend Mi-o-na."
Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere.

Refurnishing Old Castle of Windsor

King George V Contemplating Making Fresh Alterations in Many Parts

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Before King George and Queen Mary take up their residence at Windsor Castle certain alterations and rearrangements of the private apartments will be necessary. These apartments, which are never open to the public, are situated on the east and south sides of the Grand Quadrangle, and are connected by a corridor over 300 feet in length.

Many thousands of pounds were spent on the royal rooms when King Edward came to the throne, in order to bring the palace more in accord with modern requirements, and a special sum was voted by parliament for the purpose. At present Princess Victoria is staying recently at Frogmore, and the report current among the private apartments in the Memorial and Queen Mary are to be another royal residence and definite arrangements are made.

As to the structural alterations now contemplated, it is said that has been learned not by the Lord Chamberlain's department during the past ten years, but a rearrangement of the furniture and ornaments will have to be effected. All the personal property of King Edward and Queen Alexandra will be removed to Sandringham, otherwise it would become the property of the crown. When this is done the rooms will be redecorated to suit the taste of Their Majesties.

It will, of course, be necessary to provide additional accommodation for the children of the King and Queen. The suite of rooms in the Chester tower has been set aside for the younger Princess, and here a nursery and school room have been fitted up with kitchen and every other convenience, and a special staff of servants will look after the welfare of the children. These rooms were used by Princess Henry of Battenberg's children, and adjoin the Victoria Tower, which served as a nursery for Queen Victoria's family. They command a fine view of the Long Walk and Windsor Forest. There could hardly be a more ideal spot for children. The Long Walk and the wide, park-like roads can be used for an excellent stretch of beautiful roadway.

And below, in the moat, is a market ground with a hard, even surface, which was constructed on the instructions of the late King for the use of his grandchildren. The Prince of Wales and Prince Albert have often ridden past in their miniature motor cars, going on this delightful path and on the same lines many younger brothers will follow suit.

For the time being the King and Queen will stay at Frogmore when the present tenant leaves in October, but the house will have full access to the private apartments in the residence as they may each other. Their Majesties will also have the use of the Royal Lodge, which is now occupied by Princess Christian, and the Queen's home farm, where the herds of pedigree cattle and sheep are kept. The private residence, the Queen's home, the state dining room, the ante-room and the guard room, which contains a collection of gold plate valued at £2,000,000.

A rush reporter gives the following report of the Methodist debate: "The murky atmosphere of last night did not prevent the Methodist flock from being filled to the doors to hear the debate upon the momentous question as to whether WATER was of more importance to Tofield than FIRE. A verse of Yes! Save the King! by the crowd opened the meeting. Then the champion of the Water side, the affirmative got busy. Prof. Youngle of Tofield's Educational Institution led. Rev. Mr. Nicholson followed on similar lines. Both points that WATER was of more importance to Tofield than FIRE. Frank W. Russell and Rev. Mr. Gold for the FIRE side argued that the item of proof rested upon the affirmative to show why WATER was more necessary than FIRE to Tofield and declared that both were equally necessary showing that the one is practically useless without the other and that a combination of the two, FIRE-WATER, was what the town had great need of. During the debate the audience sang a verse and chorus of 'Shall We Gather at the River.'"

IN PAIN FOR YEARS

"FRUIT-a-TIVES" BRINGS RELIEF

MRS. FRANK EATON

Frankville, Ont., Sept. 17, 1920.

"I suffered for years from Indigestion and pain in the back, and could get no relief. Doctors and medicines were of no avail. I became a confirmed dyspeptic. Then I began taking "Fruit-a-tives", the famous fruit medicine, and this was the only remedy that I ever did use any real good. I took several boxes altogether, and now I am entirely well of all my dyspepsia and backaches".

(Signed) MRS. FRANK EATON.

CRASH! Down the kitchen stairs fell the entire trayful of dishes from the dinner table. Not only the mess in the scattered splinters, but the disappointment of Mother and wife, staring blankly at the wreck. What did it all mean? Was this woman tired, nervous, "fussy", "cranky"? Or was she simply "all in"—the victim of over-work and indigestion?

IN North America a white man was recently cured of cancer by a remedy from a negro. The cure was complete and permanent, and the doctor who gave it, at one of the latter was made famous. They came into court and the clerk demanded: "Have you agreed upon a verdict?" "Yes, sah." "What is it?" "We jury an' gone Dunnerat, sah," and the prisoner was set free.

THE enthusiastic angler was telling some friends about a pungent fishing trip to a lake in Canada which he had to contemplation. "Are there any trout out there?" asked one friend. "Thousands of 'em," replied the angler. "Will they bite easily?" asked another friend. "Will they? Why, they're absolutely ravenous—one has to hide behind a tree to bolt a hook."

REPEAT the words the defendant used," commanded counsel the other woman plaintiff in a case of slander being tried as the First Criminal Court of Norwich.

"I'd rather not," he bashfully replied the judge. "They were hardly words to tell to a gentleman."

"I insist," said the judge, then," he suggested, suggested counsel—and the court was obliged to rap for order.

ONE day a Scotch and English boy who were fighting, were separated by their respective mothers with difficulty, the Scotch boy, though the smaller, being for the more pugnacious. "What gurrud ye fecht wi' the laddie John that for?" asked the mother as she wiped the blood from his nose. "And I'll fight him again," said the boy, "if he says he doesn't believe that becomes and are too big to get into trousers."

That Reminds Me

A WESTERN bookseller wrote to a friend in Montreal asking that a dozen copies of a book, Parson's "Bankers Afloat Gaol" be shipped to him at once.

Within two days he received this reply by telegraph:

"The workers after died on Chicago or New York. Yes Philadelphia.

CARUS the illustrious singer, was engaged with Jenny Lind, while in St. Petersburg that making one of their visits to the Russian capital. His accounts painted the children of these lands, as remarkable to them. I suppose there are your little tots about?" "No, sir," replied the lady, ready not like my little Marie-ette."

THERE is an extract from a Panama paper that has an English sailor in for foreign parts. "Shooting carriage in Panama" says the paper. Long ones, short ones, and no bus." Not a bad idea, that, for the tourist movement in Canada. All new arrivals to be met at the boundary dogs in sled at once.

A MARRIAGE service performed in a church in Berkshire, England, was witnessed and its validity attested by a man who was serving for himself, a gentleman who was "giving away the bride" and the bridegroom himself. Not only was the man who was serving for himself, a gentleman who was "giving away the bride" and the bridegroom himself. Not only was the man who was serving for himself, a gentleman who was "giving away the bride" and the bridegroom himself.

TWO men were occupying a double seat in a crowded car. One of them was a long distance whistler and the other was evidently annoyed. "You don't seem to like my whistling," he said. "Some one does, though," retorted continuous performance. "No, I don't," was the frank reply. "Well, I never met the other," maybe you think you are very high up in this car, but I don't think I am rejoiced the old lady, "for I've had to lend the conductor my handkerchief."

A GUY of the White Star steamships landed in Liverpool from New York after only a great coat being finished "Just out of the way with that old thing," he remarked to the tailor's hedge.

Instead, sun browned face appeared over the extra hideous "Are you the tailor who made this coat?" "Yes," answered the quaking man. "Then you're a blanked fool," said the "gent" as he "came" from the barge.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Makes Rich, Red Blood

With the Horses

THERE is no more interesting study than that of the evolution of the horse. Its history is fairly under way, and while the investigations are carried on by the most important meetings, those at Los Angeles and Chicago, at which the writer was present, have given some exception to the theories that have been advanced, but high class horse has been uncovered.

The feature of the last meeting was the elaborate paper by Professor Dillard, owned by the Edmonton of Blenheim, Ont., and driven by the Canadian Canadian, on the Canadian horse.

Tom Dillard was known to have a horse of this breed, and it was one of the Canadian record for a half-mile track, and the writer was anxious to see the animal. Accordingly, a little after the meeting, he went to Blenheim, and found the horse in a little stable of grey, and Mr. Dillard, Mr. Dillard. This horse was also raced on the ice last winter, but did not meet with much success, as she did not appear to take kindly to the ice-track racing. However, her present success is no surprise to those who have been familiar with her past, for her sire, sweet Maid Macgregor, when the latter was a record of 2:11 at Lansing last fall, and in which case the sire, further in the summary that he had the that got third money.

The mare is very fleet, having her not yet begun, but, when it does, the crack-list will go down on his list. The Red, 5:09 1-4, and Dan Patch, 1:55 1-4, will be found on the list, even with the best paces that are racing.

These two signs presage, we believe, the passing of the word "asparagus." Recently people have been talking about for generations, but when it begins to "grass" from the fields of the country, the shelter and tighter word seems to be underfoot the time for the passing of the longer compare. These signs are the fall of a general swell, or "grass" that is going to sweep the boards clean of it.

It may be that "asparagus" will still be used in the cities, as it is now in the aristocracy. It may be some time before the "grass" of "when" when they mean "grass," but it will come in the end, right. It will become a pale word, like "thou" and "thee," and in the every day life of America,—it is gone Evening Post.

A Pill That is Prized.—There have been many pills put upon the market and proved upon public attention, but few have been received with such favor as "Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Widespread use of them has attested their great value, and they have, in fact, become household words. This Havine Result established them as a public remedy, they are offered without a peer in the list of standard vegetable preparations.

The Kind that Mother Used to Make

Her smiles! Ah they are mighty sweet!
They fill my days with sun and shine
They gild my path before my feet
With glory golden as the wine.
They fill my heart with ambition
For tasks unseen and unknown
And spur me on to—

The kind Mother used to make

Her voice! Ah, there is a charm
How I remain to watch their light
As they flash and dart and play
And all drive all worry out of sight
And wake me to the day
To day or how we gather gain
For these are the things that remain

PROFESSOR GOODRIDGE RILEY of Vassar, suggests that young women should regard marriage as a profession.

Professor, I agree with you, said Prof. Riley recently, "that a young woman should regard marriage as a profession. I would say that she should see her bride in marrying.

"The most important thing in the world today—today—getting married—one of the most important things in the world today—and it seems to me as the time when a young woman should be chiefly in the ability to spell a word I underwent the ability to do this. Then, if I am wrong, I pause for a good joke, and if it is spelled right it down's neither."

Calgary, Alta., Aug. 16th 1910.

The Masters Piano Co., Edmonton, Alta.

Gentlemen,

Please quote me your lowest cash price on Two Nos. Art Bell Pianos suitable for the Empire and Edmonton Opera Houses in your city.

I am putting in Bell Pianos exclusively in all my theatres at Saskatoon, Regina, Lethbridge and Calgary, and prefer them to any other make, as I have carefully investigated all the others and find the Bell wears better, requires less attention and produces a greater number of musicians than any other piano built in Canada.

Trusting that we will be able to make satisfactory arrangements and awaiting your reply, I remain,

Yours very respectfully,
W. B. SHERMAN, Manager

As a result of Mr. Sherman's enquiry, we sold a fine concert size Bell Piano for the new Lyceum Theatre, formerly the Edmonton Opera House and in a short time we will place a similar style in the Empire.

Mr. Kee, our merchant Tailor, returned from the east last week end.

Mr. J. Zins, shoe merchant of Waterloo, Ont., spent a couple of days in town this week.

Mrs. McKeen of Strathcona is a visitor this week at Mrs. P. F. Ingram and Mrs. H. Mitchell's.

B. B. Barkwell began the construction of Twitchell Bros' new store at the corner of Main and 3rd Ave south last Monday.

Harvesting still be nearly completed this week in the Tofield district. Threshing is expected to commence next week.

Miss Phyllis Shaw of the Post Office staff is spending her holiday visiting Her. H. J. Minton and family at Innisfail.

Mr Wm. Jamieson and Mrs. Jamieson of Fort Perry, Ont., are the guests of their son, C. E. Jamieson, of Tofield.

The Bassano News reports a prairie fire in that section which has swept over an area of 200 miles destroying all grass and hay.

Haymakers are busy in Bassano district. Indians are putting up practically unlimited quantities at $6 per ton. There appears to be plenty of hay in that district.

Mr. Earl O. Hutchinson, and Miss Minnie Ochnel, both of Ryley came to Tofield with some friends on Monday afternoon, and were quietly married at the Methodist Parsonage.

At a meeting of the Trustee Board of the Methodist Church last Thursday evening, it was decided to enlarge the church building. A new church is very much needed and will be undertaken in the near future, but it is not practicable to build this fall, so to accomodate the congregation and Sunday School this winter, it was decided as soon to add to the present structure.

Mrs. P. F. Ingram returned from Edmonton last Monday morning with her little daughter, who has been receiving skilled medical and surgical attention for an aggravated nervous trouble affecting her lower limbs. Little Jessie is becoming much improved.

For bowel complaints in children always give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and mother will not be disappointed. It is pleasant to take. For sale by Dealers Everywhere.

The Methodist Church was filled on Monday evening, to listen to a lecture on Australia, by Rev. A. Anderson, who spent over twenty years in the sister colony. The lecture was illustrated by a large number of views, and interspersed with wit. The lecture was both entertaining and instructive.

Notice the advertisement this week of the Tofield Agricultural Society announcing the First Annual Agricultural Fair and Stock Show of the Beaver Lake District. Don't be backward about sending or bringing in your exhibit. Perhaps yours is the article that will win the prize.

"What we bind on earth, God binds in heaven. There is no limit placed to the number we by our prayer and faith may bring to the better life. If we care sent it to offer the prayer and exercise the faith we find them for heaven. If we neglect to do so, they, so far as are concerned, are bound from heaven."

"Either our prayers will kill our sins, or our sins kill our prayers."—Pastor S. Nicholson. Methodist Church, Tofield, Sept. 11th 1910.

President Hays and Party at Tofield

Are Most Favorably Impressed

President Hayes of the G.T.P. accompanied by Mr. Smithers, Chairman of the Directors of the G.T.P. in London, and others arrived last Saturday in inspecting the Tofield-Calgary branch, going as far as the head of the steel. The special train which conveyed the party across the continent and G.P.R. remained in Tofield during the day while the officials who went down over the branch took a special consisting of Superintendent Brewer's private car and caboose. They went down as far as the gravel pits which are now being opened and from which the ballasting trains will operate as they ballast the line north to Tofield.

The officials returned to Tofield soon after 7 p.m. and at 8.30 left on the regular special for the east. They were highly pleased with the construction work along the line and with the progress of the steel. Tracklaying will cease for the present and the machines and gangs will be moved to Yorkton to lay steel on that branch. Ballasting will commence immediately between Tofield and New Norway, and it is likely that a mixed train service will be put on in the near future. The G.T.P. wants to take its share of the grain carrying trade from the districts served by this branch.

Regarding the Tofield Depot, the assurance was given that this autumn will see the completion of station here The contract has already been let. At to whom, we were not informed.

Sir George Doughty takes a Stroll around Tofield

Is Greatly Pleased with Signs of Development

Sir George Doughty, one of England's prominent parliamentarians and a leading financier, and who accompanied President Hayes' party on its tour across Canada to Prince Rupert and back was an interested caller at the Standard office last Saturday.

Sir George was for 15 years in the British House of Commons as representative of Sea Fisheries. He is owner of three prominent newspapers in the Old Country, the Daily Grimsby Telegraph, The Grimsby County Times and the Saturday Times, all of which enjoy immense circulations. He accompanied Pres. Hayes, and Mr. Smithers, chairman of the Board of Directors of the G.T.P. in London. Sir George spent the day in Tofield while the president went down south over the Tofield-Calgary branch. He took quite a keen interest in looking into our up-to-date Tofield stores and enjoying the scenery afforded the spectator from the elevation of the north section of the town. During the afternoon he met in conversation with a number of representative business men of the town and all present enjoyed his talk on Imperial matters. The British manufacturers and Canadian business men, should get into closer touch with each other, he urged. He favorably commented on Canada's project in reaching out in navy matters. He was delighted with the deep spirit of loyalty to the King which he everywhere observed throughout the Dominion. Regarding the town of Tofield he observed that there was every appearance of prosperity and that the country around was ideal. A great future was in store for it.

Victorian Order Of Nurses

Miss Mary Ard. MacKenzie, chief superintend of the Victorian Order of Nurses, visited Tofield, at the request of the hospital committee of the Board of Trade, to look into Tofield's need of a hospital.

The Victorian Order has control of the Lady Minto Fund— fund raised by Lady Minto, from which grants are made to assist smaller towns in building hospitals.

After spending the day in and about Tofield, Miss MacKenzie said she thought Tofield had need of a hospital, and if the townspeople were to ask it, a gift of probably $2000 could be had from the Lady Minto Fund to help get a hospital building.

Presentation To Mr. and Mrs. Harper

The Presbyterian Manse was the scene last Thursday evening of a social gathering, when a number of the friends of Mr and Mrs. J. B. Harper, who are leaving Tofield this week to reside in Killam, assembled to bid them a hearty good bye. During the evening an address and presentation were given Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. Harper, Rev. Mr. Gold, pastor of the congregation, reading the address and Mr. McCauley making the presentation which consisted of a fine leather suit case and a beautiful morocco bound Presbyterian Hymnal to the surprised and pleased couple. The address was as follows:—

To Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Harper,
Tofield, Alta

Dear Friends,

We are assembled together this evening representing St. Andrews Presbyterian Church and their friends for the purpose of expressing in some small way our best wishes to you before you take your departure for your new home. As workers in our church, upon the managing board, and in the ladies aid and choir, you have won the esteem of all. Let me say that we shall miss you and that your places will be very hard to fill. We all trust however that the loss we sustain as a church or as citizens will be a gain for the town of Killam, Alta., where you are soon to make your future home. We ask therefore that you will kindly accept this Presbyterian Book of Praise and this suit case as expressing in a measure our esteem and best wishes for you. We trust that your efforts to advance His Kingdom may be attended with even greater blessings in the days that are to come.

Signed
W. F. Gold, Minister of St. Andrews, Tofield, Alta.
A. J. H. McCauley, Sec-Tres, St. Andrews, Tofield, Alta.
M. E. Gold, Pres., Ladies Aid, St. Andrews, Tofield, Alta.

Our many readers amongst the farming community should make an earnest study of the long Prize List issued by the Agricultural Society for the first Annual Fair and Stock Show. Surely from amongst this long list you will find something which you have and will reap a benefit from showing. Make your intention to exhibit known to the secretary as soon as possible. Fill out the form to be found in each paper and send to the secretary. Or if you have no entry form, a card to him will bring you one by return mail.

Entries Coming In

The manner with which the announcement of the Tofield Fair is met with throughout the country, is most encouraging. From every direction, north, east, south and west, comes the information that room must be kept for exhibits. Farmers are everywhere taking up the issue and are announcing their intention of bringing in exhibits. Here they have pure bred horses and cattle. Here they have fine fall or spring wheat. Here are beautiful samples of grains and grasses. This man has a couple of fine spring colts. This lady's garden will surely win the general prize. And thus it is of'ery day. From all indications we will have a splendid Fair and everybody will be delighted.

Sports

We hear that the Tofield Sports Committee are taking up the matter of having some excellent sports on Fair Day. A baseball match will probably be pulled off, and it is more than likely that a football match with a rival G.T.P. team will be arranged.

To Intending Exhibitors

A large number of intending exhibitors at the Tofield Fair are inquiring as to the conditions upon which exhibits are to be entered. The only condition is that the fee of one dollar for membership in the Tofield Agricultural Society must be paid. If you have not already paid your membership fee, enclose it with your entry form when you send the latter to the Secretary

Town of Tofield Tenders Wanted

Tenders are asked for the construction of a town and fire hall, at Tofield, Alta. THE JOLLY ROGER

Concert Pictures

[illegible]

The table-flamingos of Fleetwood's [illegible] and Simpson's for [illegible] "Let me extinguish simply a [illegible] flag."

"Where?" I turn. I looked at him. It was a triangular object against the black heaving with the design of the skull and crossbones on it. Despite the certificate with it, I did not expect it would be hawked about at a high figure and put a pencil tick against the number in my catalogue.

The piece of paramount evidence that the flag had floated from the mast head of the famous or infamous Captain Blackbeard's vessel when, in the seventeenth century, that gentleman was one of the terrors of the Spanish Main.

But for the things were sold. Where the flag was flattered from the restrum, and the auctioneer, Mr. Hammer, [illegible] rather he failed to secure any interest in the crowd of buyers. As a consequence, I had [illegible] myself up as the fortunate possessor of the historic relic. [illegible] possible that accounted for my delight when the bid was knocked down to me for the modest sum of five shillings.

I was not the only person who thought it had a value. That was evidenced by the fact that, before the next half dozen lots were sold, a man [illegible] and foreign looking entered the room breathlessly and forced a way to the front. He immediately inquired of Lot [illegible] and, on learning he had failed to [illegible] myself as the purchaser, proffered [illegible] pounds promptly [illegible] to obtain the information.

To my surprise he refused [illegible] breath. I distinctly heard him. My astonishment was due to the fact that he had an [illegible] accent [illegible] made me think he [illegible] with the Dutch. He at once endeavored to enter into conversation with me.

I, however, was busy looking. Two or three other lots had been "knocked" by me, so I gave him small attention, [illegible] answered his questions with the longest tea, I put my pencil and catalogue in my pocket and prepared to go. Looking over my shoulder I found that my foreign friend following me.

That amused me. Moreover, there was a look on his face that made me smile. For the fact that I was one of the [illegible] had caused since the flag had [illegible] with the former, I should have concluded that he was a literal descendant of the famous Blackbeard. He had a [illegible] expression, anyway, as [illegible] his priority air.

Having nothing else to do at the moment, I listened when the man spoke. He carried my gunmetal—Lot No. 4—I shook my head when he offered me as many pounds as I had bad shillings. I should it again when he offered a hundred pounds. But I didn't shake it when he multiplied it by ten. His rapidly increasing offers left me in a state of speechless wonder, having I have all the love of a curio hunter for harpooning.

Had the stranger offered me time to think, I should, possibly, have accepted his offer. There were a hundred and one things I hankered after in my little museum which a thousand pounds would not buy me, but he misunderstood my silence, and, turning on his heel, marched away.

That night I asked Phillips called on me. We sat together smoking and chatting, [illegible] at his feet [illegible] the flag, which I had spread out on the same ground, he was [illegible] and beamed, and what he did not know about old world things was not worth knowing.

Naturally I was full of the flag I had purchased. When I showed it to him, the Colonel shook his head and said:

"What on earth made you take a fancy to the accursed thing?"

"Accursed! It was half question, half astonishment I voiced.

"Well, it is literally cursed [illegible] to know the history of it.

"You really don't mean to say, Phil [illegible], that you are superstitious enough [illegible]?

"Facts are stubborn things," he interrupted doggedly. "Listen to them, and you can form your own conclusions. Two pirates were kidnapped by Black beard and put to the torture."

"I thought that pirates' lords were usually—"

"What? The private knew things he wanted to know. Blackbeard not only had, if not piratical, methods of extracting information. A reputation pirate had given the pirate a chart of some buried treasure—his accumulations for years. Blackbeard blackened after that. The pirate wanted it for the benefit of their own Order. What was how to trouble arose.

"Still, I don't see what that has to do with the flag!"

"You shall hear. The pirate refused to open their lips. Blackbeard had death with death men before. He had them hauled to the mainmast in a looped rope. There, with the blazing sun beating down on them, tormented [illegible] with thirst, they could see from which the flag flew, for long as they would stand the heat and food on they were all right—but, assuming, near or [illegible] to such a position, that would not last for long. When the time came for the "Jolly Roger," but on which [illegible] the pirates would be able to [illegible] it free's was frayed with hanging, but [illegible] with the bunches left by new night scoundrels looked smooth as [illegible] mats of England—that I should forever loathe everything Spanish, from its wines to its king.

But he was a born diplomat. He [illegible] words were done, not heartbroken. When I insisted that he was really a [illegible] he [illegible] to play their part [illegible] I [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

TOFIELD, SEPT. 14, 1910.

The Tofield district Agricultural Society has decided as per their announcement, belated as it is, to put on their first Annual Agricultural Show on September 22nd next. Having put their hands to the plow there is no looking back. The directors held a meeting in Mr. Shaw's office last Wednesday afternoon, and came to this decision. Owing to the short notice given for the meeting, word could not be sent to all the directors, but a quorum was present. After coming to this decision, the president, vice-presidents and a couple of directors canvassed the town for subscriptions to the prize list and were greatly surprised with the success which crowned their efforts. In less than two hours they had over $200 subscribed.

To the farmers of the district this decision of the Fair Association will come as a welcome announcement. To every member of the association the fact that the business men of the town are heartily co-operating in swelling the funds at the disposal of the Society will be appreciated. It is now up to the farmer and gardener of the district to make good. All should take a personal interest in the success of the Fair. There is nothing so good in any district as a healthy spirit of rivalry and competition in producing that which is good. Let us show that the Beaver Lake district can produce from the range, the farm and the garden, that which is unexcelled in any other district.

Bye-Election Dates House Convenes November 3rd.

Three important announcements were made from the offices of Premier Sifton on Saturday evening. The issuance of writs for the bye-elections was authorized at a meeting of the cabinet council held Saturday afternoon, according to Premier Sifton's announcement. The elections in both constituencies will be held on Monday October 3. W. W. Brown of Strathmore, is named as returning officer for Gleichen, and Jos. Bleeson of McLeod for that constituency.

The date of the session of the legislature is practically fixed for Thursday, November 3. It is the desire that the session be concluded before the Christmas holiday.

The cabinet have decided with regard to the report of the royal commission, which is now in the hands of the premier, that the report shall not be made public until the legislature meets, and it is laid before the members of the house.

Owing to recent rains much hay has been seriously damaged.

School is progressing nicely at Woodlawn.

Mr. Plants has recently got his patent to his quarter, 14-50-20. Others have received recommendations. This is good news to us as the boys have worked hard to make homes, and at the same time, in some way, have eked out a living for their families and now, when the cloud of hope at last has risen to none of us and we see what hard work and earnest effort has done for those fellows can we not offer thanks and take courage? Surely, life is worth fighting for!

We have learnt that government road work is to commence in about two weeks on the line from Mr. Wildman's place, N.E. ¼ 21-50-20, to Mr. Tully's place N.E. ¼ 22-50-20. We are glad to know we have not been neglected by our Internal Improvement Agent as we are badly needing this part of road put in travelling condition. Let the good work go on.

Mr. Plants and Mr Jevning are putting up a large amount of hay on Mr. Jevning's ¼ 28-50-20. They will get perhaps a hundred tons.

The secretary would cheerfully receive and receipt all taxes due the Woodlawn school district for the year 1910, if those who owe would come forward with same, as we are badly in need of money to support our school. Why not pay our taxes and heartily support our school as we all have agreed to do? We now have more than twenty pupils enrolled and more yet to come if properly informed. Who can say we do not need a school in this district. Let us come forward and put our district in the lead. We can do it and we must do it.

Rev. Nicholson of Tofield, preached at our school house, Woodlawn, the second Sunday in August and kindly left other appointments but rains have prevented our gatherings.

Mr. and Mrs. Pugh's little son, Wilson, has been ill with rheumatism recently, but is better at this writing.

We hear some whisperings in this district about whom we shall have for road councillman. Some speak of the solicitation of Mr. Splinted, the big-hearted Englishman who goes after things and always gets what he goes after.

Woodlawn

Rain! Rain! Rain! Rather hard on the haying just at present, but it means better crops next year so let us not complain.

Stanley Day is the "happy boy" now. His parents and two sisters arrived from Ontario a short time ago and will make their home with him. We extend them a hearty welcome to this district.

Mr. Reed, Sr., met with a painful accident Wednesday of last week. While driving over a piece of bad road with a load of hay, his wagon upset throwing him to the ground with considerable force, dislocating his shoulder and bruising his head.

F. H. Steinbach made a trip to Camrose last week after his household goods and is now at home again in Woodlawn.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heed of Camrose, are "haying" on the homestead at present.

Our school is in a flourishing condition. Miss Vipond reports an enrollment of twenty. How is that for a new district.

JUMBO

As usually treated, a spreained ankle will disable a man for three or four weeks, but by applying Chas. Tilley's Liniment freely as soon as the injury is received, and observing the directions with each bottle, a cure can be effected in from two to four days. For sale by Dealers Everywhere.

MISERABLE WITH DYSPEPSIA

Another Wonderful Cure By The Wonderful Fruit Medicine "Fruit-a-tives."

Mr. Mathieu Dery, of 221 Church street, Ottawa, Ont., was treated for years by physicians for Painful Dyspepsia. He spent as much money for doctor's medicines without getting relief. He relief that he had about made up his mind that his case was hopeless.

Today "Fruit-a-tives" Advertised, however, Mr. Dery thought he would trust his life to a box of them wonderful fruit juice tablets.

And the famous fruit medicine did not disappoint him. All the doctors could not cure him, but the testimony—"Fruit-a-tives" restores to normal use of nerves Dyspepsia, when physicians failed to relieve me."

"Fruit-a-tives" makes the stomach sweet and clean, banishes sour stomach, gas and palpitation forever. Indigestion ends.

50c a box. 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa.

CONCERNING CARROTS

THE love of carrots is due principally to the claim that they improve the complexion. And there is now added another claim that should encourage the eating of carrots, if that is they have a beneficial effect upon the temper. While they might not be considered an indispensable luxury, people to bring them as the complexion claim you value, still, it would be no overstatement to say that if the carrot does not soften and subdue the temper, it will not eliminate and beautify the combination.

This is only plain observation. Let a person lose his temper and bawl forth in an angry exclamation, and then behold how the face turns red and the muscles become turgid and still more unsightly. Let him or her eat a carrot hastily, and the temper soon wanes to a vanishing point. Now, it is not that the carrot operates upon the springs of emotion and so modifies their play so as to give to the countenance a beardless and kindly aspect.

SEVENTEEN YEARS THE STANDARD

Successful and recommended for over seventeen years. A reliable remedy prepared from herbs of known value. The result, long years of study and experience. For sale at all drug stores.

BLOODY HENS

IT 24 usually an easy thing to break up broody hens if they are taken from the nest the first evening they are found to be broody, and placed in a coop with a slatted bottom. The coop should be raised from the ground so that the hen cannot generate any heat beneath her. If taken from the nest the first day it usually takes only two days to break up the broody fit, and she is anxious to remain in the yard two or three days or take longer.

When you desire to set the hens, let her remain on the nest under the guise thoughtful. Insect powder is necessary to move her to another place and set her, otherwise she may be off to nest

In the treatment of cancer everybody has used Zam-Buk ointment. Its wonderful power! That I was one of the thousands who found in it a friend of unfailing help is a man who results in Zam-Buk ointment. I know for instance that for eczema it is the best remedy I have ever used. I doctored at Heidelberg afterwards and spent much money, but it was Zam-Buk that cured me.

Zam Buk

is the best remedy known for sunburn, tan, freckles, eczema, piles, and all skin injuries. A skin food! All Druggists and Stores, 50c. box.

THE LAST EXPEDIENT

WOMAN'S sphere had a drawback in husband and two children. For one of these, a little after the wedding, a sufficient salary for reason was afford a servant. Therefore, for the first two years of married life Mrs. Jones had to return home from her shopping excursions, and, with her own hands, to get the meals for her husband. Then, when the baby arrived, and there was neither the drudge appetite. She had, moreover, the baby to look after, and the thing that her husband mind could think of and nothing would be of any use.

Finally it occurred to her that if she was dead her husband might reform for the better. Then, too, she reflected that her death might be a shock to him, and cause him to realize how much she sacrificed for him. So she wrote a little note, explaining her pitiful plan, and left it on the dressing-table and then, after a few hours, had in it all the poignant agony of the tragedy of four thousand years of wantonly wounded love.

Then she took some morphine acid and died, and her soul is with the saints.

The neighbors buried the empty shell, but have given no information to her husband. Such information would be superfluous, for the neighbors and others are all against the theory that he killed her. Besides, they think that his grief was so great at the time of the funeral that the chances are that he committed suicide himself shortly after-wards. A man who is well gone in liquor is capable of anything, and after he has been a long time sober he is capable of anything. Anyway, they have heard and shed needless tears over

"That's a remarkable, perfect boy," said a woman who is married to a virtuous husband, to the Cynic, "and I attribute his perfection entirely to the fact that I am applying to the course—not the coddling course, but the course that is good for him—that I am applying to the course of having him put to work as soon as he was old enough to earn wages being turned over to her. Every boy ought to be compelled to work when he is not larger. Men who neglect their boys are responsible for the fact that there are so many loafers and so many settled to handle the money. The boy who has to work and earn his own money before he has never been given a trial, although it would serve him right if he were, for his own misery and comfort to take it away from him."

The Walker Lyceum Course

Five Unusual Amusement Offerings For The Coming Season

Shakespeare's ideal comedy "Twelfth Night"; the English Opera Singers in the sparkling musical comedy, "Managing Mildred"; the big making Pierrot Robert Meikle, with Frank Lloyd and company, and the Lyceum Players are the attractions offered the coming season by the Walker Lyceum Course and which will be seen here under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge.

Each of the companies are composed of the best obtainable talent, special money is carried and the local committee do not hesitate to guarantee each and every performance. A course ticket covering the entire series can be obtained, not only giving you a reduction in the price, but also allowing you to reserve your seat for the season. Three tickets may now be secured at Jamieson's Drug Store or Miss Mahaffey's Bazaar

On the evening of Fair Day the Fair management are putting on a regular entertainment in Manvic Hall as a benefit for the Public Hospital Fund of the Tofield district. It is the popular opinion that we must have a hospital at Tofield. The coming years will amply demonstrate this opinion. The G.T.P. has kindly offered a free site. The Victorian Order of Nurses offer a magnificent donation of $2000. What will we for ourselves to merit this confidence? Everybody come and make this benefit concert a grand success.

Digestion and Assimilation

It is not the quantity of food taken but the amount digested and assimilated that gives strength and vitality to the system. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets invigorate the stomach and Liver and enable them to perform their functions naturally. For sale by Dealers Everywhere.

A Safety Signal To All Who Intend Purchasing A Piano

We have had over thirty years experience in the piano business and have carefully studied piano construction in all the leading makes in Canada and United States, therefore, know just the kind of piano we wish to base our name.

After many months of preparation and personal visits to to eastern factories we are enabled to bring out the Masters Piano which is built under contract by the largest and one of the oldest and most reliable factories under the British flag. This instrument embodies our own personal ideas which we have been gathering all these years. In the building of these pianos the very best of material is used throughout and they contain all the the latest improvements, coupled with a scale so even and well balanced as to bring forth expressions of admiration from all critical musicians who have tested them.

The tone durability is secured through an exact knowledge of what to use - how and where to use it, with a careful study over every detail during construction.

A cordial invitation is extended to all those who have an opportunity to call at our store and inspect these instruments

VOLUME IV — TOFIELD ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 21, 1910 — NO 1

LOCAL

Mr. John Lee was a week end visitor at Lakesboro.

Miss Fanny Richter is expected home from Edmonton next week.

Mr. Henry Wood expects to begin threshing next Wednesday at Wm. Wood's.

Mrs. H. K. Adams and Miss Spilsted were in town last Wednesday shopping.

M. W. Ferguson, O. Letourneau and J. Bowick spent Sunday last at Lakesboro.

Mrs. W. Scholtz of Calgary, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos Noland.

Mrs. J. O. Letourneau expects to move into her new dwelling on Main St. this week.

Miss May Williams and Miss Edith Tofield were the guests of Miss Alice Spilsted last Thursday.

The many friends of Mrs. R. E. Emery will be pleased to learn that she is expected home next Saturday.

Lloyd Wood arrived home last Sunday from Wells Creek, where he has been working for the P. Burns Co.

Mrs. S. A. Hallberg and Mrs. Elmer Halberg of Solman, were in Tofield last Tuesday on a shopping trip.

Mr. Potter and McDougall, Edmonton, came down from the Capital yesterday and spent the day in the district.

Miss G. Thor and brothers, Sidney and Howard, of Ross Creek, were in Tofield yesterday. Master Sidney is in town undergoing skilled medical treatment for an injured arm.

D. L. Phillips and family lost all their effects and their home by fire last Saturday morning. We understand they are left in almost destitute circumstances. As yet we have not heard of any of our church bodies or charitable institutions taking over such other in the race to perform a Christian or charitable duty in connection with this case.

In a letter to us from the provincial Chief Game Guardian of the 8th inst., he calls attention to the fact that the open season for prairie chicken and partridge is during the month of October only, during which time sportsmen are limited to 20 birds each per day or 200 for the month, and in no case is any person allowed to buy or sell any of these birds at any time.

The first church service with whosh rain has not interfered, was held in Woodlawn School on Sunday afternoon. The school was nearly filled and all were pleased to have a regular service established in their neighborhood. The next service will be held on October 2nd, when it is expected the capacity of the school will be taxed to accomodate the congregation.

Council met last evening in the office of the Secretary-treasurer. $150 was granted the Board of Trade for advertising purposes. A bylaw prohibiting the driving of horses or vehicles upon the sidewalks, and the riding of bicycles upon the sidewalks, was ordered to be drafted. Three debenture bylaws will come before the council at next meeting to be passed provisionally. These are for the raising of the money to build the town and fire hall, the proposed site on lot 13, block 15, 3rd Ave, and for the adequate separation for the fire hall. A petition from the ratepayers for the laying of the disused portions of the old sidewalk on 4th St. north from Cookson Ave, to Wm. Lee's, was granted.

Beaver Lake East

Our teacher, Mr. Wade, who has few superiors as a globe trotter, spent a portion of holiday's in the North Western States, where he was brought into rather close connection with the forest fires raging there. Another of the "moving accidents" of his experience there was a collision on the railway. He luckily came scathless through it all.

Stacking is now in full swing, the weather being ideal for it. Who will do our threshing is unknown at present, but some of us would like to see our last years friends from Holden again.

Miss Malcolm McCallum and her daughter Mabel recently took an outing to Edmonton and other points. They returned on the 10th with renewed health and spirit and after having had a delightful time.

Some Ontario Grits are making a great fuss because Dr. Beaton who has been in charge of the idiot asylum at Orillia for thirty years has been retired on an allowance to make room for a Tory. One would imagine the doctor must be good and ready for a rest after 23 years of it. The fact is the Whitney government has so few faults that the Grits must howl about something. The doctor isn't kicking

What a noble specimen of the bitter partisan is R. M. MacDonald of Pictou, N. S. Although hundreds of Conservatives were present at the great Edmonton meeting to show their courtesy towards Sir Wilfrid Laurier, this swashbuckler from the blue nose region couldn't refrain from getting off a lot of rot in the effort to injure the Conservative party.. Even those who were kids when the Liberals came into power know that the Conservative government hadn't one third as much money to spend as the Grits have now, and the then opposition howled and resisted against them for spending that little. They know too that had the Conservatives spent a million dollars a year to encourage immigration, the conditions in the U. S. and Europe were such that it would have been practically useless. It wasn't till the Grits had been in power five years or more that those aforesaid conditions changed and the rush began.

Our old and tried friend Sandy McAllister, has gone back to B.C. again. We're sorry to part so soon but all the same hope he will do well over there. We tried to get a blot of land on the lake for him, but the owner evidently thinks there's a gold mine located on it as the effort failed.

Woodlawn

Isn't this beautiful weather? Sunny Alberta indeed. Where can you go to beat it.

J. A. Shaw was called away on business last Thursday. The length of his stay is indefinite.

Mrs. Plants and daughter Zoe were visiting the Meadames Reed, Thursday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Tully were Sunday visitors at Mr. Plants.

Mr. and Mrs. Pugh Sundayed with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Yager.

Mr. and Mrs. Berg of Tofield, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lott.

Rev. Nicholson held service at the school house on Sunday p.m., and we are pleased to state that there was a fair attendance. He left an appointment for October 2nd at 3 o'clock, and we are in hopes that others also may be able to be present on that date.

Over 98 Bu. Per Acre

M. B. Ness Threshes Large Yield of Oats

Johnson & Haugseth of Bardo section started threshing last week in that district and from the reports of yields it would seem that the crops in the Tofield district are not going to turn out as bad after all. M. B. Ness, for whom they threshed last Saturday, got over seventy bushels to the acre machine measure and the bals went 46 lbs. to the bushel. This figures out at 98 bu. and 28 lbs. to the acre. While oats weighing 46 lbs. to the bushel are of no uncommon occurrence in the Tofield district, yields of close to 100 bushels to the acre are rather rare. This yield this year is exceptionally good and shows that proper farming methods even in such dry seasons as we have experienced this season are productive of good and paying results.

For bowel complaints in children always give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and castoil. It is certain to effect a cure and when mixed with water and sweetened is pleasant to take. No physician can prescribe a better remedy. For sale by Dealers Everywhere.

Ross Creek

Flora MacLean, who has spent the winter at Red Deer, Alberta is home on a short visit. When she leaves here she expects to go her grandparents in Manitoba.

Miss Millar spent last week end at the Solman district visiting at Mr. Chesmore's.

Rev. Gold will hold services here the first Sunday in October, and every alternate Sunday thereafter.

Mrs. McLean is on the sick list. It is hoped that she will soon recover.

The greater part of Ross Creek intend to attend the fair at Tofield on the 28th.

Rally Day

"Rally Day" will be observed next Sunday at 3 o'clock in the Methodist Sunday School. A special program is being prepared. Everybody welcome to come and hear the children sing.

LICENSE RENEWED

The Provincial Liquor Commissioners met in Tofield today and granted a renewal of the hotel license to S. K. Bunney & Co for the balance of the year. There was no opposition whatever to the granting of the renewal.

As usually treated, a sprained ankle will disable a man for three or four weeks, but by applying Chamberlain's Liniment freely as soon as the injury is received, and observing the directions with each bottle, a cure can be effected in from two to four days. For sale by Dealers Everywhere.

Loyal True Blue Lodge Organized

A well attended meeting was held at the Methodist church on Monday evening to organize a local lodge of the Loyal True Blue Association.

Mr. Frank W. Russell was elected Master of the Lodge.

Messrs. G. O. Dixon and W. Bellamy were appointed a committee to secure a lodge room.

It was resolved that the lodge be known as King Edward Lodge.

Meetings will be held fortnightly and the lodge looks forward to a large and active membership.

License Cancelled

The application of Andrew Finseth of Ryley, for the cancellation of the license of the Ryley Hotel, was granted by Justice Harvey in the supreme court last Thursday morning. The license has been cancelled on the ground that the original recommendation in its favor was not signed by 50 of the nearest 60 householders, as required by the provincial law, and that there are not 40 actual occupied dwelling houses in the village of Ryley.

The fight between the Alberta Temperance and Moral Reform League, who have stood behind Finseth in his action and the Ryley hotel company, was commenced in the supreme court yesterday morning, before Justice Harvey and the whole day was taken up by the examination of witnesses. The case was argued by the solicitors this morning, Mr. Grant appearing for the moral reformers and H. S. Parlee for the licensees of the hotel

Mr. Parlee gave formal notice of appeal to the supreme court en banc, but it is understood that it will be carried into effect.

Digestion and Assimilation

It is not the quantity of food taken but the amount digested and assimilated that gives strength and vitality to the system. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets invigorate the stomach and Liver and enable them to perform their functions naturally. For sale by Dealers Everywhere.

Judges for the Fair

Neil Brampton of Brampton, Ont., and W. S. Jacobs of Arbanadas have been appointed by the Department of Agriculture to judge the horses and the cattle, sheep and swine respectively. D. W. Warner of East Edmonton has been engaged by the Fair management to judge the grains, grasses and vegetables.

Exhibitors Take Notice

Exhibitors will please take notice that they must have their exhibits all in early on Fair day. All entries must be in by 10 p.m. on the day previous.

Farmers Institute Meeting

A Farmer's Institute Meeting will be held immediately after threshing is over. It will be held under the auspices of the Tofield Agricultural Society. Several prominent farmers of the district will read papers upon live agricultural subjects and instructive debates will follow the reading of the papers. Watch for the announcements.

Our many readers amongst the farming community should make an earnest study of the long Prize List issued by the Agricultural Society for the first Annual Fair and Stock Show. Surely from amongst this long list you will find something which you have and will reap a benefit from showing. Make your intention to exhibit known to the secretary as soon as possible. Fill out the form to be found in each paper and send to the secretary. Or if you have no entry form, a card to him will bring you one by return mail.

To Intending Exhibitors

A large number of intending exhibitors at the Tofield Fair are inquiring as to the conditions upon which exhibits are to be entered. The only condition is that the fee of one dollar for membership in the Tofield Agricultural Society must be paid. If you have not already paid your membership fee, enclose it with your entry form when you send the latter to the Secretary

TORTURED FOR SEVEN YEARS

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" WAS THE CURE.

MADAM JOSEPH LEVETTE
No. 111 Lorette St., Sorel, Que.

"For seven years I suffered from tooth decay and dreadful burning pains in the stomach. I consulted Chronic Croakers—the latter so bad that sometimes I went two days without action of the bowels. Six different doctors treated me and for a year I was in bed, constantly losing death. Then my husband insisted me to try "Fruit-a-tives" and that medicine, and nothing else, cured me and saved my life."

DUTY—Is a matter often seen to have the interest of you when you are at a loss. Why? Because it's your duty. No one can tell me that.

CRITIC—A composer plays his last piece. Says his audience: "Now what is that passage which makes the cold chills run down the back?" Composer: "That is where the waiter dropped the hotel bill I sought to run."

MISS BIRKETT—So you have given up advocating women's rights? Miss Pioneer—Yes; I now go for women's wills. What—that? Widowers.

MRS. HENPECK—What do you mean sir by telling Mrs. Clark your husband was never out on Saturday nights? Henpeck—Well, Marie, I don't see what's the harm in that.

I THINK I have discovered a method to beat the bookies, remarked Mr. Wiseman. Then you must be using a very private system, replied Miss Cute. Well, it is good, and how is a system private? Why, I just tell everybody.

Those men don't know what it is all about. I know one of the members who before the House was not long ago, and could, including the Speaker, count only seven members present, but that it was known to be a quorum. Whether now or then, I am not sure, and would not like to be positive. Whenever there is a quorum present, I suppose he feels himself to be clever.

With the Horses

A REGULATION of some British breeding societies affects all the horses of the United Kingdom, and, for example, that from a Shetland pony to a Clydesdale stallion, but in their records. A mare's foal, for example, must have a Shetland pony in England and still recorded as the King with Hackney blood. If the sire after landing on the shores that mare stops a Shetland and the register in the stud book in which the foal to be found and the mare cannot. The foals take a set across city and useless registers. Another Scotland Records are of a standard equal to the best to be found anywhere, but no foal and is eligible to register on certain breeds of a certain height. Crossing Case Is Postponed

The application of the G.T.P. for permission to close the Government Road Allowance running east and west, just south of the G.T.P. station within the town of Tofield, and in lieu thereof, to open a Queen St. extension across the company's right of way, and the counter applications of the Town of Tofield for the opening of a King St. extension across the G.T.P. right of way, which would give direct access to that portion of the freight and elevator yards, came up before the railway commission last Monday morning at Edmonton. J. E. Wallbridge, solicitor of Edmonton, appeared on behalf of the town, with him being R. K. Whillans of Tofield, who had been sent up to attend the case in the interests of the town

Tofield, through its representatives, strongly objected to the request of the company for the opening of the Queen St crossing showing that this crossing would entail a heavy expense upon the town for grading approaches and streets leading from them to the elevator and freight yards. The company absolutely refused to open the King St. crossing and withdrew their application. A short discussion which followed brought out the fact in answer to a query from Chrisman Mayhew, that the company had not made application to the provincial government for the closing of the government road allowance. The judge pointed out that the title of this rested with the government, and said that when the company had obtained the consent of the government to the closing of this portion of the road allowance, they could come back to the commission with their request for a street diversion. In response to a question from Mr. Wallbridge, he said that this need not necessarily wait until the next session of the Board in Edmonton.

In an interview with the provincial director of surveys in the afternoon, Mr. Whillans met with corroboration of the statement of Judge Mayhew. While the town of Tofield includes nearly four miles of government road allowance on and within its limits the fee still remains in the Crown and the only jurisdiction which the town has over them is that of improvement.

The great no of christians today is unsatisfactory. In everything else we expect to improve—to make progress, and in consequence there is constant advance in finance, in business, in education, in science. But with many, there is no advance in religion, because of no desire or expectation of being better or greater than they now are."—Pastor S. Nicholson, Methodist Church, Tofield, Sept. 18th.

Editor Tofield Standard

Dear Sir:—I see in your issue of Sept. 14th, your correspondent of "Rosehill" (where that is I don't know) that my name is mentioned as wanting the office of road councillor of this township and as a "big-hearted Englishman, who gave after things and always gets them." Now I think your correspondent of a old find out truths before he tries his insults on me, and as your correspondent seems to think I go or everything I can assure him that he is mistaken and if there are any offices that he thinks he should have that I am holding, if he will come to me perhaps we can arrange that he shall have a few of the "tit-bits," but why he is bringing my name in at this early period I cannot well understand. I do think his time might be better employed in striving to promote unity rather than discord. I have tried to do my best for this township, if I have made any mistakes I am willing to rectify them as far as I can. Everyone is liable to make mistakes and your correspondent is liable to do so himself though he may think himself quite perfect.

Trusting I am not intruding on your space, but I think it best to answer so gross a mistake, though I had thought to let it pass as the boy did when the donkey kicked him red tabs it from whence it came.

I remain,

Yours truly,

DAME FASHIONS DECREES

If there is one thing that can make the best of mid-summer miserable this year it is the choice of the lingerie gown that are designed for the summer days. In the warmest months it has been impossible to carry out many of the sweet trifles which prevail in all other styles of dress. The immortal prejudice would not allow of the skirt having no garniture but the wearer is forced into a misery step extremely different from the long, vigorous stride one has grown accustomed to on the modern woman. Nevertheless, there are no suggestions of flare or fulness in this dress, only a little greater width at the foot, and it is this scarcely appreciable difference which makes the lingerie gown so much more attractive than any other dress of the moment.

The newest lingerie frocks are all adorned with either ribbon or satin, or even velvet, the simplest showing a sash and various rosettes, and of a bright colored ribbon, while the more elaborate models are really combinations of silk or satin with embroidered batiste or French nainsoulée. The principal trimming is still generally on the underskirt, tucks and lace insertions, frill lace or ribbon or bias silk, all these is then through the transparent outer covering, really fence is losing to be attached to the gown. The more heavily embroidered Handkerchief Linen Gown with Flowered Design

In show trimming once more on the outside of the gown, and in many of the models the wearer will see that the silk or satin is arranged in the exquisite shade of rose pink or heliotrope which is the favorite shade of summer fashion, or edged on a band of the same color.

The band is perhaps the best as a card in which the wearer may display much more than that of the length about the feet although one card is preferred to be the not exact position for the wearer, since the bottom of the embroidered and lace threaded batiste flounce are commencing without end.

One model that is extremely pretty is the gray fine flounce, above which is a band of the same material, which is of a light blend of satin, and then another fabric. The material for the sash is also of satin, and is knotted in a true flounce with all the band flounce are naturally be employed for such a design as this, almost any flounce and any kind of material. The ribbon which forms the band about the knees and is also used about the waist is the most effective by shirt on a bright shade of crimson or one of the season's exquisite tones of mauve or heliotrope.

Still another method of combining or introducing a color with a lingerie frock is by running ribbon or bands of silk on and out through the embroidery. In this case also hold ing the material in so that it shall hang straight from waist to hem is necessary. The gayest against flare of the sashes many of the skirts of the summer are caught in so as to give a somewhat tight hold to the figure, which is about as unpractical as could be imagined but is not necessary, and the effect is always be avoided by every conscientious of the fabric.

The models of the moment are practically impossible to carry out in any unlined lingerie gown. The only way to keep the dress cool is to have the lining of as sheer a quality of lawn, or even nainsoulée de soie, as possible to have it still fit well. In midsummer a silk or satin lining is out of sight out of the question but then what could be more delightful than half of a lingerie gown of taffeta, and then velvet at that. It would seem that comfort could not be the first consideration in the fashions of the present season.

Black is the reigning shade of the moment there is no question of that, and were it not for the very great demand for black it is probable that black would now be worn at all. But it is the fad to wear it. The smartest afternoon dresses are in black and white and the newest freaks of really summer material are in great majority white and black. The combination of black velvet with embroidered lawn or nainsoul natter be extreme to be likely to be very generally worn. And yet a gown of English embroidery flounced from just above the knees with a band of black velvet a black velvet girdle about the waist and worn with a toque of black velvet and a parasol of the black velvet also trimmed looked not too extraordinary to be delightfully smart

Black satin is also used to make half of the new lingerie frock. Then the pointed and but ery also of the black satin, the pointed flared with chiffon to soften it. There are a few white lawn gowns piped over black chiffon, just out of contrast to the multitudes of colored costumes draped in chiffon, but it remains to be seen whether the contrast tone of grey then obtained will meet with great popular approval. Superbe bodices of finest applique lace made up on a foundation of black chiffon are undeniably very smart, as are also the lace sashes veiled in black. It is a rational fashion to accept, could have in this way, but then there is scarcely one feature in the entire realm of fashion at the present moment which is not extreme. In the fetching for the novel many extra ordinary results have been arrived at.

In the course of which half the shirt is composed of a foreign material the open English embroidery or eyelet holiwork is more generally seen than the round embroidery. Valenciennes and baby Irish are almost equally fashionable, and there are many combinations of Cluny and even torchon lace that are very beautiful. The gowns of Irish lace are still the care and possession of all who can purchase them, but the lace maids veiled in black. It is a rational fashion to accept could have in this way, but then there is scarcely one feature in the entire realm of fashion at the present moment which is not extreme. The gowns of Irish lace are still the care and possession of all who can purchase them, but the lace maids veiled in black. It is a rational fashion to accept could have in this way, but then there is scarcely one feature in the entire realm of fashion at the present moment which is not extreme. In the fetching for the novel many extra ordinary results have been arrived at.

White chiffon and nainsoulée are more are both worn considerable for afternoon this summer. Although made up extremely on lawn and lined with linings, these chiffon and nainsoulée gowns are to be seen in much the same models as the so-called lingerie dresses. More elaborate are regarded embroidery and confluence of lace, perhaps, if this new gown white, than the embroidered batiste gown, these gowns are still not very different in character from veiled effects that fan last year a rather delicate and fat-lined underdress of silk lace and ribbon are seen in great numbers but whether the fashion is a lasting one, is doubtful.

In all the new designs of late summer and early autumn costumes the kimono sleeve is much in evidence and so far these is absolutely no change from the fad, long shoulder effect is one of these costumes those which have the sleeve in the form of the bodice, the distinction of the blouse remains the drooping effect which has both are even more becoming to the woman who wishes to appear well and to whom the kimono sleeves are not becoming. These bands of trimming, used in this manner are also a good tend to the home dressmaker, as they cover the part of the shoulder which it is most difficult to fit correctly.

The models of the moment are practically impossible to carry out in any unlined lingerie gown. The only way to keep the dress cool is to have the lining of as sheer a quality of lawn, or even nainsoulée de soie, as possible to have it still fit well. In midsummer a silk or satin lining is out of sight out of the question but then what could be more delightful than half of a lingerie gown of taffeta, and then velvet at that. It would seem that comfort could not be the first consideration in the fashions of the present season.

DRY FARMING CONGRESS

A N important function for farmers in this part of Western Canada is the Dry Farming Congress, which will be held in Spokane during the week beginning October 1.

The congress comes at a time particularly apropos in the history of agriculture in the West. The season of 1910 when figures of precipitation shall have been compiled, will rank first in one of the dryest the West has ever experienced, and many of the methods heretofore considered the subject but little attention, will turn with that sort of interest which is aroused by the incident of self preservation, to dry farming practices.

The congress which will convene at Spokane on October 3rd, will take up the matter of dry farming and will deal with it as seriously, and no doubt in detail, that the farmer who spends the summer in the field will. Coffee growers, tourists on dry farming procedure. Palace Car, Pullman and Dining Cars will be held at Dwarf four tents right the interests of the farmer who is in the normal precipitation is likely to be secured and the best methods will be acquired to make a crop, but adapted from the experience of those who have learned to make a crop of next season.

Besides the dry farming processes will not be greatly improved, but its value and practicability of those who are making there efforts to grow crops in a way that which is subject to destructive droughts. Experiments conducted by agricultural colleges, government experiment stations, individual farmers and by corporations, have proven that dry farming may be carried on profitably where ordinary farming processes would be impossible. That these

"A matter of great importance is appointed to all who have removed this sum from either side of the international boundary, and has seen the stretches of sown and vacants that will never produce crops of any kind with which to support the people who have settled upon the dry farming process. It is right now at least possible and in many always easily be tested. The season of agriculture is always possible, and at once and show that of ordinary farming is not appreciative.

By the time the Dry Farming Congress at Spokane is held it will be possible to determine in dollars and cents the loss inflicted upon the people of the United States and Canada by the dry weather that has affected some sections of both countries this year. It will be possible also, to know how far dry farming has met the problems imposed by the dry drought, and if it proved that the methods of dry farming are adequate to the needs of suffering. Any farmer or tourists on dry farming procedure. The A. A. Swimming Championships

The Alberta Amateur Swimming Championships are to be held in the Y.M.C.A. Swimming Pool, Calgary, on September 29 and 30th. A great deal of outside competition is expected.

This is the second year for the Alberta Championships. Last year they proved to be a great success, and this year promises to be even more so. The best gate held in Calgary had over 140 entries, so that you will see that competition is keen, and from all reports there are better swimmers outside Calgary than there are in it. Senior, Junior and Juvenile events will be pulled off.

Entry forms can be had on application to E. B. Smyth, Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. Swimming Club, Calgary, Calgary.

Entries close on Sept. 26th.

Sittings of the District Court and of the District Judges' Criminal Court will be held within the Judicial District of Athabasca on the Dates and at the Places following during the year 1911:

First Annual Fair
A Great Success

Thousand People in Town

Exhibits Numerous and of Excellent Quality. Future Success of Fairs Assured

Tofield, Alta., September 28th.

A genuine success than was anticipated attended the First Annual Agricultural Exhibition and Stock Show of the Tofield Agricultural Society here today. The Fair was held on Third Ave., in the heart of the town where large and substantial buildings were secured by the management in which to safely house all exhibits whether of live stock or produce, thereby ensuring a good show whether it rained or shone. The Okotoks Livery and Feed Stables accomodate practically all the horses and live stock, while all the exhibits of grains and grasses, vegetables and domestic manufactures were placed in the large drive way of Swift & Emery's big lumber warehouse.

From almost every point of view the Fair was a substantial success. The pure bred classes of horses were a disappointment, there being being no entries although there are several good registered pure breds in the district. In the heavy draught and general purpose classes there was a splendid showing, the competition being keen and pointing in no uncertain manner to the standard of which the farmers are working. In saddle and carriage animals there was also an excellent showing.

Cattle entries were numerous, Polled Angus and Holstein were the two classes in which registered animals were shown. S. A. Hall and J. W. Morton being the winners in these classes respectively. Grade Beef and Dairy classes were well represented, J. McGinitie and Sam Reibel carrying off a number of prizes.

Sheep and hogs were not as well represented as they should have been. D. Francis carried off all the prizes in the former class, and shared with I. H. Olsen in the latter. Mr. Olsen had a splendid registered Berkshire boar on exhibition.

In Poultry there not many entries, although what were shown were very good. Poultry raising is sadly neglected in this western country.

Probably owing to the recent rains which had greatly interfered with the fields of harvesting operations and the opening of threshing, the exhibiting of grains and grasses was seriously hampered, thus making the entries much fewer than they would otherwise have been. Several samples of excellent fall and spring wheat and quite a display of oberats of wheat and oats were put on view, but several of the latter showed signs of the effect of rains when in stook.

Probably the best showing representative of the Tofield district at the Fair was in the vegetables class. Here from sweet corn, vegetable marrows, pumpkins and all the ordinary hardy kinds and even to the watermelons home grown crab apple, (shown by Mrs. McGinitie,) had a thorough going standard of excellence both as to size, general appearance and quality, permeating the whole display, that while an eye opener to the local man, was a stunner to the visitors from the Capital and and other places more distant, to the newcomers and visitors from Ontario and Manitoba, the exhibit in general was a source of astonishment. In one exhibit (Mr. Ketten's) there was a sample of six potatoes together weighing over 17 pounds.

Mr. Craig, Provincial Superintendent of Fairs, was present and judged the exhibits of domestic manufactures. The competition in exhibits of butter both packed and in prints, was close and Mr. Craig stated most emphatically that he had never before seen a community in which there were so many good butter makers.

Several of the visitors to Tofield and the Fair from the Capital were Warden and Mrs. McCauley, Mr. and Mrs. F. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Al. Brown, Capt. Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. C. Gallinger and others. All expressed themselves as greatly delighted with the Fair and pleased with the day's outing.

Mrs. S. F. Biggs of Des Moines, Iowa, has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Than Noland of Beaver Lake West, during the past few weeks. Mrs. Biggs likes the country very well but thinks it would be more enjoyable when it is better populated. Having heard before she came up into Canada that crops were a failure she was agreeably surprised to find it quite the contrary. Mr. N-land began cutting an excellent field of oats the day after she arrived. He expects that they will run close to 75 bushels to the acre. Mrs. Biggs leaves on her trip on the 29th.

The Vanishing Smuggler

By STEPHEN CHALMERS

(Copyright, 1909, by Edward J. Clode.)

A Man's a Man for a That

WHITEHEAD he realized it or not, there was no doubt that Smuggle-ere was at least in love, for every time he mind turned upon Lucy Rose Lathie, it was suddenly overwhelmed with gloom. Why, he had no idea. He was not even sure that he liked her.

"I don't know how the wind blows," he would say to himself, as he stood by the window looking dismally out upon the dreary waste of the harbor. "I don't know whether I like her or not. I don't know whether she likes me or not. I don't know whether I'll ever see her again. I don't know anything about it. I'm a fool!"

Then he would sit down and write a letter to Smuggle-ere, beginning: "Dear Lucy," and ending: "Yours truly, Jack Smuggle-ere." But he never sent it. There's a good deal of trouble in the world that could be avoided if people would write letters and not send them.

He was sitting at the long, black desk, where the figure of a man would be sometimes dimly limning ghost in the sea downstairs at the mouth. The arms and legs of the figure drooped helplessly and the man's head tumbled limply about as he rose in the water.

"Somebody caught in the shell!" yell Smuggle-ere, running to his feet.

He was not long in finding the shell with the diver in it. It was lying on the floor of the cave, and Smuggle-ere, with the help of Jack Lathie, soon had the man in the green suit out of his helmet and lying on the floor. He was a sailor, and Smuggle-ere knew him by sight. He had been a member of the Red Mob.

He stood and looked stupidly at the two men who had come to his rescue. Then he turned and laid a restraining hand upon Smuggle-ere, who was wrestling with his pocket buttons.

"Let 'im dreem! Let 'im dreem," the Red Mobber whispered hoarsely. "It's the quickest effect. Let 'im dreem!"

He clung to Smuggle-ere as he spoke, and the latter desisted.

The young sailor stepped for a moment as he recognized the figure of Smuggle-ere. His hesitancy contributed greatly to the latter's safety, for before he could speak Smuggle-ere, with a bound, was at the door. The Red Mobber's hairy face and rushed down the passage. The door with a yell.

"Ha-haw-ee-ee, a man's a man for a' that," and the best-worst-loved song of the sailor rose of his body stirs

The door was a loosely hung affair, and from a moment's hesitation Smuggle-ere emerged, in a confused heap, with the Red Mobber. He struggled wildly towards the shallows.

The Red Mobber, forgetting in that moment his dreamy effect, was also struggling, and the water spurted, spraying for a moment in the sunlight, which had broken out in the west of us.

Then Smuggle-ere was on the dry reef, with the boatswain face down in a heap. The young sailor was pursuing swiftly, but the prostrate figure was a few moments ahead.

"Hell him over!" gasped Smuggle-ere. "Hell him over again! Shoot him on his head now—three! mary, lad, three! I've spoilt my best suit," he added, with a short laugh.

"Hell him over!" whispered the Red Mobber in tones of relief.

"Never fear," said Smuggle-ere. "He's too good a man for that. Up it!" But the latter's got him in the open air, "I've got 'im, fair!" cried the Red Mobber. "He's no use!"

"Then that hatch, ye mt!" command ed Smuggle-ere.

"It's too late! 'whined the Red Mobber savagely. "It's no fair to me as the plain has got to tell. I'll be in jail before you get out of the hole."

"Then he'll have to be here, an' see that contraband!" roared Smuggle-ere. "Down with that hatch, ye block brained son of a sea cook! Down with it, I say!"

"I will not!" said the Red Mobber with sudden fire.

Smuggle-ere, who had been bending over Lathie, trying to restore his senses, sprang to his feet with the oath.

There was a short blade glint in the dim twilight, but Smuggle-ere's revolver came out first and laid him. There for a moment, and both men ruled on the rocky floor of the cavern. The Red Mobber's face grew white, and he sat up in the stee downcast. Smuggle-ere, who was undressed, gave his struggle a mighty heave and the next moment it was the would-be murderer who was on the other's mercy. Smuggle-ere's face darkened the cheek of hate, and the razor-edged the hollow beating of the heart as he saw the pale face of "Jack" Don't" moaned a voice from the floor.

"Shut was the knife fell." Smuggle-ere ground out through his teeth.

"I've drugged underneath," said the Mole [illegible] "I'm sorry."

"Smuggle-ere," he pleaded, "Lucy'll be [illegible] farewell."

"Ye must have stabbed him," asserted. "I always thought it was on the left side, ye rushlicked Swine. [illegible] I'll tell the knife. Now, ye rest block."

A. J. H. McCauley - Tofield, Alta.

By-Law No. 44 of the Town of Tofield, Alta.

A by-law to authorize the issue of debentures of the Town of Tofield to the amount of five hundred and fifty dollars for the purpose of acquiring a site for a fire hall, lockup and town office and to provide for the assessment and collection of the amounts necessary to pay the said debentures.

Whereas it is desirable that the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield should acquire a site for a fire hall, lockup and town office for the said Town of Tofield.

And whereas it will be necessary to borrow the sum of five hundred and fifty dollars for the purpose aforesaid and to issue a debenture or debentures of the Municipality therefor bearing interest at the rate of six per centum per annum, payable yearly, which is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this by-law.

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Town of Tofield according to the last revised assessment roll thereof is the sum of $255,344.55.

And whereas the amount of the existing debt of the said Town of Tofield outside of the debt due for current expenses of the year is $10,000.00.

And Whereas it is desirable to make the principal of the said debt and the interest thereon repayable in equal aggregate yearly sums during the period of ten years from the date on which this by-law takes effect within which the said debt is to be discharged as hereinafter provided.

And whereas the total amount required to be raised annually by special rate for paying the said debt and interest as hereinafter provided is $74.73.

And Whereas it is desirable that this by law shall take effect on the 1st day of December, 1910.

Now therefore the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield enacts as follows:

(1) It shall be lawful for the corporation of the Town of Tofield to acquire by purchase land for a site for a fire hall lockup and town office.

(2) It shall be lawful for the Mayor of the said Town of Tofield to borrow on the credit of the corporation of the Town of Tofield the sum of five hundred and fifty dollars for the purpose aforesaid and to issue a debenture or debentures therefor in the said Town of Tofield for the said sum of five hundred and fifty dollars in sums of not less than one hundred dollars each and such debenture or debentures shall be made payable in ten annual instalments of principal and interest combined as hereinafter provided, having coupons attached thereto for the annual instalments of principal and interest.

(3) The said debenture or debentures shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum, payable yearly, and as to both principal and interest may be payable in any place in Great Britain or Canada and may be either in sterling money or Canadian currency.

(4) The Mayor of the said Town shall sign and issue the said debenture or debentures and shall cause the same and the coupons attached thereto to be signed by the secretary-treasurer and the secretary-treasurer is hereby authorized and instructed to attach the corporate seal of the said town to the said debenture or debentures.

(5) The said debenture or debentures shall be payable in ten equal annual instalments during the ten years next after the date on which this By-law takes effect and the amount of each of the said instalments if only one debenture is issued under this By-law or the aggregate amount of the said instalments, if more than one debenture is issued, shall be the sum of $74.73 being the aggregate amount falling due each year for principal and interest on the said debenture or debentures.

(6) That for the purpose of paying the said instalments of principal and interest at the same become due the sum of $74.73 shall be levied and raised in each and every year during the period of ten years next after this By-law takes effect by a special rate sufficient therefor over and above all other rates and taxes upon all the rateable property of the said Municipality, the said sum being sufficient to pay the said several instalments of principal and interest on the said debenture or debentures as they respectively become due.

(7) This by-law shall come into force and take effect on the 1st day of December, 1910.

(8) That the votes of the electors of the said municipality qualified to vote on the present By-law shall be taken on the 30th day of October, 1910, commencing at 9 o'clock in the forenoon and continuing until 6 o'clock in the afternoon at the office of the secretary-treasurer of the said town of Tofield on Main Street in the said Town of Tofield by Frank W. Russel who is hereby named and appointed Deputy Returning Officer for the purpose of taking such vote.

(9) That on the 19th day of October, 1910, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon at the office of the secretary-treasurer of the said Town on Main Street, the Mayor shall on application of any person interested in promoting or opposing the passing of this by-law authorize in writing one person to attend the final summing up of the votes by the said returning officer and one person so attend shall pass on behalf of the persons interested in and desirous of promoting the passing of this By-law and one person on behalf of the persons interested in and desirous of opposing the passing of this by-law and the said authorized in writing one person to attend the final summing up of the votes by the said returning officer and one person so attend shall pass on behalf of the persons interested in and desirous of promoting the passing of this By-law and one person on behalf of the persons interested in and desirous of opposing the passing of this by-law

(10) That the Returning Officer shall attend at the office of the secretary-treasurer of said Town on Main Street in said Town of Tofield at five o'clock in the afternoon on Thursday the 20th day of October, 1910, to sum up the number of votes given for and against this by-law.

Passed in open council this 27th day of September, 1910.

Read a third time and finally passed in open council this day of , 1910.

Mayor Sec.-Treas.

NOTICE

Public notice is hereby given that the above is a true copy of a proposed By-law which will be taken into consideration by the Council of the Town of Tofield after being voted on by the electors and, in the event of the amount of the electors being obtained thereto, the said By-law will be finally passed by the Council within two weeks after the 30th day of October, 1910.

The votes of the electors on the said By-law will be taken by Frank W. Russel, Returning Officer at the office of the secretary-treasurer of the said Town on Main Street in the said Town of Tofield on the 30th day of October, 1910, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The above By-law and this notice were first published on the 28th day of September, 1910.

SETBACK TO BRITISH SUFFRAGETTES

THE British suffragettes have received a severe setback in the House of Commons and was first greeted as in a burst of applause, then rather as a front, a shell

It appears that the vote passed, their resolution was defeated by a majority of 14, a reduction of the whole House. Even the premier at the last was to be tired over again, because the members of the jury did not send Judge Jeffreys to the Tablet (London) vainly puzzle it

By a majority of 109 the House of Commons has decided that Mr. Sharpe's Bill confirming the parliamentary franchise on certain classes of women ought to become law. A few moments later the same House of commons, by a majority of 145, decided that this bill shall not become law. They blessed the bill, and then, without even a decent interval, they proceeded to strangle it. It was in keeping with the tongue-in-the assertions by which the movement has been characterized from the start. For years the second reading of the bill meant nothing, but to send it at once to standing committee of the House, and so there was at once refused. The last result is a direct setback to the cause. It is now certain that the present House of Commons does not mean to allow women to have the vote.

Mr. Asquith allowed the bill to be brought in and debated because of a promise he made to Conciliation Committee before the last general election. He has now kept that promise. He should not be expected to do more. The editorial in the Nation, Leader, who declares that the "tactics of the Prime Minister [illegible] are beneath criticism," said that the admission of these women to the vote would change their character at the next election. So the forms of representative government are perverted and made fair considerations of justice, the only reading for postponement. Women should be left to decay that, in the name of politics, especially at a time like this, when several great "stakes" are being played for, they may not disturb the game. But such absorption in politics as prevails just now has people of its own, especially for a period in which the attention of progress depend upon keeping the public mind in close touch with the various forces. The reference of every eminent step in the affairs of a short range party opportunism is not even much better, for it fails to unite all the moral and intellectual forces of the nation in the task.

The debate on the bill shows that the anti-suffragettes have not been taken [illegible] Mr. Asquith remarks [illegible] Mr. Hayes Fisher, that if [illegible] Mr. Lyttelton [illegible] Mr. Balfour [illegible] Mr. Chamberlain [illegible] Mr. Lloyd George [illegible] Mr. Churchill [illegible] Mr. Runciman [illegible] Mr. Pease [illegible] Mr. Harcourt [illegible] Mr. Birrell [illegible] Mr. Walter Long [illegible] Mr. Austen Chamberlain [illegible] Mr. Bonar Law [illegible] Mr. Ronald McNeill [illegible] Mr. Lloyd George [illegible] Mr. Winston Churchill [illegible] Mr. Asquith [illegible] Mr. Balfour [illegible] Mr.

The Conservation of National Resources

The general public is confronted at every turn with some indication of popular feeling toward the advantages to be derived not only in the immediate future but in the generations to come, by the careful guarding of the natural wealth which nature has spread so lavishly over the world. Governments are spending large sums of money to insure mineral and timber resources for the future.

A little problem in arithmetic might throw considerable light on the value of dealing with prospective criminals during their days of childhood. The average working man has an earning capacity of $600 per year. He gives to the world 30 years of service, which means that he accumulates in a lifetime the sum of $12,000. The man of a little higher grade with a little more education is worth at least $1000 a year to the state. His term of working capacity is 25 years, which means that he adds $25,000 to the assets of the world as a lifetime. It is estimated that it costs ten thousand dollars to convict and take care of a habitual criminal in a life of twenty years of crime. This means that the state has lost the value of the man's labor to the extent of twenty-five thousand dollars. The habitual criminal is a man whose mental make-up is capable, as a rule, of taking a fair standing in matters requiring education. The state not only loses his producing capacity but invests ten thousand dollars to prevent him from doing harm to and destroying the property of all harmless individuals.

The cost of saving a child to citizenship in many cases does not exceed the sum of five or ten dollars. This includes the locating of the child in a foster home and his removal from the conditions of cruelty or neglect wherein he would grow up to be a criminal or an individual with a non-producing capacity. Children in foster homes are so placed that they meet of a necessity follow the example which is set in that environment.

The money saving to the state is apparent to anyone who gives the matter a moment's thought. A grand deal of credit is given to the man who evolves a system or a scheme whereby ten thousand dollars worth of lumber or mineral resources are saved for the state.

The children of the nation are as a rule looked upon as a commodity without commercial value, and the tendency is to leave them in condition of neglect and abuse until such time as they have reached the place where they have become so entrusted in crime and debauchery that it is impossible to rescue them, or until such time as they have reached an earning capacity, when they are overworked and propelled to the place of rebellion and revolt.

A child placed in normal home conditions will, as a rule, find example and precedent guiding it naturally and without force into the channels of life which are bound to result in its becoming a normal citizen with normal views of life and its requirements.

The Children's Aid Society in conserving the wealth of the nation in guarding the interests of the child, and in building up hundreds of thousands of dollars of productive capacity for which it deserves unlimited credit and your hearty support. The Superintendent of Neglected Children, Edmonton, gives special attention to letters of inquiry from persons desiring to assist.

Now that the rainy weather of the early part of September is over we may expect to enjoy the best weather of the year which comes in September and October.

Signals of Distress

Tofield People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them.

Sick kidneys give many signals of distress.
The secretions are dark, contain a sediment.
Passages are frequent, scanty painful.
Backache is constant day and night.
Headaches and dizzy spells are frequent.
The weakened kidneys need quick help.
Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, backache and urinary disorders.

Mrs. M. E. Parr, of 262 John St., Stratton, Ont., says:
"I have found more actual results after using Doan's Kidney Pills than I did from any other remedy ever used. I had suffered for several years with kidney and bladder trouble and after a short course of treatment with this medicine I have been cured. Miserable pains across my back which would extend up my back and into the back of my head, frequent headaches and dizziness and kidney secretions that were scanty and contained a heavy sediment had me all run down. These troubles have all left me and I am pleased to give Doan's Kidney Pills my best wishes for success and my hearty endorsement." For sale in Tofield by C. E. Jamieson.

The Story of "Twelfth Night"

Declared By Many To Be Shakespeare's Ideal Comedy

In the acting version of "Twelfth Night" the drama is divided into five acts, and the play opens with the Duke Orsino—who is madly in love with his beautiful neighbor, Lady Olivia—lamenting his fate owing to the rejection of his suit, the lady having lived in complete retirement since the death of her brother. Another suitor for her hand is Sir Andrew Aguecheek, an addle-pated companion of her then-libbing uncle, Sir Toby Belch, to whose attentions the Countess turns a deaf ear. Viola and Sebastian, twin sister and brother who closely resemble each other, are shipwrecked and become separated, each believing the other to be drowned. Viola, the first to appear on dry land, dressed in her brother's clothes and assuming the name of Cesario, seeks service with the Duke and is engaged as his attendant. The maiden assumes a tender affection for her master, who sends her to plead his case with the Countess. She pleads the Duke's cause with such eloquence and grace that the Countess ends by falling in love with the messenger. Viola unable to reveal her sex, returns to the Duke with the news that she has been unsuccessful in her mission. The Duke still loveslch and unconscionable, talks philosophically of love, asking the supposed youth whether he has ever felt the pangs of that disease. Viola, in the meantime having conceived a passionate love for her master which she dare not unfold, is repeatedly being sent to the Countess to plead Orsino's cause. For a while the play is taken up with a comic underplot by the humorous characters residing in Olivia's house who determine to play a practical joke upon the pedantical steward, Malvolio. They make him believe the Countess is attracted by him and illus to see him apparelled in "yellow stockings and cross garters." The Countess astounded, believes her steward has gone mad and has him confined to a dungeon to the great amusement of the plotters. The love story is resumed with another complication between Olivia and Viola which ends as did the first. Olivia, thinking, that from conduct, the page will not prove his own suit, in impassioned words proclaims her love for him. At this point, Sir Andrew Aguecheek is persuaded that Cesario is his rival in the affections of the Countess, and is inflamed by his boon companion, Sir Toby Belch, to send a challenge to the page. Viola receives the message, but she has no more courage for the fray than has her paltry antagonist. Both are made to believe that as a matter of honor they must fight, and a duel ensues. Happily it is bloodless, for Antonio, a ship captain, mistaking Viola for his friend Sebastian, ranges himself on his side. Sebastian, Viola's twin brother, now comes actively into the play and the comedy of errors begins to develop. Sir Andrew meets Sebastian and mistaking him for his frightened foe of a short while back, insults him and receives a severe drubbing. The Countess Olivia appears and mistaking Sebastian for the page, stops the quarrel and invites him to her home. He accepts her hospitality and shows signs of love at first sight. Shortly after Sebastian hastily agrees to marry the beautiful Olivia, she believing all the time that he is still the poor page with whom she earlier felt in love. Now comes the unravelling of the plot. The sea captain is brought before the Duke charged with his old time offence of acquiring and claims the friendship of Viola whom he believes to be Sebastian. Viola denies all knowledge of him and in the midst of their recrimination Olivia enters. The confusion is becoming worse

J. D. Hannan - - Manager

Five entertainments coming this winter. The first on October 10th, Shakespeare's ideal comedy "Twelfth Night" will be presented here by Manager C. P. Walker's company of English Players, including William Yale and Viola Eddy. This organization toured the West last season in "As You Like It" and made such an impression that their return in the new comedy is sure to be greeted by a crowded house. Mr. Yale is one of the most Shakespearean of comedians, while Miss Eddy has won many admirers by her charming portrayals of the immortal bard's dainty heroines. A massive scenic equipment has been provided for the comedy which will be staged in five acts and sixteen scenes.

Tickets at C. F. Jamieson's and Miss Mahaffey's.

J. Noland, proprietor of the Tofield Livery Barns, has recently built a large corral at the rear of the stables on 3rd Ave. west.

T. H. Henderson, managing director of the Imbedi Coal Co., Ltd., has his new residence completed and has moved in when Sebastian appears and the Countess sees two husbands before her, not knowing which she has married. The hour is at hand for inevitable explanation; in the similarity between the brother and sister is discovered the clue to the imbroglio. The Duke learning that Viola is a woman turns from the Countess to the newly discovered damsel, and to the sound of wedding bells the curtain falls.

MICA Axle Grease

For Traction Engines, Wagons, Etc.

MICA AXLE GREASE
THE IMPERIAL OIL COMPANY LIMITED

Mica Axle Grease makes the wheel as nearly friction-less as possible and reduces the wear on axle and box. It ends axle troubles, saves energy in the horse, and when used on axles of traction engines economizes fuel and power.

Reapers, Threshers, Plows, Harrows — Granite Harvester Oil — insures better work from the new machine and lengthens the life of the old. Wherever bearings are loose or bouncy worn it takes up the play and acts like a cushion. Changes of weather do not affect it.

Gasoline and Kerosene Engines — Standard Gas Engine Oil — is the only oil you need. It provides perfect lubrication under high temperatures without the carbon deposits so common in engine cylinders, and is equally good for the external bearings.

Steam Traction Engines and Steam Plants — Capitol Cylinder Oil — delivers more power, and makes the engine run better and longer with less wear and tear, because its friction-reducing properties are exactly fitted to the requirements of steam traction engines and steam plants.

ZAM-BUK SAVED THIS BABY

Mrs. W. Berry, 54 Morgan St., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I should not all over my baby's face and head until it had nearly spreaded his entire body. It was terrible and painful, and caused the little one hours of suffering. We tried many and powders and ointments, but he got no better. He refused his food, got quite thin and worn, and was reduced to a very serious condition. I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. It was wonderful how quickly the Zam-Buk healed the sores, and the end of a few weeks my baby's skin was healed completely. He has now not a trace of sores, or eruption, or blemish on his skin. But only to just count of the Zam-Buk which saved my baby's life."

Hook Worm of Industry

By Harrington Emerson

THE poor white trash of the Southern States and the Indians segregated have long been a by word, but we suddenly find out that all these people, white and dark, are affected with a parasite, the hook worm, which saps their vitality, materially slowly absorbs their strength and joy.

The remedy is not nebulous, nor chary, as are the replacements of the ailments of the strangers of the lash monster—all remedies are sure. Low cost is the elimination of the parasite. After the initial betterment, the principles of sanitation, of hygiene, of temperance, of economy may be left to develop again.

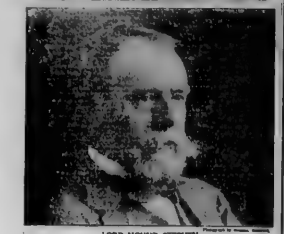
FAMOUS PEOPLE



LORD MOUNT STEPHEN

The Career of a Great Canadian

The greatest philanthropist of Canada is Lord Mount Stephen; the greatest benefactor of the United States is Andrew Carnegie—both men who came to the new world as poor boys from the east of Scotland, have made great fortunes and have spread with lavish hand their seemes glad wealth.

When George Stephen, the son of a poor carpenter in the small Scotch village of Dufftown was born in 1829, the outlook for a great success seemed merely dim and incredible. When, after completing the course at the little parish school he undertook to earn his living as herd-boy on the minister's farm, he gave no vision, even in his dreams when he wasn't he hunted the hare and fox in the company of Duke the friend of the King and the hounds of the hunt, that he would one day be the friend of the King of the whole world, and as an apprentice in the drapery trade he went to Aberdeen, and later to Glasgow and London. In 1850 he left England for Canada, where he engaged in the wan en business, and in a few years was well on the high road to prosperity.

In Canada he found his cousin, Donald Smith, later Lord Strathcona, and the two High Landers who had stayed together as boys, as well known, and soon, like the mention of two bonnie their united efforts forced in one channel. Both were directors in the Bank of Montreal, both are interested in railways, and both have achieved fame as philanthropists, statesmen, art connoisseurs and in diplomatic circles. In 1875 Lord Mount Stephen joined a syndicate for purchasing the bankrupt line of the Dutch who had been of the St. Paul and Pacific Railroad which, when completed, controlled the Northwest of Canada.

When the Pacific Railway was restored to Dominion it was with the understanding that it should be completed within a certain time. The Government promised to build a railroad across the continent. Thinks Tofield The Only Place On The Map

Jas. Rogers and Mrs. Rogers of Macgregor, Man., arrived in Tofield last night from the East on a visit to their sons, Roger Bros. of the Reliance Store. This morning they took a stroll around town and had a look over the district. They were so well pleased that they have decided to make this their home. They will probably build a residence almost immediately.

Hockey 1910-11

Things are opening up brightly in hockey circles in Tofield for the coming season. Anticipating an active season in the national game during the coming winter, a large number of local enthusiasts met at the Reliance Store last Friday evening and formed the organization of 1910-11. E. W. Rogers presided as chairman and Oliver Letourneau as secretary. The following officers were elected:—

Hon. Pres. Chas. E Taylor.
Pres H. K. Adams.
Vice-Pres. S. A. Hall.
Sec.-Treas. J. O. A Letourneau
Committee of Management:—
Harry Rogers, H. C. Loggs, Chas. E. Taylor, Chas. Twitchell, Thos. R. Henderson.

Quarantine For Infantile Paralysis

Having heard that there were several cases of what were diagnosed as Infantile Paralysis in the community and this week receiving the death of a child in East Beaver Lake section, we reproduce below for the benefit of those interested in protecting themselves an t those dependent upon them, an excerpt from an article published recently in one of our Edmonton exchanges:

"Infantile paralysis is an infectious and most terrible disease. I am surprised to hear that there have been a number of cases in the city. While there is nothing in the Provincial Health Act calling on medical men to report such cases, I will ask the doctors of the city to report all cases, and I promise to quarantine for the disease."

Dr. T. H. Whitelaw, medical health officer of the city, who on Friday returned from the east after a months absence, thus expressed himself to the Bulletin.

The period of quarantine, the medical health officer said, would be from two to three weeks. Infantile paralysis was a most terrible disease and scarcely recovery took place in a very small percentage of cases.

In the Stone case we understand the attending physician ordered the house thoroughly fumigated.

The school board had the school closed and the building thoroughly fumigated. Care is being taken to prevent any possible spread of the dread disease.

Instructions have been issued by the provincial board of health to all Medical Health Officers in the province to report all cases of infantile paralysis to the department.

District Court

Long List of Criminal Cases Dealt with

Hayes does not turn up — Allen found Guilty of attempted Bribery - Let Off On Suspended Sentence

Judge Strongly Lectures Accused

Evil of Intemperance in Strongly Denounced

Quite a long docket of criminal cases was dealt with by His Honor Judge Taylor at the Court Sittings for October at Tofield. The appeal of Dorin in the case of Rex vs. Dorin was not allowed, it not being properly entered. The appeal of Mr. Stuart of Holden in Rex vs. Stuart against the conviction was allowed and the conviction quashed. The appeal of Sin, a Chinaman who was convicted in Tofield last spring on a charge of vagrancy was allowed and conviction quashed. The appellant in Rex vs. Maxwell, the pool room case which was on prominent last spring, had withdrawn his appeal and the conviction stands. Rex vs. Hayes—Ivan Hayes, who was a short time ago convicted on the charge of attempting to break jail and sentenced to thirty days by Justice Mont and who appealed against his conviction did not put in an appearance and consequently the case was not heard. Wm. Barrett who was committed last spring to stand trial on an assaultable charge, was discharged, the Crown stating that there was no evidence upon which to prosecute. Fred Allen, defendant in the case of Rex vs. Allen on a charge of attempted bribery was found guilty and let off on suspended sentence.

In all the cases W.a. Corbett of Fort Saskatchewan, acted as agent for the attorney-general for the prosecution. H. A. Mackie of Edmonton for the appellant in Rex vs Dorin; J. K. McDonald for the appellant in Rex vs Stuart; E. A. Dickson for appellant in Rex vs. Sin and W. G. Harrison for the appellant in Rex. vs. Allen.

In passing judgment in the Allen case His Honor Judge Taylor laid particular stress upon the seriousness of the offence and the unwarrantable reasons put forward by the accused in pleading extenuating circumstances. The words of His Honor in rendering his judgment are well worthy of the attention of all and particularly all those who are wont to indulge in the gratification of their own passions. In part his words were as follows:

It is only by the administration of justice that we can really live in this country. If that administration of justice were not strictly carried out we would find it very difficult to live in this or any other neighborhood. There would be a certain lawless element that would come in and that would make it very unpleasant to live in the country. The law, therefore, is very strict and it seems to me to be wisely so in mak'ng it a very serious offence to offer a bribe to any peace officer who has the overseeing to a certain extent of the community and thus attempting to cause a miscarriage of justice.

There is another side to the matter, namely, the safety of the public. If one man gets free from any punishment after committing a crime, others might do the same. It is often the exception of others that deters crime from being committed. This crime is a very serious one and carries a maximum punishment of 14 years. You run the risk of spending 14 years penitentiary by offering a bribe to a constable, in a case in which you might be fined as you stated in your evidence, 10 or 15 dollars. I am confident that you could not have then got that at the time of your offence. It is no excuse for you when you say you were not in a condition that you did not know what you were doing. You placed yourself in that condition by your own voluntary act. DRUNKENNESS CANNOT BE AN EXCUSE FOR ANY CRIME THAT MAY BE COMMITTED. If such an excuse were permitted nine-tenths of the people accused of crime would put forth that as their defence, they did not know what they were doing. But the law wisely states that that shall not be taken into consideration. That is no excuse and cannot be urged as an excuse. Possibly I might be doing an injustice to the public by letting you out on suspended sentence, while possibly there are some who think after the hearing of this case that you should be let out on suspended sentence.

Suspended sentence means that sentence is only suspended, that you can be brought up at any time and sentenced. Usually a person is not disturbed unless he commits some other offence. In that event, while you may be convicted or acquitted of that offence, you could be sentenced for the present offence. It holds continually over your head. Your freedom depends upon your good conduct. I am speaking plainly Mr. Allen. The position in which you are standing today is a very serious one and I wish my words could be heard all over the country. According to the evidence you stated to the constable that all constables received money similarly and it was time for him to get busy and fix his prin. You surely could not have meant that. Although I am anxious to let you off on suspended sentence, as I stated before, I don.t know whether I would be doing my duty to the public, however, I am going to let you out on suspended sentence and I trust this will be a lesson which will last you the whole of your life. If you are tempted again to do wrong, and temptation comes to all of us, I would strongly urge upon you NOT TO GET INTO THAT CONDITION OF MIND BY DRINKING, THAT YOU DO NOT KNOW WHEN YOU COMMIT WRONG.

Remove Tax on Industry

Mr. Henry Vivian, M. P. for Birkenhead, England, in one of his splendid addresses in Edmonton during the last week gave emphasis to the appeal we made a few days ago for the repeal of the business tax in our towns and cities. He said:

"We are entitled to call upon the man who holds the land idly to contribute a larger share of the cost of utilities by which he benefits than the man who invests his money in productive enterprise. We must so adjust the cost of meeting the social needs of our communities as to put a fair share of their expense on the shoulders who most benefit by them. I want to attract capital into every new country awaiting development and it is by freeing industry from hampering conditions that capital will be attracted."—Strathcona Plaindealer

Water and Gas Matters are discussed

A Little Bone

No more riding or driving on the sidewalks in town under penalty of $25 fine or 20 days in durnam vill. Such was the import of the by-law requesting sidewalks that was put through council last night. The mayor and all the council complaining Mr. Emery were on hand to transact the town business. The mayor reported the results and knowledge gained from his trip to Cue Town, Medicine Hat. Report will be published next week. As a result of the knowledge gained, councillor Fust gave notice that at next meeting he would move that a proposition to spend $7500 on the development of our gas resources be authorized by by-law.

The report of the Fire, Water & Light committee was brought in. This consisted of a couple of resolutions passed by the volunteer fire brigade recommending that two underground cement cisterns, 20 feet wide and 14 feet deep, be built at main corners in business section costing approximately $200 and that a gasoline fire engine with hose, reels and hook and ladder trucks be purchased at about a cost of $4300. Council duly dallied over this report for nearly one hour. "Gentlemen, we have been over a year at this matter," said the mayor, "it is time to do something." "It is 5 to 12" hoarse put that we have an adequate water supply council could not see its way clear to adopt the scheme suggested as a whole. The matter was partially dealt with by a motion passing to build the cisterns and a by-law will be brought in authorize the expenditure.

Councillor Rory administered a wholesome rebuke to constable Mahaffey for being delinquent in the carrying out of his duties in stanning the fact that at certain places the sidewalks were in a dangerous and filthy condition and saying that he thought the man was being paid sufficient salary to lead his employers to think that he should do something at least to show that at least he was capable of earning the same.

Edmonton Abolishes Sanitary Pails

The city of Edmonton is doing away with the sanitary pail system and substituting the pit system of water closets. By a certain time all ratepayers not having sewer connection must have their pits for their water closets dug.

A correspondent of the Journal who is attending the fairs says th. t in live stock the fairs along the G.T.P. take first place in the standard of fairs throughout the province in general while in exhibits of grains and grasses and vegetables they do not come up to the standard of number and quality.

The Edmonton Journal, says in in a recent article which covers the question in detail, that the abolition of the business tax in that city would be far from revolutionary in its effect upon the real estate mart and that it would not introduce any element unduly disturbing the tax system of the city. To abolish the business tax altogether would only increase the rate one mill on the dollar.

Don.t trifle with a cold is good advice for prudent men and women. It may be vital in case of a child. There is nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs and colds in children. It is safe and sure. For sale by dealers everywhere.

Beaver Lake East

One of the saddest, occurances that ever fell to our lot to chronicle, is the death of little Ida Stone, youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Stone, which took place on the morning of Sunday, October 2, after about three days illness. On the preceding Wednesday she complained of feeling unwell. Mr. Stone was away land hunting at the time, and upon his return on the 30th, as she seemed to be worse, he went on the 1st for Dr. McPherson of Ryley, who said the disease was Anterior Poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, and held out little hope of her recovery. The next day she died. The funeral took place on the 4th to the Vegreville cemetery. The sympathy of their many friends is with the bereaved family. This terribly fatal disease seems to be spreading in Northern Alberta, and it is to be hoped the medical authorities will do their utmost to stamp it out.

The Fair at Vegreville on the 30th ult. was a very good one taken as a whole. Beaver Lake East as usual captured quite a number of prize, even if the Cabbage Patch was unrepresented, owing to an unexpected August frost. The Widows Mr. Fiset's ranch, came to the rescue and took the $10 special for the best collection of vegetables, besides other prizes. Mrs. Malcolm McCallum won two firsts and a second for butter. The prizes for most fruits came to the Lake. The weather was not quite up to the mark, though a vast improvement on last year's, when the wind and smoke were something fierce. There was a mix up about the school exhibits from "this district, the secretary refusing to give entry tickets for them. Our teacher, as a consequence, is after his scalp and another merry war of words is in prospect.

Owing to sickness in his family, Rev. H. B. Gordon of Ryley, has been unable to hold services here for some time. There is a possibility that Rev. Thos. Corbett, of Redvers, Sask., will take this field for the winter.

Messrs. Marshall and Frank Stone and J. W. Smith returned from a land hunt on the 30th. They found suitable locations some twenty miles south east of Lloydminster, and have applied for same. We are sorry to lose Messrs Stone and Smith who are good neighbors and pushing wide awake men, but hope their new venture will be a great success.

Bardo

Bardo is a district of progress and achievement. The spirit of enterprise is everywhere manifest. Time and tide have changed the general aspect of things here. Old and delapidated houses are giving place to new and modern structures and every form of convenience and comfort is following in the wake of prosperity.

But the district has not always been so. Small was the beginning and discouraging the prospects of the hardy pioneers. Poverty and privations were the common lots and every day incidents. They dreamed of this as a prosperous country only as a thing impossible and indeed they were not to blame. Now, as we gaze back, we can't but marvel at the way in which their dreams materialized.

Another thing that bears evidence of better days is a splendid new school building erected a short distance east of the post office. It is a handsome two storey structure and does credit to the contractor, Mr. A. Moon of Bardo. The building has two commodious rooms with ample seating capacity to accomodate at least thirty-five in each room. Though the building is somewhat large for present attendance it has been designed to meet the requirements of the future. The upper room will be used by the high school class now being organized. The staff of two competent instructors has been engaged.

Join our Bible class, it furnishes interesting and instructive matter for every day thought and will be a source of benefit and blessing throughout your life. The importance of earnest Bible study can not be too highly emphasized.

The band is still extant though inactive for the time being. During the storm of work and responsibility interest has flagged. With the coming of winter we will have more leisure. It is time that we reassemble and stir our latent energies and entreat ourselves from the evil influences into which we have fallen.

Another B.B.B. organization for Bardo. The girls have organized a basket ball team, procured a ball and are now practicing with a vigor that is delightful to behold. Tofield, look out for your laurels!

Messrs. Rude and Reeren have erected steel windmills on their farms. They employ them for pumping purposes.

Our Young People's Society is still flourishing and acts as a propelling force among the young. A feature of our monthly literary meetings is a topic selected by program committee to be discussed and debated. We may safely assume that these discussions not only are instrumental in amusing old and young but is the centre of interest for the entire meeting.

The settlers that are out from Bardo for the frozen north have not returned and in all probability they have become acclimatized. The fact that they are all young and mercenist renders the affair still more mysterious and incomprehensible.

Considering the number of emigrants to Bardo and district from all the states and other places we conclude that this must be a favorite point to which all the rays of emigration converge and shine with brilliancy on our surroundings. The influx of wealthy Germans and other nationalities is assuming gigantic proportions. It is but a matter of a short time until all the vacant land in this vicinity is disposed of and settled. The Germans are desirable citizens and neighbors and we welcome them for their industriousness and enterprising spirit though I admit that our preference would be our own countrymen.

N.B. Train Saved in Marvellous Manner.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. 31.—The C. P. R. passenger train from Sudbury to Port Arthur was derailed in the Shuniah Mountains early this morning. Leaving the main line the engine, tender and baggage car, the mail car and the first passenger coach, one of the latter being seriously damaged, left the track but remained upright. The second coach left the track and turned over on its side, while the third coach was also derailed but remained upright. The sleeping car was also left on the track, but was badly damaged. The engineer and fireman were able to jump from the engine, which ran on along 30 yards before it stopped. The engineer was the only one who was injured, he having had his leg broken. He was able to get to the nearest house and was brought on to Port Arthur by motor car. The passengers were badly shaken up, but no one was seriously injured. The wreck was cleared up and the train was able to leave Port Arthur for the east at 1.30 p.m.

Tragic Event Leading To Revolt

Story of the Happenings in Manuel's Domain Which Preceded Dethronement

King Manuel of Portugal has had a short and troubled reign. On February 1, 1908, when he was only nineteen years of age, he saw his father and eldest brother shot down and was himself wounded in the arm. The assassins were then burning to the capital to seize the reins of government when they were met by a force of soldiers who had been hastily summoned to the scene. The assassins were then arrested and executed. Manuel, who was left the sole heir to the throne, was then proclaimed king. He was then but a youth of eighteen years of age. He was unmarried, but it was expected that he would probably soon fix the fourth at both speed in an endeavor to catch up with Dido and soon through the trouble with horribly-clouded matches.

The Vanishing Smuggler

By STEPHEN CHALMERS

(Copyright, 1926, by Edward J. Clode.)

"Are you sure of Daisy?"

"Yes, sir, I am sure of her. I've known her since she was a child, and I'm sure she would be true to me. Besides, she would have known if I gave what seemed to her a good reason, and if you like me I'd go to-night and tell her what's happened and that I'm promised man in the King's service."

"Very well, you can have my consent, but I'll not be responsible for the consequences. Now, Jack, I'll tell you what I want you to do. Get a couple of horses and ride to Hawkhurst. Put up at the Queen's Head and wait there till I come. Don't let anyone see you if you can help it. Do you understand?"

"Yes, sir, I understand perfectly well. I'll be off at once."

"Then you'd better be going. Good-bye, and good luck to you."

"Good-bye, sir, and thank you kindly for all your kindness to me."

Jack Tregarthen left the room, and Mr. Hurrell sat down to write a letter to the Collector of Customs at Rye. He had just finished it when he heard the sound of horses' hoofs outside, and looking out of the window he saw Jack Tregarthen riding away, followed by a groom leading a second horse.

"Now, I wonder if this new move will be successful," he said to himself. "I'm afraid it will only drive the smugglers to other parts of the coast, and then we shall be no better off than we are now. However, we must do our best, and I'll write to Mr. Pitt and tell him what I've done. I'm afraid I'm not very hopeful of success."

He sat down at the table and began to write, but he had not proceeded very far when he heard the sound of horses' hoofs outside, and looking out of the window he saw Mr. Hawkshaw and Mr. Hesketh Bell riding up to the door. He hastened to meet them in the hall, and as he opened the door Mr. Hawkshaw said:

"Mr. Hurrell, I've come to tell you that I've had a most extraordinary adventure, and I've also got some very important information to give you. Can you spare me a few minutes?"

"Certainly, sir, certainly. Come into my study, and I'll order some refreshments for you and your friend."

"Thank you, but I don't require anything. I've had a glass of ale at the Queen's Head, and I'm not thirsty. But I'll tell you my story at once, and then you can give me your opinion on it."

Mr. Hawkshaw then related how he had been attacked by the smugglers, and how he had been rescued by Mr. Bell, and he concluded by saying:

"I'm sure that the smugglers mean to make a raid on Hawkhurst to-night, and I've come to warn you of it, so that you may be prepared to receive them."

"Thank you very much, sir, for your kindness in coming to me," said Mr. Hurrell. "I'm afraid, however, that you've had your journey for nothing, as I've already received information that the smugglers intend to attack Hawkhurst to-night, and I've sent for a troop of dragoons to come to my assistance. They will be here in a few minutes, and I shall be prepared to receive the smugglers when they arrive."

"Then I'm afraid you'll be disappointed," said Mr. Bell. "The smugglers have changed their minds, and they've decided to go to Rye instead of coming to Hawkhurst. They've got a large force of men, and they mean to attack the Custom House at Rye and carry off the goods that are stored there. I've come to warn you of their intentions, and I'm sorry that I've been the means of misleading you."

"Then I've been misled myself," said Mr. Hurrell. "I've received information that the smugglers intend to attack Hawkhurst

Radical Amendment Necessary

The decision of the Supreme Court on lease reversing the finding of Mr. Justice Harvey in the matter of the Ryley hotel license shows a most unreasonable condition of the liquor license act in this province, which should be changed at the next session of the legislature. The Ryley license was moved on residence at the first opportunity. It means that the license commissioners are to a most broad which there is no appeal. These are men without legal training, receiving their appointment for party reasons; they are therefore exceedingly liable to err in judgment, and it is inconceivable that persons or communities who suffer by reason of their judgments should not have an appeal to a higher court.

In the case in question the protesters against the license at Ryley proved conclusively that the petition for license was irregular and without the sanction of the requisite statutory support, yet the commissioners granted the license. Mr. Justice Harvey considered that the commissioners had overridden the statute in granting the license and he cancelled it. Now the Supreme Court en banc rules that Mr. Justice Harvey had no right to question the action of the commissioners, although they had overridden the statute. Doubt'on the commissioners are honorable men, above suspicion of graft, but they have in their hands a power that appeals to the graft-giver and some day men may feel seats on the commission whose hands are not behind and the highest court in the land cannot reverse their judgment.—Philadelphia.

"From prehistoric time man has had the desire for an empire embracing all mankind. As Christianity grows, this idea dies and the same ambition is being directed to the kingdom of Christ, and Christians now have, not merely an ambition, but have already laid indefinite plans to spread the kingdom of Christ to earth's remotest bounds in this generation."—Pastor B. Nicholson, Methodist Church, Tofield, Oct. 9th, '10

The appeal of the Ryley Hotel from Judge Harvey's cancellation of their license on view of an insufficient number of householders was allowed on the ground that the license board alone can deal with license

Weak Kidneys Make Weak Bodies

Kidney Disease Causes Half the Common Aches and Ills of Tofield People.

At one weak link weakens a chain so weak kidneys make the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other troubles injure the kidneys, and then other sufferers are followed the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poisons left in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills ensue, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards dropsies and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill.

Mrs. Jane Faherty, of 380 Pacific Ave., Winnipeg, Man., says:—

"After suffering dreadfully with rheumatism in my right hip and lower back pains across my back for years, I am sure I am pleased to say that Doan's Kidney Pills have cured me. The rheumatic pains in my hip were so severe that I could not lie on my on my right hip at all and could hardly move in bed. My back was so weak that after sitting or stooping over I could not straighten up for some moments, and when I would attempt to do so I would scarcely bear the pains across my back. Doan's Kidney Pills had not used a couple of remedies for the to make a difference in me, but Doan's Kidney Pills have done their work well in my case, and I shall always have a good word of praise for them." Sask. Jails are All Full Up

Men Sent Down For Minor Offences Never See Inside of the Bastile

REGINA, Oct. 12.— The increasing criminality of the past few weeks has created an alarming state of affairs in the jails throughout the province. Not since the word "all full up," and the cry of repeat are time, for in addition to the jails being full up, the chaps have also been escorted into jails and are full up also. Now it's up to the Government to relieve the unfortunate prisoners they must be the jails to handle any longer. As an instance is the city the other day six drunkards were sentenced to a month each. Not a bed was left in any cell, even they were allowed to avail the air of freedom to which no room could be found for them, the west to work for Cropper, the point or, and five with Hinns & Company.

The Mounted Police barracks are full to prisoners being confined there, while their lock-up is also considered capable of accommodating 30 men properly. The officials are simply dumbfounded, in they are up against a mere serious problem than appears on the face of it as they in turn turn men who should be serving because there is no room condition of the jails, or are they to rest on their oars, and do nothing? It time about the latter course they may get into hot water, on the only thing is to go ahead and after house sentences to jail, if a cell cannot be located, be liberated.

The reported state in the hole be not come about, altogether, however, by this abnormal criminality of the past few weeks, although that find fault to do with the overflowing. For a long time it has been known to the authorities that conditions were said to be shocked in the jails, but the government has not taken steps to remedy it.

Hon. Frank Ellert comes a report that 16 of their prisoners had to be transferred to Moosomin, as the jail was overwhelmed most unwelcome guests for them. The jamming persons can get into on at Moosomin, and while the policemen were safely locked up, every cell was well filled. It was afterwards found necessary to use the chapel there, where the victs are housed, the floor and the prisoners allowed to rest as best they could.

President Taft Endorses Y.M.C.A.

Says he Would Not be Doing Citizens Duty Unless he Assisted

United States President William H. Taft on a recent trip to lay the corner stone of a new association building at LaCrosse, Wis., in speaking of the good work done by the Y.M.C.A. said: "I would not be doing my full duty as a citizen if I did not encourage in the good work that the association is doing. All over the world the good work done is a factor that is recognized by every fair minded citizen."

Chas. B. Scotter, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., who gave to the Y.M.C.A. of that city swimming pools and baths, in marble, and recently "More than 32,000 boys have learned to swim in the association's pools, and the association's work is a source of great satisfaction."

Cleveland H. Dodge of the Queen Copper Mining company, El Paso, Texas, when speaking of the Y.M.C.A. campaign in that city said "I want to the association for the great work it has done and is now doing. In all the long years that I have been a resident of the Sunset state, I have not seen a more worthy institution than the Y.M.C.A. Judge Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation: "An association like the association and therefore overcome their selfishness and become unselfish, and in the end will be of great benefit to the community."

The Rockefeller campaign in the east finished by the Missouri Y.M.C.A. in an effort to raise $35,000 to be devoted to wiping out the debt on the building and to the extension and alteration of the plans and shower baths. The change bath is to be increased to 60 feet in length, which will make it the largest in Canada. It is anticipated that the appeal will be made by the association to-day with a generous response on the part of the business men and others of the city. The campaign opens on Tuesday, October 18, continuing for six days.

English Merger of B.C. Saw Mills

Consolidation Takes Over Giant Company's Yards and the Mundy Mills

A huge lumber merger, which will be made many of the prominent lumber concerns in British Columbia, and a large number of claims in the Peace River Alberta, has recently taken place under the name of the Dominion Saw Mills, Limited, an organization perfected by a syndicate of English capitalists with a capitalization of $5,000,000, and of the head of which is Lord Rochester.

Under the merger, the new syndicate will control the Fraser River mills of the Gulbe Lumber company, which has several large lumber yards in the Edmonton district, and also the Mundy Lumber company, together with all their mills in British Columbia.

Something of the extent of the merger was told by a director of the superday by W. W. Foster, one of the directors of the Gilbe Lumber company, who is a guest at the King Edward Mr. Foster has just completed a trip of inspection round the yards of the company in Northern Alberta.

The Gilbe company and the Mundy company, he said, was the largest in the district, ranging from the two mills under the control of the new syndicate. Through the merger our company have gained the advantage that we now have seven mills to direct from, and the new company has more yards to which it can ship lumber.

"The new syndicate is gradually gaining control of all the large lumber mills in British Columbia. They have already taken over the Hind mills and the mills of the Revelstoke Lumber Co., and are negotiating to acquire the big mills of Northern B.C. The syndicate also own 30 square miles of timber limits."

Revolution has raised its head in Portugal. Last week saw the passing of the Monarchy and the beginning of a Republic. King Manuel has fled from the Capital and is now under the protection of Britain. Theophile Braun is temporarily President. An election will be held within three months.

Delta, the outlaw at Winter, Wis., has been captured and will stand trial.

Irwin Ferguson of Grassby, Que., is up on a visit to his cousins, M. W. Ferguson of Tofield and Karl Ferguson of South Beaver Lake. He is greatly taken up with the Beaver Lake District. Mark has received another letter from another of his cousins, Johnson Ferguson of Grassby, Que., in which the latter says he has been very favorably impressed with what he knows about the Tofield district and that he is thinking of selling out and locating in the Tofield district.

Ryley Riot Cases

As an aftermath of the reported disturbances of the peace at Ryley on the occasion of the temporary closing of the hotel at that place, several cases came up last Saturday before Justice Hunt at the R.N.W.M.P. barracks here. R. Hill, H. Hill and W. Kent man were each fined $1 and costs, being found guilty on the charge of disturbing the peace and quiet of a dwelling house. P. Norton was found guilty of common assault and A. Finseth the same, and each were given a like fine.

Farmers Institute Meeting

A Farmers Institute meeting will be held on the afternoon of November 8th next in Tofield, under the auspices of the Tofield Agricultural Society. Important and interesting papers will be read by several of the leading farmers of the district. F. B. Anderson will present a paper on the subject "Flax Growing," J. L. Gray will have a paper on "Strawberry Culture and small Fruits," Sam Stirrett on Alfalfa; Angus Campbell, on Swine; D. Francis on Cattle and Clydesdale Horses and will be pleased to answer all questions that may be put to him.

Miss Le Neve in Delicate Health

London, Oct. 13.—Ethel Le Neve who is being held for trial on the charge of being an accessory after the fact to the murder of Belle Elmore, the American actress, whose husband, Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, is held as her murderer; is in delicate condition.

The prison doctor fears that if she is placed on trial in her present condition it will have serious effect on her. Miss Le Neve remains unshaken in her infatuation for Crippen, but declares that if she gains her liberty she will commit suicide.

Steady Growth of Tofield

A deal of great importance to the future of Tofield and vicinity has recently been consummated, by which the International Securities Company of Winnipeg become the exclusive sales agent for all Grand Trunk Pacific property in Tofield. This deal means not only that some very desirable building sites between Sixth Ave and Cookson Ave will be at once placed on the market, but that we will present a paper on the subject "Flax Growing," J. L. Gray will have a paper on "Strawberry Culture and small Fruits," Sam Stirrett on Alfalfa; Angus Campbell, on Swine; D. Francis on Cattle and Clydesdale Horses and will be pleased to answer all questions that may be put to him.

The International Securities Company is the exclusive sales agent for the Grand Trunk Pacific in a number of the leading towns along the Main Line west of Winnipeg. Last July it began advertising in Watrous, with the result that the name Watrous is almost a household word throughout the Dominion, and property values in Watrous have doubled in four months, new industries have been established, and Watrous today is enjoying a healthy growth in wealth and population

It was the original intention of the International Securities to operate only in divisional point towns on the Main Line of the G.T.P. A few weeks ago Mr J. M. Hamilton, representative of the company, visited Tofield, and after spending a day looking into the resources of the city and surrounding country, strongly advised that Tofield be added to the list.

"I can see no reason why Tofield should not in a short time grow to have a population of 5000 to 6000 people," said Mr. Hamilton after his visit here. "It certainly has back of it a number of farms any one of which should make it a town of importance. As the trade centre of the rich Beaver Lake District and the head of the Calgary branch of the G.T.P. it is sure to enjoy a trade of considerable volume. Its coal and natural gas resources, together with an abundance of water should make it a manufacturing centre of consequence. Its proximity to Edmonton with its packing plant and its large population will make it an important shipping point for farm and dairy products. I have found no district in Western Canada better adapted to mixed farming and truck gardening than the district surrounding Tofield, and it has the added advantage of a good market for everything produced."

The International Securities Company and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway are not "town lot" boomers. The railway company is anxious only to see the country about its lines settled up and the dirt-

Richard Graham, Elmvale, Ont., for a number of years mayor of Flos township, Simcoe county, was inadvertently omitted from the list of judges at the Tofield Fair. Mr. Graham was present and kindly acted as assistant to Mr. D. W. Warner, judge of grains, grasses and vegetables. Mr. Graham recently purchased a half section of land a few miles north of Tofield and is having his son live on it. Mr. Graham is immensely delighted with Alberta in general and Tofield district in particular.

towns grow in order that it may enjoy the benefit of the increased freight traffic. The methods of the International Securities Co are to exploit the surrounding country as well as the town, show what is back of the town to promote its growth, and seek to bring in actual settlers who will assist in building up both the town and the surrounding country.

That the results of the advertising campaign which is all be carried on in behalf of Tofield will be similar to the one of the Watrous campaign there can be little doubt. At Watrous the local people were slow to realize what the coming of the International Securities Company meant to the town, and as a result they allowed outsiders to get the pick of the G.T.P. lots offered there, and reap the reward from the advance in value. The International Securities Company has decided to give the people of Tofield and vicinity first opportunity to buy the choice lots at Tofield, as will be seen from their announcement on page 5. Mr A. J. H. McCauley, the well known real estate man, is the sole Tofield representative of the International Securities Company, and has already received orders for a number of lots in the new addition.

DEATH AFTER A SCRATCH

Warren Quarter, an employee of the Whitney Box Co., died from blood poisoning caused by a scratch on the finger. The finger had been pricked by a splinter of dirty wood, a hundred-to-one chance, as it is certain that the hand the latter is known to, and with germs of which he is not afraid, as a fact. Directly those germs are introduced through the breach in the skin a battle royal ensues between them and certain organisms in our blood.

The way to avoid serious results is to cleanse the wound and apply Zam Buk. Zam Buk is a powerful, yet safe germ killer, and when applied to the broken skin or scratched into the tissue radically destroying the germs which cause inflammation and blood poisoning. Many cases of cuts and sores run Zam Buk stops the pain and sooths the smarting. That is why it is so popular with children.

The flesh then soothed and purified, the wound is made perfectly healthy, and all poison and stains of festering removed. Having done this, Zam Buk then proceeds to heal the wound so sure and new healthy tissue is built up in a quick, painless and perfect manner.

Zam Buk must not be confused with ordinary ointments. Zam Buk is a unique preparation to keep aseptic, soothing and healing qualities that are not to be found in others. Try it the next time you have a cut, scratch, sore, bruise, burn, eczema, chafing, ulcer, ringworm, etc., or without equal. It is also used wide for foot pains, for which it may be regarded as a specific. All druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box, or post free from Zam Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Harmless imitations should be always refused.

NEVER MIND THE SUBALTERN

MAJOR J. N. KENNEDY, R.E. (of the English army), tells a story which is too good to be lost. He relates that the commanding officer of a certain balloon section at front one day at the balloon shed with a mysterious paper.

"Here, subaltern, a lightweight sub altern, like," explained that the paper contained a new patent parachute, and he suggested that the subaltern might like to test it personally.

"But," objected the officer nervously, "I suppose it doesn't open?"

"Oh, but the makers guarantee that it will open," replied the O.C.

"Yes, but suppose it does not?" said the sub.

"Well, the makers have promised to give me a new one," the O.C. answered in all seriousness.

I DON'T know what to make of my nephew, George," remarked the elderly gentleman, "he is a queer mixture, contradictory tastes in music."

A GROUP of Scotch lawyers were met together one evening in December, when one took occasion to remark that the days were growing perceptibly shorter.

"Now, I," said one of the barristers, "always say 'another,' while John always says 'another.' What do you say, Sandy?"

The last topple had made Sandy doze, and at the sudden question he roused and replied: "I? Oh, I say whisky."

A MANAGE story is told at one of Winnipeg's clubs. It seems that an older member thereof, a clever chap, was being frightfully bored by his cousin at table in the cafe one evening, the latter individual being a bit tall as the former was bright.

The talk was fast becoming unendurable, when the first named member observed to observe a man who was sitting out of the dining room passing in his direction that happened to be somewhat intoxicated.

"Look!" exclaimed the first member in desperation, "an ex-everhasn't!"

M. BARBOUX, the eminent French lawyer, who died recently, was well known as an after-dinner speaker, and had a wonderful fund of good law court stories. Perhaps the best of them is the conversation where M. Barboux declares that he overheard in the street-car during the Dreyfus trial one afternoon.

"Well, how did you get on?"

"Splendid! I got in the corner and sure of the child. The judge was on my side, you know."

"A friend of yours?"

"Not at all," my friend cruelly. He used to be my uncle's first husband."

O'NEIL boarded an ocean liner were a lady and gentleman, accompanied by their young hopeful aged six, and as is usually the case, the parents were suffering from seasickness, while Willie was the liveliest thing on board. One day the parents were lying in their steamer chairs hoping that they would die, and little Willie was playing about the deck.

Willie did something of which his mother did not approve, so she said to him: "Willie, if you don't stop that I'll tell the captain." Willie stopped for a few moments, but his strength left on his wasted frame, looked at his poor sick mother and feebly muttered, "How'dy do, Willie?"

A NEAR-SIGHTED spectacle wearer had given a little lecture in the shape of Loch Lomond, in Scotland, and, naturally, he fished.

"Just seen a seal. Shot at it three times, and missed each time."

At dinner an hour later he sat next to a lawyer who had a bandage around his head.

"Had an accident?" asked the near sighted spectacle wearer.

"Accident!" roared the other. "At tempting another murder, sir. I was having a bath about an hour ago, when some lunatic with a gun fired at me three times from the shore, and shot part of my ear off. I don't know why such animals are allowed out without a license!"

LADY KNILL, who recently gave a banquet to the archbishops and bishops, is a woman of very religious and charitable sympathies who is one of the three women in the world who possess the Order of the Holy Sepulchre, given in her case for charitable work in the Roman Catholic diocese of Northampton, where she is known as "Queen of the Poor."

In connection with her charitable work, Lady Knill is rather fond of telling the story of a man to whom she gave a pair of boots. Some days later she met the man again wearing only one ragged pair.

"I was glad to see those with the pair I gave you," she said kindly.

"So was I," replied the cured unblushing "I sold those off. Them I can wear any time."

MRS. E. STEWART, the secretary of the National Women Suffrage Association, said in a recent address in Chicago

"There was on the one hand because the so-called new women of democracy using the ballot, and on the other they go about the world showing the home with all the cruelest will they can muster up.

"Once, on a steamship, the captain called up against the unruly women and their neglect of household duties. And it was the ship's captain, of course, who laughed when a pretty girl in the back of the room remarked darkly.

"'Don't you ever get homesick?'

"'Homesick?' he said. 'No, but sometimes I wish my wife was here.'

"'Why, sir, I am never home enough!'

"'Is the body,' ordered the fore man of the jury, 'that you have found?'

The body was laid before them The jury made a careful examination and questioned the attending surgeon.

"'Is the body,' asked the foreman, 'that you have found?'

"'Square through the heart.'

"'Is that the body of the heart?'

"'Yes, sir.'

"'Who shot him?'

"'I did, sir.'

A dozen witnesses declared that Jabez had shot, and Jabez himself admitted it. The jury consulted softly for five minutes.

"'Well, gentlemen of the jury,'" said the foreman, "what is your decision?"

"'Wait, judge,'" answered the foreman of the jury, "we've decided that Jake Daniels is the dumbest shot in this county, and we don't deny it."

THE late Bishop Dunne," said a Sioux Falls physician, "used very successfully to impute scepticism and misunderstanding.

"Dr. Dunne, a Roman Catholic, was a Chicago business man of sceptical tendencies when he died.

"'My dear Mr. Harn, I do not refuse to believe in the truth of your faith, I am merely the affidavit of Israel carried the Israelites out of Egypt 2,000 years in the wilderness—well, there, I'm bound to say my faith breaks down.'

VOTING ON THE BY-LAWS

Tomorrow, the 20th of the month, the ratepayers of Tofield will, by the register of their votes determine whether we are to have a town fire hall this year. There seems to be no doubt in the minds of the ratepayers that we should have a proper place for the housing of the fire fighting equipment. As the town grows so will the number of fire fighting appliances. Indeed the present need of additional equipment is glaring and it is unmendable on the part of the brigade that they are urging upon the council to get busy and furnish the town with a more efficient equipment. Then with reference to the town hall, council needs a place of their own in which to meet, offices for the secretary-treasurer and police lockup, etc. The question is one in which there seems to be no difference of opinion. The by-law should carry.

There is another by-law which is being submitted to the ratepayers, that concerning the site upon which the building is to be erected. Upon this issue there seems to be a decided difference of opinion. Council has already months ago, purchased two lots in block 19. One is that on which the town well was put down, the other is lot 2, blk. 18 and which not only fronts on Main St. but the rear of which butts against the rear of the lot on which the well is located. This lot was purchased with the intention of having it as the site of the proposed town hall. If this by-law is turned down the hall will in all probability built on this lot. If the by-law is carried and the expenditure of several hundreds of dollars allowed it is the intention of at least a number of council to build the hall on a lot on 3rd ave. east, east of Morton & Adams new grain warehouse and possibly near the well in the proximity of the Methodist church.

There seems to be a decided opinion on the part of some of the ratepayers that the council is going to too great lengths in saddling the town with a needless debt. They claim that the taxes are high enough already. Others claim in connection with the above opinion that the Main St. lot in block 19 is as good a location as could be secured and that it is giving more justice to the ratepayers in the north section of the town of the town in the matter of fire protection, to the financing of which they contribute equally with those in the south section, and to which they are equally entitled.

Then the same stands. If the by-law is carried council has a power to borrow money but additional power where they please without reference to the wishes of the ratepayers. If it is not carried, council will have to build the town hall on the lot which was already purchased for the purpose.

Juvenile Offenders.

The child offender has until the last few years been a source of perplexity to Police Courts. The old idea of punishment, an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, was constantly held before culprit and judge. The child was discharged or committed. The result in either case was the development of a precociousness in the child to evade the results of wrong doing, and a recognition on the part of those who were wholly interested in the welfare of children, of the inadequacy of such a system to inculcate the principles of reparation and correction.

The probation System is an outgrowth of this need. At the present time the Judge treats the child much as a school teacher a pupil who has made an error in arithmetical calculation and is required to work out his problem again under direction. The Judge has before him a report on the home conditions surrounding the child and contributing to his becoming a delinquent. The child is shown why he must make reparation. He is given to understand that there is a higher principle at work than what he considers a species of retaliation.

He is not sent has k alone to his old conditions, as formerly, but is placed under the supervision of a probation officer, a clear headed sound hearted individual who volunteers to give the boy a friendly hand, to take an interest in his work, his companions' his amusements. The probation officer is willing to advise the boy when he stands in need of it, to warn him of the consequences of persistant delinquency and to see that he is disgraced for slacking or otherwise punished according to his offence.

In nearly every case where children have come under the influence of probation, they have responded immediately, and according to reports of probation officers through out the province, have become all and in many instances more than had be n expected.

The Superintendent of Neglected Children, Edmonton, calls for volunteers from every city and town in the Province of Alberta to act in the capacity of "Big Brother" to the mischievous children whose misdirected energy, if not promptly steadied by a firm friendly hand, will lead them into the ranks of the confirmed criminals. Ninety five per cent of our child delinquents need only such directions to become honest, industrious and in every way desirable citizens.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Public Building, Tofield, Alta." will be received at this office until 12.00 m. on Monday, the 31st October, 1910, for the construction of a Public Building at Tofield, Alta. Bad Stomach

Many In Tofield Are Being Thoroughly Purified By Mi-o-na, The Guaranteed Cure For Indigestion

People of Tofield who suffer from dyspepsia and other stomach troubles are getting tired of taking preparations containing pepsin, because pepsin simply digests the food artificially. It does not cure, it never cures.

Mi-o-na does not act simply digests animal food; it has an effect on starchy foods, such as potatoes, rice, bread, etc.

Mi-o-na cleanses and purifies the stomach and bowels, and tones up and puts energy into the stomach walls, so that they properly mix the food with the natural digestive juices of the stomach.

Mi-o-na tablets quickly arouse the stomach from its inertion, and in a few days it is able to do its work nearly and without exertion. There will be no more sour stomach, fermentation of food, disturbed, sick headache, belching of gas, or foul breath.

Mi-o-na costs 50c per large box, and is guaranteed to cure dyspepsia, sour or sick stomach, vomiting of pregnancy, and stomach sickness resulting from over indulgence of the night before, or money back.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.

The Vanishing Smuggler

By STEPHEN CHALMERS

(Copyright, 1930, by Edmund J. Cudd.)

Smuggler-ette Pulls From Dose

So far he had not communicated his discovery to the men. He was now waiting with impatience and a growing uneasiness for the reappearance of Lorna Lorimer. Surely she could not have been choking for two hours. Although Lorna had boasted of a capacity that her sex was credited with not possessing, it was inconceivable that she could remain under water for twenty-four hours before coming up for air. It was not doing it. It was not even possible for the long-eared rodent to remain submerged that length of time. Then, what could it be?

Why, of course! Lorna was a smuggler. Lorna was a clever girl, making up some excuse to get aboard before the men came on the vessel and then hiding herself in the cabin. Lorna was a girl of resource. Lorna was a girl of initiative. Lorna was a girl of action. Lorna was a girl of—

"Hey! Jim! Oh, forgive me! I've got one!"

CHAPTER XII.

A Through Understanding

"Yes, sir," cried the coast guard, tugging down his hat with one hand and clutching at the arm of his chair. "Orders, sir, orders, and if the men had been standing by till I came aboard, sir, there would have been no chance of getting off before the morning, sir!"

Jack Ashmore glared at the old coast guard. He was a very sluggish person and not even a good one.

"I'm Mister Hornecraft, Ashmore, sir, and I'm in charge of this station, sir!"

"Indeed," said the dowager, who sat up with the coastguard, staring into the storm with a countenance of utter loathing and reminded them that the hour was late and Lorna still absent. "Indeed, it is not our duty—to—to—to—"

"Yes, ma'am," said the coastguard, touching his cap with respect for the lady's position and wealth, "it is our duty to do our best to—to—to—

Mr. Rogers Sr. has purchased Ben Barkwell's residence in the north section of the town and expects to move in, in a few days.

Misses Mabel and Minnie Hammond of Edmonton were guests last Sunday and Monday, of their cousin, Miss L. Hammond of Tofield.

Miss Twitchell of Clinton, Ont., arrived last Sunday and will become an enthusiastic Tofielder. She will live with her brothers, Twitchell Bros., our new general merchants.

W. Glenn of West Tofield, has just received a new I.H.C. hay press from the factory, and is prepared to execute all orders large and small in the way of pressing hay for shipment.

M. Micklenberg, A.M., the eminent and 20 year experienced Eye Specialist of Winnipeg, will be at Jamieson's Drug Store, Monday, November 7th. Cross eyes, Headaches, weak eyes and every defect of the eye sight scientifically treated.

Messrs. C. A. Davison and E. W. Hammond spent several days hunting last week. They report good luck. They say, however, that on one occasion they mistook a farmer's tame ducks for wild ones and a slaughter ensued. The rest of the story we refrain to publish.

The Holden Cup

Conditions governing the Holden Club presented by the undersigned for competition among the Hockey Clubs organized along the Grand Trunk Pacific, from Tofield to Viking, in the Provincial Constituency of Vegreville, Alberta.

(1) This cup shall be open for competition to all regularly organized Hockey Clubs along the Grand Trunk Pacific, within the Provincial Constituency of Vegreville, Alberta.

(2) The first competition shall be held during the season of 1909-1910, at Tofield, at a date fixed by the Tofield Hockey Club. Two weeks notice to be given to each Club within the said district.

(3) The Club winning the cup shall hold the same for one year and it shall be competed for during the following seasons at the place where the same is held, provided that the Club of that place can provide suitable hockey accommodation.

(4) The competition shall be essentially a Club competition, representing Hockey Clubs organized along the Grand Trunk Pacific, from Tofield to Viking in the Vegreville Constituency.

(5) On the conclusion of the competition, the Cup shall be handed to the President of the winning Club, who shall be responsible for it's safe keeping.

The Tofield Coal Co., Ltd., beg to announce that they will deliver coal to any portion of the town. Leave orders at their office on Main St.

It is reported to us that the Tofield Boom Band still exists in an uncertain manner. It is evident that a sufficient degree of enthusiasm does not exist.

Miss Twitchell of Clinton, Ont., arrived last Sunday and will become an enthusiastic Tofielder. She will live with her brothers, Twitchell Bros., our new general merchants.

W. Glenn of West Tofield, has just received a new I.H.C. hay press from the factory, and is prepared to execute all orders large and small in the way of pressing hay for shipment.

M. Micklenberg, A.M., the eminent and 20 year experienced Eye Specialist of Winnipeg, will be at Jamieson's Drug Store, Monday, November 7th. Cross eyes, Headaches, weak eyes and every defect of the eye sight scientifically treated.

Messrs. C. A. Davison and E. W. Hammond spent several days hunting last week. They report good luck. They say, however, that on one occasion they mistook a farmer's tame ducks for wild ones and a slaughter ensued. The rest of the story we refrain to publish.

(6) The entries shall be mailed to the Cup Trustees at least three days before starting the Season's Competition, and all Secretaries of each organized Hockey Club making application to the Trustees to enter the Holden Cup Competition must furnish to the Trustees the names of the players on their respective teams. No Professional Players are allowed to play in the Competition.

(7) The Trustees of the Cup shall be, B. B. Gray, Viking; Ben Heath, Bon Accord; C. N. Holden, Holden; Hugh Burger, Ryley; A. F. Fugl, Tofield, Convenor. The said Trustees shall arrange and Tofield a visit and has decided to host the said Competitions.

Hockey Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Tofield Hockey Club next Friday evening at 8 o'clock, in the Reliance Store. Let everybody turn out as it is important. We expect to hear something from the Rink Committee.

You are not experimenting on yourself when you take Chamberlain's Remedy for a cold as that preparation has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds, and can always be depended upon. It is equally valuable for adults and children and may be given to young children with implicit confidence as it contains no harmful drug. Sold by dealers everywhere.

D. J. Robertson expects to visit friends in Ontario this fall.

We regret to state that Miss Jessie Watson is in the Vegreville hospital with a bad attack of appendicitis.

Mrs. Blake has gone back to Tacoma. Mrs. Steele accompanied her to Edmonton, where a re-union of the McKay family took place.

A wordy scrap in the Observer between H. D., and A. H. Russell was much enjoyed here. Most people think the honors are with the lawyer.

Oct. 20, '10

The Gas Proposition

W. C. Ginter, gas well expert who put down the Medicine Hat gas wells, who put down many test wells north of Edmonton and also who latterly has been employed by the government to report on the gas wells at Pelican Rapids, several hundred miles north of Edmonton as well as to report on the capacity of flow recently struck at Morinville, visited Tofield last Tuesday in an unofficial way, to look over the prospects for natural gas here. Mr. Ginter is a well known expert on gas propositions and his word goes a long way with those who have employed and who realize his worth. He does not have much to say at any time, being a man of few words.

As regards Tofield, after driving around town and territory adjacent he expressed himself as well pleased with the appearance of things. He is coming down on Thursday again and will spend several days going thoroughly into the matter and will next week send to the council a full report of his findings.

Council desire to go thoroughly into the case before submitting a proposition to the people and to find out all that may be expected as regards installing and operating a plant, should gas be found. Also suitability of location of well, methods of getting down the hole, casing, possibility of striking water instead of gas, thereby making it a source of water supply to the town, in fact as many of the hundred and one things that should be learned before taking the initial steps to put the proposition into effect.

Mr. Ginter informed us that at the Morinville well he found a flow of over 370,000 cubic feet per day.

New Pool Room

Another Block Going Up on Main Street

Ted Wilson, dead game sport, as he is perhaps approp.iately called amongst his friends in Edmonton's large sporting circles, paid Tofield a visit and has decided to locate here. He will put in a large pool room occupying a large building on Main Street, opposite the Reliance Store. R. Logan, who owns the lot south of the Letourneau block will build immediately. Mr. Wilson renting the lower flat.

The Merry Musicians Exciting Considerable Curiosity

Since the announcement of the series of entertainments to be given here under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge, many questions have been asked as to "The Merry Musicians," the nature of their performances and the personnel of the organization. The local people having the matter in charge state that the entertainments given by these people is going to furnish the pleasantest surprise of the season. The primary idea is humour and the program is framed with nothing more serious in view. The artists appear in the garb of the familiar Pierrot, each individuality being subservient to the origination as a whole, each happy in the simple dialection of "One of the Merry Musicians." A novelty musical act, an original monologue, serio-comic songs, a pianologue, quick change artist, choruses and ensemble numbers make up the program which embraces the desirable features of white minstrelsy and high class vaudeville.

QUARANTINE ABOGLATIONS

THAT fast and loosely disease should break out in England notwithstanding the stringent quarantine maintained regularly at all ports of entry from the Old Country countries shows the need of watchfulness on the part of those who have control of quarantine regulations. Not since the embargo was placed against Canadian cattle entering Great Britain, has any outbreak of disease among Canadian live stock of a serious character occurred. At all events none of the diseases, given as an excuse for the placing on of the embargo have been known for a few years ago when foot and mouth disease broke out in some of the Eastern States, Canadian quarantine regulations were sufficient to prevent that disease from getting across the border. Now that it has broken loose in parts of the continent diseases among live stock are so scarce, Canada's record is a very good one and equal to that of any country the world over. The out break in Great Britain serves to emphasize this fact, as the one reason why the embargo is continued against Canadian cattle is the danger of bringing contagion into the United Kingdom.

A THIEF BETRAYED

A WOMAN was recently arrested on a visit to a Parisian shop and charged with theft. On the police, private detectives with stocking some cheap jewelry. She denied the theft indignantly. Unfortunately for her, an alarm clock which she had stolen went off at this moment. She was searched, and three dozen clocks of small size, two watches, and eight brooches were found in a specially made pocket inside her skirt.

FATHER (to son who was remarkable for his ready wit. On one occasion, while traveling on a steamboat, a well known sharper, who wished to get into the priest's good graces, said)

"Father, I should like very much to hear one of your sermons."

"Well," said the clergyman, "you could have heard the last Sunday if you had been where you should have been."

"Why, where was that?"

"Where you ought to," answered the kind priest as he walked away.

THERE was once a playwright who sat in the front row at the first night of a new piece of his own. The piece failed. It failed dreadfully. As the curtain went down and over amid the hisses, a woman behind him leaned forward and said:

"Excuse me, sir, but, knowing you to be the author of this play, I took the liberty, at the beginning of the performance, of slipping off a lock of your hair. Allow me to return it to you."

LITTLE Alice, whose family lived on a rather large house with a comfortable complement of servants to run it smoothly, went home one day from school with a little playmate, whose parents were in much less affluent circumstances. She had a very good time, and on coming home was telling her mother all about it, when all at once she sobered up, and said

"But, mother dear, they do one very dreadful thing. I do hope not to be left to do it."

THROUGHOUT the christening service Sunday the baby smiled up beautifully into the clergyman's face.

"Well, madam," said he to the young mother, "I must congratulate you on your little one's behaviour. I have christened a great many babies, but never one who behaved more intelligently than this baby. It is quite natural," replied the young woman. "But what gentleman could be flattered by a woman in public can you tell me?"

"Never flattered."

A LITTLE boy, one day at dinner, asked for a piece of the "white" of the table, and then said:

"Mamma, may I have your morsel, dearest?"

"Yes," the mother answered, with a smile, "but you mean your morsel, dearest?"

"Yes," the child, of course," the child answered, with grad knowledge. "I've had the leg of beef, and don't talk too much."

Then from the other end of the table the boy's mother said sweetly:

"Yes, Johnnie, you may have either the next word, and be careful not to spoil any of it."

TENNANT was paying nurse to the nurses on the front porch. The nurse was more interested in the baby's features in possession of a neighbor's baby.

A neighbor passed at the gate and called out: "Hello, Tennant, I would you take for those children of yours?"

Tennant calmly resumed the waiter "Where did you sit?"

"Oh, that accounts for it. We at different tables. I was at the lower portions. It's an advertisement."

"Then please let the landlord know you might't let me go again."

However, the landlord did it per called, and in an awful voice she who peeled.

"They use their own grandmother for to-day."

With the Horses

WITH such recovering season of the year, and the approach of the old chorus of incompetency in the oecupation of horse doctoring, the hospital is not confined to the minor ills that may be heir to horses, but the need deep at some of the big meetings, and the veterinary surgeon is as well regard to a horse not being driven to win a big race, as he is to the case of the judges, and it is a generally acknowledged fact that the man who starts with a blind eye on many leading horse is the most successful in the long run of the business. We have for many years been appointed by some of the leading horse with an unlimited number of heats and have had the benefit of watching a good decade of seeing a variety of events result, of all kinds, and can say that in observing the race, and though it has been a matter of surprise to us at times, real condition is that all races should be decided by the judges, and it is generally so when the horse that is the best horse at the time comes out in front. But if it has been known to win the race and lost I cannot call to mind at the moment, but I have a perfect right to push the matter further, and I am sure that as long as we do have a driver and a horse that is the best horse at the time, and the judges do as for the public, that does not enter into the calculations at all.

Nor must it be supposed that only the unscrupulous driver wants to do nothing to make a deal or be a helper or pull a race, for we have a few cases of the same offender. A well known driver of high reputation and standing was driving a horse, once boldly made this public declaration that he would not win a race if three heats in five to win the race and had I caused it to be brought before me I remember

SIR HIRAM MAXIM
The Inventor of the Automatic Gun

The man who has invented more deadly instruments of war than any other inventor in the world's history is Sir Hiram S. Maxim, an American, who left his native country about twenty years ago in a storm of indignation at the lack of recognition of his genius shown by his government at Washington. Lord Salisbury said of him: "He has prevented more wars from breaking out than any other man who ever lived."

This mechanical genius who has added to the horrors of war was the son of a farmer in Maine, where he was born in 1840. He "began life," he says, "with a common school education and a jack knife." He showed more skill in handling the knife than the education, and the mechanical turn of his mind soon became evident, he was apprenticed when he was fourteen to a carriage builder. After four years of this service he studied metal working and before he was twenty-one was foreman in a machine shop preparatory to a better position in the extensive works of his uncle.

In 1878 he took up the problem of his famous automatic gun, which was not perfected until eleven years later. The inspiration of this invention of destruction came from a kick of an old musket he was using. It was so severe a kick that it threw him over and bruised his cheek. When the gun that he then saw fooled away, it occurred to his bright mind that the force of the recoil might be caught and utilized to reload the rifle and the result of his experiments was the Maxim automatic gun, the first self-operating rifle that murders humanity in war at the rate of three thousand shots a minute. In 1897 his attention was directed to aeronautics and explosives. In 1907 his attention was turned to electricity, and some of the earliest electric lights in Alberta were invented by him.

In 1900 he took up his permanent residence in England, and became a British subject and was knighted by Queen Victoria four years ago. The latest invention of Sir Hiram, who it is said, has never failed to solve any problem he has attempted, is an airship that really does fly—so many of the recent airships though beautiful in theory, have failed to this one particular. The persistence of Sir Hiram is shown by his carrying the flying machine problem through in every years of his busy life, during a large part of which time he has been a member of the firm of Vickers' Sons & Maxim, which employs 14,000 men.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Hotel Building, Strathcona, Alberta," will be received by the Minister of Public Works, Ottawa, up to noon on the 15th day of November, 1911, for the erection and completion of a hotel building at Strathcona, Alberta, and at the Dominion Government Building, Ottawa.

Plans and specifications may be seen and contract forms may be had on application to the Chief Architect, Public Works Department, Ottawa, and at the Dominion Government Building, Strathcona, Alberta, and at the Department of Public Works, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

No tender will be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for the sum of $5,000, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Come and See Him

Chipman

R. G. Roberts, late of Hanfordville, has taken over the Myrtle Hotel from Lochmore & Clark. Mr. Roberts seems to be a very good hotel man.

A large number of cattle are being shipped from Chipman, consigned chiefly to Griffin & Co. and Gainer & Co.

The Methodist congregation have decided to build a church here and have already started construction.

John Ferrel started this week for Grassy Lake with Tooloo's hay pressing outfit. He has contracts to press a large quantity of hay for farmers in that section.

F. Hemsell and O. R. Dinner paid a visit to Tofield last week end.

Sam Culvert is building a new house on his farm, a mile north of Chipman.

More freight seems to be moving along the C.N.R. this fall than in any previous season.

Our hotel has been heavily patronized of late by an unusually large quota of land seekers coming down from Edmonton to enjoy the fall sport in this district.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Brown took place last Monday. She passed away last Friday.

Mrs. Foss, wife of our genial station agent, returned from the east a couple of weeks ago after attending several months holiday visiting friends and relations in Ohio.

Henry Betin and his team have made successful attempts to part company with each other several during the past few months. The last time Henry came off a little the worst. It took him two whole days to get over the misanthropic.

Miss Rowlings of England, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Baker.

The Tennis Club have been making remarkable progress during the past weeks. Frank Rumsey stands emphatically that there is no other game.

The many friends of Mrs. Robt. Culvert will regret to learn that she is very low. She is making very slow progress towards recovery.

Land seekers have been plentiful this season. A large number of turn-overs in real estate have been recorded. Two new lots and some sections were purchased by American Capitalists, the deal being made through the efforts of the Chipman Real Estate Agency. At present there some 12 sections being negotiated for through the same firm.

FRESH VEGETABLES AND THEIR EFFECT ON THE HUMAN BODY

Instructive Address Delivered Before Strathcona Horticultural Society at Last Meeting.

The following address on "Fresh Vegetables and their effect on the human body" was delivered by T. B. Harvey, of Strathcona, at a recent meeting of the Strathcona Horticultural Society:

"I have been requested quite a lot of times to write on the growing of vegetables, I thought it would be well for us as a young Horticultural Society to try and find the necessity for such and the benefits derived thereby. I do not propose a vegetable diet entirely, although some people are quite satisfied with it, but I think that we should have the very best vegetables possible, and extensively used by all classes of the community.

With the past century the vegetable kingdom has been systematically, and with scientific, cross breeding extended, and by such means the size of these items has been raised to most astonishing proportions, but at the expense of nutritive value and the table qualities once known as superlatives. The vegetables in kind of commerce to-day do not require more, vegetables in all their varieties should be grown and extensively used by all classes of the community.

Vegetable cells have and heart-like action, as organs have, and are important part in the wonderful achievements of the human body.

Let us now consider the composition of the human body and its daily requirements.

The human body has been compared to a building, and the materials used in building and human materials carefully formed cement and compartments.

From the vegetable we derive the lime, soda and our mineral craving for various salts and, chief of all, we find that we require the same food for every meal we eat. Digestive organs are different from animals who live on flesh alone, and those who live on plants alone.

Bread and meat is sufficient to nourish man, but they cannot support us long. They both have a tendency to acidify the blood. Here we have taken to find out the exact weight of the different elements that go to make up the body and the following table is the opposite of what we would think.

There will be 11 pounds of water; 12 pounds of fat; 5 pounds of albumen and fibrin; 4½ pounds of phosphate of lime; and ¼ of a pound of soda added.

There are three kinds of food required to sustain the human body. Nitrogenous foods, carbonaceous foods, and mineral foods. Now we have taken the tables in and one to pain out. Oxygen he inhales in every breath and does not parts off. Hydrogen forms the largest portion of water, and the other two elements are colorless and transparent, and are without taste or smell. Of the 11 pounds of water the 101 that is found in the human body we have thought that the water we drink and the food we eat simply substances and therefore of no use to us, but there are other elements, in which in different combinations go to make up everything in nature, the same as twenty-six letters make our alphabet. We have used it to form words and letters.

Carbonaceous foods supply us body with heat. The most important of the carbonaceous foods are starch, sugar and fat. Starch ranks first in importance in the vegetable kingdom. Starch in action of light on the "cruby cells of the plant. Starch and sugar are quite alike the eater had not come back to it, he would have left it. Starch is insoluble in water, but by the super action of saliva and pancreatic juice it is changed into soluble sugar. Starch is found in the seeds, roots, tubers and tubers

TOFIELD, OCT. 26, 1910.

A brief review of conditions throughout the district as they were at the early part of the year and as they now are with a noting of the vast difference between the two, reveals the fact that during the year much has taken place in the way of development. The year had scarcely begun when new settlers had begun to arrive and take up land, chiefly in the Bardo section of the district. Others came in and have taken up residence in other sections. Newer arrivals kept coming in during the year.

With the arrival of these newcomers, who chiefly came from Nebraska, large acres of virgin sod was brought under cultivation. Together with what many of the older settlers have broke up, over a thousand acres of fresh land will have been brought under cultivation for next years crop This means that with the growing means of storage and transportation, the Tofield district will rapidly become a prosperous grain producing district.

Owing to the long dry season during spring and most of the summer this year were not quite up to the average. In many cases however, where farmers had thoroughly prepared the seed bed and carefully conserved the moisture in the ground, the crop was fully up to the average and a splendid yield rewarded the diligence of the farmer. In no cases of the word was the crop of 1910 a failure. Wheat went from 15 to 30 bushels to the acre, oats from 30 to 70 and barley was well up to the average of 30 to 50.

During the year many new homes have arisen throughout the district, chiefly those of the newcomers. Many farmers have built splendid barns for their horses and dairy cattle. Owing to the betterment in the course of a fast growing income to the farming community in this district greater care is being taken of these animals and suitable breeding stock is being imported and others raised for them. Several new schools have gone up this year. Bardo is building a two storey building. Round Hill section is also putting up a large school. Several other and smaller school districts this year have built comfortable buildings.

The G.T.P. have improved their through line so that it is easily reckoned to be one of the first class roads on the continent. A daily service, mail, express and passenger each way was put on early in July and the company is being amply rewarded for their enterprise by a constantly growing patronage and traffic. On the Tofield-Calgary branch line of this company the bridge over the Battle river some 16 miles south of Camrose was completed about two months ago and the steel has been laid some 60 miles down the line. Many construction trains are now at work ballasting the line, supplies of gravel being secured from a new gravel pit near New Norway at the head of the steel. The first lift all the way to Tofield will have been made inside a couple of weeks. The grading has been pushed to within a short distance from Calgary and early next spring the entire line will be ready for the steel. Work is being pushed on the construction of the bridge over the Red Deer now.

Stations, loading platforms and water tanks are being constructed all along the branch line. Loading platforms being built at all stations.

The C.N.R. have laid the steel and erected loading platforms and stations along their line through the district.

Canada's Boundless Resources

A party of Agricultural Editors who recently made a trip through Canada, were so impressed with what they saw that they are writing columns of favorable articles in connection with the resources of that part of the country.

The "American Agriculturist" of New York, under date Sept. 3rd, 1910, has the following to say:—

Great is Canada West; great are the actualities of that vast stretch of prairie provinces in grain production, and great the possibilities in animal husbandry. Well may the United States look with wholesome respect upon the rapid development of that new country which is in only the beginning of its realization of strength and ultimate forefulness in production, in manufacturing, in commerce.

Well may the farmers of our own country note the taking form of a competition in grain growing, right now, that is of no mean proportions. Yet there is nothing new in all this, if one goes back in history but a scant half dozen years. Then, no cereal production worth considering; now a hundred million bushels of wheat a year, and this capable of untold expansion—for scarcely 5% of Western Canada is yet under the plow. There are the impelling thoughts considered by an editorial journey in August, covering some 3,000 miles over the three great railway systems of Canada. There are stretching their long fingers of steel throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The high lights are many, figure forbids, at the moment, touching but a few, and illume the merest mention. The crops are not as large as last year, owing to some unexpected drouth, yet generous, in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Railway extension is rapid and of the best possible character, looking toward a vigorous campaign of developing the land. Homesteads, the free gift of the Dominion government, are now very largely exhausted, unless one goes back in the country many miles from a railroad. Canadians want lower tariff on farm machinery. Incoming settlers include thousands of our own best men from Wisconsin and Iowa westward. The recent report of large numbers of dissatisfied American farmers leaving Canada and returning to the States is caused, according to United States Consul Jones, stationed at Winnipeg. On the contrary the many cars of like Americans met by "American Agriculturists" editorial representative were enthusiastic boosters for their new home.

These are absolute facts. It is just as well for our people to know them. Western Canada is rapidly developing along the very best of lines. The pity is, that these two grand countries should be forever politically divided by the 49th parallel of latitude. One boon for our own farmers is to practice better agriculture and get more bushels of wheat from an acre; and in some of the states in our own west to further develop the live stock end of farming. Great is Canada; grand, also, is Uncle Sam.

Parisian Sage, The Hair Grower Is Now Sold In Canada On Money Back Plan

It's a mighty good thing for the women of Canada that Parisian Sage can now be obtained in every town of consequence.

No preparation for the hair has done as much to stop falling hair and eradicate dandruff and make women's hair beautiful as Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is the only one-tube destroyer of the dandruff microbe which is the cause of 97 per cent of hair troubles.

These pernicious, parasitant and destructive little devils thrive on the ordinary hair tonics.

Parisian Sage is such an extraordinary and quick acting preventor that C. E. Jamieson, who is the agent in Tofield, guarantees it to save dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

It is a magnificent dressing for women who desire luxuriant, lustrous hair that compels admiration.

And a large bottle of Parisian Sage costs only 50 cents at C. E. Jamieson's and all over Canada.

Danger in Delay

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous For Tofield People To Neglect

The great danger of kidney trouble is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, rheumatic pains, urinary troubles, dizziness and frights, dimness of vision, sleeplessness, don't neglect your kidneys. Cure your kidneys with the certain and safe remedy Bardo's Kidney Pills.

A Toronto Woman Who Was Thought To Have Bright's Disease Regained Health Through Bardo's Kidney Pills

"I had doctored for over two years with many different specialists but could find little relief for what they termed Bright's disease. I was so weak and run down that I could not get up from a chair without supporting myself with both hands. I could leave my bed each night with the frequency of urination, which was scant and scalding, highly colored and at times contained particles of blood. My whole system had become so weakened and run down that I could scarcely walk. I was advised by a friend to try Bardo's Kidney Pills and they seemed to go to the cause of the trouble and give me relief. In the course of two months I had used five boxes of Bardo's Kidney Pills, and was entirely free from my suffering. The cure was a most complete one, and I am now able to enjoy a night's rest without being disturbed. I will gladly recommend Bardo's Kidney Pills and will always speak a good word for them."—Mrs. M. The Vanishing Smuggler

By STEPHEN CHALMERS

(Copyright, 1909, by Edward J. Clode.)

Graglenoonk's Discovery

"I've seen the wound!" he cried, and then he stopped, as if afraid to say more.

Heather Bloom, speaking to him feet by feet, as one would to a stranger on trust in his previous occupation.

"Shoot him!" he shrieked.

Grant stood a song alongside, stood, and he stared at the stripper with wide open eyes.

"You—you—commanded a man!" uttered Grant.

Smuggle-eye turned pale from the shock and his air anger. His spring relaxed and brought down the flat of his hand on the table with a decisive thump.

"What d'ye mean? Take that back, now, or—"

The big man fixed each other the look and the tiger-tyrant was the first to speak.

"I—we—I'd trade my daughter to stop a—a—would you?"

His words the tone of his voice would admit of but one change and one answer.

Smuggle-eye had no answer.

He knew that he was guilty. The whole significance of his conduct flashed through his mind. The unconscious shock had loosened him while he contemplated the act, the vague fear which had been with him ever since he had accomplished it and had turned victor's cry ring out by the rustling jaws as they hurried away the inanimate form of Dave Dalton. All seemed to fall a-ruin, to him now. His tiger spirit was dead. He was a murderer, and he knew the look on master's face. He drew back from the table and with his eyes on the floor, his hands hanging limp at his sides and his body drooping as one fool, he said after a long silence:

"I'll be sorry, sir, if never thought of it that way."

"And would you marry my love, and be a husband to her after that?"

The infinite scorn of the skipper's tone must have stung the other like a lash. But he did not betray it.

"No," said Smuggle-eye, looking up slowly, "I don't think so." His face twitched, and all at once a strange gladdening, like that which heralds a star, shone in his eyes. "I know I'm not fit for the love I may it be your only, by God!" in man enough to say it to her but what d'ye expect? I'm nothing. I'm nothing! A thirsty dog that's been kicked and cuffed and spit on all his days, and never thought me anything, but you, and I know nothing but how to chant the old tunes deft the law, and fear neither God, king, man nor devil. Is it my fault? I'm not a man by your way of thinking. Tell me, Heather Bloom, is a man to be led you saved from drowning like sweetest queen in my fault? —is it my fault?"

"I thought better of you," was Grant's reply, for the threat had gone straight home and the accuser had weakened. His charge had rebounded upon himself.

Smuggle-eye turned away and looked at the gathering storm. He wanted for time to say more, but that was all he was capable of. Heather Bloom's presence in the room, and the latter's fall upon the table, had left him helpless.

"I suppose—no, Jad, all hope is for me. I—I—I'm sorry, sir, that I've been cruel to you—to—to—I hope I may be forgiven for it. They tried that friend. The habit of having a captain over us and we did the cursed business. Heather Bloom, you're a man, too. Who's to blame? Tried Smuggle-eye to love my daughter? Who's to blame? It's a bit the better man o' the two."

It was now the tensest quiddish. Grant's face was pale and drawn, and still I fathomed laugh—"he'll drown and drown" and he—I hope I may not

The Vanishing Smuggler

A STORY OF SMUGGLERS

By Edward S. Ellis.

The Night of the Harvest Home

"What, sir, he said, shot!" the Red Mole muttered in a voice of mock surprise. "Another word an' I'll be necessary to employ a person as an undertaker and then hold a consult of surgeons upon what kind of a coffin is best suited to Murray, the till he's dead. He stopped nearly all the bullets, and generously breathed them into the smuggler. In return was so much pleased with Dunsmore never to have left him, and he offers a good price for all he gained.

He was quite relieved, therefore, when a light on the hillside about two miles behind Murray told him that his destination was near. He whipped up the pony and pressed on.

Lake our that on a lonesome road

Darts wide before behind him tread."

Assume he knows a frightful fiend

Doth close behind him tread."

It was with a sigh of relief that he drew up before the Cutthroat Inn and tied the pony to the hitching post.

The Cutthroat was a rendezvous for a number of particularly wicked people. Parents discouraged fear of children from walking on the shadow road on Sunday afternoon for it was an especial point of interest to the barest portion of the people. Even the most reckless would not venture within a mile of it after dark, and the inhabitants and guests of the Cutthroat were particularly free from the surrounding public. To some of regular habitues was lonely Peter, landlord and bartender, who had married the widow of that noted buccaneer, was custodian of the bill.

The Red Mole opened and let down the shutters of the bar-room with a bang, and whose tongue was so used. That view of the house, which was engaged by Mrs. Bailie's sister as roommate for woman, whose favorite topic was surgery

Montreal Man Is Ill With Pyorrhoea Thought He Would Die

Cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills

No matter what you have tried and found nothing helped, no matter how many times you have been disappointed, you should not fail to have your case diagnosed by Pyorrhoea specialists. Many times there is no pain, no soreness, no indication that there is anything wrong, and then suddenly the teeth become loose, the gums recede, and the trouble is apparent. Then it is that Pyorrhoea has gained a firm foothold, and it requires the most skilful treatment to overcome it. Dr. Hamilton's Pills have proved a most successful remedy in the treatment of this disease, and if you are troubled with sore gums, bleeding gums, or loose teeth, you should get a box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills at once. They are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents a box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, or sent direct on receipt of price by The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE PRESSURE OF LIGHT

THEIN the inventor of the radiometer, says that there is nothing but sunlight can not be considered visible. Falling ourselves the pressure. There is that like falling leaves, and seen traversing space. But, because we cannot see it, we do not think of it as existing, and, should it ever be touched, we feel sure we have that it escapes the most delicate instruments of observations, traversing itself unfelt when it comes in contact with the surface.

The effect of the shock of the rail of water matter as it strikes the surface, together with the effect of the water which alters it strikes the edges of a roof, the light produced system of the impact of the falling matter with the earth in the form of the wave of the moon system of the shock of the sea. In both cases the pressure is felt in the effect the intrinsic weight of the matter. A cubic inch of water, and the whole mass amounts to half a ton, on the other hand, as the speed of the mass is increased—2,000 feet atmosphere per second), the pressure of force is great.

The rotation of the earth and other celestial bodies seems to be explainable in no other way. The molecular bombardment forces the earth to turn on its orbit and on its axis, to a top turned when whipped by a child. The earth turns, not by the contraction of an ethereal opening, but under the external tangential pressure of the material universe. Even the motion of tornadoes, cyclones, etc. winds are struck by a current at air or by a jet of water.

When this philosophical theory was presented by Tarpin, seventeen years ago, the savants laughed. Tarpin had not come out of prison and it was supposed that captivity had driven him mad, though the idea had already been given to the world by Kepler and others. The theory was talked about until it was superseded by that of "air waves" and the explanation of the transmission of light waves by empty ether.

Some time ago when Tarpin publish ed his theory anew—a small, forlorn demonstrated the pressure of light by suspending a metal disk to a very finely twisted thread. He hung his disk in the way in the direct line of action of light. Somehow a experiment was destroyed and of the utmost delicacy, all his results were recorded, and, when compared with the calculations of the wave theorists, followed him, found to own side in every respect.

At the present time few dispute the theory of light pressure. To the pressure of light is attributed the form and size of the peculiar nebulous comets of the solar system, and the tails of comets are supposed to be driven back by impinging waves. Arago and Hall demonstrated the pressure of light by producing the rotation. They, too, saw particles of comets pass the sun and pushed in advance, just as dust is blown and as the twisted the pan dust from one part of the glass to the other part, they cast rays of light in the falling dust. The rightest of the fall ing of stars driven back as if repulsed by the light. The illuminated dust had a direct appearance of a mist.

Enlarging The Standard

We are pleased to announce to our many readers that as soon as we can get in our new stock of paper, the Standard will come out as a seven column sheet. To the public of Tofield and district, who have watched the progress of the Standard from its inception and many of whom have assisted us over our little troubles, this announcement will come as a pleasure, they realizing that the newspaper is a direct reflection of what the town and district surrounding it actually is.

To the people of the district, this announcement means much in the way of a compliment to them. Judicious advertising pays. Advertising finds its way into the best of mediums. The best medium is that which enjoys a circulation amongst an intelligent and thrifty class of people. So great is the demand upon the columns of the Standard, that we are forced into enlarging our paper. This not only means that more space will be given to advertising, but that we will have additional space to devote to the publication of the news of the district and country. Our aim is to build up a paper in which every one will have a personal interest. You can help us along. Let us have the news of your section.

Flies On The Wheel

Among the people who are of no use to a town are, First, those who do their trading out of town; second, those who abuse improvements; those who prefer a quiet town to one of push and energy; fourth, those who imagine they own the town; fifth, those who abuse our decoy public spirited men; sixth, those who oppose every movement that does not originate with them; seventh, those who oppose public enterprise that do not directly benefit them; eight, those who seek to injure the credit of their neighbors; ninth, the "dead ones".

Sour Stomach Is An Almost Certain Sign Of Acute Indigestion

If you occasionally have a taste of sour food in your mouth, it merely shows that the food you are eating is not being digested, but instead, is fermenting and giving out poisonous gases.

Belching of gas is a common symptom at such times, and also that lump of lead feeling, or your stomach was carrying a much greater load than it could stand.

If you want prompt relief and permanent cure, go to C. E. Jamieson and get a large tin box of Mi-o-na tablets for 65 cents.

Jamieson knows that Mi-o-na is a highly recommended scientific remedy, and that if why Jamieson is ready to return your money if it fails to cure acid stomach, belching of gas, dizziness, biliousness, sick headache, bad breath, and all stomach troubles.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Threshing machines have come into style again in this neighborhood. Strange how this fad comes into vogue year after year, and always about the same time. We believe that the "Chautauqua" style is affected by many of the machines this year.

Many of the crops have turned out unusually. A. Patterson threshed a total of 3500 bushels including some 1000 bushels of wheat. That of L. H. Olers totalled about 4600 bushels with some 40 bushels of wheat. Most of the other crops in the neighborhood also grade excellently considering the year.

Mrs. P. Flanion was the victim of a serious accident some few days ago. While returning from a visit to her sister, Mrs. R. Berg, her horse became frightened at some object by the roadside and became unmanageable. Mrs. Flanion was thrown from the buggy and sustained a fracture of the arm and some severe bruises. We are glad to state that she is rapidly recovering.

Mr. A. Patterson sold a large and successful auction sale on Saturday the 22nd. Mr. Patterson has sold his place and will leave shortly for his home in Washington, U.S.A.

Miss Carrie Eggen of Bardo, is paying an extended visit to Mrs. A. Patterson.

We are glad to be able to state that the little daughter of P. A. Maine Jr., who has been seriously ill for the last few days is on the high road to recovery.

Mr. L. Anderson was unfortunate enough to lose four fine pigs lately.

A fire had been set in an adjoining field to burn some weeds, and unnoticed worked its way into the pig pen. When the squeals of the unfortunate porkers announced assistance a few minutes later, the pen was in flames, and soon to them was left the charred pigs and its cave thriving occupants.

The Amisk Creek Lotties Aid Society held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs A. Patterson, on the 7th inst. The following were present:— Mrs. F. Moore, Mrs. L. Anderson, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. I. H. Olers, Misses Alma Erickson, Bertha Hill, Cora Hill, Emma Mollins, Palma Olsen, and Mr. Alec Findlay. All agreed that the meeting was most enjoyable and conducive to welfare of the society, and that Mrs. Patterson's hospitality was unexcelled.

To the People of Tofield and Vicinity

Within a couple of weeks we shall begin an advertising campaign which will make TOFIELD one of the best known and most talked of towns in Western Canada. Full page advertisements setting forth the resources of the Beaver Lake District and of Tofield will be inserted in Fifty of the Leading Daily Papers of the Dominion.

This will mean that Tofield will be talked of from Halifax to Prince Rupert and from Port Arthur to Fort Churchill. It will mean that Investors throughout all Canada will be pouring their money into Tofield in the purchase of town lots and farm lands. It will mean new industries for Tofield and a rapid increase in population. It will mean a rapid advance in real estate values.

If you are not the owner of any Tofield real estate you will not be in a position to take advantage of this Campaign of Publicity which will soon be inaugurated. We desire to give the people of Tofield and vicinity opportunity to profit by this publicity, and are offering them this early opportunity to secure lots in the new

Shared Up To the Admiral

THAT'S no business, much he'd like to know, of my ground Heather? Mr. Hall's more my business, what he's up to, than yours, my professional subject. Mr. might have checked out and come Monday, but when he tells the world of Heather Mansions against the storm, is the world a nervous collector murdered and would have to be buried almost that — Heather's home's shop!

Inspector Hall groaned the word. "Murdered? Then I don't think Mr. Hall's more who's trembling for the — Heather's the best bet for, and I'm a bigger fool than you for letting a helpless appeal to the — Heather!

"But who?" said Smuggler-hunter, genuinely.

Then hurry it on. It's not the arrangements and only one we've ought round a hot proper alone we'll be fitting into the one. A thing do tactfully as well with a pair of used children. Let the rest, skipper, don't take on hard about it. You'll have the ship hand of this morning for all time; and if you're keen to captain in the end why you kept your mouth shut on this.

It's not that, hell," said Leather bitterly. "It's the hold back of it. The — Heather's the best bet for me. That's why I could have been hard up before, but other than and never fit it hence or the — Heather, I tell you!" And the hoarse man's voice rose in an agonized crescendo.

Smuggle rose went back to the deck. The captain's, black, had finished comforting up the hatred, and stood by the gunwale thing, his head, like a bone-brain in the black upon which they were all to be executed. Tomlinson, with blood streaming from a cut over his left eye, stood unfirmly by the mast. The dead Mole still lay where he had fallen, but his was but partly covered from impervious and had crawled into the scuppers, there he lay moaning a low sort.

Not dead," he said aloud. "Here, Saunders and Alec, carry him below and see him up. You can do the same with the doctor one, there. We may have need of them before we're out of this water. You, Elder, keep up some sort of lookout. We're going to foil the collector over round."

Aye, aye, sir!" said Black, who evidently set to notify Heather Mouse. The boy was not sorry to be ordered to do anything but the things that — and he went over and down to the cabin companion-way.

In about half an hour all was ready, and the hurried coffin of the late Mr. Hall was sewn round with the spare sail, a weighted with a — and a few — and thrown over the side. Then he slowly mounted the — and looked all round the — and the — and — and — and

Seed Grain Fair Friday, Dec. 2, '10

Under The Auspices Of The Tofield Agricultural Society

The majority of the Agriculturists Societies in Alberta are now holding annual Seed Fairs at which prizes are offered for the best exhibits of Seed Grain and at which opportunities are given for buying and selling of seed. They have been quite successful throughout the Province and have been beneficial to the district holding them in encouraging the production and sale of high class seed grain.

Associations exist in the following Seed Fair districts: Tofield, Ardrossan and Strathcona and a Seed Fair is held in each district annually. The Provincial Department has made provision whereby all money spent in prizes up to $100.00 is refunded. The reason for this is to be reported in the regular annual report first following the Seed Fair and the refund is included in the next annual grant. The Dominion Seed Branch has been organized to aid and another feature which started the Fair, pals, the religious and gift - address work against wild weed eradication, etc.

Local

A fall of the beautiful on Monday the 7th inst., reminds us of the early approach of winter.

The local mixed train ran off the track at Ardrossan today and delayed the morning express 2 minutes.

P. E. Alvan who has been home attending west of Tofield during the past 4 years, left yesterday for Bayaux, Ontario, Calm., to look after his landed interests there.
